Born and raised in Arlington, he had a truck garden there as a young man. He is not one of the "oldest inhabitants" and isn't related to other Russell families in Town. He says he has always considered the Russells to be quite superior folk and was rather dashed to find a two-volume history of the line was available for a very non-exclusive 75 cents. His own immediate family includes Mrs. Russell, the alter ego of his Waltham insurance office, and a handsome daughter Constance, now secretary to the advertising director of a New York publishing firm. Their home is on Nob Hill.

EXPERT ON FIRE SAFETY

He used to be active in Sunday school work, served on the Wayland Planning Board for 25 years until illness forced his resignation. He is past president and executive secretary of the Farm Bureau Federation, a trustee of Massachusetts State College and a member of two associations of fire chiefs and a couple of historical and archaeological societies. In connection with his insurance work, he writes fire safety bits which are used by newspapers, magazines and the radio, and reported to his legislative constituency in a newspaper column appearing regularly throughout the area.

He also collects stamps and has gathered a number of Indian artifacts hereabouts. He has several examples of what he believes to be stone agricultural implements. He is as interested in the hoe as in the gavel.

Next month Mr. Russell himself will discuss his tenure of office as State Representative.

School Site—

show, it was said, that by September of 1956 there will have to be four more elementary school rooms. If they can't be provided by new construction by that date, double sessions in the present Center School will be necessary.

CLAYPIT HILL SITE

The alternative site to be proposed is a rectangle, about 750 feet along the north side of Claypit Hill Road, by 1700 feet northward. The whole rectangle includes 28 acres. In the middle, along the front, it is broken by the property owned by Elizabeth S. Woodward. This includes 3.3 acres, with 252 feet frontage, running back 550 feet.

Thus the site would include a frontage on the east side of 200 feet and a frontage on the west, beyond the Woodward property, of 252 feet. These frontages would be used as entrance and exit drives and for the introduction of services to the school, which would be built perhaps 700 feet back from the road.

The Site Committee, by and large, still prefers the Plain Road site, for the reason that it affords a crossing of the tracks and involves less bus expense.

RICE ROAD SITE

Not only the site for a new Center School would come up at the next special or regular Town Meeting.

The Site Committee, may also recommend the acquisition of a 14-acre site on the east of Rice Road, north of Commonwealth Road, for a school to serve the Oak Street section, which is growing rapidly. And the Committee will also recommend acquisition of a site in North Wayland, not yet chosen, to be held until such time as it may become necessary to build still another school.

—Site Side Lites—

The proposed school site land on Plain Road, it was brought out, has been owned since Nov. 29, 1954, by Raymond and Arthur DeVincent of Waltham, who bought it for around $22,000. The motion calling for its acquisition was made by George K. Lewis of the Site Committee.

* * *

Then Lewis W. Avard, also a member of the Finance Committee, spoke against the site. He said he was certainly not against the school program, but he was against this particular site for five reasons:

1. The railroad runs through the site.
2. The high tension line runs through it.
3. The proposed bridge over the tracks would be a danger.
4. Footpaths through the swamp would be a danger.
5. The bridge or any other structure over the brook in the swamp would be a danger.

He also added up the cost of fence, bridge, paths and other proposed safety measures, and said the expense would be somewhere between $40,000 and $50,000 before the ground could be broken for the school building itself.

Mr. Newton said the proposed site had the complete approval of the State Building Assistance Commission, which would put up 45 per cent of the cost, and he said he had assurance from the Edison Company that the high tension line would not fall down and electrocute anybody. He said that the proposed bridge would be approached by a ramp, not stairs, and that it would be perfectly safe. The swamp, he said, would be no more of a problem than it is now.

J. Sidney Stone, former Town Counsel, said it had been noted that the DeVincents didn't want to sell, and he remarked that an eminent domain case was the best kind of case, for a lawyer. If he couldn't take this case, he said, and get $50,000 from the Town for that land, he'd think he wasn't doing his job. He moved that "by eminent domain" be stricken from the article.

Mr. Morgan of the Finance Committee and Roger Stokey, present Town Counsel, suggested that the tax laws are now such that the DeVincents would make small profit, even if they did fight the Town and get a generous award.

MISS MARIAN HOWES, who will serve as a Public Health Nurse for the Town with Mrs. Mary McNeil. Both will have offices at new Parmenter Health Center.

John R. McEnroy, veteran Town politico, said he was surprised an alternative site hadn't been suggested. He went up to the platform for a closer look at the map of the site, which was held up by Tommy Longtine, star halfback of the 1954 Wayland High football team, one of the High School seniors doing duty as ushers. Mr. McEnroy asked how much the DeVincents asked for the land. "They wanted $41,000," said Mr. Stokey.

* * *

Parmelee C. Hill of Hayward Road, which is off Rich Valley Road, said he was against Mr. Stone's amendment. Another citizen said he'd rather his children would walk to school through a swamp than along the State Road.

* * *

Annual Listing—

for. Even though the questions may seem rather searching, the information is used entirely in an impersonal way, and mainly for compiling statistics."

This year for the first time each worker will be identified by a special plastic badge with dark green print on a white background bearing the Town Seal. All enumerators will be carefully chosen, each of whom is willing to do a very tough job during the coldest, stormiest, slipperiest time of the year. As far as possible the Registrars will try to avoid having enumerators list their own neighborhoods, since they understand that certain persons object to telling their ages, for example, to a neighbor. Incidentally, Miss Sears says, "Those who are most coy in this respect may be interested to know that when a person refuses to give his age, the lister has the right to find out such information in any way that he can. And lacking any better method, the lister is even entitled to guess the age, which may or may not flatter the individual in question. Furthermore, the harder time the enumerator has in trying to discover any bit of information, the more firmly that information sticks in the memory afterward! Such is the basic nature of the human learning process."

DOGS, TOO

This year, also for the first time, the Registrars are legally responsible for the listing of the dogs. The new law, which officially gives this responsibility to the Registrars, has one improvement over the old law: It provides for a $10 fine for any person who deliberately gives false statements to the official lister as to how many dogs he has, denial of owning a dog, or misstatement as to the sex of his dog.

In past years, the Registrars have enjoyed a pleasant welcome, and wish to express their appreciation of those who have made the job easier. But occasionally, in the past year or so, they have been rebuffed by former city-dwellers, who were afraid to admit unidentified strangers into their homes, especially in the mornings.

Parmenter—

Around 300 invitations were to be sent out to officials of civic organizations and of the Town, as well as to local physicians, clergymen, and officials of nearby hospitals. And invitations were to be sent to all the residents of the Town to visit the Center during a two-day open house on Jan. 15 and 16.

This dedication will be part of the wonderful story of Jonathan Maynard Parmenter, a descendant of the earliest settlers of the Town. A whiskered cattle farmer, who made a fortune by investing in a Georgia textile mill back in the 1880s, he died more than 30 years ago, and left $200,000 for construction of a hospital in Wayland.

But a survey of the situation, back in the 1920s, showed that the $200,000 wasn't enough for a hospital, and that it just wasn't practical to build one. So the fund stayed in the Harvard Trust Company, and it grew and grew.

As of now, they say, the Health Center has been built at a cost of somewhere between $100,000 and $200,000 and there is around $650,000 left for endowment.

At the dedication, the Harvard Trust Company will turn over control to a board of Wayland trustees, of which Carlisle D. Scotland is chairman. A plaque in honor of Mr. Parmenter will be unveiled. Dr. Samuel Kirkwood, Massachusetts Commissioner of Public Health, will make the speech, and some local citizen will preside.

On Monday, Jan. 17, the Center will be in operation. The schools will use it for the pupils ear, eye, nose and throat examinations. Its operation and upkeep won't cost the Town a nickel. And it all comes from an old farmer who was interested in Shakespeare and drove cattle on foot at the age of 87, two years before he died.

Howard P. Strum, assistant treasurer, will be in charge of the new branch of the Newton-Waltham Bank at 73 Main Street, Cochituate, until the permanent manager is assigned. Following a gala open-house on December 10, the bank opened for business on December 13. Regular banking hours are 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Assisting Mr. Strum is Mrs. John Roche, of School street, formerly Bertha Phylis. The permanent manager will be Russell Gordon, of Waltham.

Regional School—

plored again. The emphasis should not be on cost, but on educational advantages. The bigger the school, up to a point, the more courses and the more varied the curriculum. And in a regional school district, it's possible to have buildings in different localities.

That is, in five years it might be possible to have a branch of a Sudbury-Lincoln-Wayland high school built in Wayland.

William A. Waldron of the School Committee was chairman of the committee and Kathryn A. Curley was secretary. Other members were John W. Arnold, Elaine L. Colby, Katharine Hodges, Wallace F. Jones, Robert G. Paine, Jr., Robert C. Whelchel and Donald B. Willard. Dr. Rexford S. Souder, superintendent of schools, sat in to inform and advise.

Copies of the report may be obtained from Mrs. William F. Curley, secretary of the committee, or from Mr. William A. Waldron, chairman.

Center School Notes

(With the cooperation of Mrs. Reta Hubler and Mr. William Frary of the Center School, the Crier prints below what's hoped will be the first of a series of news reports on Wayland elementary schools, written by sixth graders. These two pieces, by student reporters, are from the Center School.)

By JOY KERR

Mid morning milk is sold at the center school, it is doing very well for 160 of the 220 pupils are buying it.

There are two new teachers in center school this year, Miss Drake who is the Music Teacher and Mrs. Reynolds the speach teacher.

Some of the classes are helping out also there is the fourth grade with Mrs. Hurt as teacher who are the office helpers, the office helpers listen to the telephone. There is the fifth grade who takes care of the school library and they also have savety patrol there teacher is Mrs. Shadley. Then Mr. Frary's class the sixth grade who work in the caffiterria, there are the cashiers and also the hostess and hostesses who take care of classes during lunch hour.

By DAVID BROWNELL

Most of the classes in the school have been very acctive. Mrs. Pennels first grade has made a mural about fish. She also has some fish which were given the class by a pupil.

Mrs. Hurt has a new girl in her room. Her name is Cheryl Lorentzen aged 9. She moved here from Newton. When we asked her what she thought of the fourth grade she said, "I like it fine."

Mrs. Hubler said she was proud of the way the mid morning milk program was going. She said that 160 children out of 221 were taking milk.

(Note I am sorry I could not type this but my typewriter got drownd in Carol.)

Mrs. Conncanons room went to the childerens museum on Friday the 19 They went by bus and ate there lunch at the museum.

Health Center Is Dedicated

The Parmenter Health Center was opened after dedication exercises held on Jan. 19, 1955—about 35 years after the death of the late Jonathan Maynard Parmenter and six years after the health center project first took shape.

Dr. Samuel Kirkwood, Massachusetts Commissioner of Public Health, made the speech. He ended by telling the 150 present:

"Jonathan Parmenter was a citizen of this community. He had a vision of health services for this Town. You are given a challenge and a responsiblity to dedicate this Center to the total health of the community."

Howard S. Russell, Town Moderaor, presided, and gave a few reminiscences of Mr. Parmenter. Ernest F. Tillson of the Harvard Trust Company, which has handled the Parmenter money, turned over the keys of the Center to Carlisle D. Scotland, president of the trustees, along with a bill of sale for its contents and a deed to the land it stands on.

Mrs. Frederick S. Whiteside, secretary of the trustees, unveiled the plaque in the entrance hall. Rev. George C. Gutekunst of the Community Methodist Church gave the invocation and Rev. William J. Carty of St. Anne's Church gave the benediction.

Miss Roberta Jacobs is resident director of the Center. Miss Louise McManus of Watertown, from Boston University School of Nursing and Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals, is the public health nurse, Mrs. Merriam Pinkham of Wayland is secretary and Mr. Robert Ames of Wayland is custodian. Telephone number of the Center is OLympic 3-5111.

Raytheon Starts On Second Unit

A second section of the new Raytheon laboratory will be built concurrently with the first section, construction of which started on November 29.

The new section will cover 80,000 square feet at the cost of $750,000 and will be completed about the same time as the first. The cost of the first building was estimated at $1,500,000. Vappi and Company, a construction firm, associated with Cabot, Cabot & Forbes, is the contractor.

Settle on 4-Arch Bridge By-Pass

The Massachusetts Department of Public Works has told Wayland Town officials that its present intention is to relocate Old Sudbury Road and to build a new bridge over the river south of the present old and dangerous structure. The old four-arch bridge, with its nearby monument to those who were killed in the Indian battle in 1676, would be kept for its historical interest.

The Department studied the idea of building a new road on the West side of the river to connect with Route 20, but found it would cost rather more than the bridge plan. The matter of the Town's contribution to the cost will come up in the March Town Meeting.

"LET'S GO! NEW SCHOOL'S OPEN." Boys and girls assigned to the new Happy Hollow School march through its portals for a preview. Packing on bannisters leading down to gym is still unwrapped. School opened officially January 25.

Dunbar Holmes at The White House

Dunbar Holmes, of Draper Road, was on hand at the White House January 11 to see President Eisenhower present the Big Brother-of-the-Year award. Dunnie, who is president of the Big Brother Association of Boston and a national director, said he did not have what you'd call a long talk with the President, but he looked in excellent health.

Papers Filed For March Election

Principal contest in the March Town elections will be that for School Committee. Harvey C. Newton, member for nine years, is not running for reelection. At the time the Crier went to press nomination papers were being circulated for three candidates. They were Ivan E. Beal, 8 East Plain St., John B. Butler, Bow Road, and Mary M. Howard, 1 Ridgefield Road.

Last day for filing nomination papers for Town offices was Jan. 31, too late for this issue of the Crier. However, papers for the following candidates for other offices were being circulated. Some may be withdrawn before the deadline and some additional entries may be made.

The list as of mid-January, in no particular order:

Robert Scotland, Board of Health, 3 years.

Leila Sears, Town Clerk, 1 year.

Frederick G. Perry Jr., Planning Board, 5 years.

J. Sidney Stone, Public Welfare Board, 3 years.

J. Sidney Stone, Commissioner of Trust Funds, 3 years.

Thomas B. Gannett, Commissioner of Trust Funds, 1 year.

Gustaf M. Blomgren, Road Commissioner, 3 years.

Town Office To Be in Warrant

Representatives of many Town departments have been conferring in recent weeks about what they'd like for quarters in the proposed new Town Office Building, which is to come up for a vote in the regular March Town Meeting. Cost, it is now estimated, may be between $150,000 and $200,000.

Actually, there are just three rooms available in Town Hall. One is the Selectmen's office, another is the Assessors' office, and the third room, as big as these two put together, is split up into compartments for the Town Clerk and the Town Collector and their clerical assistants.

There are no sprinklers in the old building, which houses thousands of dollars worth of fire apparatus plus irreplaceable Town records.

P-Men Survey for Post Office Routes

Post office inspectors were making a survey of Wayland roads last month, says Postmaster Thomas E. Hynes, to see what kind of delivery service the area should have. The information was to be sent to Washington, where the decisions would be made.

At present, says Mr. Hynes, Wayland postoffice has about 520 boxes, all in use. In addition, more than 300 families get their mail by general delivery. On top of that, the postoffice building itself has become too small.

317 on Payroll

Town Treasurer Dorothy Small Damon reports that 317 persons were employed full or part-time by the Town in 1954, as against 289 in 1953. The 1954 total payroll was $417,431.19, as against $351,900 in 1953. Biggest payroll ever and largest number of employees ever. The Town's books balanced at $2,162,439.10, a figure which gives a measure of the size of the Town's business nowadays.

Warrant Asks 3 School Sites

A big school program, including the controversial Plain Road site again, will come before a special Town Meeting which has been called for Wednesday, Feb. 9.

The School Site Committee, headed by Chairman Harvey C. Newton, still thinks the Plain Road site is best for a new Center School, and it will be offered in an article.

As an alternate site, a 25-acre field on Claypit Hill Road will be offered.

Those who opposed the Plain Road site at the special Town Meeting of last Dec. 8, then prominently represented by Lewis Avard of the Finance Committee, are still opposed. Representing the Wheelock Development and the Rich Valley Road areas, they mustered 90 votes to the proponents' 121 votes. A two-thirds vote was required.

Advocates of the Plain Road site say that there was such a small attendance at the last special Town Meeting that it was not representative of Town opinion. These persons assert that everybody assumed the Plain Road site would be accepted, and that therefore most stayed at home. Had there been 1000 voters at the meeting, they say, the result would have been different.

This special Town Meeting, however, will be much more than a renewal of the December wrangle.

Besides the two possible locations for a new Center School, the Site Committee will offer articles calling for the acquisition of two other sites for future building. One will be for a 15-acre site at the corner of Rice Road and Commonwealth Road East, in the Southeast corner of Town, and another for acquisition of a 35-acre site off Oxbow Road. in the Northwest corner of Town.

There is no intention to build on these

Volunteer Firemen For Days are Wanted

Wayland Fire Department is looking for volunteer firemen who are able to leave work to answer fire calls during the week days.

Persons who are interested and who work close enough to answer calls during working hours should personally contact Assistant Chief Homer L. MacDonald at Town Hall any week day morning between 8 and 10 a.m.

To Crack Down On Fire Parkers

Fire officials of the Town wish to call attention once more to a three-year old provision of the General Laws of Massachusetts which prohibits a motorist from parking within 800 feet of a fire, from driving within 300 feet of a piece of fire apparatus going to a fire, or driving over a piece of hose without permission.

Fire Chief Clifton Haynes says the Wayland apparatus responded to a fatal fire in Sudbury last year, and only one truck could get through. The rest were blocked by the automobiles of curious persons.

Wayland fire and police both say this law is going to be enforced. Penalty for violation, says the statute, is a fine of not more than $100.

—News Roundup—

An article by Town Moderator Howard S. Russell of Wayland on New England farming a century ago was published recently in the 100th anniversary issue of the New England Homestead.

There was a piece in the afternoon Globe of Jan. 7 about Mrs. Gertrude Hemingway, 78, of Stock Farm Road, Sudbury, a spry character who often walks to Mayflower Path, Cochituate, to visit her twin sister, Mrs. Grace B. Yeuell. Mrs. Yeuell, known far and wide as "Auntie Grace", pretty spry herself, is one of Wayland's champion baby sitters.

Letters to the Editor

Urges Mosquito Control

To the Editor:

Is anyone interested in mosquitoes? Probably not so much now as when the buzzing, slapping and itching start next May. But unfortunately, now is the time when plans must be made to meet the mosquito onslaught.

A couple of years ago the town tried aerial spraying, and the results were mixed. The swampy areas benefited most, but the grassy sections continued to provide nesting grounds. So next year Wayland did nothing and we all itched. Last year we voted to form a committee to look into the matter and report back at this year's Town Meeting. It is hoped they will inform us what can be done.

Some towns, Weston included, belong to a Middlesex mosquito control project. They pay a certain amount to the project and a systematic plan is carried out to eliminate mosquitoes. Swamps are either drained or made un-stagnant, the area is sprayed by air, and all through the year war is waged to control the summer bugs.

Does this cost much? . . . Preliminary investigation shows that it would cost Wayland about $8000 a year for the first few years until the major cleaning up was finished. That would add about 69 cents to our individual tax bill a year. Too much, say some grumblers. How much do you pay for a D.D.T. spray bomb in June? How much is that "6-12" stuff that makes you smell untasty to a mosquito? And how much did you figure screens for that new breezeway or porch would cost? Bet they all add up to more than 69 cents!

Let's go to Town Meeting this year with May and mosquitoes in mind. And let's act constructively on the committee's mosquito report.

Yours truly,
SONIA A. SPALDING
Plain Road

Resigns Presidency

To the Editor:

I am sending you a copy of the letter sent to the members of the League of Women Voters of Wayland announcing my resignation. While the League encourages its members to engage in political activity, its officers and board of directors must resign if they run for public office.

"Dear League Member:

"I want to thank you for the help and encouragement you have given me while I have been serving as your president. It has been a challenging and interesting job with many rewards. Certainly, it has been an education in showing how well a group of intelligent and interesting women can study and work together for a common purpose 'to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government'.

"I have been asked by several persons to run for School Committee. Mr. Harvey Newton is not seeking reelection and this seems to be an apt time to include the judgment of a woman in the important decisions facing the School Committee. I have had a personal interest in the schools for a long time, as I have two children in the Cochituate School.

"The decision to run has not been easy for I have a deep sense of loyalty to the League. It means that as of this date I must resign as president, although I shall still be a member and a regular attendant at meetings. I am by no means leaving the League. I am hoping to step into a larger field of activity for which League membership has done a great deal to prepare me.

"As First Vice-President, Joyce Bertelsen will be finishing my term of office, which will end in May. I know from personal experience how capably and well she will continue the year's work. Jo has been a tremendous help to me and I couldn't put the welfare of the Wayland League in better hands. I know you will give her the support and understanding you have given me.

"Cordially yours,
"Mary M. Howard."

Alfred Morrill New Kiwanis President

Alfred C. Morrill is the new president of the Kiwanis Club of Wayland. Other officers:

Herbert R. Fallgren, immediate past president; Edward F. Thorburn and Lawrence K. Cook, vice presidents; Walter A. Cheslak, treasurer; Joseph G. Hallenbrook, secretary; and Dr. Harold A. Chamberlain, James DePaolo, George V. Deverell, Joseph M. Kelly, Frank A. Smith, Fern Taylor and Edward A. Veno, directors.

Burials Increase, Too

While Wayland has been growing in other ways, the Cemetery Commissioners report that the growth rate has also been visible in less cheerful fashion. In 1954 there were 61 burials in Town cemeteries, 25 per cent more than in any previous year. Both the North Cemetery and Lakeview Cemetery are being enlarged and improved.

Couples Club

The Wayland Couples' Club will have a birthday masquerade dance Saturday evening, February 5, at the Oddfellows' Hall. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes and there will be many surprise events. Richard Hewitt, entertainment chairman of the club, will be in charge of the evening's program.

Quotable Quotes

Dr. Frank P. Graham, U.N. mediator, before the Wayland United Nations Association: "Science and technology have flung a mechanical framework around the earth. This has made it necessary to fling a political framework around the earth,—which is the United Nations . . . "The United Nations has helped cool off six of the world's hotspots,—Greece, Pakistan, Indonesia, Palestine, Iran and Korea.

Historical Society

To Display Photos

The Wayland Historical Society will hold an open meeting in the Wayland Public Library on Tuesday evening, February 8 at 8:30 p.m. After a short business meeting and general discussion period, colored slides will be shown of some of Wayland's old houses.

At 7:45 p.m. the Shaw Room will be open for a display of photographs and some of the Society's recent accessions. Members and friends are invited to meet there first for coffee. The Society plans to meet on March 8, April 12, and the annual meeting on May 10, plus the continuation of the study groups which were started in December.

Austin Hale Dedicates

Poem to Wayland High

Austin Sherman Hale, of Weston, correspondent with hundreds of Wayland and Weston service men, has written an acrostic poem dedicated to the Wayland High School "in memory of students of former years and now in our country's service."

YOU and I—Wayland High

W ayland High for years has meant much to me,
I n your games I often come, YOU, to see.
N ot only in them would I have you do your best, but
N ever give up 'till you've won at all the rest.
R emember ever to place your trust in God.

I n "my family," there's many a Wayland boy,
N ow bringing to me a great deal of joy,

I ntent on keeping our country free, ever more,
F ighting to hold OLD GLORY on high,
E ven giving his life for YOU and I.

E ach of us must bring him cheer, that
V ictory may soon again return him here.
E very day we should remember him in prayer,
R esulting in his knowing how much we care.

B oys of Wayland and Weston are close to my heart,

Hoopster Fells Hoop

Wayland High's basketball team was scheduled to play Millis High at Wayland one day last month, but the game had to be transferred to Millis. The reason was that, the day before, a local boy in practice jumped up so hard for a rebound that the hoop and backboard came crashing down. The thing has been fixed. Strong boys in Town.

ALBERT POTVIN of the Highway Department says the water at the Dudley Pond spillway was 20 inches deep in January, just the same as it was last May.

OLD MILLPOND off Plain Road was the social and athletic meeting place of the Town in January. Every form of ice transportation appeared from an aluminum flying saucer to a pair of wooden skates on a two-year old. Parked cars created the first traffic jam ever to occur on Plain Road. By day venturesome skaters crossed it to penetrate far up the Mill Brook. By night they skated under the beams of half a dozen newly installed floodlights. (Photo by Willard B. Dik)

Where's the Gas?

One item in the cost-of-upkeep budget for Town Hall is for "gas and electricity." Somebody stopped to think the other day and remembered that there was gas light in Town Hall until around 20 years ago, and that there was a big hassle in Town Meeting about putting in electric lights all over. There were objections, too, to removing the wood-burning stove in the Assessors' office, which furnished heat for evening meetings of Town committees. Nobody ever got around to changing the wording in the budget.

Buy Up Heater Pieces

"Heater piece" is an ancient New England term to describe the Y-shaped piece of land at a road intersection, where one approach to a road goes left and the other goes right. The Town of Wayland has been buying up local heater pieces, to keep them from falling into private hands, and now owns almost all there are in Town.

There have been no tuberculosis cases in Town for two years.

DECORDOVA MUSEUM

Paintings by three contemporary artists, Theodore Stamos, Mitchell Siporin and Robert Bliss, will be shown at the deCordova Museum in Lincoln, through February 24.

T. GIBSON SMITH, of Bow Road, head of the Prudential Company's New England Regional Sales office in Boston, received a set of power tools at a party given him recently in honor of his 20 years service with the company.

St. Ann's Basketball

St. Ann's Basketball Team, playing in the Natick Independent League, holds second place, after the Martin Cerel team of Natick. St. Ann's record is 7 wins, 1 loss in League games, and 4 straight non-league games.

New players on the team are Paul Flanagan, ex-B.C. athlete, and John Hughes, ex-B.C. star and present Wellesley High coach. The other members are: Chet Nightingale, Tom Egan, Bill Curley, Harold Hynes, Jack Davis, Arthur Ahlman, Wes McNulty, Herb Godden, Malcolm Ide.

CHARLES R. ROSS, son of Norman C. Ross of 120 Commonwealth Road, Cochituate, enlisted in the U.S. Navy on January 14. He is serving his basic training at Bainbridge, Maryland.

Form Skating Pond Improvement Assn.

The Mill Pond Skating Improvement Association has been formed to help George Shepard in his Town campaign to improve skating facilities at the Mill Pond.

Lights have already been installed and snow scrapers procured, but there are still other improvements, the group believes, which are needed if the potential of the pond is to be realized. The association will work closely with the Park Department, which has allocated $300, and will supplement and assist the department in contributing thought and manpower.

The association will also work for increased appropriations for this phase of the Park Department's budget and will contribute funds for improvements which the Town should not be expected to provide. Water outlets for spraying, improved parking, and a skating house are among the facilities being discussed.

Persons interested should send family dues of $2 to the Treasurer, Mrs. Allan R. Finlay, Old Sudbury Road. Members of the executive committee are David B. Turner, chairman, George Shepard, Mrs. Finlay, Donald K. Ide, Mrs. Dunbar Holmes and Allen Perkins.

RAYMOND F. HUMPHREY, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Humphrey of 30 Dudley Road, Cochituate, and a Wayland High School graduate, was recently elected vice president of the sophomore class at Norwich University, Northfield, Vt.

Emotionally Yours ---

HOWARD S. RUSSELL

"Emotionally," your Editor said: "I want you to write an article about what being Representative has meant to you — emotionally."

Apparently he overlooked the fact that I was brought up in the cool and even mental climate of Boston, where emotional display is not widely encouraged; and he certainly did not know that my mentor from my youth up has been Marcus Aurelius, who bids a man, "When it is time for him to take his leave, to be as ready to go his way as to engage in any other seemly or self-respecting act."

Still, your Editor has to find some sort of material, cold or hot, to fill that next "Town Crier," so let's do our best.

At the start, let me say that there are wide public misconceptions about the men (and the few women) who make up the General Court, as our Massachusetts legislature is officially entitled. Far from being a group to be ridiculed or apologised for as "politicians," a good percentage of the men in our elective body will score considerably higher in intelligence than the constituents they represent, and at least as high in moral principle.

Take the harbor city of Chelsea, center of the rag-picking and scrap business of New England. Nowhere will you find more highminded, able, and conscientious men than my friends Meyer Pressman and Harry Cotton, whom Chelsea sent to Beacon Hill to serve with me. From the manufacturing city of Lowell, it was always an inspiration to listen to the dogged defense of high political morality and free speech by that stubborn veteran of many contests, Connie Desmond; nor was there any man on whose word and high intention you could more surely rely than Cornelius Kiernan's. My admiration went out to the Polish war veteran Joseph Wisniowski of Chicopee, who had done two years of University of Massachusetts work while recovering from wounds in the hospital, and still full of shrapnel, was now working for his degree at B.U. nights. And where could you seek for more political or practical wisdom than from my seatmate Arthur Mahan, long-time Treasurer of the City of Leominster?

I have purposely mentioned these few typical Democratic colleagues rather than the Republicans whom you might expect to me to praise, to illustrate the fine feeling of friendship that characterizes the legislature. Never have I been associated with a group where, once formal party divisions were laid aside, there was a more friendly atmosphere, more sympathy for human failings, less envy when men met success, greater desire to see good legislature passed and bad bills killed. So I shall miss all these friends and a host of others on both sides of the House.

Another emotion that a member feels is the gratification that comes when you accomplish something: when you get the deathtrap at Dead Man's Curve finally eliminated: when you write a definition of "Natural Resources" that all hands promptly accept and enact into the basic law for that Department: when you help a widow get a decent settlement for land taken by the State: or assist distraught parents to place in a helpful institution a child who can never be normal; or smooth out difficulties so that a childless couple may take to their hearts and home some babe, unwanted elsewhere.

I shall miss also the pressure and excitement of the close-fought night sessions, where everyone knows that a handful of votes will settle the issue; the party whips hurrying up and down the aisles to straighten out some wavering member, the hasty telephone summons to men who have "taken a walk," are ill, or have just failed to show up; the shifting of a vote or two back and forth, amid cheers; till at the end the Speaker announces the matter decided, often by a single vote, adjourns the House and the members pour out of the chamber to press two hundred starters within ten minutes and head for home!

The calm impartiality and competence of House Clerk Larry Grove, who actually frames the Speaker's decision on points of parliamentary order; the helpfulness of Miss Turner and the State Library staff, who on ten minutes' notice will assemble the wisdom of the ages for the speech you have to make that night with no time to prepare; the devotion of the General Court officials; the uniform courtesy of Mrs. Barry, secretary to a long line of Speakers, who never forgets a name or a message, or lacks a smile; the acute legal mind of Assistant House Counsel Louis McNally, who overnight turns your fragmentary ideas into a bill that will hold water on the House floor the next day. All these are among the pleasant memories that this member will carry away from his six years service in the House.

But while the member holds these memories in his heart, it is not with regret that he leaves the State House. For he appreciates more than he can put on paper, the great sacrifices that his loyal wife and family have made in order that he might do his full duty by the public; the home life that has been so long disrupted; the old friends whom there has been no time to visit; the music and recreation that have been passed by; the books unread, the vacation trips foregone, the writing set aside, the hobbies untouched, the business and religious obligations done less than justice.

Now, having put the maelstrom of political life behind, he has hopes of making up for some of those deprivations; of being able once again, with his family, to live a really rounded life: "emotionally," as the Editor suggests, and otherwise as well.

New League Head

New acting president of the Wayland League of Women Voters is Mrs. L. William Bertelsen, who moved up from first vice president when Mrs. Richard A. Howard resigned to become a candidate for the School Committee. Mrs. Bertelsen was graduated from Cornell, and was once employment manager at R. H. Stearns store in Boston. She is just finishing a one-year term of service on the Board of Health, and is not a candidate for reelection to that office.

Heart Fund Drive To be on Feb. 20

The 1955 Heart Fund campaign in Wayland and Cochituate will consist of a house-to-house low-pressure solicitation between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 20. Previous campaigns have been run by mail. For this one there will be no set quota. People will be asked to give just what they wish to.

Cochituate chairman is Mrs. John B. Donner of Haven Lane. George C. Lewis is chairman of the merchants' committee and Howard T. Strum is Cochituate treasurer.

Cochituate captains, who could use some more troops, are Mrs. Myron G. Sandifer, Mrs. Larry Franceschi, Mrs. Hazel Taylor, Mrs. Ruth Cheslak, Mrs. Dana R. Thorpe, Mrs. Frank G. Wood, Mrs. Paul Larson, Mrs. George V. Deverell, Mrs. George S. Brown, Mrs. Orville E. Bean and Mrs. Ernest H. Beutner. Mrs. Rexford Moss is special gifts chairman.

On the other end of Town, Mrs. Edward J. O'Neill of Oxbow Road is general chairman. Special gifts chairman is Mrs. C. William Cheney, assisted by Mrs. Charles E. Potter, Mrs. Martin Edwards, Mrs. Maurice Williams, Mrs. Edmund Sears, Mrs. J. Reed Morss, Miss Sarah Lovell, Mrs. Willard Wolff and Mrs. Carl Kearsley.

Wayland captains, who could also use some help, are Mrs. Athlon Huntley, Mrs. William Gombos, Mrs. John Rowan, Mrs. Richard Cooper, Mrs. Edward Shaklik and Mrs. Frank Sennott.

A. L. Auxiliary

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold a pancake and sausage supper on Tuesday, Feb. 8 at the Legion Hall in Cochituate. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Irving Dame Jr. or at the door.

Flying Squirrels Spotted in Wayland

Flying squirrels are by no means extinct in Wayland. Norman D. Harris, of Rich Valley Road, of the Science Museum, says that several local residents have spotted the little animals this winter. One of them appeared in the home of William H. Wightman, of Rich Valley Road, one night, and another fell through the chimney of Henry G. Pearson's house, Old Connecticut Path, and made himself at home over the holiday weekend. They like bird feeders and swoop down on them at night from nearby trees.

New Neighbors

Mr. and Mrs. F. Lincoln Heinrich, and their three children, have moved from Winthrop Terrace into the house on Cochituate Road formerly owned by John B. Holt. Mr. and Mrs. Holt have moved into the Newberry Morse house on Winthrop Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lambert of Newton are now living in a new house on Davelin Rd. Mr. Lambert is an engineer with the Barry Corp. in Waltham, and Mrs. Lambert is an accountant with the Newton-Waltham Bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Sullivan have moved from Arlington to the house formally owned by Mr. Jeremiah Dow on Stonebridge Rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Kelleigh and their two children are living in Mr. Samuel Kelly's house on Plain Rd. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly have moved to Belmont.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Wandell and their small son have moved from New York to a house on Sherman Bridge Rd. Mr. Wandell is General Manager of the Fenwal Laboratory in Framingham.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Lancaster Cusumano and their three children from Needham are living on Damon st. while their house is being built in Woodridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fales have moved to Marblehead, and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Brenner from Cambridge are now living in their house on Davelin rd.

Center School PTO

A meeting of Center School PTO will be held on Thursday, Feb. 3, in the High School cafeteria. Coffee will be served at 7:30. A member of the school site committee will be present to discuss current problems of planning for additional school space. There will also be explanation by teachers of the new corrective speech class and the business class.

It was also decided to hold a PTO sponsored box-lunch and square dance at the High School auditorium on Saturday evening, February 19. Adults only are invited to attend the box-lunch supper at 7:30, but High School and Junior High School students are invited to come for the square dancing, which will follow.

John Brownell to Take AKC Position

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Brownell and their son, Tony, will be leaving Wayland before long. Mr. Brownell, long well known as a keen judge at dog shows, is to become one of the top executives of the American Kennel Club at New York. Both Mr. and Mrs. Brownell have been active in civic affairs during their 14-year residence in Town. He served as Rent Control Director for both Boston and Brookline.

First Law Office

The town's only law office was recently opened in Cochituate at the Professional Building, 33 Main Street, by Norman C. Ross, who also maintains an office in Boston. The Rosses who live at 120 Commonwealth Road, have been residents of the Town for the past three and a half years. Mr. Ross is a native of West Roxbury, graduated from Roxbury Latin School, Boston University General College, and Boston University School of Law. He is a veteran of World War II, having served with the U.S. Naval Seabees in the European and Pacific Theatres.

Wayland Garden Club

Colored slides of "Colonial Williamsburg" will be shown by Mrs. Charles Wadsworth at the Wayland Garden Club meeting Tuesday, Feb. 15, at 3 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Pierre Dumaine on Lincoln Road. Tea chairman will be Mrs. Francis Stites.

CRIER deadline for March: Thursday, February 17.

St. Zepherin's To Give Variety Show

The annual "All Star Variety Show" sponsored by the parishioners of St. Zepherin's Church will be held for the fifth time in the Cochituate School Auditorium on Tuesday, Feb. 22, and, as usual, it is expected that all the 528 seats will be sold.

Former Wayland Selectman William A. "Toke" Loker will be master of ceremonies and Paul Ambler's orchestra will furnish the music. All the entertainers will be professionals who have been seen in night clubs, theatres and on television. Two of the acts recently appeared on Ed Sullivan's Toast of the Town. All seats are reserved. Tickets are on sale at Ben Johnson's drug store on a first come, first served basis.

Christian Science Lecture

How scientific Christianity heals sickness and brings freedom from fear and other discords will be the topic of a public lecture to be delivered in the Weston Town Hall on Sunday afternoon at 3, February 20 by George Channing of San Francisco. Mr. Channing is a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship and is speaking under the auspices of Christian Science Society, Weston. The lecture is open to the public without charge, and the subject will be, "Christian Science: Its Constructive Mission."

Recent Deaths

MISS MARGUERITE D. JOHNSON, 41, sister-in-law of Earle W. Baldwin, well known as an official of Pequod Lodge I.O.O.F., December 17. Known to many Wayland residents, Miss Johnson formerly resided at 80 Edgemoor Avenue, Wellesley, and leaves her father, Henning E. Johnson, now of Holliston; her sister, Mrs. Earle W. Baldwin and a brother, Warren H. Johnson, of San Francisco, Cal.

MRS. BERTHA E. SCOTLAND, 84, widow of Edwin A. Scotland of 73 West Plain Street, Cochituate, mother of Carlisle D. Scotland, Wayland town official, and Gordon L. Scotland of Ashland, died Dec. 19 in Leonard Morse Hospital. She had been a resident of this town for many years and was active in the affairs of Cochituate Methodist Church. Rev. George C. Gutekunst conducted services on Dec. 21 and Mrs. Jennie Wright Schleicher was organist. Burial followed in Edwards' Churchyard Cemetery, Saxonville.

MISS NETTIE BONNELL, 50, formerly of Riverview Circle, died Dec. 23 in Cape Cod Hospital, Hyannis. A native of Halifax, Nova Scotia, she lived in Wayland for many years.

MRS. DENNIE M. MOORE, 89, formerly of Cochituate, mother of Reverend Robert Leslie Moore, Dean of Southeastern Bible Institute at Lakeland, Florida, died Christmas morning following a long illness.

MRS. LILLIAN B. MC MURTRIE, 63, wife of David McMurtrie, formerly of Edgewood Road, Cochituate, died Dec. 26 in Sudbury as a result of accidental smoke inhalation when her house caught fire. Services were conducted Wednesday, Dec. 29 by Reverend George C. Gutekunst, Pastor of Cochituate Methodist Church.

MRS. FRANCIS V. BENT, 77, widow of J. Madison Bent, died while crossing the yard of the Cochituate Grammar School on Friday, Jan. 7. A 55-year resident, she belonged to the Aurora Chapter, O.E.S.

MRS. MARY M. COOK, 64, widow of Charles W. Cook of 25 Castle Gate Road, Cochituate, died Jan. 8 in Framingham Union Hospital. Her son, Charles W. Cook, Jr., is her only local survivor.

MRS. GRACE V. PARMENTER. 53, Cochituate resident for the past 12 years, was stricken suddenly at her home, 36 Bradford Road, and died a few minutes after admission to the Leonard Morse Hospital on Sunday, Jan. 9. Reverend George C. Gutekunst conducted services on Wednesday, Jan. 12 with Mrs. Jennie Wright Schleicher as organist. Burial followed in Lakeview Cemetery.

ROY J. IMPEY, SR., 63, father of Roy J. Impey, Jr. of 18 French Avenue, Cochituate, died Jan. 11 in Boston. A native of Denver, Colorado, and a veteran of World War I, he formerly had been connected with the Donnelly Outdoor Advertising Company. A requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Zepherin's Church with interment following in Lakeview Cemetery.

IRVING L. DAME, 67, of 39 Wallace Road, a descendant of the Deacon Edmund Rice who was one of the first settlers of this Town, died suddenly at his home on Sunday, Jan. 9. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. George C. Gutekunst in the Gibbs Memorial Funeral Home.

Mr. Dame was a son of the late Warren Silas Dame, founder of Dame, Stoddard and Kendall Company, importers. Born in Boston, he had made his home here for 36 years.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Ethel R. Dame; two sons, Irving L. Dame, Jr. of Cochituate and G. Warren Dame of Framingham; and two daughters, Mrs. Walter Freeman of Duxbury and Miss Faith R. Dame of Washington, D. C.

MRS. MABEL K. ESTY, 74, a resident of Wayland for many years and a former teacher in the Wayland schools, died Jan. 14 in Beverly Hospital, Beverly, Massachusetts. The widow of Arthur C. Esty, she leaves a daughter and two sons. Reverend George K. Hodgkins, Pastor of Trinitarian Congregational Church, conducted services on Jan. 17. R. Clifford Orr was organist.

How Many Noses?

Fourteen persons were working on the street listing and the Massachusetts decennial census last month, and there was a good deal of curiosity as to what the nose count would show for the Town's present population.

Town Clerk Lelia Sears says she thinks the score will be 10,000. The Federal census of 1940 gave the Town 3,505, that of 1950, 4,407. Since 1950, Building Inspector Homer L. MacDonald reports, 754 building permits have been issued, and one rough way of estimating is to allow four persons for each additional house. By this system, the population figure would come out around 7,400.

Woman's Club

The annual guest-night of the Wayland Woman's Club was scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 1, at 8 p.m. at the High School auditorium. The Club was to present Deana and John Sweet in "Dramatic Dialogues," an original program of character sketches in drama, comedy, and farce. The March meeting, which will fall on the first day of the month, will feature a fashion show, to be put on by Mrs. Edward Iselin, with clothing from the Eve Shop of Concord. Gathering at 3 p.m. in the vestry of the First Parish Church, club members will be served tea by a committee headed by Mrs. Parmelee Hill. Program chairman for the day is Mrs. Alonzo F. Knights.

Red Cross Canteen Is Now Recruiting

The Red Cross canteen corps is now recruiting members for their expanded emergency feeding, veterans hospital work and aid service to the volunteer fire department program.

Members of the corps may volunteer for any or all of the various services, according to Anne W. Brownell, chairman.

A 10-weeks course will be given, starting in January, with the first meeting at Mrs. Brownell's home at 193 Concord Rd. All women interested in taking the course may contact Mrs. Brownell at Elm 8-2162.

Since the end of the war, the canteen has remained active, working at Cushing, Veterans Hospital, Murphy Army Hospital and at Bedford Veterans Hospital. The canteen was awarded a special citation for their service in the aphaisic ward of Cushing.

Mrs. Brownell pointed out that members of the canteen may volunteer for any of the services at the completion of the course and consideration will be made for each individual's schedule.

Auxiliaries Turn Out

Director of Civil Defense W. R. Hulbert says the newly organized and trained Wayland Auxiliary Fire Department had its first action on Jan. 16 in the fire which destroyed the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Maloney on Concord Road. Capt. Francis J. Hartin, Auxiliary Chief, says the following Auxiliaries turned out to help: John F. Columbus, John W. Dunning, George Johnson, Peter A. Krivicich, John M. Perrin, Ronald E. Profit, Russell G. Rogers and David B. Walcott.

NEW ACOUSTICON HEARING AID REVOLUTIONIZES INDUSTRY

Jamaica, N. Y., December, 1954 —Acousticon Research Laboratories this week announced the perfection of a remarkable new hearing aid designed to give the wearer the most efficient performance ever, with the added advantage of concealment.

Known officially as Model A-210, it is so tiny and lightweight it can be completely concealed in a woman's hair, while a man can wear the transmitter behind his tie—thus answering an important need felt by those hard-of-hearing people who prefer to keep their secret.

At the same time the wearing position of the A-210 eliminates the rustle and muffling effect of clothing, an annoying sound interference often experienced with other hearing aids. The result is an unequalled quality of tone, greater comfort, new freedom to dress as you like, and real economy in operation . . . judged to be only 25¢ per week for ordinary use.

The A-210 is designed to be used with any of Acousticon's 17 receivers, the largest line of corrections made by any hearing aid manufacturer, making possible the individual fitting so important to better hearing.

A booklet describing this new hearing aid is available without charge or obligation to anyone writing:

Mergers Be Sidetracked — Why Not Build a Railroad?

All this talk about railroad mergers suggests a beautiful solution to the local transportation problem, at present solved only by the automobile, which was responsible for the problem in the first place.

As it has become apparent that some persons are actually willing to spend money to buy railroads, the evil suspicion arises that there must be a profit in the business.

Therefore why not organize and build a railroad right in Town, with some such name as the Lake Cochituate, Dudley Pond, Baldwin's Pond and Sudbury River? Any time the directors wanted to dilute the value a little, they'd have the raw material right at hand.

Or it might be the Cochituate, Damon Farm, Happy Hollow, Woodridge, Martin Cerel and Santa Fox. This would enlist the support of real estate men and bring new blood into the Town, which needs it about as much as new water in the cellar.

Or, simply enough, it might be the Cochituate, North Cochituate and North Wayland. If anybody in North Cochituate didn't like that name, it could be called, even more simply, the Bangor and Aroostook.

Of course, this would have to be a small deal; it would have to serve everybody and it would have to embody some original ideas. A good deal of thought has already been given to this project, as a matter of fact, by men walking home from trains and buses while their wives had the family heaps at meetings of the League of Women Voters or the Mothers Club.

Rails should be of aluminum, which is easy to handle and will get so hot under the summer sun that small children won't be tempted to trespass on the right of way.

The rails — narrow gauge — should be laid squarely down the middle of every Town street. This should have the happy effect of making motorists stay on their own side of the road. If they don't, they'll run into the trains, and the railroad will sue.

As another novelty, these trains should be made long and narrow. No seats, lots of straps. The Talgo principle may be used, if it will work with cars two feet wide. Having the trains narrow and crowded will promote informality and enable everyone to make new and somewhat intimate acquaintances more easily.

The Board of Directors thinks, since this is going to be small and simple equipment, it can be handled by high school students, either in their spare time or when they're playing hooky or making believe they're sick. The boys can run the locomotives and the girls — attired like carhops or cheerleaders, naturally — can take tickets and be station agents. (No freight. Just bundles from the establishments of our leading merchants, whom we should all patronize freely. Terms, cash.)

An advantage of having the boys run these trains is that boys like to go fast, and the Directors want speed on this railroad. The cars will be uncomfortable and unheated (hot in season) and therefore everything will have to move swiftly.

The Directors (there is already a shadow organization) also have a practical view. They figure that boys and girls, not yet become cynical and mercenary, can be induced to work for reasonable wages. Say, a bottle of coke for three round trips on the Oxbow Scenic Route, or a free swim for every two runs on the Beach line. The Directors take the sane view that there's no point in fanning the flames of avarice in the young, and besides, think of the fun they'll have.

Details remain to be worked out by the Innerstate Commerce Commission, the Kiwanis Club, the Little League, the Brotherhood of Juvenile No Brakes Diesel Engineers and a couple of the larger New York banks, but the main outlines are already plain.

There must be some better alternative to walking than the automobile. —D.B.W.

Flees Wayland; Now Carving Wooden Eagles

A former Wayland resident who fled to Maine several years ago to avoid new highways and retire, now finds himself the world center of a flourishing business.

He's John Upton who used to make furniture here, and is now living on Bleak Bay, Bremen, Maine, carving wooden eagles. In the past two years he's carved 72, and they are decorating doorways, mantlepieces, sterns of yachts and tug boat pilot houses all over the world.

"Carving eagles," he says, "is one thing you can't do for someone you don't like." He used to live on Cochituate Road in the house belonging to the late William L. Stoddard.

Wayland Girl Scouts

Four Wayland women were elected to the board of directors of the Natick Council, Girl Scouts of America, at the annual meeting on Jan. 19. Mrs. John Simoni is Council president; Mrs. Ann Phair is program chairman; Mrs. Alfred Swift is Cochituate Neighborhood chairman; and Mrs. Blakslee Colby is Wayland Neighborhood chairman. Over the week-end of January 15-16 Wayland and Cochituate Girl Scouts joined with Boy Scouts in distributing to each family of the town an invitation to attend the open-house of the New Parmenter Health Center.

Cochituate PTA

The Parent-Teachers' Association of the Cochituate School will meet on Tuesday, February 8, at 8 p.m., instead of on the regularly scheduled third Tuesday of the month. Representatives of the Wayland School Committee, will discuss new school sites. The PTA will again sponsor dancing classes for ten successive weeks from February to April. The sale of sweat shirts with the school emblem will also be undertaken as in past years.

CRIER deadline for March: Thursday, February 17.

Towns Can't Save for Replacement Funds

Thrifty as Massachusetts towns are reputed to be, it nevertheless seems that they aren't allowed to save up money in advance for municipal needs. Excerpt from a recent issue of "Taxtalk", published by the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations, on this subject:

"Q: Would it be possible for us to set aside some kind of 'depreciation reserves' to provide for the future replacement of some of our town facilities which are running down rapidly?

"A: Massachusetts law makes no formal provision for depreciation reserves for any purpose except a municipal light plant. Legislation has been sought from time to time without success which would extend the principal to municipal water systems. For all other municipal properties the only statutory methods by which money could be set aside for future replacements are (1) in the past, through the setting up of a Post-War Rehabilitation Fund, (2) currently, through appropriations to a Stabilization Fund, and (3) accumulating a general surplus. A Stabilization Fund, however, is available for any purpose for which the town may borrow money . . . and there can be no assurance, in advance, how it will be used by the town. An accumulated surplus is available for almost anything and, as a practical matter, it is almost useless to plan for its precise use in advance . . .

"Without a change in present laws, therefore, your town can do little to set up a systematic plan of reserves for future replacements."

Sunday, Feb. 27—Greater Natick Council of Churches' Lenten program at 7 at the Congregational Church. Lecture and discussion groups on the theme of the family.

Congregational

The Church School staff, under Superintendent Robert Hatch, will meet Wednesday, Feb. 2, at 8 p.m., for its regular monthly meeting.

The Ladies' Benevolent Association will meet Tuesday, Feb. 8.

The Quarter Century Club will meet on February 9 and 23.

The Women's Fellowship meets at 1:30 on Tuesday, Feb. 15. Dr. Miriam Van-Waters, Superintendent of the Framingham Reformatory for Women, will speak.

The high school Pilgrim Fellowship will participate as a group in the University of Life program at Grace Church, Framingham, during the Sunday evenings of February. They will meet at the church at 4:30.

The Men's Club February program, beginning with supper at 6:45 p.m., will feature one of the Congregational Conference officers, Dr. Frank Duddy, who has interesting sidelights on the early history of New England.

St. Ann's

Thursday, Feb. 3—Feast of St. Blaise. Blessing of throats will take place after the 7 a.m. Mass, 3 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Wednesday, Feb. 23—Ash Wednesday. Ashes will be blessed and distributed at the 7 a.m. Mass, at 3 p.m. for the children, and after the evening Mass. Every Wednesday evening during Lent, Mass will be celebrated at 7:45 p.m. Confessions will be heard before Mass. Friday evenings at 7:45 Stations of the Cross and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be held.

Week-day Masses are Monday through Friday at 7 a.m., Saturday 8 a.m.

The regular meeting of St. Ann's Guild has been postponed from Feb. 1 to Monday, Feb. 14, 7 p.m. at which time a spaghetti supper will be held in Guild Hall for members and guests. A fashion show featuring clothes of the 1920-30 period will be held. Mrs. Thomas Brown, Blossom Lane, is chairman of the supper committee. Tickets are $1.50.

DPIA Exchange

A clothing exchange and food sale sponsored by the Dudley Pond Improvement Association will be held Friday, Feb. 4, at the Club House on Old Connecticut Path, from 1 to 8 p.m. A gift table, which will display only new and hand-made articles, will be an added feature. Hot coffee and sandwiches will also be on sale. Men's, women's and children's clothing will be accepted for sale, but must be in good condition, cleaned and pressed. The donor receives 80% of proceeds, the club 20%. The Exchange, which has been successful, will continue on the first Friday of each month.

Pol's Posters on Poles Prohibited

Many don't know it, but, the Selectmen say, there's a rule in Town against tacking signs, particularly political campaign posters, on trees. Some candidates do go around in the night in trucks and put them up, but they aren't supposed to. And they never come back after Election Day to remove them, win or lose. The utility companies, the Selectmen say, won't give permission to have election posters put on their poles, either. One Wayland woman has appointed herself a committee to tear down every poster she can reach, on tree or pole, in the interest of civic sightliness.

What Would You Do?

The grapevine says a Wayland woman drove down to the Center the other morning in nightgown, coat and slippers, according to her usual custom, and ran out of gasoline. Alas for complete reporting, the grapevine did not reveal how she solved the problem. Some say this is the kind of accident which might befall many a Wayland woman.

Statement by Newton

To the Wayland Townspeople:

I have been a member of your School Committee for the past nine years along with the associated tasks of the School Building and School Site Committees.

When I accepted this office in 1946 there were 725 children in our school system. Today there are 1325. Five years from now there will be approximately 2,000.

Along with this very substantial increase went an ever increasing load of work for the Committee.

My physical condition at this time makes it unwise for me to continue in this office. Consequently, I shall not seek re-election in March.

I take this opportunity to thank all of you who have so consistently supported our school program. Continual progress has been made in the past and I am very confident that still greater progress will be made in the future by those who serve this most important town function.

Sincerely,

Harvey C. Newton

Four New Rooms Needed in Center

Here are some aspects of the Wayland school building program, which is to come up at the Feb. 9 special Town Meeting, as explained by the School Site Committee and the School Committee:

By September, 1956, the figures show, there will have to be at least four new school rooms in the Center district, and more in each following year. If there aren't, there will apparently have to be double sessions in the old Center School.

Even supposing a new Center School is ready in 1956, within two or three years there will be need for another new elementary school, almost certainly in the southeast corner of Town. The Cochituate School is full, while Damon Farm is fast building, Oak Street section has many children and new developments on School Street are in immediate prospect. A little later, there will be need for a new elementary school in North Wayland.

Some preliminary figures from the Planning Board show the potential school population in various districts, based on the zoning rules and the number of existing houses and buildable sites:

North Wayland, 375 children.
Center, 600.
Southeast, 375.
Cochituate, 490.
Happy Hollow, 475.

Therefore the School Site Committee proposes that the three new sites to be needed within the next few years should be acquired at once. This proposal, as such things go in New England towns, is both dramatic and unusual. The general practice is to take one site at a time, as need becomes imperative.

The reason for this drastic proposal here in Wayland is that the local situation is dramatic. The Town's population has doubled since the end of World War II, and is continuing to increase at an accelerating rate. Indications are that 1955 may be the biggest building year yet. The argument is that it is long-range economy to acquire good school sites now, before all the good land is covered with houses. Buying house lots for school sites would be tremendously expensive, and the alternative would be to take undesirable, generally swampy, school sites, at a later date.

two latter sites immediately. As the Town is growing so rapidly, the idea is to buy land for schools before the land is all covered with houses. Part of the idea is to spot the new school sites so that as many pupils as possible may walk to school, to avoid the expense of running buses and to make it easier for the pupils to stay after school for extra-curricular activities.

Total cost of acquiring three sites at once would be substantial, and would involve a bond issue. However, members of the Site Committee say there is every indication that suitable school sites, if available, would cost much more by the time they were actually needed, even in a very few years from now.

Also on the warrant will be an article calling for acquisition by the Town, probably for $1000 or $1500, of the two acres now next to the Cochituate dump. This land has been leased by the Town for years, for the taxes on it. It is adjacent to the premises now occupied by the Town's highway garage. For some time yet, it is said, dumping can be continued on this spot. After that, it is said, many years must elapse before the land will have settled enough to make it suitable for building. Town officials felt it would be a good idea to have the area available for probable future expansion of Highway Department facilities.

Another article calls for acquisition by the Town of certain small lots and substandard housing to facilitate future development and to remove buildings deemed unfit by the Board of Health.

Two additional articles deal with the Town's part in the construction by the Commonwealth of a new $100,000 bridge over the Sudbury River on Stone Bridge Road. It is believed that the cost to the Town will be little or nothing.

Linnehan Running Against Henderson

A number of contests feature the upcoming Town election on Monday, March 7.

Mary M. Howard, who recently resigned as president of the Wayland League of Women Voters, is running for a three-year term on the school committee against Ivan E. Beal of East Plain Street and John Bernard Butler of Bow Road. This position is open because of the retirement of Harvey C. Newton.

Three candidates for the one-year term as Assessor are Andrew R. Cay of Orchard Lane, Albin O. Holgerson of Stonebridge Road and William S. Lewis of Pequot Road.

Robert W. Hanlon of Moore Road, incumbent, is running for the three-year term as Water Commissioner against George K. Lewis of Concord Road.

Other contests:

Board of Health, three years: Robert T. Robinson, Main Street; Robert H. Scotland, West Plain Street. and Dr. Charlotte A. Stewart, State Road East.

Park Commissioner, three years: Frank S. Tarr, incumbent, West Plain Street, against Thomas J. Garvey, Jr., Corman's Lane.

Planning Board, five years: Frederick G. Perry, Jr., Bow Road, for reelection, against James E. Garvey, Corman's Lane.

Unopposed for office are:

Howard S. Russell, for Town Moderator.

Candidates Night To be March 2

Candidates for election to all Town offices will be presented to the townspeople by the League of Women Voters at the High School cafeteria Wednesday, March 2, at 8 p.m. Each will have an opportunity to explain his purpose in seeking office, and there will be an open question period, with Mrs. William Bertelsen, president of the League, as chairman. Following the presentation of candidates, refreshments will be served.

Wayland Aerial Map

Five aerial maps of Wayland, made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and bought by Gregory Cooper of Wayland, are on display in the Wayland Library. One is a big picture of the whole Town and the other four are detailed maps.

For the benefit of local persons who might like to have such pictures, Mr. Cooper says that the trick is to write to this long address:

Eastern Laboratory,
Performance and Aerial Photography Division,
Commodity Stabilization Service,
U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Washington, D. C.

The person wanting pictures should ask for an order form first, then fill it out and send a check for what he wants. The maps come in different scales. The "index sheet," or picture of the whole Town, costs $1.10, and the smaller ones. on a scale of 1000 feet to the inch, cost $2 each. Other pictures, on different scales, have different prices.

Oldest Man in Town

CHARLES H. CARTER

In the picture above are Charles H. Carter of West Plain Street, oldest man in Town at the age of 95, and his granddaughter. Marion Carter Pond, with whom he makes his home.

Mr. Carter celebrated his birthday quietly on Feb. 18, by taking one teaspoonful of whiskey and three square meals, plus his share of a big birthday cake, and entertaining visitors.

Health Council Plans Discussed

A group of Wayland citizens, including representatives of the Parmenter Health Center Trustees, the Board of Health, the School Department, the Finance Committee and local physicians, attended a meeting at the Health Center on Feb. 15, presided over by John C. Quinn, of the Board of Health.

The question for discussion was, "Now that the Town has this beautiful building, to what best uses can it be put?"

Present to give advice and suggestions were Dr. Hugh Leavell of the Harvard Department of Public Health, and Miss Ethel Brooks, an authority on public nursing.

Dr. Leavell said, "The question is, what do people want done about their health?" He called the Center "marvelous", "a dream come true", and said the problem was how to make the best use of this resource. He said that Centers like this are comparatively few in number, and that they aren't all operated alike. There is room for experimentation, he said.

The upshot of a two-hour discussion was a decision to form a Citizens' Health Council, to be set up by such bodies as the Parmenter Trustees, Board of Health, School Committee and perhaps others, but with a large number of citizens appointed at large.

Such a group, said Dr. Leavell, would function as a sort of health planning agency. It could help to indicate what the Town wants and could furnish ideas for services.

School Committee Will Request Outside Survey at Town Meeting

What Happened Feb.9

The article calling for the purchase of a Plain Road site for a new Center School was beaten for lack of a two-thirds vote. A majority approved, 254 to 209, but that wasn't enough. Then an article calling for purchase of an alternate site on Claypit Hill Road was also beaten for lack of two-thirds, 243 to 150.

This was the second rejection of the Plain Road site. It was first beaten on Dec. 8, 1954, also for lack of a two-thirds vote, by 121 to 90.

Argument on the two articles raged for three solid hours, from 8:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. At least a score of voters spoke their pieces, pro and con. Some of the debate was polite and some of it had polite words and impolite music, so to speak.

The case for the Plain Road site, which was the main issue, was presented by George V. Deverell, Alan R. Finlay and Mrs. Mary N. Baldwin.

Among opposition speakers were Lewis Avard, F. Milton Butler, Mrs. Norman J. Alstad, John R. McEnroy and J. Sidney Stone.

An effective speaker against the Claypit Hill Road site was Willard B. Woodward, whose poultry farm would be almost surrounded by a school grounds there. Many voted against this site, they

What Happens Next—

As a result of the defeat of the school program at the February 9 Special Town Meeting:

The School Committee took the lead in announcing that the Town would be asked at the March Town Meeting to engage outside consultants to advise on school problems. (See statement page 5.)

The Site Committee resigned.

A new Site Committee was in process of being organized.

As of February 20, three members of the new site committee had been picked. Lewis Avard of the Finance Committee, an opponent of the Plain Road site, was chairman. L. William Bertelsen was the member for the Planning Board, replacing Mrs. Mary N. Baldwin, and Cornelius J. Maguire was on for the School Committee, taking the place of Harvey C. Newton, who had to resign from the Site Committee recently on account of his health.

Lewis Avard replaced George V. Dev-

Wayland Recreational Council is Formed

The Wayland Junior Town House has recently organized a council composed of representatives of various organizations and Town Departments interested in recreational facilities and activities. The purpose of the. Council is to act as a clearing house and coordinator for thinking and action. A series of informal dances and open houses for the high school age group is already underway as a result of the first meeting.

The Council reports a critical need for adult leadership and assistance. Robert Welchel has 180 boys lined up for informal basketball but needs eight men to help him supervise. There are 90 Brownies in Cochituate who lack den mothers.

Chaperones are needed for the informal dances. The Council would like to find men and women willing to run hobby clubs. There is a need for a tennis club or group to work with the Park Department if town courts are to be provided. All Wayland residents who would be willing to help in one way or another are urged to give their names to Mrs. Kenneth Larkin or to one of the following organizations represented on the Council:

High School Student Council, Wayland Mother's Club, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, High School PTA, League of Women Voters, Kiwanis Club, Wayland Womens' Club, Holy Name Society (St. Ann's Church), Methodist Church, First Parish Church and Junior Town House. The Council would also like to add all interested organizations not presently represented.

Regular Meeting of Mar. 9 Looks Quiet

Except for the school site survey proposal, it seemed that nothing particularly controversial was scheduled to come up at the regular Town Meeting of Wednesday, March 9.

Not even the proposed new Town office building was to come up for definite action. The building committee said it would have no bids by March 9, nor would it have time to canvass the Town for ideas. Suggestions about the looks of the building are solicited. However, a sum of money, to come out of 1955 taxes, will be asked for, it was indicated.

In the warrant is the budget, of course, bigger than ever. There are proposed changes in the salary plan, including a blanket five cents an hour or $100 a year pay increase for Town employees.

One item is $12,000 for Wayland's share of the job of relocating and rebuilding the Old Sudbury Road bridge.

BETTERMENT JOBS

Because no new money for schools is to be asked for, the Finance Committee will recommend that betterment jobs be done on Valley View Road, Peck Avenue and Spring Hill Road, at a total cost of

New Instructions Are Evacuate at Alert

Residents of Wayland, in the event of an atom bomb attack and Yellow alert, should plan to evacuate the area if they have not constructed safe home shelters. That is the latest word from W. R. Hulbert, director of Civil Defense, as a result of the Commonwealth's newest evacuation memorandum.

Families which want to stay in the Town are urged to construct a sturdy basement room about 7 x 7 feet located in the corner nearest the most probable target. Specifications for making the room shock-proof are contained in a new government pamphlet entitled "Corner Room Shelter." Copies may be obtained. from the Wayland Civil Defense Office.

Plea for Firemen

The Wayland Fire Department still needs more men who can respond to fire alarms during the day. So many of the present firemen work out of town that the Department is short-handed from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Anyone interested is asked to contact Assistant Chief Homer L. MacDonald at the Town Hall any weekday between 8 a.m. and 10 a.m.

NEW TELEPHONE NUMBER for the Water Department at the Town Hall is Elmwood 8-4851. Please call this number for information regarding accounts and billing.

Letters to the Editor

New Site Suggested

To the Editor:

I feel very strongly that Wayland's schoolchildren should be adequately housed; however I expected that the citizens would not sanction the proposals offered at the February 9 Town meeting.

Since a third effort must be made, I am now offering my ideas concerning a proper general location. I suggest that a school be built on Old Connecticut Path just west of Rice Road. This is farm land—the first cost should not be excessive. It is open land—there would be little cost connected with landscaping. The land is sufficiently dry and level. Most important it is located advantageously being about half way between the two large developments, one in Wayland on State Road East and the second in Cochituate on the old Damon farm. Existing public roads make this Old Connecticut Path site available from all points of the compass yet these distances are not excessive.

I trust that the officials authorized to make the school studies will understand that I am offering my suggestion as a democratic move in our free system of government. Although I have unusual knowledge and experience along these lines, I make my offer with humility and certainly with no feeling of impertinence.

Larger Committee

To the Editor:

As Wayland approaches the 10,000 population mark I am wondering if we have taken into consideration the increasing load upon our school committee and the responsibilities that rest upon these three elected representatives of the people. The idea of an enlarged school committee was first suggested to me by a present candidate for that group. Since, a second candidate has proposed it and I took the liberty of asking the third candidate how he felt about it. All seem to feel it is a matter worth considering and I'm writing to you to present the idea and stimulate citizens' thoughts on the subject.

An increase in the number of school committee members would be an amendment to the by-laws of the Town and would therefore have to come before a regular town meeting or a special town meeting called by the selectmen not later than 45 days after the receipt of a petition requesting the insertion of an article in the warrant signed by at least 200 registered voters of the town of Wayland.

GEORGIA V. ALSTAD
(Mrs. Norman Alstad)

5-Man Committee

To the Editor:

You have asked the School Committee what we would think about amending the Town By-Laws to increase the Committee from three to five members.

We would favor such an amendment.

During the past year and a half, particularly, Wayland has grown tremendously; we are now a Town of virtually 10,000. From every standpoint, in our opinion, it would be desirable to enlarge the Committee to reflect the Town's astonishing growth.

General Radio Club Sings Here March 30

The General Radio Glee Club will present a concert on Wednesday, March 30, at 8:00 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Trinitarian Congregational Church. The Glee Club is directed by Stuart Dewey and assistant director and accompanist Don Bradshaw. All members are employees of General Radio Company. Last year they took second place in the annual contest of New England Federated Men's Glee Clubs. Of particular interest is the "Con-chord-ians' Quartet which includes, Bob, Russ, Lincoln Hatch, and Lloyd Bickford. The proceeds of the concert will be used to decorate the new Sunday School rooms.

THE PLANNING BOARD reports it has not been able to include the new street number listing with the Town Report due to the many changes. They hope to publish a list soon.

$1500 of Red Cross Fund for Swimming

The annual membership and fund drive of the Wayland chapter of the Red Cross will be held this month, with the quota set at $5,940.

Miss Emily Blair of Plain Road, chairman of this year's drive, said that $2500 of the quota will be used for the expanded home services program and $1500 is for the life saving and swimming program at Lake Cochituate.

It was pointed out that with the rapid growth of population in the Town, both of these programs must be enlarged to meet the need. Two instructors will be used to handle the life saving and swimming training schedule this summer.

Volunteers will solicit each house in town for a membership contribution, Miss Blair said. Among the captains are Mrs. Mabel Draper, Old Sudbury Road; Mrs. James Jandl, Bow Road; Francis E. Hanson, Nob Hill Road; John Hall, Winthrop Road; Arthur Kimball, Rice Spring Lane; Parmelee C. Hill, Hayward Road; Mrs. Gordon Holmes, Bennett Road; Mrs. John Rowan, Appleton Road; Mrs. Henry G. Pearson, Old Connecticut Path; Mrs. Eugene C. Roberts, Woodridge Road; J. Eric Doerr, Old Farm Road, and N. Clement White, Stonebridge Road.

Also included as captains are Mrs. John LaFrance, Oxbow Road; Mrs. Leslie Wellman, Tallyho Road; Mrs. Aiden Gierasch, Concord Road, and Mrs. Joseph Kean, Glezen Lane.

George G. Bogren of West Plain Street is in charge of the fund and membership drive in the Cochituate section of the town and heads a committee of volunteer solicitors.

Miss Blair requests anyone, who was not called upon by a volunteer by the last week of the month, to get in touch with her.

Wayland Garden Club

"Beauty From Bulbs" will be the topic of the Wayland Garden Club meeting to be held Tuesday, March 22, at the home of Mrs. Kimball Powning, at 3 p.m. The program will be presented by P. De Jager and Sons, Inc. Mrs. Alonzo Knights will be tea chairman.

Woodworking Classes

If there is sufficient demand, the school department will again open an evening class in woodworking for adults. It is necessary to have ten members before a class can be formed. If as many as 20 register, two classes will be open, one on Tuesday evening, one on Thursday. Each will meet once a week for ten weeks, beginning Tuesday, March 8. Cost is $5 per pupil. Instructor will be Mr. Ralph Pearson, High School woodworking instructor. Those interested are requested to call the office of the Superintendent of Schools.

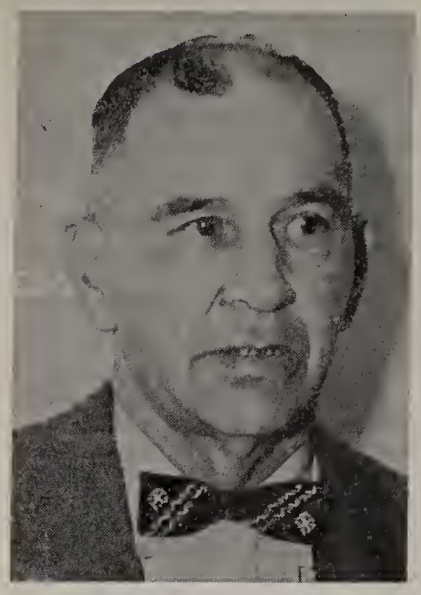
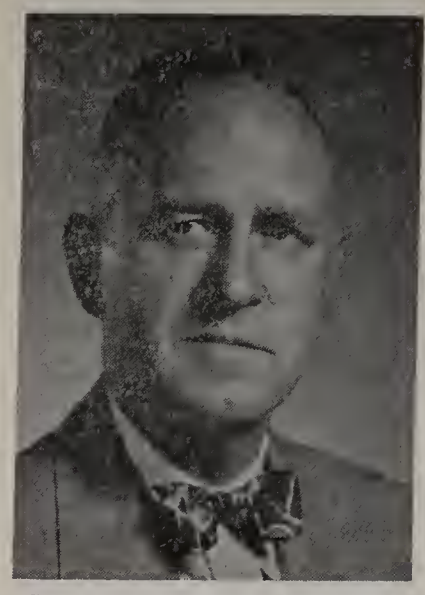
Candidates for Selectmen



THOMAS F. LINNEHAN, of Millbrook Road, has served as Town Constable since he was elected in 1943. He was also a member of the Board of Health for three years. Now 51, he has lived in Wayland all his life, as did his father and grandfather. He is a graduate of the Wayland High School and has a son in the Center School. Since 1943 he has been owner of the Wayland Coal and Oil Co., and he is also a member of the Kiwanis. He states that he is an independent candidate for Selectman.



GERALD HENDERSON, of Plain Road, who is now a member of the three-man Board of Selectmen, has served in that office for nine years. Prior to that he was on the Town Finance Committee for four years. Born in Arlington in 1899, he moved to Wayland in 1900. He is a senior partner in the insurance firm of John C. Paige & Company, with headquarters in Boston, and offices in New York, Portland, Los Angeles and Atlanta, and was formerly Chairman of the Port of Boston Authority.

Edward Hubbard is Veno Sales Manager

Edward A. Veno, Wayland Realtor, announces the appointment of Edward B. Hubbard of Weston as sales manager. Mr. Hubbard is a competent realtor having been associated with a well-known firm for a number of years.

This is another step forward in the enlargement of Mr. Veno's office intended to provide to the people of Wayland and neighboring towns better real estate service.

The office is also a member of the newly-formed Multiple Listing Bureau of that section.

Cochituate Garden Club

"House Plants" will be discussed at the meeting of the Cochituate Garden Club on Thursday, March 10 at 1:30 p.m., in the vestry of the Cochituate Community Methodist Church by Mr. Ralph M. Kenison. Hostess for the day will be Mrs. Benjamin Johnson.

"My Three Angels" to Be Given by Vokes

"My Three Angels," a delightful three-act comedy by the Spewacks, will be presented by Wayland's Vokes Players at their unique 125-seat Vokes Theatre on the Boston Post Road, Friday and Saturday evenings March 11, 12, 18, 19.

The setting of this broadway hit is near a penal colony in French Guiana and is about three hard-bitten but witty escaped convicts who solve the romantic problems of a family.

Twinkie Luce is again painting the scenery.

Others working on this play are Hilda Harris, prompter; Dorothy Grannis and Polly Kimball, hand properties; Joan Havener and Carol Stites, make-up; Eleanor Williams, costumes; Robert Pfeiffer, business manager; Rudy Bruce, publicity.

Tickets ($1.50 each) may be obtained by calling the ticket chairman, Mrs. William Hodgkinson, ELmwood 8-7725, or Dorothy Grannis, Buff Paine or the Weston Studio of Decorating.

What Happened

said later, because they didn't want Mr. Woodward's business injured or destroyed.

After the defeat of the Claypit Hill Road site, George Deverell of the Site Committee moved to pass over the articles calling for purchase of other sites on Rice Road and Oxbow Road. This was voted.

Many of the speakers repeated arguments which had been heard before. A new opponent of the school program was Mrs. Alstad, who urged the meeting to vote down all school sites and get a professional study of the Town's needs. "A hurried survey is nearly always an inadequate survey," she said. She suggested that an addition to the Happy Hollow School would take care of the immediate problem, and she said that with this addition "we have three years and seven months."

There was also a good deal of talk about price, with opponents suggesting that the Plain Road site might cost the Town as much as $90,000. Proponents said the land changed hands in November, 1954, for $22,000, and certainly shouldn't cost the Town too much more than that. Neither side had any exact figures to offer. The new owners of the property, present but not voting, were reported to be eager to build houses on the site.

In spite of the undercurrents of warm feeling, there were a few lighter spots.

There was laughter when Mr. Finlay spoke of "those new houses and what might be expected of them," and when there was mention of pre-school children from "zero to six years old." The zero was amended to one day.

A couple of puppy dogs wandered into the meeting and had to be shooed out.

Speaking of the high tension line, somebody said, "The degree of electrocution isn't important, if a person is going to be electrocuted."

George V. Deverell, who was acting chairman of the old School Site Committee, explained why he moved to pass over the articles dealing with the Rice Road and Oxbow Road school sites at the special Town Meeting: Those two sites were part of a three-site program. With the first site dead, these were dead, too. Secondly, if there were to be a new committee, he says. it would have been unfair for the new committee to be burdened by the decisions of the old.

Poultry Pointers

Whether or not noisy children would frighten pullets out of laying eggs became a real issue at Town Meeting February 9.

W. B. Woodward, of Claypit Hill Road, got up and said that any kind of excitement disturbs these birds, and if the land back of his house was selected as a school site, he and his wife, who have run a chicken farm there since 1919, would soon be out of business.

F. Milton Butler, of Rich Valley Road, rose to say that he, too, had raised chickens and had never found them that sensitive. Barking dogs and other sudden noises might upset them, but not kids.

Nevertheless, the chickens had their day, and the school site was defeated.

What Next?

erell of the Finance Committee, who had been acting chairman of the old Site Committee.

The letter of resignation, not exactly a valentine although it was dated Feb. 14, was addressed "To the townspeople of Wayland." It said:

"The School Site Committee feels that in consideration of the vote at the two Special Town Meetings it can be of little further service to the Town. The members of the Committee, recognizing the urgency of the problem, feel that it is to the best interest of Wayland's children that they resign in order that a new Committee be established to carry on this important work. The signatures below represent those members who were in Town when this letter was written and constitute a majority of the Committee."

School Committee Statement

After interviewing many persons and considering the school site situation, the School Committee issued a statement saying:

When the debate at the Special Town Meeting on Feb. 9 had ended and the votes had been counted, two facts seemed to stand out:

First, that the Town will need a new school building in the near future; and

Second, that many of the voters at the meeting appeared to want outside consultants employed to help the Town decide where that new building should be located, what its size and cost should be, what Wayland's other school site and building requirements are likely to be over the next 10 years or so, and how — from both the educational and financial standpoints —those future requirements can most wisely be met.

Though expressly not charged with responsibility for study of school sites or of school building needs, the School Committee consists of elected representatives of the Town and as such, the Committee believes, it should take the lead in responding to the Feb. 9 meeting. For the principal —and only important—victims of further delay, rising rumor, confusion and uncertainty will be our children.

Accordingly, the School Committee has initiated the following course of action:

1. It has asked the School Building Committee and the School Site Committee to join it in selecting and working with expert, outside consultants who will study the Town's school site and building needs and make concrete recommendations regarding them. Those three Committees are the officially established Committees of the Town concerned with the several aspects of the school program; in all they consist of 17 different persons living in different parts of Wayland and representing different points of view; and the composition of one of them, the nine-man Site Committee, will be entirely new in view of the resignations from that committee which followed the Feb. 9 meeting.

2. At the annual Town Meeting on March 9 the School Committee will report on the progress that has been made and will move an amendment to its budget to provide funds to compensate the consultants.

3. If such an appropriation is voted, it is hoped that the consultants' work will be well under way next month and will continue to completion without delay. And in that event, the Site and Building Committees, aided by the advice and studies of the consultants, should be able to recommend to the Town the action required this year to meet our school site and building needs.

Cochituate PTA

At the regular meeting of the Cochituate PTA on Tuesday March 15, the program will be an explanation of Junior and Senior High School facilities in Wayland and Cochituate, to be presented by Dr. Rexford Souder, Superintendent of Schools, and Mr. W. M. Griffin, High School Principal. Mrs. James Arnold is program chairman. Mrs. Cora Revell will be in charge of serving refreshments.

Years ago, when it first became apparent that the Town of Wayland was likely to grow out of its clothes, school authorities and others started to plan for the future.

In 1946 there were just three school buildings in Town: the High School, built in 1934; the Center School, built in 1897, and the Cochituate School, built in 1927.

In 1948 the Town voted to build an addition to the Cochituate elementary school and an addition to the High School.

In 1952 the Town voted a second addition to the High School, which has been built and represents the limit of expansion of the building. It accomodates about 600 pupils.

In 1952, also, the Site Committee was voted by the Town, to pick out places to put the new schools which, it seemed, would be necessary.

Happy Hollow First

The first site chosen by the Committee was that on which the Happy Hollow School now stands. The Committee was unanimous, the land was acquired amicably, by purchase, and the Town voted for it by a wide margin. Happy Hollow is a 12-room school, so designed that another six rooms can be added to it. The Committee's idea was this addition should be made after the needs of other sections of Town had been met.

The Committee arrived at its conclusions as to the probable future needs of the schools by a study of numbers of existing school children, of the annual census of pre-school children, of maps showing existing houses, of Planning Board information showing proposed real estate developments, of the average and indicated number of building permits.

These figures, called projections, have been kept and checked for a number of years. While the event has not always matched the prediction exactly, in general the projections have been accurate.

A feature of the situation was that the largest number of new children was in the elementary grades. New families moving into Town had small children, and the birth rate was up. A comparatively smaller number of older boys and girls represented the pre-war baby crop. The picture was that of a pyramid which threatened to turn into a square.

Children in grades 1-6, 864. Predicted for 1955, 955. And predicted for 1956 and successive years through 1959, 1004, 1093, 1123 and 1161.

High School in 1960

Could these small children be accomodated, it was believed, the High School would be adequate in size for about five years, until 1959 or 1960. For a time, fifth and sixth grades had to be crammed into the High School because there was no room for them elsewhere. The idea was that ultimately the present Junior-Senior High School should become a Junior High School and that around 1960 a Senior High School big enough for 500 pupils should be built.

The total school population as of last Oct. 1 was 1323. The projection says it will be 1912 in 1959. (An acceleration of the building rate, apparently a present possibility, would change these figures upward.) The indicated increase from 1300 to 1900 would be almost 50 per cent.

In getting Happy Hollow School there were delays. There had to be a Town vote to buy the site, a vote to appropriate money for plans, another meeting to appropriate the $600,000 for the building. Then there was a fire in the work shack on the site and a delay in getting materials. The building which should have been opened for use in September of 1954 actually did not go into use until Jan. 25.

Form Group to Study Liberties

Sixteen representatives of Wayland organizations attended a meeting at the Cochituate Library February 17 at the invitation of the League of Women Voters, for the purpose of forming a series of discussion groups on the general subject of Individual Liberties under the Constitution. Mrs. William Bertelsen, president of the League, and Mrs. Leslie Flood, chairman of the Civil Liberties item in the League program, presided.

It was decided that reading of the League's Freedom Agenda pamphlets would be a good preparation for another meeting on Tuesday, March 22, at the Cochituate Library.

Those present at the first meeting were: Mrs. John Arnold, representing the Cochituate Mothers' Club; Mrs. Rudolph Bruce, the League; Walter Cheslack, American Legion; Mrs. William Curley, St. Ann's Parish; Mrs. Ernest M. Cherry, St. Ann's Guild; Mrs. B. H. Colby, Girl Scouts and Town Crier; Mr. Ivan Beale, American Legion; Dunbar Holmes, Laymen's League; Albin Holgerson, Dudley Pond Improvement Association; Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hulbert, Civil Defense; Mrs. Frank Kilburn and Mrs. Philip Lane, League; Rev. Raymond G. Manker, minister, First Parish Church; James Reardon, St. Zepherin's Parish; Mrs. John Quinn, Women's Alliance, First Parish.

Marriages

Jan. 22, at Wayland: George Francis Bowers, 3rd of Wayland, to Myrtle Gail Osmond of Wayland.

Feb. 5 at Newton: Robert James Arnold, of Cochituate, to Lillian Josephine Perruzzi, of Newton.

Between September and January the 320 pupils of this school attended afternoon sessions at Cochituate. By the time they moved into their new quarters their school was full, and new pupils began to appear for enrolment.

As of March 1, 1955. all three elementary schools are full. The projection says there will be 91 additional elementary school pupils in October of this year and 140 more on Oct. 1, 1956. The school people say that the 91 can be crowded in somewhere. But by September, 1956, when it was hoped to have a new Center School ready, there will be a shortage of four rooms.

The result seems to be that for the entire year of 1956-1957 elementary school pupils will have to have double sessions. And there will have to be at least eight rooms of pupils in the arrangement, because the extra four will displace another four. By 1959, says the projection, there will be an increase of 297 elementary pupils, enough to fill another school the size of Happy Hollow.

Although no decision had been reached as to the best size for the proposed Plain Road School, the general idea was that it should be big enough to take all the pupils (and more besides) out of the outmoded Center School, which could then be used for some purposes by the Junior High School. While the Center School does not compare in quality with the newer schools, it is structurally sound and it seemed to the Committee that good use for it could be found.

In late 1954 and early 1955, the Site Committee also chose two other sites for future elementary schools, to be built at some future date near the centers of expanding population. These were on Rice Road, in the Southeast corner of Town, and at Oxbow Road, in the Northwest.

These latter two sites were not voted on Feb. 9.

Had three sites been adopted on Feb. 9, it would have been probable that in the course of time the Town would have had five elementary schools. By the estimates, 70 per cent of the pupils could have walked to the North Wayland site, 75 per cent or so to Plain Road, 85 per cent to Happy Hollow and practically 100 per cent to both Cochituate and the Southeast school.

The Site Committee had cast no more than a few glances at possible Senior High School sites, thinking that the immediate problem of housing elementary school pupils came first.

Regional School Study

The views of the Site Committee as to the best school program were supported by the Regional School District Study Committee, appointed in 1954. which reported on Dec. 8, 1954. Some lines from its report:

". . . the need for more elementary school classrooms cannot be escaped; postponing more costly high school construction until our assessed valuation has risen higher is simple common sense . . ."

Until the new Site Committee has something to report, the school program planned over a period of nearly a decade rests on dead center The figures say that a large number of Wayland children between the ages of 6 and 12 will have to attend double sessions for one whole school year and perhaps more. The date proposed for a new Center School was for September, 1956. The inevitable length of time needed for the various steps in site acquisition and building construction now makes it impossible to meet this deadline.

Rehearsals in Swing For Chorus Concert

Rehearsals are in full swing for the annual spring concert of the Community Chorus in Wayland. The concert program includes both classical and modern choral works — Schubert's Mass in E, and several Vaughan Williams selections.

Chorus organization this year is headed by Kenneth Larkin, President, of Wayland. Other officers are Vice-President, Ray D. Farnsworth of Weston; Secretaries, Mrs. James Jandl of Wayland and Mrs. Hazel O'Donnell of Weston; Treasurer, D. L. Bartholomew of Wayland; Librarian, Edward C. Bassett of Weston; Finance, William G. Burt of Weston; Concert Management, M. E. Barrett of Natick; Membership, Jack Post of Wayland; Publicity, Mrs. Mark Hill, Mrs. Richard York and Mrs. Robert Boyles. all of Wayland; Music Committee, William G. Burt, Mrs. Philip Trumbull and Mrs. Charles Janeway, all of Weston; Nominating Committee, Mrs. John Paine of Weston and Jack Post of Wayland.

W. H. S. Association

Officers of the Wayland High Association sent out a letter to parents last month, asking for $1 memberships of local men and women to help raise $700 needed for this year's expenses. The annual dinner for Wayland High athletes will be held April 30, at the school. The money is used for the dinner, for trophies and for black and orange jackets for athletes.

ARTHUR W. PETERSON, Old Farm Road, electrical engineer of Chas. T. Main, Inc., headed the committee on open house activities conducted at Harvard, M.I.T., Northeastern, and Tufts during Engineers Week last month.

March 9 Meeting

around $18,000. The work on Spring Hill Road would be a beginning on the bigger job of betterments on the entire Wheelock development area.

Acceptance of Davelin Road and Cole Road and certain streets in Woodridge will be recommended.

One article will call for the purchase by the Town of a Civil Defense emergency truck. This vehicle costs $10,000, of which Uncle Sam will pay $5,000. It carries ladders, an electric saw, ropes, stretchers, lights, first aid equipment, axes . . . everything conceivable that could be needed in event of disaster. It is understood it would be at the Town's disposal at all times, and that men would be trained to use it.

An article calls for acquisition and rearrangement of a number of lots in the Bent Avenue area of Cochituate, off West Plain Street. These lots, generally between 4000 and 5000 square feet in area, are too small to be built on under present zoning rules. The idea is for the Town to acquire, re-group and get rid of this land, which is said to be excellent building property but now useless because of the small size of the lots. Many of the parcels already are the property of the Town. Three adjacent parcels, on the edge of Dudley Pond, would be kept for park purposes. The rest would be disposed of by sale or swap.

Another article asks that a committee be appointed to study how to make the Town Report more attractive and readable. Another deals with mosquito control. Two others ask for committees to study the feasibility of having kindergartens in Town and to study the recreational possibilities of the Town.

Happy Hollow School Opens for Business

Happy Hollow School opened for business on Jan. 25, and open house for parents and other citizens was held Feb. 6. Everybody admired.

The children were reported "surprised and awed." One adult comment was that the building was like Hollywood.

After the months pupils and teachers had spent in afternoon sessions, one teacher said this was "a new lease on life."

The first graders had been going to school at noon, many of them tired out, and getting home as late as 5:10 p.m., in darkness. They had been having only four hours of school instead of the new 5¼ hours.

One of the first projects of the children was a mural, painted by pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades, entitled, "And Away We Go." It shows the school, teachers and children.

Benches and tables in the cafeteria fold into the walls when not in use, like folding beds.

Principal is Daniel A. Frumerin, from East Bridgewater and the Boston University School of Education, M.A. in 1952. Before coming here he was teacher-principal at Shelburne Falls for two years.

Custodian is John Moran.

Fifty years ago some smart promoters wrung a little water out of Florida and turned it into valuable real estate.

Here in Wayland they've done better. They never wrung the water out. Wayland has more squish to the fish than any place. It is the swamp paradise of the Commonwealth. And it's in the real estate business nevertheless.

There's a good deal to be said for nice, oozy, gooey, mudhole swamps. They attract birds, among them the brassy chaffinch dish, the fresh water thole pine, the red bus catcher, the hairy old batch and the Bulfinch front, the latter not to be confused with the Dior front, which is Parisian, and let's ignore Paris. Let's stay in our own mud and not go in Seine.

They gave Florida an inland waterway, but Wayland has something better than that. At the monsoon, or hurricane season, the Sudbury River is an underwater waterway. Moreover, it runs backwards. No other river in the Commonwealth can make this claim. The Sudbury turns around and goes np the State Road.

Swamps have lots of algae, too. There's a builder in this Town who never bothers to leave any loam around his new houses. He just scoops up a truckload of algae and spreads it around, and it looks like grass. Fooled one customer for five years.

By that time the fruity algae, pronounced as in Picoadilly, had so enriched the ground that it sprouted a bumper crop of kumquats, much to the fellow's amazement.

In the swamp there are other interesting plants, to be plucked and made into wreaths by the merry Sunday afternoon boater. There is the pulled-down nightshade, the mandrake and the mangoose, the American digitalis and the Chinese ruse, the white hellebore and the common bore.

Of course, not all the Town sags under foot.

There's the center of Cochituate, composed of a 14-foot layer of clay. Cochituate, unlike North Cochituate, is practically waterproof. This situation may have had something to do with an historic interchange between a Wayland Indian and a Cochituate Indian, on Sunday afternoon, October 23, 1617.

"I'm all wet, ugh," said the Wayland brave.

"I'm all dry, ugh," said the Cochituate chief.

This made them both unhappy and angry, with results some say are visible to this day, in this otherwise happily arid and spongy community.

Between the bone-dry and the beef-stew-moist in Town there is a happy medium. That's the hillside, where houses are built to provide unexcelled views of the quagmire.

And for conventional people there is Lake Cochituate, which is neither mud, clay nor crud. It is full of plain water.

Florida made it, but it took a lot of promotion. Wayland made it without advertising, on sheer merit. Nothing like it this side of the Everglades. —D.B.W.

Wayside Inn Chapter of the DAR will meet Saturday, March 5, at 1 p.m. at the Trinitarian Congregational Church. Delegates have been elected to attend the conference of the Massachusetts DAR at the Hotel Sheraton Plaza in Boston on March 24 and 25. Official delegates are Mrs. Edna Davidson and Mrs. Harriet Richardson. Alternates: Mrs. Flora Cody, Mrs. Lizzy Dean, Mrs. Margaret Morrell, and Mrs. Effie Shepard. Mrs. Howard Lyford, regent, and Mrs. John Erwin, vice-regent, will also represent the chapter at the March conference as well as at the national congress in Washington on April 19 and 20. Alternate delegates to the Washington congress will be Mrs. Edna Davidson and Mrs. Flora Cody.

St. Ann's Dinner Dance

Final plans are now complete for the St. Patrick's Eve dinner dance to be given by St. Ann's parish at Robin Hood's Ten Acres on March 16. Tickets may be obtained from any of the following: Co-chairmen Fred Travers and Mrs. Felice Genna, or George Owens, David Walsh. Paul Cameron, Mrs. Eugene Rumpel, Mrs. William Brimingham, Mrs. Philip Thomas, Mrs. Edward Duggin, Mrs. Anthony LaPenta, Mrs. Augustus Sharkey.

And Now TWinbrook

When Waltham gets the dial system, some time before Jan. 1, 1956, says Manager Gene Murphy of the Natick office, people in Elmwood will be able to dial Waltham directly without going through the 49 routine. The Waltham exchange will be Twinbrook. There'll be no charge for Twinbrook calls from Elmwood. When this change is made, Elmwood subscribers making toll calls will get the Newton operator instead of Framingham. Maynard is coming into the dial system, too, and this will keep Framingham busy.

Dept. of Correction

Last month's Crier had at least a couple of mistakes in it.

One was a statement that there were currently no cases of tuberculosis in Town. The accurate statement would have been that there are no hospitalized oases of tuberculosis from Town. Norman G. Fair of the Board of Health says there are several patients who have been discharged and are still being checked up on.

Another error was in the little piece about the illegality of ohasing fire engines in automobiles. The story said there was congestion at a fatal fire in Sudbury around last Christmas. The fact was that the Wayland apparatus did not respond to that fire. Wayland trucks did go to a Sudbury fire during the hurricane last year, and the best evidence available is that there was traffic trouble on that occasion. And the fact remains that it's against the law to chase fire engines.

—News Roundup—

Two third grades at Center School have been studying about clothing, and they are now learning to weave. On Feb. 1 they took a tour through the Security Mills in Newtonville, and they plan to have an exhibit soon in the Wayland Library.

The Assessors say that the Town's valuation increased by nearly $1,400,000 last year. This year, they think, the increase from new dwellings should be even greater, and next year the Town should begin to collect taxes on the new Raytheon laboratory.

Library Trustees report a fine response to the questionnaires sent out, asking opinions from townspeople about Library service. The replies were soon to be studied and evaluated.

Susan Robinson won the Wayland High School oratorical contest of the American Legion on the Constitution. Ronald Campbell of the local Post awarded her $5, and she is entitled to go further in the state contest.

Prof. Ernest B. Walston of Wayland has been appointed chairman of the board of the Boston University Faculty Club, Boston.

Washington — Higgins

On Jan. 11th Airman 2/c Ronald Higgins, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Higgins of Concord Rd., and Miss Estelle C. Washington of Springfield were married in the Westover Feld Air Base Chapel. The bride is a graduate of the High School of Commerce in Springfield, and of the Burbank Hospital School of Nursing in Fitchburg. The bridegroom graduated from Wayland High School in 1949 and served in Japan, Korea, and Okinawa. He is now stationed at Westover Airfield. He entered the service in 1951, and reenlisted in 1954, intending to make the Air Force his career. The young couple will make their home at 16 Mattoon Street in Springfield.

THE BOARD OF ASSESSORS report that they assessed 8184 houses and 1994 dwellings in the year ended Dec. 31, 1954. Total assessment of property was $11,825,846.56.

Oldest Resident —

Mr. Carter says he always liked to eat anything. He loves beef, pork and pie, and he eats his vegetables, too. Says his granddaughter, "His motto is everything in moderation, and he means everything."

He last went fishing on Lake Cochituate when he was 90, with Frank Larson. He has lively memories of catching lots of white perch and bass in the Lake, years ago. He also used to fish in Sudbury River, where, he says, the fish were mostly hornpout and eels, with some pickerel.

He took his first pill when he was 90, too. He was sick a couple of times in his life, with rheumatism and pneumonia, but the diseases went away.

He was born in 1860, before Lincoln was elected President. They say he's a Republican. His parents were Elbridge J. and Lucy J. (Dudley) Carter. and he was born in Wayland.

His older brother, Elbridge Ambrose Carter, born April 5, 1842, enlisted in Company K, Fiftieth Regiment, on Aug. 18. 1862. He was in on the capture of Port Hudson and later on at the taking of Petersburg, and he was discharged in 1865. When he came home, little brother Charles didn't recognize him. Elbridge's story is in the Memorial book of all Wayland men in the Civil War, published by the Town in 1871.

Charles used to be a baseball player. He promises to be around at this time next year.

Tom Linnehan
New Selectman a Native

Thomas Francis Linnehan of Millbrook Road, Wayland's newest Selectman, carries his full name on the voting list because there are three Thomas F. Linnehans in Town: himself, his uncle, of State Road East, and his son, Junior, who's in the Center School sixth grade.

Mr. Linnehan is an authentic native of Wayland, which has grown so rapidly recently that it has comparatively few adult natives. He was born Nov. 4, 1903, in the house on Glen Road now occupied by J. C. Massie. More than that, his father, James Linnehan, was also born in Wayland, back in 1873, in the old-fashioned white house on State Road East, near Dead Man's Curve, now occupied by Richard Fuller.

Mr. Linnehan attended the Center School, which also included the High School, from which he was graduated in 1922. One of his schoolmates was Bill Hynes, with whom he used to go ice fishing in Heard's Pond.

THOMAS F. LINNEHAN

Bill Hynes was Selectman for the three years preceding the election of Gerald Henderson, who served nine years. On the day after election, says Mr. Linnehan, Mr. Henderson brought him the keys to Town Hall, with a note of congratulations and good wishes, saying that the keys had a sentimental connection because he had received them from Mr. Hynes.

The first year Mr. Linnehan was in Wayland High School the principal was David J. Allen, who is still on the school faculty after 37 years. Mr. Linnehan has

John B. Butler
Hobby, Business is Wrought Iron

Recently elected a member of the Wayland School Committee, John B. Butler of Bow Road, is a designer and creator of wrought iron furniture and household items.

After retiring as a State Supervisor of Education, he became interested in working with wrought iron and started creating small pieces, such as candlesticks, as a hobby in his cellar workshop at home.

From that modest start and in less than three years, Mr. Butler's original designs are now known throughout the eastern section of the country and are sold in gift and specialty shops.

His intended retirement hobby grew so rapidly that he was forced to commercialize it and now it is a division of the R. G. Paine Co., in Newton.

JOHN B. BUTLER

Mr. Butler's designs show true Yankee artistic craftmanship and ingenuity of years past and his original pieces, which range from chairs of all types and descriptions, tables, lamps, plant-holders, candlesticks, ash trays and book-ends, are

Polio Vaccine May Be Given Here Soon

Polio vaccine may be given soon, with parents' consent, to Wayland children in the first and second grades, says Dr. Charlotte A. Stewart, new member of the Board of Health, who gives this information as of the middle of March:

A year ago Salk vaccine for polio was given to 1,830,000 school children of the United States. Some from Natick were included, but none from Wayland. The idea was to give the vaccine to some and not to others, to see whether it seemed to work.

Word came to the Wayland Board of Health in March that a report on the success of the project was likely to come in April. Should the report be favorable, as seems indicated, says Dr. Stewart, vaccine will be made available for first and second graders in Town, and the vaccination will begin at once, in order to give the stuff time to work before the Summer polio season begins.

John Leavitt Chosen Selectman Chairman

When the new Wayland Board of Selectmen held its first meeting on March 14, John W. Leavitt was chosen chairman and Frank S. Tarr clerk. Thomas Francis Linnehan, the new member, will represent the Board on the new School Site Committee.

Hobby Clubs Being Started by Council

Through the efforts of Francis Gallagher, American Legion representative on the Wayland Recreational Council, a number of hobby clubs are being organized. Competent adult leaders have been procured for radio, chess, stamp and photography clubs. Mr. Gallagher is looking for someone to run an archery club. Seventeen highschoolers are interested. There is also interest in a dramatics club. Anyone willing to lead either of these groups and boys and girls interested in joining any of the clubs are urged to contact Mr. Gallagher, OL 3-5827.

First Aiders Needed

Wayland Civil Defense wants to know everyone in Wayland who has had first aid training. To set up a First Aid Unit, Drs. James Burke and John Littlefield need also the help of nurses' aides, pharmacists and anyone who has had experience in such a unit. Anybody interested please call EL 8-2966.

Linnehan and Butler Elected

Town elections on March 7 resulted in new members on the Board of Selectmen and School Committees. Thomas F. Linnehan defeated incumbent Gerald Henderson 1117 to 877. Linnehan carried Precinct 1 by 139 votes and Precinct 2 by 101.

In the School Committee contest, John B. Butler, of Bow Rd., ran somewhat ahead of Mary M. Howard, of Ridgefield Road, 1053 to 697. Ivan E. Beal ran third with 216 votes.

Dr. Charlotte A. Stewart, of State Road East, a newcomer to Town office, was elected to a three-year term on the Board of Health.

Air Attack on Gypsy Moths is Set for May

Fern A. Taylor of the Water Board, who's also in the tree business, reports that airplanes employed by the Commonwealth will be over Wayland in May to spray the gypsy moths, and he gives this information:

Date and time will be announced.

The solution of DDT used will not be strong enough to hurt animals, people or garden plants.

The DDT might hurt fish in small pools and it might leave an oil film on automobiles or swimming pools. It is suggested that small pools be kept covered and larger ones overflowed soon after the spraying. Automobiles might be kept covered, or washed immediately afterwards.

The spraying will be done either at night or early in the morning. There will be noise, because the planes will fly low, and it is suggested that poultry and farm animals should be watched lest they become frightened and hurt themselves.

This program covers all of Massachusetts. The idea is to wipe out the miserable gypsy moth. The job is to be done by the State Moth Department, under State law, and Mr. Taylor says the value of this spray so far outweighs the nuisance of it that all should cooperate.

Questionnaire Brings in 250 Responses

Hugh F. Colliton of the Library Trustees says there were around 250 replies to the questionnaire about Library service recently circulated, and that most of the suggestions made by citizens were most favorable and constructive. The replies are being studied, he says, and all the suggestions possible will be adopted. He says the Trustees are most appreciative of the cooperation of the citizens.

As soon as the weather improves the Highway Department will fix up the parking lot outside the Wayland Library. Come Spring, also, there is scheduled to be an enlarged parking lot back of the Cochituate fire station and library.

Vote Funds for School Survey, Bridge and Office

A budget of around $950,000 was adopted, a pay increase for Town employees was voted, and mosquito control was accepted at the regular March 7 Town Meeting. Some of the highlights:

On a motion by John R. McEnroy the Town voted to pass over an article proposed by the Planning Board, covering amendments to Town By-Laws concerning the removal of sand and gravel. Opposition had developed beforehand to three zoning proposals, covered in three Articles.

* * *

On the sand and gravel article, which came up first, Mr. McEnroy called for a counted vote, which came out 134 for passing over and 124 against.

Members of the Planning Board then moved to have the two following articles passed over, and this was voted by voice.

* * *

The meeting began at 7:45 and lasted until 11:49. During the meeting Mrs. Archibald Cox had time to finish an argyle sock and try it on.

* * *

Mrs. Randolph E. Charles of the Wayland Women's Club moved to vote $6905 as Wayland's share of the Eastern Middlesex Mosquito Control Project. It was said that other towns around are going in on this project, and that it's more likely to be effective than individual community control work. The motion passed over the objections of Dominic Anzivino, who said, "You can never cure the swamps of Wayland."

Barking Dog Clams Up; Town Loses Case

Questioned at Town Meeting about how many cases the Town has lost in court lately, Town Counsel Roger P. Stokey told a dog story.

Two years ago, he said, neighbors complained that a dog on Leary Street barked day and night. Chief Ernest H. Damon investigated, and the Selectmen ordered that the dog be either destroyed or removed from Town.

The owners objected and took the case to Framingham District Court, where it was heard by the late Judge Golda Waters, who lost her life in the hurricane last year.

Mr. Stokey says the testimony was that the dog was certainly a barker, although his owners said he didn't bark when they were around. The trouble was that the dog, right there in the courtroom, was quiet as a mouse for an hour and a half, and this lack of cooperation by him with the legal authorities of the Town of Wayland caused the judge to throw the case out.

The dog, a Doberman, is still around, happy and quiet, tied up a good part of the time back of the Cochituate fire station. His owners say he wouldn't hurt anybody. He doesn't molest the letter carrier, although he does bark at the garbage collector and the meter reader. He objects to having property removed from the premises and he doesn't like the size of local electricity bills.

Letters to the Editor

About Kiwanis

To the Editor:

At our Board of Directors meeting of the Wayland Kiwanis Club, Inc., recently, I was given the dubious honor and title of Publicity Manager.

It was the general opinion of the directors that we should try to inform the citizens of Wayland as to what the Wayland Kiwanis Club is and what it does for them.

By doing this, we hope that more civic-minded men might become interested in becoming members and that also, from this publicity as to the services that we do perform, we might learn of more ways in which to help the children of our town. This, incidentally, is our principal function.

We are a growing organization, having a membership of 68 at this time. These men represent a large portion of the business and professional men of the community.

EDWARD A. VENO

Thanks Voters

To the Editor:

I want to thank all the citizens of Wayland who worked for me and voted for me in the recent Town Election.

I assure all the citizens of Wayland that I shall do my best to work for the best interests of the Town.

I only regret that the contest for the office of Selectman was with Gerry Henderson, for whom I have and have always had the highest personal regard.

Thomas Francis Linnehan

Thanks Workers

To the Editor:

My sincere thanks to Ruth Bartol, Sally Lundy and Ted Lacey for their time and effort spent to make our auction a reality, and to the boys and girls, fathers, mothers and teachers who participated. A cheer to our auctioneers, George Stockbridge and Leonard Anzivino.

P.S. Any donations to our annual Scholarship Fund Night, May 5, may be sent to the Wayland High School P.T.A., care of Mrs. Ruth Stahl, treasurer.

WHS Association Dinner April 30

Russell Kerr, head of the Wayland High School Association, wants to remind everybody that 6:3 p.m.. Saturday night, April 30, is the time for the annual dinner, at which boys and girls of Wayland High School will receive recognition for their athletic efforts and their bumps and bruises.

Seniors, boys and girls, who have participated in sports to a certain extent will be given jackets of black and orange, the school colors. Dinners for 127 boys and girls will be free. Adults will pay $2.50 aplece. Tickets will be available at the High School and from students and members of the Association. Harold V. Ward, Hemlock Road, Cochituate. is treasurer, and will have tickets. There will be no speeches at the dinner, but there will be a dance for the boys and girls afterwards.

Mr. Kerr says he'd be happy if local residents with a few dollars to spare would send contributions to the Association. The amount needed for the jackets and other activities is $700, of which $350 is in hand. Some junior sized checks, say from $1 to $50,000, made out of Harold V. Ward, would be acceptable.

The W. H. S. Association is the only adult organization in Town which concerns itself with the athletic achievements of the local High School boys and girls, who have been doing all right lately.

Town House Plans Kindergarten for 60

Trustees of the Wayland Junior Town House announced after their meeting of March 15 that because of the increase in the number of pre-school children in Town they would be unable to run a nursery school next year and would, instead, concentrate on a kindergarten.

Mrs. Robert G. Paine Jr., who has been director of the Town House schools for the past three years, said that where there were 25 kindergarteners four years ago, there are now 50, and seven had to be turned away. There are 24 in the nursery school this year.

It was believed more important to take care of the older children—five years old in the kindergarten, as against four in the nursery school—and make all the facilities available to them.

Co-directors of the school for next year will be Mrs. Dunbar Holmes and Mrs. Bruce F. Kingsbury. Each section of 20 children will have a professional kindergarten teacher, plus a local assistant. An enrolment of 60 is expected.

It was also announced that the usual summer arts and crafts program, conducted in cooperation with the School Department and the Park Department, will be given, under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Jones of the High School faculty.

Richard W. Foster, newly elected president, and Charles Gaston Smith, Jr., new chairman of the board, presided. Next meeting of the Trustees was set for April 26.

Other activities currently being sponsored are square dancing for 5th and 6th grades, 110 children; ballroom and square dancing for 7th and 8th grades, 70. Sponsorship of scouts now includes Brownies, 45; Girl Scouts, 73; Senior Scouts, 11; Cub Scouts 95; and Boy Scouts, 30.

A membership drive is now being conducted throughout the Town.

HENRY G. PEARSON, of Old Connecticut Path, director of Personnel of Polarold Corp., and publisher of the CRIER recently spoke to the senior class of Rindge Technical High School, Cambridge, on "New jobs in Industry."

C. T. Miao to Speak On United Nations

C. T. Miao, of the Public Information Department of the United Nations, will be the speaker at the final talk sponsored by The Wayland United Nations Association. The date is Friday, April 15 at 8:15 p.m. in the High School. He will speak on, "How to build peace through the United Nations."

Born in Peiping in 1906 he came to the United States in 1927 and attended Ohio State and Harvard. Returning to China in 1933 he worked with the League of Nations experts on rural reconstruction programs. In 1937, when war broke out, he joined the Red Cross committee for Central China as its General Secretary. Later he served in the Chinese Army as a major general in the capacity of chief liaison officer on transportation. He is one of 17 Chinese officers awarded the Medal of Freedom from the U. S. Government.

Rummage Sale to Be Held April 2

The Women's Alliance of the First Parish Church will hold a rummage sale in the church vestry, Saturday, April 2, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Mrs. Frederick Walther and Mrs. Henry Doane are co-chairmen of the event.

Articles to be sold will include clothing, furniture, toys, bric-a-brac, household and kitchen articles, and books. Anyone wishing to contribute articles may call Mrs. C. Gaston Smith, EL 8-2039, who will arrange to collect them; or articles may be brought to the church Thursday, March 31, or Friday morning, April 1.

Committees are as follows: furniture, Mrs. Maurice Williams; clothing, Mrs. May Thibodeau; household, Mrs. Frank Bentley and Mrs. Alfred Whiting; toys, Mrs. Cecil Bessell; books, Mrs. George Lewis; kitchen, Mrs. Raymond Zayotti; bric-a-brac, Mrs. Alonzo Knights; lunches, Mrs. Carl Emery.

New Building Record?

This could very well be the biggest building year in the Town's history. The outside number possible, the Planning Board says, is 400 new houses, but 200 is more likely. Last year there were 137, and in 1953, the biggest year so far, there were 181. One Cochituate subdivision plan calls for 70 lots and another for 60.

New Song Fest

A new song book by Dick Best, veteran Wayland square dance caller, is just off the presses. Called "New Song Fest," it incorporates many of the popular songs sung by college students which appeared in his first edition prepared for the International Outing Club Association in 1948. Dick and Beth Best, his wife, are the authors, and the publishers are Crown Publishers, New York.

Clothing Exchange

The clothing exchange and food sale sponsored by the Dudley Pond Improvement Association on Old Connecticut Path, Cochituate will be held Friday, April 1, from 1 to 8 p.m. This pre-Easter sale offers excellent buys in adult's and children's clothing as well as home baked cakes, pies coffee rolls and beans.

MRS. IRVING L. DAME of Wallace Road spent a week-end in New York City recently with her daughters, Faith, who works in Washington, D.C.

To the Voters of Wayland:

I wish to express my appreciation for your faith in my ability in electing me a member your School Committee.

April 26 Set For Cancer Fund Night

David B. Turner, general chairman of the cancer fund raising committee for 1955, says the collectors will try to cover the entire Town on the evening of Tuesday, April 26, and that it would be appreciated if people would leave their porch lights on that night.

This year's Wayland quota, he says, is $1850, about twice that of last year. This can easily be raised, he thinks, if each family reached by a solicitor will give $2. Envelopes will be left for people who are not at home. Co-chairmen are Edward P. Blanchard, for Wayland, and Melvin Orenstein for Cochituate.

Recreation Discussed At High School P.T.A.

Recreation was the theme of the February meeting of the Wayland High School P.T.A. meeting. Coaches and teachers talked about the school's recreation program. Dunbar Holmes of the Wayland Junior Town House talked about the recreational community council being formed, George Shepard told about the skaters' Millpond Association and Rudolph Bruce told about the High School Association, which gives jackets to athletes. Ernest B. Walston, president, presided.

New Neighbors

Mr. and Mrs. Michael G. Stratton have sold their house on Davelin Rd. to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson of Wilmington. The Strattons have moved to Sudbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Schneider and their three children from Oyster Bay, New York, have bought Mr. and Mrs. Willard C. Wolffs' house on Old Sudbury Rd. The Wolffs are moving to South Byfield.

Kiwanis to Sponsor Fishing Derby Apr. 16

The Wayland Kiwanis Club is sponsoring an opening day of the trout season for Wayland and Cochituate boys and girls up to and including twelve years of age.

The Club has purchased one hundred trout that are to be placed in a private pond and opened only to the children as mentioned above on Saturday, April 16, 1955. Prizes are to be awarded for largest trout caught.

The Committee on Boys and Girls Work are in charge of this affair. All boys and girls interested in taking part, contact any one of the committee members. Chairman is Oliver Riggs and the committee members are Wallace Allen, Elmer Haynes and John Simoni.

This opening day fishing party is in addition to the Kiwanis annual Fishing Derby held later in the season at Baldwin's Pond, that has proven to be very successful for the past two years.

Get Insignia

Placards to be placed on emergency vehicles which may travel during a red alert have been received at the local control center, Director W. R. Hulbert of Wayland Civil Defense reports, and will be distributed to key personnel. Only motor traffic permitted during a red alert will be Civil Defense, FBI, military, fire, police and ambulance vehicles. The CD vehicles will bear the Civil Defense insignia and the word "EMERGENCY".

Original Musical by Frank Hatch Planned

"One on the Town," an original musical comedy written by Francis W. Hatch of Wayland, will be produced for the first time on any stage by the Wayland Vokes Players on Thursday. Friday and Saturday evenings, May 12, 13, 14, 19, 20 and 21.

Nearly 70 Vokes members are working on this production with John H. Baldwin in charge assisted by Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. John B. Tanger with Mrs. Hugh Colliton, Jr., as stage director.

kind memories of him as teacher and administrator.

In those days Wayland High had baseball and football, but no basketball. There was skating on the Millpond, as there has been for ages. There was good hunting in what is now called the Wheelock development and at Sand Hill, the ridge near the Sudbury line and the present Wayland dump.

Selectman Linnehan became a call fireman as soon as he was old enough, and he has been a special police officer since he was 21. He can remember when the fire department in Wayland consisted of a red wagon with a pump and leather water buckets. When the alarm sounded, the firemen would rush to the station, haul out the wagon and commandeer the first passing farm horse to haul it. If no horse appeared the firemen would haul the wagon themselves.

At one time Mr. Linnehan served three years on the Wayland Board of Health. Right now he is Selectman, Measurer of Wood and Bark, Surveyor of Lumber, special police officer, fireman, constable and, ex officio, field driver and fence viewer.

Some of these jobs, important in early days, are now merely survivals. Mr. Linnehan says he surveyed a load of lumber about five years ago, but nobody can remember when anybody last viewed a fence or did any field driving. (Rounding up stray cattle.)

Mr. Linnehan's uncles and his aunt, of whom only his uncle, Thomas F. Linnehan, is still living, were born in the house on State Road East. He had three brothers. John Linnehan died June 20, 1954. James Linnehan, Jr. is treasurer of the Gulf States Utility Company, at Beaumont, Texas, and George Linnehan, a former wrestler, is a wrestling promoter in the organization of Paul Bowser in Boston.

Butler—

of numerous styles, including modern and traditional.

One of the little known facts about him is that for a number of years he was an expert lip reader and was able to teach school without the natural ability to hear.

While in the service during World War I, Mr. Butler lost all but ten per cent of his hearing. Despite this formidable handicap, he was graduated from Wentworth Institute and Fitchburg State Teachers' College and was principal of State-aided schools in Ludlow and later in Gardner.

In 1926, he was called to Newton to teach practical arts a position he held for sixteen years. He also is an author of a text book and many articles on scholastic subjects such as classroom procedure.

Mr. Butler resigned from the Newton School Department in 1926 to accept a position in industry. It was at this time he read of a new operation that was helping many people affected with the loss of hearing. After investigation, he had the five-hour operation performed and regained his hearing.

He returned once more to education by accepting the post of Director of Activities at Perkins Institute for the Blind in Watertown. While there he was asked to become a supervisor in the State Department of Education. He retired three years ago.

The new School Committee member is married. His wife, Audrey, is a well-known musician, choir director and teacher, and he is the father of a son, Richard, naval veteran of the Korean conflict and an art student.

DONALD B. WILLARD, editor of the Crier and editorial staff writer for the Boston Globe, recently spoke on current events before the Weston Rotary Club.

Interested in Tennis?

With Spring here, interest in the Town tennis courts is picking up. As a result of many inquiries, the Wayland Recreational Council is tackling a number of problems that need to be solved before the courts can be put into effective use.

The program will be discussed at an open meeting on Tuesday, April 12 at 8 p.m. in Room 13 at the High School. Everyone's welcome.

Sand and Gravel Article Explained

One story which never got told in Town Meeting on March 9 was about a sand-and-gravel Article sponsored by the Planning Board, and this, says the Board, is what happened:

The Article called for an amendment to an existing rule which, in effect, forbids the removal of sand, gravel and loam "for sale", except under certain conditions. The amendment was to strike out the words "for sale". The idea was that a person might, conceivably, move gravel or loam, not for sale immediately, and leave a blighted spot. In fact, says the Board, something very like this has actually happened in Town recently.

Another Article by the Planning Board called for more stringent rules for buildings in business districts.

A public hearing on these Articles was held on the Friday night before Town Meeting. Local business men appeared in numbers, criticizing the building amendments as too restrictive.

Chairman Frederick G. Perry Jr. of the Board says that the Board, as a result of these criticisms, had already decided to ask to have the building Article passed over. (For one reason, the proposed size of parking lots in relation to the size of buildings, in the business zones, was impossible, becaue there isn't that much room in the zones.)

In the order of Articles in the Warrant, the sand-and-gravel item came up first.

John R. McEnroy got the floor first and moved that it be passed over. Some citizens said they wanted to hear what the motion was before they voted to pass over, but the Article was passed over.

Mr. Perry says the objection to the sand-and-gravel Article was that it seemed to say, and perhaps did say, literally, that a person couldn't dig a hole in his own garden.

What was intended, he says, was for an amendment to be submitted, saying in effect that ordinary earth moving on a single parcel or lot was not to be affected, provided the ground level was not lowered by three feet.

The subject matter of both Articles, Mr. Perry says, will be reconsidered at length and submitted again in some form, after more consultation with interested persons. He says the Board just wants to explain to the Town what it was that was passed over.

64 Years of Meetings

JOHN CONNELLY, of 27 West Commonwealth Road, commenced attending Wayland Town Meetings in 1891 when he was 21. Now he's 85. Introduced near the end of the March meeting, he replied, "I never recommended anything I didn't believe was in the interests of the whole Town."

Town Meeting —

increase of $100 a year or five cents an hour to all Town employees rated by the Personnel Board a year ago, were adopted unanimously.

* * *

The Town voted $12,000 as its share of the cost of a new bridge and causeway on Old Sudbury Road. A few mild "No's" came from women residents of Old Sudbury Road, which is likely to have a large increase of traffic, but nobody put up an argument out loud. The Town has been trying for years to get the Commonwealth to replace the ancient bridge, scene of many fatal accidents.

* * *

The sum of $40,000 was earmarked for construction of the new Town office building. Chairman Robert M. Morgan of the Finance Committee explained that the plans for the building were not yet in shape for definite action, but that it was proposed to pay for it partly out of 1955 taxes, partly out of the excess and deficiency fund and partly by a short-term loan. The vote to earmark the $40,000 was not a vote to spend it, but to raise it.

It was said that definite proposals about the new building would probably be ready for a special Town Meeting which may be called in the Fall.

* * *

As as amendment to the budget, William A. Waldron of the School Committee moved the appropriation of $4500 to pay outside experts to make a survey of the Town's school needs. He suggested this as a possible means of breaking the existing stalemate over sites for new schools. The proposal for the outside experts was first made by opponents of the Plain Road site, which was turned down at two special Town Meetings. Mr. Waldron's motion was supported by the Finance Committee and others, and it passed unanimously.

* * *

The Town voted to buy a "Rescue Truck with Tools." The cost comes to nearly $10,000, but Uncle Sam pays half. This truck, equipped with saws, axes, ladders, lights, stretchers, a winch, cables, ropes and dozens of other tools, will be operated by the Wayland Fire Department. Under Civil Defense three eight-man crews of auxiliary firemen will also be trained in its use.

Committees Voted Excused, Discharged

The Town gained and lost some Committees at the March 9 Town Meeting.

The Fluoridization Committee was directed to continue.

The Mosquito Committee reported and was excused.

The Regional School Advisory Committee was discharged.

A Committee on sites for playgrounds was continued for a year.

A new Committee was voted to study the Town Report and make recommendations as to its possible improvement.

Another Committee was voted to study the desirability and praoticality of having a kindergarten system in Town.

Another Committee is to study the recreational facilities of the Town. This is separate from the recreational site Committee.

It appeared also that the Town Meeting of March, 1954, had directed the naming of Committees to study and amend the building and wiring codes of the Town. It was brought out that these Committees had apparently never been constituted, and it was agreed that they would be named under the vote of the previous year.

The Moderator, Howard S. Russell, was directed to name the Memorial Day Committee.

The Town also voted a Committee to study the level of Dudley Pond. Miss Jean F. Caul, who lives beside it, said the water is sometimes high, as after Hurricane Edna, and sometimes low, as in a dry summer, and that it would be nice to have a balance somewhere.

All these Committees are official but unpaid, not to be confused with the dozens of other Committees in Town which are unofficial and also unpaid.

Historical Society

"Our Meeting Houses and Churches" was the subject of an open meeting of the Wayland Historical Society, held Tuesday, March 15 at 8 p.m. Mrs. Donald Ide was chairman of the group gathering data. Others were — Old Meeting Houses, Miss Isabel W. Wight, Miss Anne Bullard, and Miss Leila Sears; Trinitarian Congregational, Mrs. Waldo H. Russell, Mrs. J. Frederick Wheeler and Mrs. Arthur L. Kimball; First Parish, Mrs. Frederick B. Walther, Mrs. Henry M. Doane and Mrs. Martin Edwards; St. Ann's, Mrs. Everett Ballou and Mrs. Clarence W. Stickney; Methodist, Miss Joanne Brown; and St. Zepherin's, Mrs. William J. Hall and Mrs. Albert Lizotte.

At the next meeting, on Tuesday, April 12, Mrs. Mabel S. Draper will discuss "Through the year with our schools." Photographs and old records about school activities will be on exhibit.

Borrowed Books are Spared Library Blaze

There was a fire in her old house—it was there in 1775—on the afternoon of February 27. It started upstairs, in the room where she keeps her books and papers, many of them dealing with the history of Wayland. Several rooms were burned out and many papers were destroyed. A sheet of flame swept the backs of the books in a big bookcase, but many of the books can be rebound.

What pleases her is that many of the books had been borrowed, and thus weren't damaged. The physical damage to the house was covered by insurance, and nobody was hurt.

Mrs. Morrell pins a posy on the Wayland Fire Department. "The firemen were wonderful," she says.

League of W V

The Wayland League of Women Voters has made the following changes in its Board of Directors: Mrs. William Bertelsen replaces Mrs. Richard Howard as president of the League; Mrs. Douglas Surgenor becomes first vice-president; and Mrs. Raymond Harris becomes Unit Chairman. The recent trade survey made in this area by local League members and in other sections by other Leagues, will be the subject of discussion at the April unit meetings, as follows: Tuesday, April 26, 9:45 a.m., Mrs. Kemp Reade's home, Juniper Lane; Wednesday, April 27, 9:45 a.m., Mrs. Raymond Zayotti, Orchard Lane; Wednesday, April 27, 8 p.m., Mrs. Charles Owens, Moore Road; Thursday, April 28, 3 p.m. Mrs. Wallace H. Knowlton, 26 East Plain Street, Cochituate.

D.B.W. Says:

Ah Spring! The Season of Noise

Time was, in this once rural country, when Spring approached quietly.

No sounds were heard, when windows and doors were opened, save the soft buzzing of bees and houseflies and the distant lowing of kine, of one kine or another. In the trees softly twittered nothing more violent than the quick backlash, the least troublemaker and the Lewis's straight ticket.

Now all has changed.

The squawk of radios disturbs Nature, with Arthur Godfrey in the background on the TV. The washing machine has the kitchen jumping, so one can hardly hear the telephone bell. The toaster snaps the toast, the mixer whines, the vibrator vibrates and every once in a while somebody practises on the fiddle or the piano.

It's a two-way traffic.

From out of doors comes the racket of the lawnmower, a device which was noisy enough before they mixed gasoline with it. In the distance is the scream of the power saw, destroying trees so that more houses can be built, and ever and anon sounds the mournful hoot of the fire alarm, indicating that busy little kiddies are setting grass fires and then running like hell for home, but don't worry, they'll get caught.

Racing by on the highway, besides regular traffic of trucks, trailers, speeders and hot rods, is a cavalcade of motorcyclists in black leather jackets, each embraced by a girl with a rumble seat. All valves are tappeting.

Something should be done about it, and the obvious way to start is to appoint a committee, consisting of one fence viewer, one hog reeve, one surveyor of wood and bark, one field driver, one Kiwanian who can't stand speeches, one member of the Mothers' Club who's had almost all she can stand, one school teacher who ditto and a representative of Civil Defense, because this is where a little defense would come in handy.

The job of this Committee should be to watch and consult with the Recreation Committee.

The reason for this is that, obviously, the chief recreation in this Town and others, at present, is making noise, including shouting, yelling, talking, nagging, beating on tin pans, racing motors, playing records and giggling in back seats. (Those who giggle in back seats, or front seats, for that matter, needn't think the Recreation Committee isn't in touch with the main currents of modern life.)

Let this new Committee try to help the Recreation Committee to think up some recreation which involves neither cheerleading, cheering nor digging out in a 1941 convertible.

Let this Town once more be so quiet that a whispered bit of gossip can be plainly heard. Let it be like Weston, where the plush deadens sound. Let it be like the tomb, where we're all going if this passion for decibels doesn't abate.

If necessary, let's call in outside experts on noise. Senators, say.—D.B.W.

Flather-Benson

Lieut. Richard V. Benson, who used to live in Wayland on Pine Brook Road and Parmenter Lane and was graduated from Wayland High School and Northeastern University, returned home recently after a tour of duty as a jet pilot in Korea, Formosa and Okinawa, and was being married on March 19. Lieut. Benson's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Victor B. Benson, now live on Indian Lake Shores, Marlboro. The bride is Miss Jane Ellen Flather, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph F. Flather of Strawberry Hill, Meredith Neck, N. H. After a month's leave, Lieut. Benson is to report in California for assignment.

Cochituate Garden Club

"Flowering Shrubs Through the Spring" will be the topic of a talk to be given by Mr. F. Carroll Sargent at the meeting of the Cochituate Garden Club on Thursday, April 14, a the Cochituate Community Methodist Church, 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Leon Perkins will be hostess.

CARL WILLIAM KEARSLEY of Concord Road has been elected a member of the Rotary Club of Boston. Mr. Kearsley is President of the Suffolk Storage & Warehouse Co.

Other Heart Fund Workers' Names Listed

Captain, Mrs. Orville E. Bean, with Mrs. Russell L. Briggs, Mrs. Wallace F. Jones, Mrs Edward Michalski, Mrs. Arthur J. Stearns and Mrs. Alfred H. Swift.

Captain, Mr. Ernst H. Beutner, with Mr. Elden Fox, Mr. Albin O. Holgerson, Mr. Horace Knaack, Mrs. Donald Willard, Mrs. Thomas Williams and Mrs. Grace Yeuell.

Charles A. Gates, executive director of the Massachusetts Heart Association, which held its annual collection on Feb. 20, has written to Chief Ernest H. Damon of the Wayland Police, saying that the whole business of collecting and handling the money went off without a hitch, and that "the Heart Association is deeply grateful for the conscientious and faithful performance of duty by the Wayland Police Department.

In all, residents of Wayland and Weston collected a total of over $3000 to aid this organization in its research activities. The Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company kept its Wayland and Weston offices opened on Sunday afternoon and evening so that donations could be returned and counted promptly. Refreshments were served to all solicitors. Bank personnel on hand to assist in the sorting and counting of returns were assistant treasurers Richard F. Lincoln and Howard P. Strum, Miss Edna Precourt, Miss Jean Cahill, Miss Carol Lloyd and Mrs. Richard Schlosky.

At the close of the evening Mr. Strum declared: "It was very gratifying to see the generous response of the residents of Wayland and Weston to the Heart Fund appeal. Several of the solicitors reported, however, that due to the unseasonably warm weather, many families were away for the day. Their contributions may be left at any of the bank's fifteen offices this week and will be forwarded to the Massachusetts Heart Association."

Judge L. W. Farley, of the Framingham District Court, will be the speaker at the next meeting of the Happy Hollow School P.T.A. on Tuesday, April 5 at 8 p.m. He will speak on juvenile delinquency.

Cookie Sale Revenue

Proceeds from the recent Girl Scout cookie sale will go toward the support of Camp Nacochwa, the day-camp owned and operated by the Natick Girl Scout Council, on Lake Cochituate, off West Plain Street. Cookie-sale income for the past few years has financed the construction of a permanent camp building which will accommodate over-night campers or Saturday outings of Wayland, Cochituate and Natick Girl Scouts. The new building, which will be dedicated Saturday, April 30, will serve as headquarters of the day-camp which the Council operates each summer during July, of which Mrs. James Sullivan, Concord Lane, will be director this summer.

A senior welcoming ceremony for Girl Scout Troop 10, newly organized senior group, was held Thursday, March 24, at the High School auditorium. Leaders are Mrs. William Phair and Mrs. Francis Newton.

Marguerite Quackenboss

Mrs. Marguerite (Hall) Quackenbos, 38, wife of John D. Quackenbos of Draper Road, Wayland, died at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston March 14 after a brief illness.

Born Oct. 2, 1916 in Pelham, N. Y., a daughter of Philip F. and the late Marguerite (Birmingham) Hall, she was educated at Miss Masters School, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and the Beaver Country Day School, Brookline, graduating with the class of 1934. She was a member of St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Weston.

Besides her husband and father she leaves her stepmother, Mrs. Philip F. Hall of Scarsdale, N. Y., a son, George Payn Quackenbos, and a daughter, Barbara Anne Quackenbos; also a brother, Philip F. Hall, Jr. of North Cohasset.

Rep. DeNormandie Reports
On Education, Rivers and Bridges

James DeNormandie of Lincoln, representative of Wayland, Lincoln and Sudbury in the Legislature since the first of this year, writes his first report to his constituents:

I appreciate the opportunity of saying a few words about my first few weeks as a legislator on Beacon Hill. I am fortunate to be a member of the Committee on Education. We have been holding regular hearings running all the way from special bills to meeting problems peculiar to one town or region to those seeking to establish state medical, dental and veterinary schools. There is a real need for the latter and it is under study by a previously established commission. The feeling is strong in thoughtful circles that a regional medical school for New England would be able to maintain high standards, give opportunities to students in the area, and provide many much needed doctors.

There is constant pressure for greater aid for local educational needs, both for construction of school buildings and for administrative purposes. This involves problems of fair distribution of funds and, of course, the basic one of providing the funds themselves.

Undoubtedly the Legislature will have to come squarely to grips with this before the session ends. I am sure that citizens of the Commonwealth have got to think very seriously about methods of financing their essential needs and this is so even if we forego those projects that are admittedly desirable, but not essential.

The Committee on Education is studying the needs of Teachers Colleges, the Maritime Academy, the special technical schools at Lowell, Fall River and New Bedford, as well as the University at Amherst. The capital needs of these institutions is tremendous. What sort of priorities should be established in the building program that must be laid out? The Committee feels that it has a duty to answer these questions rather than throw them to the Committee on Ways and Means which would necessarily make decisions on more purely financial grounds.

On the local level, the Department of Public Works is recommending that the water problems of the Sudbury Valley be included in the broad study about to be initiated of the water needs of the Commonwealth. It appears that while continuing high water is serious now, a lack of water may well develop in the next few years due to constantly increasing diversion for town, industrial and agricultural purposes. This may appear to be an excuse for inaction, but, on study, it seems an honest question.

The Department has also made a final decision on Old Sudbury Road and is drawing plans for a new bridge near the Wayland Golf Club. The towns of Wayland and Sudbury together would contribute 10 per cent of the cost (Wayland 6 per cent, Sudbury 4 per cent.—Ed.), the balance being covered by state and county funds. I understand that the old bridge will be preserved as an historic monument.

I hope I have given an idea of some of the things that are happening. I am impressed with the friendliness of all the members regardless of party and their willingness to be of assistance. Naturally I want to hear from citizens of the 10th Middlesex District. So let me know your thoughts.

Men Play Boys, — Score Gets Lost

The men played the boys, with few holds barred, at Wayland High School gym on the afternoon of St. Patrick's Day, and reports trickling out afterwards were that the boys scored more points but that the men inflicted more punishmen. The score got lost.

The referee, it is said, was a bit slow about calling fouls, and the basketball game was an educational roughhouse for the boys. They had speed but the men had brawn. There was a small but loud and irreverent group of spectators which applauded every fall.

Boys who took the lesson in physical education were Fred Tassinari, Paul Bradley, George Richardson, Dick Crowley, Tom Longtihe, Al LeBlanc, George Bradley, John Washek and Nick Willard.

—News Roundup—

Note on how children grow up around here: One night a 14-year-old girl was hired to baby-sit with a 12-year-old girl. One week later the 12-year-old was baby sitting for somebody else's baby.

Two crocuses showed their pretty orange faces in the foundation planting on the South side of the Cochituate Branch of the Wayland Library on March 12.

Wayland Garden Club

Members of the Wayland Garden Club will hear a talk on "Planning a Terrace," by Miss Brenda Newton, on Tuesday, April 26, at the home of Mrs. David Turner, Lincoln Road, 3 p.m. Tea chairman will be Mrs. Ralph Field.

The Club exhibited at the Boston Flower Show with a grouping of pink and white begonias, grown by Mrs. Russell Kerr, around a large camelia bush, arranged by a committee headed by Mrs. Winford C. Naylor.

Cochituate PTA

The Cochituate PTA will see films on child development at the regular monthly meeting, Tuesday, April 26, at 8 p.m. Mrs. James Arnold is in charge, and Mrs. Cora Revell is refreshment chairman.

Tornado Forecast Empties Schools

Wayland schools were innocently involved in a sort of Orson Welles, men-from-Mars sort of broadcast mixup on March 11, when the children were sent home about 20 minutes early on account of radio reports which many thought were tornado warnings.

The Framingham radio station, WKOX, which covers this area, gave the United States Weather Bureau forecast correctly. It called for possibly violent thunder storms, with wind in gusts up to, possibly again, 50 to 60 miles per hour. And right after this forecast, it reported tornadoes in Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio and Virginia, and said the local showers would be part of the same weather front.

This was enough to startle people who remembered the 1953 Worcester tornado, and parents began to telephone the schools.

Dr. Rexford S. Souder, superintendent of the Wayland schools, says he thought it was better to be safe than sorry, and buses for all Wayland schools were called early. Children were also sent home early in Framingham, Natick, Holliston, Ashland, Millis, Norfolk, Marlboro and Sudbury.

Salk Vaccine is Being Scheduled

The Wayland Board of Health met on the evening of April 12, the day the success of the Salk polio vaccine was announced, and set up substantially this schedule for the free vaccination of 357 first and second grade children of the Town:

Last week of April or first week of May, the first shot.

Second shot, in the fourth week after the first. Probably early in June.

The third shot, seven months after the second. That will be next Winter.

Permission slips, to be signed by parents, were sent out at once. This vaccination is not compulsory, and the parent's signature is necessary. The vaccine was to be stored in the refrigerator at the Parmenter Health Center. The shots were scheduled to be given at the three local elementary schools by local doctors.

Dr. Charlotte A. Stewart of the Board of Health says that reactions to this vaccine are almost negligible. No fever or sickness follows, and children with allergies are not affected. The child gets it in the arm with a needle, and there's no scar.

Dr. Stewart also says that children in other than the first two grades may also be vaccinated against pollo, but by their parents' application to a physician and at their expense.

So far in 1955, says Mr. Fair, there have been no pollo cases in Wayland. In 1954 there were five, of which three were of the paralytic type.

Spraying Starts Mosquito Control

Spraying of roadside ditches and swamps from trucks was begun last month, in accordance with the March Town Meeting vote to go along with the Eastern Middlesex Mosquito Control project, and it was believed that airplane spraying would probably begin in the first week of May. A few years ago Wayland had a spray project of its own, but opinion was divided as to its efficiency. This time, Wayland joins with many other towns in a regional campaign to attack the mosquito breeding places over a much wider area.

To Complete Raytheon Building in November

Latest word from Raytheon is that the building in Wayland is going up according to schedule, and that completion is expected in November. A good deal of steel framework was up last month, and the knoll on the premises had been leveled.

Some Raytheon employees were thinking of moving to Wayland it was reported, but no real movement had begun. Raytheon public relations said the company was trying to interest the Boston & Maine Roalroad in running a morning and evening train to the plant from Boston, to carry employees, but there was no final report on that project.

Street List Delayed

The Planning Board announced with regret last month that the revised list of street addresses still wasn't ready. Precinct One was finished and part of Precinct Two, but the job had to walt on the engineers and the engineers were rushed with Spring work. It was hoped to have the new list ready before long.

Sidewalk Work to Start This Month

Highway Surveyor Albert Potvin said he was planning to have sidewalk construction around the Cochituate Library and elsewhere in Cochituate under way around May 1, and after that to start on betterment work on Valley View Road and Peck Avenue.

After June 1, he said, he hoped to start Chapter 90 work on Old Sudbury Road, north of the railroad tracks. Betterment work on Spring Hill Road would come later in the Summer, he said.

He also said he hoped to get some sidewalk construction started on Old Connecticut Path, on the Cochituate side, working westward from Maiden Lane towards Pine Ridge Road. This sidewalk, intended for the safety of pupils walking to and from Happy Hollow School, was scheduled for 1954, but the hurricanes threw the project off.

TOLL ROAD

Dirt has been flying for weeks ln the southeast corner of Town, where the toll road is being built and Route 30 is being partially relocated. Oak Street, rebuilt by the Town only a couple of years ago, ls blocked off. The dope is that Oak Street will be raised to cross over the toll road by bridge. The road will reduce the number of building lots in the Damon farm development, but will remove only one or two existing houses in all.

Cesspool Index

Ninety-four cesspool permits—each one representing a new house—were issued ln Wayland between Jan. 1, and April 12.

New York Firm To Make Survey

In accordance with the vote at the March Town Meeting, the School Committee has voted to hire the firm of Engelhardt, Engelhardt and Leggett, of New York City, to make a survey of Wayland's school needs and to report early in September.

The School Committee says this firm is Number One in its field. Nicholaus L. Engelhardt, Sr., head of the outfit, was graduated from Yale in 1903, had a distinguished academic career in education and was Associate Superintendent of Schools of New York City from 1942 to 1947. He came to Wayland to discuss the local problem.

The firm has been engaged by more than 250 American cities and towns to survey school situations.

It will analyze present school buildings and sites, recommend changes in existing schools and sites, analyze present population and population trends, consider zoning laws, highway projects, town planning and birth rates; recommend future school sites and identify such sites for immediate acquisition by the Town; recommend a complete school building program for the foreseeable future, including an estimate of costs, and break this program down into a series of steps or construction periods during the next 15 years.

This firm will do just what the School Site Committee of Wayland had been doing over a period of years, but it will do it with a background of wide experience.

The Town voted to hire these outside experts because two Special Town Meetings in late 1954 and early 1955 were unable to agree on sites recommended by the Town's Site Committee. Indications are that there will be another special Town Meeting in early Autumn to consider the recommendations of the Engelhardt firm.

Among Massachusetts communlties which have used the Engelhardt service are Attleboro, Springfield, Watertown, Westfield and Pittsfield.

Rural Delivery to Commence on May 2

Rural mail delivery starts in Wayland on May 2. Aluminum mall boxes perched on the required white posts have been springing up like flowers all over Precinct 1 where almost 800 homes are now eligible to have mail delivered by carrier. Postal rate within the Wayland area will now be 3¢.

Postmaster Thomas E. Hynes spent most of April planning the two routes and informing the new patrons where to plant their boxes. Two carriers, each covering 25 miles, will be needed. One will deliver to all homes from the railroad tracks North to the Lincoln line, taking over the rural routes now coming out of South Lincoln and Weston. The other carrier will deliver to all residences South of the tracks to the Precinct llne. This route will include the present one along Loker and School Streets, the area bounded by Davelin Road, Old Connecticut Path and Maiden Lane, thus changing the Post Office address to Wayland.

Postal regulations require strict conformity to standard sizes of box, height of lettering used and locatlon on the right side of road in direction carrier drives. Delivery starts as soon as the patron notifies the Postmaster that his box is up. He can also sign a statement requesting delivery of parcel post packages on the condition that in case of loss or theft the Post Office Department is not responsible. Each patron will be assigned a box number later, for use of the carrier only.

No one may have both a post office box and rural delivery. He's got to choose one or the other.

Add New Baseball League: 17 to 19

A Pioneer League, for boys aged 17 to 19, will be an added feature of the Way-Co Baseball Committee program this season.

As usual, there will be Little League baseball for boys 8 through 12 and a Pony League for boys 13 through 16.

Registration was being carried on through the schools last month. Practice sessions, at the Cochituate Field and at the High School field, are to start around May 15, and the regular schedule around June 1.

This program ls sponsored by the Park Department and aided financially by the Town. All the work of administration, managing and coaching is done by volunteers. Any fathers in Town willing to help out in any way may communicate with the Registration Committee, which consists of Donald Tarbell, Harold Woolard

On account of a suspicion that most of the Wayland boys in service have either been transferred or discharged during the past 12 months, the Kiwanis Club says it's not going to mail them any Criers this month.

For several years the Crier has been providing copies of the paper and the Kiwanis Club has been mailing them. After this issue, papers will be sent to any local person in service whose parents, relatives or friends will furnish the Kiwanis Club with up to date addresses.

The Green Thumb Garden Club has been organized in North Wayland and will hold its May meeting on Monday, May 9 at the home of Mrs. Daniel Sheehan, on Concord Road. Officers are Mrs. George Smith, president; Mrs. Winifred Diskin, secretary; Mrs. Charles Westcott, treasurer; Mrs. William Young, program chairman; and Mrs. Donald McIntyre, membership chairman.

Letters to the Editor

Tribute Paid

To the Editor:

The Cabinet of Trinitarian Congregational Church, speaking for members and friends of the church, wishes to voice their appreciation for the meritorious four years of service of their pastor, Rev. George Hodgkins.

As he leaves Wayland to assume new duties in Auburn, the many accomplishments of his pastorate remain as a memorial to his fine Christian personality. The church has had a steady growth during his ministry, numerically, materially and spiritually.

We are sorry to see him leave our Town but happy in the knowledge that his forward-looking ministry moves to larger horizons.

We are proud to have been associated with this "Man of God" and wish him continued success in his new church.

Trinitarian Congregational Church Cabinet.

CD Director Calls Meeting

Civil Defense Director W. R. Hulbert asks that Wayland regular police, special and auxiliary police and fire, rescue and communications personnel attend a civil defense meeting to be held at Weston Town House at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 10. The speaker will be Major William C. Van Norman of the 4602d Air Intelligence Service Squadron (Air Defense Command). The purpose of this service is to reach downed enemy aircraft as rapidly as possible, for investigation and interrogation. It is largely dependent on local agencies, and that's why the meeting.

—Town Hall Notes—

Reappointments to Town offices include: Roger C. Stokey, Town Counsel; Ernest H. Damon, Chief of Police; Homer MacDonald, wiring, zoning and building inspector, and Eric Nelson, moth superintendent.

Special police officers reappointed by the Selectmen for the year beginning April 30 are Charles Nelson, John F. Pelletier, Walter F. Prouty, Edward J. Burke, Frederick H. Perry, Irving L. Dame, Jr., Ernest H. Damon, Thomas F. Linnehan, John P. Butler and John J. Moran. Chief Ernest H. Damon will again be dog officer.

All members of the Board of Fire Engineers have been reappointed to serve another year. They are Parker H. Groton, Ernst H. Damon, Frank H. Carter, Homer L. MacDonald and F. Clifton Haynes.

Members of the Town Office Building Committee have been meeting with Town department heads to discuss their needs and wishes for space in the proposed new building, but there was nothing definite to report last month. The Committee hoped it would have something to say a month from now.

New Neighbors

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cochrane, formerly of Arlington, have moved into their new house on Woodridge Road. Mr. Cochrane is a Boston attorney.

Mr. and Mrs. Longin Varnis and son, formerly of Framingham, have moved into their new house on Rice Spring Lane. Mr. Varnis is with the Dennison Manufacturing Co.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Donaldson, Jr. have bought a new house on Oxbow Rd. Dr. Donaldson is with the Chelsea Naval Hospital.

Red Cross Raises 70% of its Quota

With several reports yet to be turned in, the Wayland chapter of the Red Cross has received $4,161.35 to date in its annual fund drive, Miss Emily Blair, fund chairman, announced, or 70% of the quota.

Miss Blair said the Cochituate response to the fund and membership drive was excellent this year and she thanked Mrs. Carolyn Lewis of Ridgefield Road and her staff for their untiring work. Miss Blair also thanked all the captains and solicitors for their efforts in behalf of the Wayland chapter.

Cochituate P T A to Hold Square Dance

A square dance will be held by the Cochituate PTA at 8 p.m. on Saturday, May 7 at Cochituate School. It will be the last meeting of the year, and new officers will be elected. Tickets are $1 per couple, and this party is for adults, not small fry. Tickets will be on sale in the school cafeteria between 8:45 and 9:15 a.m. each morning in the week preceeding the dance.

D.P.I. Association

Thirty to forty teenagers and preteenagers have attended each of the parties sponsored by the Dudley Pond Improvement Association at the club house on Old Connecticut Path. Invitations are extended to all Wayland children by the committee: Mr. and Mrs. William Morris, Mr. and Mrs. John Arnold, Mrs. Harriett Smith, Mrs. Marie Mitchell, and Mrs. Mary Casey. Announcements are made at the schools.

Tickets for a supper and dance, to be held Saturday, May 14, will soon be on sale by club members. Committee for this event include: Mr. and Mrs. William Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Knaack, Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coe, and Mr. Elden Fox. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tibbetts are ticket chairmen.

Vokes to Present Comedy About Wayland

"One on the Town," an original musical comedy in two acts, written by Francis W. Hatch, will be produced for the first time on any stage by the Vokes Players, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings, May 12, 13, 14, 19, 20, and 21.

Eleven original songs have been written by Frank Hatch, including several that will strike home like, "I Love the Dump," "Love in the Library," and "Town Meeting."

Produced by Mr. and Mrs. John Baldwin, "One on the Town" is the most ambitious production ever to be put on by Vokes. Mrs. Hugh Colliton, Jr., assisted by Edward Blanchard, is directing this musical extravaganza.

The singing chorus includes Mrs. Allan Finlay, Mrs. Harold Belles, Mrs. Paul Rowan, Mrs. George Lewis, Mrs. Kimball Powning, Mrs. David Bernard, Mrs. Allen Morgan, Mrs. Robert Elwell, Mrs. John Littlefield, Mrs. Frank Christian of Framingham, and Mrs. William Grey of Sudbury. The male chorus includes Ralph Jamieson, Hugh Colliton, Richard Best, William Stahl, William Hodkinson, Richard Foster, John Tanger, Edward White, and Robert Pfeiffer.

The working staff includes Daniel Kennedy, production manager; Ray Harris, stage manager; David Greenlie, lighting; Mrs. John Tanger, Mrs. Maurice Williams, Mrs. Ruth Steed Fuller, costumes; Mrs. Arthur Grannis, Mrs. Edwin Damon, Mrs. Louis Jones, properties; Mrs. Francis Stites, make-up; Mrs. Mimi Hutchinson, prompter; and Rudolph Bruce, publicity.

Tickets, $1.50 Thursday and Friday evenings and $2.00 Saturday evenings may be obtained from Mrs. William Hodgkinson, Mrs. Francis Fisher, Mrs. Arthur Grannis, and the Weston Studio of Decorating.

Cox Re-elected to U. N. Assn: Miao Speaks

Archibald Cox was re-elected chairman of the Wayland United Nations Association on April 15, at a meeting in the High School cafeteria at which C. T. Miao of the United Nations staff was the speaker.

Mr. Miao, besides talking well, earnestly and hopefully about the U. N. as a means to world peace, told a story:

When he was in London, he said, he saw the Queen riding in the coach of state, with driver up behind the coach instead of in front. He asked why this was, he said, and this was the answer he received:

This play on words, he said, would be difficult to render into Chinese.

Other officers chosen were Rev. Raymond G. Manker, vice-chairman; Katherine D. Wilcox, secretary; Douglas Surgenor, treasurer, and Muriel Flood, B. Allen Benjamin and Kenneth T. Larkin, executive committee.

TOWN REPORT OF 1899 says that 336 tramps were lodged in the Poor Farm on Rice Road during 1898, and that 415 meals were furnished to them.

Strawberry Festival To be held June 11

Plans are well under way for the annual Strawberry Festival and Square Dance sponsored by the Wayland Junior Town House. The event will take place on the High School Athletic Field, Saturday, June 11. rain or shine. Save this date, for if it can not be held outdoors, a few steps will take you inside to the school gymnasium.

Charlie Baldwin, New England's favorite caller, and his six-piece orchestra will again keep the dance enthusiasts on their toes. A variety of refreshments (featuring strawberry sundaes, of course) will pamper appetites of onlookers and weary dancers.

Spring Appetite

A Cochituate resident set out 50 crocuses a year ago, and he was pretty upset when none of them appeared this Spring. However, the crocuses were all right. The man's wife discovered that their 2-year-old son had eaten them all, as fast as the green leaves appeared.

Chorus Concert is Set for May 8th

This year's spring concert presented by the Community Chorus and Community Orchestra of Weston, Wayland and Sudbury will be Franz Schubert's Mass in E, conducted once again by Chester W. Williams, dean of the New England Conservatory of Music. Soloists are Miss Aletha Doolittle, soprano, Miss Natalie Pakkanen, alto, John King and John Clegg, tenors and George Fortune, bass, all students at the New England Conservatory.

A special feature of the concert program will be the first movement of Mozart's Concerto in A, played by Roland Nadeau and the Orchestra. Mr. Nadeau is the accompanist for the Chorus and graduate student at the Conservatory.

The concert date, one week later than previously announced, is Sunday evening, May 8 at 8 p.m. in the Wayland High School. Everyone is cordially invited to attend, since admission is free.

At the Chorus annual meeting held April 12, officers were elected for the 1955-56 season. They are President, Kenneth Larkin of Wayland; Vice-President, Ray Farnsworth of Weston; Secretaries, Mrs. Walter T. Goodale of Weston and Mrs. William Tolman of Wayland; and Treasurer, Charles Chittick of Weston.

Hearing on Tennis Courts on May 10

The Recreational Council, an unofficial group of which Dunbar Holmes is chairman, reports that there is a strong demand for fixing up tennis courts in both ends of Town. One of the arguments is that there is Little League baseball for the boys, but nothing for the girls.

A public meeting to discuss the problem has been called for May 10 at 8 p.m. in the High School cafeteria.

The Council reports that there used to be clay courts at Cochituate and at Wayland, but that they have fallen to ruin. Mr. Holmes says he thinks the best solution is to have good courts built and surrounded by fences and locked gates, with the keys kept at nearby semi-public places.

His idea is that the first set of courts should be built at the High School, to be used in connection with the school's athletic program, and that another set should be built later at Cochituate.

The Park Department, he says, found out that the courts were not being supervised, and that they must be if they are to be kept in shape.

Petitions for tennis courts were being circulated. Forms could be obtained from Mrs. Myrtle Osmond, State Road East, and Mrs. Rena Wheelock, Old Connecticut Path.

Many persons seem to be really concerned about this recreational problem. They say this is a big Town now, and something ought to be done.

Thank You Card

The Wayland High School PTA wishes to extend thanks to the following florists who so graciously donated flowers or plants to help make the scholarship auction fund a success: John E. Nelson, Country Flower Shop, the Kerrs, Lewis Russell, Arrowhead Gardens and Michael Cardellicchio.

CD Reports on Plans To Evacuate Westward

Effective as of last April 15, reports Civil Defense Director W. R. Hulbert, the Wayland air raid alert consists of a series of blasts on the fire whistles for three minutes. Radio will also give the alert.

At this alert, residents of Wayland are urged either to flee westward on Route 20 or 30, or take shelter in a good basement shelter, stocked with food, water and battery radio tuned to 640 or 1240.

If the attack appears imminent, a second series of blasts on the fire whistle will be sounded. At this, all traffic on the evacuation routes will be halted and everybody will take cover.

If there is time enough, children will be sent home from schools. Otherwise, they will take shelter in the school buildings.

The police and auxiliaries will stop all eastbound traffic on routes 20 and 30 at the first alert and make those roads one-way, westbound, for fugitives from the city. No cross traffic will be allowed on these roads. Evacuees will assemble in reception areas to the west of Wayland and Sudbury for later distribution to more distant reception centers.

Local Boy Makes Good

Victor O. Jones of the Boston Globe wrote a column on April 18 about Alexander G. Hardy, an old Cochituate and Wayland High boy, who at the age of 35 has become first vice president of National Airlines. He's a lawyer who helped prosecute the Nazi war criminals at Nuremberg. Mr. Jones suggested that the headline in the Wayland paper might be "Local Boy Makes Good". See above.

DECORDOVA

Two architecture exhibits will be open at the deCordova Museum through May 26. One is "Built in U.S.A.", the Museum of Modern Art's survey of Post-War Archictecture, and the other an exhibition of plans for an art centre by architecture students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Both exhibits complement each other—one, presenting the many design solutions possible for one problem, and the other, the major finished buildings of the last decade.

D.B.W. Says:
Let's Have Municipal Automation

Having voted to call in outside experts to locate a school site, this Town might as well go all the way and acquire an outside electronic brain. This should be set up in the new Town Office Building, to solve all municipal problems.

Personal problems, too, on weekends when the machine is not in public use.

Suppose the squirrels are eating the eggs of Marx's Red Warbler, Sawbuck's Eagle or the Chicken-Headed Poult? Ask the machine.

How long would a person in North Wayland have to wait for a bus to Cochituate? For the answer, in light years, ask the machine.

Are horses haunting ranch type houses? Are rabbits eating the rhubarb? Does it seem like a backward Spring? Are girls haunting boys, and is conscience haunting everybody?

Ask the machine.

How much mud in the Sudbury Valley? Its per capita value, in Confederate money? How much rain will fall in the next hurricane? Has the $2 raincoat doomed the umbrella? Why don't they give away baseball bats with blue serge suits any more? Is it true that a new $2500 automobile depreciates in value by $750 after being driven around the block? Has the right to vote made Wayland women better looking in dungarees?

Ask the machine.

Should the new school be built in the belfry of the Town Office Building, or should that space be reserved for bats? Are there any bats around? Is the Town of Wayland in better financial shape than the Republic of Paraguay?

(In Paraguay they drink mate, which is something like tea, and that's why the Englishman, who likes tea, addresses his pal as matey.)

Does the Sudbury River need flood control, or should it be put overhead, like a high tension line? If it were put overhead, what would the Water Department do in case of leaks?

Ask the machine.

Will the school bus ever take the place of shoes? Will the Finance Committee overgone the School Department, underaft the Planning Board on Happy Hollow easements, uggermunt the five-day week gonis special Town Meeting, uppsent the Moderator?

Ask the machine.

Will John's other wife recover from the broken arm she received snatching Bertha from the burning building into which she was pushed by the malevolent Dinwiddie whom she caught stealing $5 from the secret cash drawer in Perodeau's market? Don't tune in tomorrow.

Ask the machine.

Let us be the first Middlesex village and farm-type development to have municipal automation, and thus attract more settlers.—D. B. W.

Wayland Woman's Club

The annual meeting and luncheon of the Wayland Woman's Club will be held Tuesday, May 3, at 1 p.m. at the 1812 House in Framingham Center. The program will consist of monologues and character sketches by Mrs. Margaret McLaughlin. Mrs. Francis Cassidy and Mrs. Harold Chamberlin will be in charge of tickets. Members wishing transportation should call Mrs. Norman Alstad, chairman of the transportation committee.

Wayland Garden Club

Flower Arrangements will be the program subject for the meeting of the Wayland Garden Club Tuesday, May 24, at 3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Karl Kearsley, Concord Road. This will be the annual meeting and election of officers. Mrs. Francis Hanson will be tea chairman.

MRS. RUDOLPH BRUCE

DAR

At the meeting of the Wayside Inn Chapter, DAR, on Saturday, May 7 at 2:15, Awards of Merit will be given by the organization to note special civic contributions. The Wayland Fire Department will receive an award for their heroic work during the hurricanes. Mrs. Carl H. Roos of Sudbury will be cited for her outstanding leadership in the Girl Scouts.

On the same program, Troop 14, Wayland Girl Scouts, will be presented with an American Flag, as a gift from the DAR. The girls will receive their banner with a Flag Ceremony and fitting gratitude to the organization. The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Bruce Named For High League Post

Mrs. Rudolph Bruce of 46 Plain Road, who has been an active member of the Wayland League of Women Voters, the Wayland PTA and the Vokes Players, has been nominated to be President of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters and is due to be elected at the State convention in May.

The Massachusetts League has 12,000 members. At present Mrs. Bruce is State Secretary. She has been President of the Wayland League and has served on many League committees. She is now bulletin editor of the Wayland League.

She has been secretary, treasurer and president of the Wayland PTA and secretary of Vokes, in which she also played the lead in "Affairs of State". She is a graduate of Provincetown High School and Boston University.

Mr. Bruce is a director of the Advertising Club of Boston, secretary of the Wayland High Association and an active member of Vokes. He is a past president of the Radio Television Advertising Executives Club of New England, Inc.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce have lived in Wayland for 15 years. They have two sons, Robert Barry, a freshman in Wayland High, and Douglas Scott Bruce, who's in the seventh grade.

Center School PTO

A musical program by the children of the Center School, under the direction of the music supervisor, Miss Marilyn Drake, will be the feature of the PTO meeting to be held Wednesday, May 4, at 7:30, at the Happy Hollow School. Note change of location! It is Center School PTO. Place is Happy Hollow School.

Morning Worship services at ten o'clock each Sunday will observe National Family Week beginning May 1st and concluding with Mother's Day, May 8. Pentecost Sunday service May 29 will be observed with Mr. Albright preaching in the absence of Mr. Gutekunst who will be attending the 159th session of the New England Annual Conference of the Methodist Church in Westfield.

Woman's Society of Christian Service general meeting to which all ladies of the parish are welcome will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 5. New officers will be elected and installed. The Methodist Men's Club will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 10. The meeting is open to all men of the parish.

Took 26 Meetings To Get Six Schools

Some citizens of this Town have been distressed because it seemed that progress towards setting up the needed new school program was slow.

But listen to Elbridge Smith, Esq., a native of Wayland, later Principal of Dorchester High School, who delivered the main address at the dedication of the new Wayland Town Hall, Dec. 24, 1878:

"It cost East Sudbury (former name for Wayland) 26 Town Meetings before the six brick school-houses were completed 70 years ago; but the discussions and contentions, the passionate utterances of those meetings, I doubt not, carried the Town forward a generation in her educational life. The seven years' contest, from 1806 to 1813, that preceded the erection of yonder meetinghouse (the First Parish Church, now standing), the 34 battles which were fought in this village parliament, to decide on which side of the brook it should stand, made all feel happier when, at last, by a unanimous vote, it was decided to build it on its present beautiful site."

Before 1810 they were arguing about new schools and sites in Wayland. Perhaps it won't take 26 Town Meetings to settle the problem this time.

Play Equipment Needed

Outdoor play equipment, toys, and props for a doll corner are sorely needed by the kindergarten of the Wayland Junior Town House. Persons with likely contributions should call either of the Co-directors, Mrs. Bruce F. Kingsbury, EL 8-4337, or Mrs. Dunbar Holmes, EL 8-2537.

PVT. DAVID C. POTTER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Potter of Winthrop Road, has successfully completed paratrooper training and is now stationed with the famed 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.C.

Rep. DeNormandie Reports

On Insurance, Education, 4-year Term

There has been some progress on Beacon Hill in recent weeks, though to many it may seem slow. The Democratic controlled House passed a bill repealing the automobile merit-rating system but the Republican Senate rejected it. This law, now in its second year of operation, attempts to place responsibility for highway violations where it belongs: on the individual operator. If successful, driving will be safer and less expensive for the average driver. Let's give the Act time enough to prove itself.

A bill to raise compulsory personal liability requirements for our registrations was defeated. This would have raised the cost for registering cars.

It should be pointed out, however, that the minimum liability insurance requirements do not begin to give adequate coverage in case of serious accident. Juries today are notoriously generous. Better check up and see if your personal liability coverage is enough to cover you if someone you injure goes to court.

The Committee on Education reported out a bill directing the University of Massachusetts to build a Medical School. I dissented on this because it was an expensive and irresponsible move in view of the fact that approval by one more New England State will put into operation the New England Authority for Higher Education. Under this Authority, medical education can be provided on a regional basis for our citizens under the highest standards and at a fraction of the cost should we build our own school.

The House has passed the minimum budget that will maintain existing State services. We have not yet faced the tremendous capital needs for buildings nor the need for additional school aid for local communities. What will develop seems unclear now but the tendency is to hold the line and postpone for another year what seems to be an inevitable fiscal crisis.

Our system of two-year terms for Statewide office makes it politically difficult to consider tax problems calmly. There is always an election just around the corner. Let us hope that the proposed four-year term for the Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General go forward this year another step towards accomplishment. It will certainly mean better, more thoughtful government for Massachusetts.

JAMES DE NORMANDIE

This Clothespin Lasts Forever

Joseph R. Paradis of Cochituate Road reports that he has invented a better clothespin with life eternal.

It consists of a hard plastic handle to which are attached stainless steel clamps. Mr. Paradis says they won't freeze to clothes in winter, won't rust, won't break, won't leave moist spots on clothes and never lets clothes drop.

He says he started working on this project in 1946 and obtained a mechanical patent in 1951. He says it took him a year to design it, and that he made 58 models.

Back in 1947, he says, he sold some of these fancy clothespins at $1.50 a dozen, and they are still in use. He designed an automatic machine to make these pins, plus some semi-automatic machines, and he is now producing 300 dozen a week at a shop in Dracut.

The drawback, he says, is that these pins cost so much more than those commonly used.

Invention is only a sideline with Mr. Paradis, a mechanical engineer who designs duplicating machines. He was graduated from Waltham High School in 1937 and moved to Wayland three years ago. Three of his children, Ronald, Wayne and Dotty Ann Paradis, are in the Wayland schools.

Garden Club Will Fight Jap Beetles

The Japanese Beetle infestation is reaching serious proportions in Wayland. To assist townsfolk in curbing the spread of this pest, the Wayland Garden Club has obtained a supply of Milky Disease Spore Powder and will offer it for sale in one-half and one pound packages.

No price has been set as yet. But it is estimated that it will be in the neighborhood of $3.50 a pound.

The Garden Club reports that Milky Disease bacteria is harmless to humans, domestic animals, birds, plants and beneficial insects—but is a sure killer of Japanese Beetle grubs. The powder is applied in teaspoonful heaps spaced around an infested area.

The powder is expected to be packaged and available by mid-May and can be purchased from Garden Club members Mrs. William H. Sumner, Shaw Drive; and Mrs. Norman J. Alstad, Rich Valley Road.

St. Ann's to Hold Confirmation May 13

Children Compete in Kiwanis Fish Derby

William Caterino of Rich Valley Road and Bruce Frederickson of MacArthur Road, East Natick, won second and third prizes, casting lines, with nine-inch brook trout.

The pond was stocked with 64 trout, of eight to nine inches, and five 13-inch trout. All five of the big fish were caught. Billy Avard got one, Jerry Diks two and Wendell Goodale two. Twenty-eight of the smaller fish were taken.

Brook trout 8¾ inches long were taken by Barry Fischer, Douglas Porrell and Tommy Linnehan.

What was described as a big piscatorial deed was accomplished by Freddy Profit, who caught a 10-inch goldfish on a four-inch spoon.

PENBERTON ROAD, Cochituate, used to be called German Hill. The name was changed in World War I, when things German were unpopular.

THE SUPER MARKET THAT IS DIFFERENT

It is NOT RUN FOR PROFIT. It is impossible for anyone to make a profit selling to himself. Members of the Society — over 2800 of them — who are shareholders in the business they operate, buy quality foods at competitive prices. They save their cash register receipts which they turn in at the end of the fiscal year.
In 1954, $31,190.31 was paid back to Natick CO-OP customers.
By taking advantage of this cooperative way of buying, customers pay only for goods and services. Not one penny goes for profit.

Rendezvous Wayland

Chief Ernest H. Damon and Officer Edward J. Burke, notified in advance by telephone, met the Worcester bus at Wayland Center at 5 p.m. April 18 and removed therefrom an uncouth character who had been inhaling from a pint bottle. The character had told everybody on the bus he was going to Worcester, but he made it by way of the Framingham lockup.

Annual Meeting of Natick Co-op May 23

Annual meeting of the Natick Consumers' Co-op Society Inc. will be held on Monday, May 23 in the Natick High School cafeteria. There will be a roast beef dinner for ticket holders at 6:30 p.m., followed by a business meeting at 8 p.m. with annual reports and election of officers. Murray D. Lincoln will be guest of honor. There will be dancing to Paul Ambler's orchestra.

Fessenden - Troia

Miss Elsie M. Fessenden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Fessenden of Plain Road, was married on April 16 to Albert M. Troia of Natick at St. Patrick's Church, Natick. She was graduated from Natick High School in 1952 and he from the same school in 1950. He served four years in the Navy and is now a student at Bentley School of Accounting and Finance.

Mrs. Troia attended the first three grades at Cochituate School. Then the family moved to Natick, but moved back to Wayland three years ago. Her mother helps out in the Wayland High School cafeteria.

Board of Health Hours

Office hours for the Wayland Board of Health are 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday of each week, at the Parmenter Health Center. Telephone number is OLympic 3-5171.

OFFICERS will be elected to the Historical Society on Tuesday, May 10. At the April 12 meeting Mrs. Mabel Draper led the discussion on early schools, assisted by Mrs. John Busser, Mrs. C. Chandler Robbins, Mrs. Kenneth Morrell and Mrs. Donald B. Willard.

MRS. DONALD IDE, chairman of the Early Church meeting of the Wayland Historical Society, wishes to thank Mrs. Elizabeth Raymond and Mrs. Philip Richardson who substituted for Miss Isobel Wight and Mrs. Waldo Russell.

SEVENTY WAYLAND members and friends of the Museum of Science have contributed to the purchase of 2½ chairs like the one above in which Dahl's Mr. Boston is comfortably star gazing. Each chair, to be located in the new planetarium, sells for $100 which sum is to be matched by the Hayden Foundation. Persons interested in seeing to it that Wayland gets its name on the third chair should contact the museum.

Food Sale

The Women's Organizations of the Trinitarian Congregational Church will hold a food sale on the green at Wayland Center, Saturday, May 21, beginning at 9 a.m. The proceeds will be used to purchase kitchen equipment for the church's new building. Mrs. Robert M. Carson is chairman of the event.

Ford Motor Makes Charles Moore a VP

DEARBORN, MICH., April 22—Election of Charles F. Moore, Jr., formerly of Claypit Hill Road, Wayland, Mass., as vice president—public relations, Ford Motor Company, was announced today.

Since becoming associated with Ford in 1952, Mr. Moore has served as director of public relations and has been a member of the administration committee. He also is a member of the merchandising and industrial relations committees.

For several months during 1953 and 1954, he was on leave from Ford Motor Company during which time he served on the White House staff as a special consultant to President Eisenhower.

Mr. Moore was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1925. Since then, he held executive jobs on newspapers and magazines. He was a reporter for the Boston Herald-Traveler and later was director of promotion for Nation's Business, a position he also held on the Washington Post and the Boston Globe. In Wayland, Mass., he served on the School Committee.

Prior to joining Ford, Mr. Moore was a partner in Earl Newsom and Company, New York public relations firm. From 1946 to 1948, he was executive assistant to Robert F. Bradford, then governor of Massachusetts.

He was born March 5, 1903, in Beverly, Mass. He is married, the father of four children and resides on Lahser Road in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan.

Andrew Thomas

Andrew Thomas, 66, long-time member of the Trinitarian Congregational Church, died suddenly on Aprll 20 at the church, of which he was custodian. Funeral servlces at the church were conducted by Rev. George Hodgkins. Burial was in the North Cemetery.

Mr. Thomas was born in Eustus, Quebec, Oct. 25, 1888, and had lived in Wayland for 34 years. His home was at 274 State Road West.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Alice M. (Pareno) Thomas, two sons, Robert L. and Allan H. Thomas; two grandchildren, and four sisters and a sister-in-law. Another son, Andrew, was killed in World War II.

MR. AND MRS. J. GORDON BALDWIN of Rice Spring Lane were afraid they might have to leave Wayland and move to Boston, on account of business. Mrs. Baldwin is clerk of the Wayland Planning Board.

Marsh For Sale?

The Sudbury Valley Trustees, Inc., a Wayland organization dedlcated to keepIng the wlld land wild, have 30 acres of marsh In their possession and hope to get 75 more acres In the near future, they report.

They are particularly interested in the swamp land along the rlver. They will accept such land as a glft, or will buy it, at the right prlce—a small one. The idea is to protect blrd and animal llfe and wild land, lest it be destroyed by enroaching civilization.

They wish to point out that they will take no revenue producing land out of circulatlon. That is, anybody who leases trapping rights on a piece of swamp may retain the rights and the income, if he will turn the land over to the Trustees.

The only alm of the Trustees is to keep the river valley from being swallowed up by gravel fill, and to keep it a haven for wild life. Should the Commonwealth's Bay Circuit plan for recreational development go through, the Trustees would cooperate completely.

In fact, two of the Trustees, Henry M. Parker and Allen H. Morgan, have been appointed to a committee headed by Lawrence Fletcher, executive director of the Trustees of Publlc Reservations, which is to report to the Legislature on the Bay Circuit plan.

Ten of the acres now owned are on the north side of the Old Sudbury Road Bridge. Another 20 acres lie near Wash Brook, between Heard's Pond and the Wayland Town dump. Another 50 acres of swamp, in three different parcels, have been promised and are now in the legal acquisition mill. This swamp land, in which the birds nest and the water animals live, is just the kind the Trustees want.

The Trustees also have it in mind that a Town Forest would be a good thing. They think it should be of at least 10 or 20 acres, including a brook or a pond. They think of it as a bird and animal refuge, and as a place where Town children may do some real Nature study.

For $3 anybody may become a member of the Trustees. The address is Treasurer, P.O. Box 233, Wayland.

Officers of the organization:

League of Women Voters

The Wayland League of Women Voters will hold its annual meeting at the Congregational Church, Wednesday, May 25 at 3 p.m. Officers will be elected for the coming year, the budget will be reviewed, and changes in the by-laws will be acted upon. There will also be a report on the State Convention which will meet Wednesday and Thursday, May 18 and 19, at the Hotel Bradford in Boston. Eight delegates will represent the Wayland League.

The May Board Meeting will be held Tuesday, May 3, at the home of Mrs. Philip Lane. There will be no unit discussion meetings in May.

At a second meeting of the Freedom Agenda project, sponsored by the League, at the Cochituate Library on March 22, it was decided to organize discussion units on the subject in the fall.

New Developments

The Planning Board has put its OK on a real estate development of modest size along Maiden Lane, near the Happy Hollow School. Highrock Road, in Woodridge, was being extended, and new developments near School Street and Commonwealth Road East were approved.

Hands Off!

New Phone Idea Shown Kiwanians

Eugene Murphy, Natick telephone company manager, appeared at the Wayland Kiwanis Club meeting on April 12 with a demonstration of the 'hands-off telephone", a gadget which is already in use and available to anybody, by report, for $5 a month extra on the bill.

This device has three buttons, "On," "Off" and "Volume" below the dial. To call a number, one turns to "On," dials, and never has to fuss with a receiver. He can sit with folded arms, or take notes, with his face two feet or more from the instrument. Half a dozen persons can sit in on a telephone conference, all hearing and speaking as necessary.

(In a TV demonstration of this gadget recently, it was shown that a housewife could carry on a conversation while walking about the kitchen attending to her regular business. The talker is not chained to the hot receiver habit.)

In the Kiwanis demonstration, arranged by Herb Fisher, program chairman, there was a three-way hook-up, including the Wayland and Sudbury Kiwanis meetings and the secretary of the East Lansing, Michigan, Kiwanis, a friend of Frank Smith of the Wayland club.

Everybody in Red Coach Grill, Wayland; in Wayside Inn, Sudbury, and the man in East Lansing, was in on the conversation. The East Lansing Kiwanian gave his greetings to the new Sudbury Club, which was sponsored by Wayland, and Ed Veno got in some conversation about fishing.

An insurance plan to protect the boys is being studied.

For safety's sake, a boy who has not reached his eighth birthday before June 1, 1955, will have to wait another year. In other age groups, June 1 is also the magic date. A boy who is 12 years and 11 months old on June 1 may play in the Little League throughout the season.

A full schedule of league games will be played.

Wayland Town Crier

Vol. 9, No. 9 | June, 1955, Wayland, Mass. | 10c a copy, $1.00 a year

Census Shows Count of 7500

Town Clerk Leila Sears says the unofficial count of noses, based on the State census taken as of Jan. 1, gives Wayland a population of 7500, an increase of 70 per cent over the 4407 reported in the Federal census of 1950.

Fifteen years ago, in 1940, the population was 3505.

Big as the 1955 increase is, it isn't as great as some had thought it would be. Guesses ranged all the way up to 10,000.

Memorial Day Services Held at Four Cemeteries

Traditional Memorial Day services were scheduled Monday for both Cochituate and Wayland.

Ceremonies began with a noon memorial service for veterans at the triangle at East Plain Road and Commonwealth Road East. Then at 1 p.m. the parade was scheduled to start from Wayland Center, up Old Sudbury Road, to the North Cemetery and then back to the South Cemetery on Coohituate Road. The parade included the Chief of Police and police escort, Charles H. Alward Post 133 American Legion and Auxiliary, Gold Star Mothers, Wayland Post V.F.W. and Auxiliary, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Sea Scouts, Cub and Brownies, Town Officers, and the 215 AGF Band MNG.

In Cochituate the parade marched first to St. Zepherin's Cemetery, then to Lakeview Cemetery and returned to the Cochituate School.

Wayland High Will Graduate 44 Seniors

Forty-four Wayland High School boys and girls are scheduled to be graduated at the annual commencement exercises, to be held at the High School Auditorium on the evening of June 9. Symposium speeches by students and awards of honors and scholarships will feature the program. Class Night will be June 3.

Polio Vaccine Program

Salk polio vaccine shots were scheduled to be given to 343 first and second graders of Wayland on May 23. Drs. James P. Burke, Charlotte A. Stewart and Ernest H. Damon, Jr. were to give them free, at the Center, Cochituate and Happy Hollow Schools. Parents of seven or eight children refused to consent to the inoculation, it was said.

"One on The Town" Hits Home

New York, Paris, Hollywood and even Oklahoma have had musical shows written about them, and now Wayland has, too.

For seven nights last month before cheering capacity houses our fables and foibles were immortalized in the catching tunes of Frank Hatch's newest musical, "One on the Town," produced by the Vokes Players, under Mr. and Mrs. John Baldwin and directed by Alice Colliton.

And who said that Wayland lacked the romance for a love song or the excitement for a libretto?

Curtain goes up on an acrimonious debate at a Town Meeting in the high school auditorium of a "fictional" town called Woodridge (Wayland). Representatives of Supersonics, Inc., (Raytheon) are trying to persuade the enlightened citizens of Woodridge to welcome construction of a new laboratory. Cella Compost (Mary Sears) of the Garden Club and Peter Tanager (Dick Best) of the Bird Watchers Association lead the opposition. This crumbles when Thomas Jefferson Madison, (Robert Darling) president of Supersonics, upon the advice of his attorney Choate Hall (Win Naylor) promises to give two months termination notice to all nesting wild fowl and to relocate them in 100 free woodduck boxes. Whereupon the voters happily sing an Irving Berlin-like chorus lauding the democratic way.

Office boy Peters deplores payroll deductions in a wistful song addressed to his boss ("I ain't making

Word To The Wise

The Wayland Board of Selectmen has told Chief of Police Ernest H. Damon to clamp down on all violators of the traffic laws. The Board says the situation is getting serious, with many motorists going too fast, especially late at night. The Board also says that the enforcement rule applies to residents of the Town, as well as others.

Mr. Allen to Retire; Served 37 Years

David J. Allen, dean of Wayland Senior High School and its former principal, will retire in June after 37 years of service in the Wayland School system, it has been announced.

He will reach the retirement age next year. His home is on Main Street, Cochituate.

Another teacher who will retire is Doris Maguire, wife of Cornelius J. Maguire of the School Committee. Mrs. Maguire, the former Doris Currier, teaches the fifth grade in the Cochituate School. She has been a Wayland teacher since 1934.

A new position in the Senior High next year will be that of guidance counselor. This position will be filled by Mr. Lewis A. Oxford. Miss Jean T. Nelson is director of guidance.

Schools Close

All Wayland schools will close for the Summer at noon on June 17, it has been announced. Final report cards will be issued that day in the Junior-Senior High School.

Tax Rate To Be $56

Wayland's tax rate for this year will be $56, up $2, the Board of Assessors has announced.

Plans for Town Office Announced

For the first time in many years, Wayland will have a lockup (two cells), if plans now being worked on by the Town Office Building Committee go through.

Some in Town remember that there used to be cells in the basement of the present Town Hall, but they were removed long ago. They hadn't been used since the trolley car era, or maybe the horse and buggy time.

The committee has gone so far as to lay out the floor plan of the proposed building, after consultation with representatives of practically all the Town departments concerned. The architects are now preparing elevations to show the proposed looks of the building. After these are completed, there will be a public hearing, to let everybody say what he thinks about the appearance of the proposed building.

The building would face Cochituate Road, on the north side of State Road East, on Town-owned land. The front section would be 130 feet by 32. The middle section, connecting the front office section with the fire station, would be 63 by 56, and the Fire Department wing would be 52 by 101.

The aim has been to provide a building big enough for the needs of a Town of 15,000, which is believed to be as large as Wayland is likely to get.

In one wing front, would be all the money-raising and fiscal agencies—assessing, collecting, auditing and the rest, and a vault. In the other front wing would be the Town Clerk, Tree Warden, Moth Department, an office and waiting room for the Selectmen, adequate space for the Planning Board and places for the Building, Wiring and Plumbing Inspectors.

In the connecting wing would be a hearing room seating 50 or 60, the business machine room, an employees' room and public toilets.

The Fire Department wing would have an apparatus room the size of the one at Cochituate, a watch room, a storage room, besides a kitchenette and shower room. There would also be a room big enough to house the all-purpose truck of Civil Defense.

In this wing would also be complete facilities for the Police Department, in-

Petition Circulated for 5 Man Board

Mrs. Norman J. Alstad reports that she has obtained 200 signatures on a petition asking that the Town by-laws be revised to provide for a School Committee of five members instead of the present number, three.

The procedure, she says, will be to have the Selectmen insert an article in the warrant of the next Special Town Meeting, which is expected to be held this Fall. If the article is then approved, three School Committee members instead of one will be chosen at the Town Election in March.

Kiwanis Has Service For W. L. Stoddard

Twenty-one members of the Kiwanis Club of Wayland attended the annual memorial service of the club at Community Methodist Church, Cochituate, on May 15. This service was in memory of the late William L. Stoddard of Wayland.

Strawberry Festival, and Square Dance June 11

Young and old are expected to join the fun at the annual Strawberry Festival and Square Dance sponsored by the Wayland Junior Town House, a Red Feather organization. The date: Saturday, June 11, 8:00 p.m. The place: the High School Athletic Field, or gymnasium if it rains. Tickets are 75¢ and can be obtained from the Ticket Committee Co-Chairmen, Mrs. Charles Owen, EL 8-2007 or Mrs. Allen Benjamin, EL 8-2562.

Charlie Baldwin and his Square Dance Serenaders will again be on hand to assure the "Promenaders" a rollicking time. Wayland's Dick Best will also be welcomed back as guest caller. Keynote of the occasion promises to be decorations generously donated by Country Corners with assistance by Mrs. Logan Murdoch and Mrs. Francis J. Cassidy.

Mrs. Donald Bruster, aided by Mrs. Kenneth T. Larkin and Mrs. David C. Stewart, is general chairman of the affair. Other committee heads also hard at work include: Mrs. Robert Hanlon, food; Mrs. Arthur E. Grannis, finances; Mrs. Philip Awad, publicity; John Quinn, grounds.

Ladies Golf Team Wins Interclub Matches

The Ladies' Golf team of the Wayland Country Club has won the 9th cup in the Interclub spring matches of the Massachusetts Women's Golf Association. There were five teams competing for each of 15 cups, graded according to handicap. Members of the team were Mrs. Wm. J. Hammond Captain, Mrs. F. S. Eddy, Mrs. Ralph Stewart, of Wayland, Mrs. R. Woodman and Mrs. W. A. Davenport of Weston. Five matches were played with teams from Pinebrook, Wellesley, Walpole, Worcester, and Mt. Pleasant Country Clubs. The Cup will be on display at the Wayland Country Club for the coming year.

Trees Down, Roads Up For Toll Highway

Work on the toll road has been progressing briskly in Wayland and North Natick, causing a great, even if temporary, disfiguration of the landscape.

The Wayland Selectmen were asked by the White Construction Company to close Route 30 at this point. After looking into the situation, the Selectmen refused to take any action. They felt that blocking off Route 30 would cause traffic hazards on other streets in Town, and they left it to the construction company to build a temporary by-pass.

Oak Street has already been closed to traffic. Route 30, at the easterly side of Town, is in process of being relocated. This relocation will eliminate, incidentally, several bad curves.

The toll road will go over Oak Street, North Main Street in North Natick and Route 30 at Lake Cochituate. A little further to the west, north of Shoppers' World, will be the first interchange going west from Route 128.

Appoint Mrs. Willard To Library Board

Mrs. Donald B. Willard, of Old Connecticut Path, who has been librarian at the Cochituate branch library for the past two years, has resigned as of June 1, and has been appointed by the Selectmen to be a Library Trustee until the Town election next March. Mrs. Willard takes the place on the board of Mrs. George E. Earley of East Plain Street, who has resigned.

Arts and Crafts Commences June 27

The Wayland Summer Arts and Crafts Workshop will be held for the fourth year beginning Monday, June 27, and ending July 22.

The High School gym and cafeteria will become a shop where things bizarre and beautiful will be created by the hundreds.

Children in kindergarten through 6th grade are invited to come on four weeks of conducted tours through playland, hobby-land, and nature study land, where they may learn to make things that are valuable, useful, or just fun to do. Who knows, someone may spot a bird unknown to Wayland before.

Nine to twelve are the hours, Monday through Friday.

Oswald Garvey (who has donated his services for the past three summers) will again furnish buses for children in the South end of town. Wayland Center and the North part of town will form car pools to get those to the school who are too far to walk or ride bikes.

The cost of the Workshop will be the same as last year—$1.00 registration per family, plus $5.00 for the four weeks (if paid all at once), $1.50 per week, or $.35 per day. To break the monotony, (of which there is none) mid morning snacks will be served.

There will be planned playground activities and nature study under the direction of Mrs. Donna Brainerd, 3rd grade teacher at Center School.

Mrs. Pat La France, 1st grade teacher at Center School, will direct the kindergarten through 2nd grade activities, with help from someone who does not yet know how badly she is needed.

Someone else is still being sought to teach simple shop activities. Ralph Pearson, who has helped for three years, is unable to participate this year.

The third grade through sixth grade activities will be in the cafeteria under the direction of Mrs. Eva Gately, 5th grade teacher at Happy Hollow School, and Mrs. Lillian Jones, art supervisor. Junior and Senior High students will assist in all departments.

Cochituate Boy Has Paintings on Exhibit

Jackie Pelletier, age 11, son of Ernest Pelletier, of Main St., Cochituate, has had two paintings on exhibit at the Cinema, Shopper's World; "Winter Birches" and "Spring Landscape". The Paintings were part of a show of the younger pupils of Mrs. Lucille Jewett of Framingham. Jackie has studied art with Mrs. Jewett for two years, and has been her youngest pupil. Jackie's grandmother, Mrs. William Wadland, also of Cochituate, has studied textile painting with Mrs. Jewett and now teaches textile stenciling.

Dr. Howard to Speak on "Jungle Housekeeping"

Dr. Richard A. Rev. Manker Called to Church in California

Members of the First Parish Church accepted with regret, at the annual meeting on April 25, the resignation of the pastor, Rev. Raymond G. Manker, who has been in Wayland for the past five years. He has accepted a call to become minister of All Souls' Unitarian Church, Riverside, California, and will leave Wayland shortly after August 1. Riverside is located about 50 miles east of Los Angeles.

During their five years' residence in Wayland, Rev. and Mrs. Manker have taken active parts in community life and have made many friends. Although both of them are Texans, their two children, Kathy, 2, and Raymond, Jr., 9 months, both born in Wayland, are native New Englanders. With the best wishes of the community, they now become Californians.

First Parish Will Buy New Parsonage

The First Parish Church will purchase a new parsonage. At a special meeting on May 16 the membership voted to buy the residence of the late William L. Stoddard at 50 Cochituate Road. The house is directly south of the church, and abuts it.

The present parsonage, which is opposite the church on Cochituate Road at the corner of the High School drive, will be given over entirely to the rapidly growing Sunday School. It will also house the minister's study and will be designated as the Parish House.

CD Personnel Learn About Downed Planes

Forty-two Wayland Civil Defense personnel attended the May 10 meeting at Weston, where the speaker, Maj. William C. Van Norman, talked about the work of his branch of Air Intelligence which is to reach downed enemy aircraft quickly for investigation and interrogation. The 42:

M. B. Babin, Arnold A. Benware, Charles H. Berkebile, L. William Bertelsen, Louis A. Bourette, George W. Brown, Charles M. Campbell, Jr., Harold A. Chamberlain, Jr., Richard E. Corr, Reginald C. Day, Ellery G. Dodge, hay, Dear old take home pay"). Realtor Bascomb lyricizes on the tiled bathroom and dishwasher of his "Darling little demonstration home." And Heroine Pennypacker renders "By the River," the outstanding musical performance of the entire show.

But before this plot is allowed to develop further Carol Powning comes out in blue jeans to soliloquize a la Thornton Wilder on the decline and fall of Woodridge. If it isn't all these new faces in Town, then it's these dial phones. She doesn't like it. But one thing stays the same, "The old Town dump." With Bonnie Grey and Shirley Lewis they romanticize about the dump and observe,

"A lady over in Sudbury,
Pays ten dollars quite willingly
To dump in our society."

To complement this comic relief are two choreographic numbers directed by Jane Cannistraro, furnishing the necessary feminine pulchritude and cheesecake.

As in all good musical comedies, love hits hard in Act II. In a romantic and damp spot in the Sudbury River marshes, Dr. Edleweiss has built a shack which Carolyn stumbles on. As dusk comes they sing what should be another Hit Parade number, "When the first star is shining," while a pleasingly costumed octet, well trained by Music Director Carolyn Jame-

The Bird Watchers arrive in force
The Bird Witchers arrive in force led by President Madison. "Come to a bird sanctuary" he sings cheerfully, but evil forces are already at work in the community.

Villain Bascomb has found that a pipe line bringing natural gas from Texas has to cross the Sudbury River just at Dr. Edleweiss' property. He forms a rather crude plot to frame the doc by sprinkling garbage about and calls in the Board of Health. This doesn't take long because the chairman is none other than Thomas Jefferson Madison, who apparently has been drawn rather rapidly into Town affairs.

Various legal shennanigans now take place in which Dr. Edleweiss, a mere foreigner, finds himself pitted against the combined brains of the Town Counsel, Board of Health, Garden Club, Bird-watchers, Supersonics and the Library Trustees (although this last isn't clear).

Says Edleweiss, "Same faces, same faces, they run everything in Woodridge." But before it's all over he has ceded the vital property to the Town, which makes it possible for the gas line to go through, assessments to go up, taxes to go down and democracy to go on.

Not, however, until the best song in the show, "Love in the Library" has been sung. Here is Frank Hatch at his best, sophisticated, humorous, tuneful; and the ghosts of Empress Josephine, Mary Queen of Scots, and Cleopatra, who stalk through as he sings it, bring down the house.

A riotous finale brings the pipe line across the stage to the antics of two Texan characters (Ed White and Bob Pfeiffer) who sing that they "feel Texas, in their solarplexis."

A reprise of all the songs by the entire cast sends the audience out whistling. And why shouldn't they? It sure is "One on the Town." — H.G.P.

Center School PTO

Wayland's summer recreational program will be the subject of the Center School PTO meeting to be held Thursday, June 2, 8 p.m., at the High School cafeteria. Ruth Hatch, swimming instructor at the town beach, will show a film on swimming and will speak on her plans for the summer program, which is under the direction of the Red Cross. There will also be a speaker on the tennis program now being planned by the school and the recreation council. The meeting will include election of officers and nominating committee for the year 1955-56.

Mill Brook to Get Face Lifted

A start towards improving the appearance of the swamp between the High School and the State Road is to be made this Spring, says Frank S. Tarr of the Park Department, which has money in its budget for the purpose.

The work is to be done by Joe DeDeo of Natick, an aquatic contractor.

He proposes to start in the Mill Brook at Cochituate Road and work westward, digging a channel 15 feet wide at the top and 10 feet wide at the bottom and eight or 10 feet deep.

This will amount to a relocation of the present brook. The channel will be nearer the plateau on which the school stands. The muck and silt dredged out will be used to widen the school plateau, extending it in a northerly direction.

On the east side of the new road from the school to Pelham Island Road, where the brook flows through a culvert towards the river, a deep pothole will be dug. This will be to catch floating objects, so they won't clog the culvert. A similar pothole will be dug on the western end of the culvert.

Part of the scheme is to give the brook water a chance to run off more rapidly in flood seasons. Another purpose is aesthetic. At present, the brook flows through a wilderness of bushes, reeds and mud.

A small amount of brook cleaning will also be done on the north side of State Road East, near the site of the proposed Town office building.

Cost of the work to be done this year is around $1400. Digging was supposed to start before Memorial Day.

$700 Raised by "Western Capers"

"The Western Capers", a show produced by the Wayland High School P. T. A., drew a crowd of nearly 500 to the High School Auditorium on the evening of May 4, and the take, for the P. T. A. Scholarship Fund, was more than $700, the best ever.

Guest stars were the Dunster Dunces, a group of Harvard student singers; the Shwiffs, a group of girl singers from Connecticut State College for Women (including Linda Robinson of Wayland); the Concordians, a quartet; and a Dixieland Band from Harvard Business School.

Also on the program was a German band, composed of High School students and faculty members. There was a Gay Nineties number, featuring some real swish by faculty members. The High School Mixed Chorus sang several numbers. Everything was roundly applauded. Master of ceremonies was Joseph E. Boothroyd of the faculty.

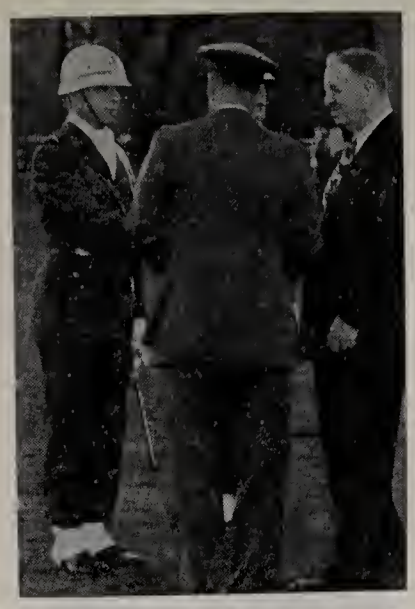
Wayland Garden Club

A program on flower arrangements was part of the annual meeting of the Wayland Garden Club meeting on May 24, at the home of Mrs. Karl Kearsley. Tea chairman was Mrs. Francis Hanson. The nominating committee presented the following slate of candidates for election to offices: president, Mrs. Francis Hanson; vice president, Mrs. Pierre Dumaine; corresponding secretary, Mrs. David Turner; recording secretary, Mrs. Parmelee Hill; treasurer, Mrs. Lewis Jones; directors, Mrs. Robert Elwell and Mrs. Ralph Jameson.



Air Cadet Bruce T. Dunnan, '57, Brown University, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. John Dunnan of Concord Road, received the Convair Cadet Award as outstanding sophomore in the Air Force ROTC unit from Provost Samuel T. Arnold at exercises on Thayer Field, Brown University, May 12.

Bruce Dunnan is editor of the AFROTC yearbook and as cadet commander of the drill team, with the rank of Cadet 2nd Lieutenant, is the only student other than a senior to hold officer rank. Before going to Brown, he attended Valley Forge Military Academy at Wayne, Pennsylvania.

JOHN F. PELLETIER, Wayland police officer, has completed a four-week course given by the State Police.

Wayland Mail Now on R.F.D.

As a result of the change in the mail delivery system, 750 mail boxes on poles sprouted by the roadsides last month, says Postmaster Thomas E. Hynes.

There was some confusion at first, he says, and the Post Office staff in Wayland had to work late nights for a week or so. But it's getting straightened out, he says, and should soon be working smoothly.

Cochituate has had home delivery of mail for years, and part of North Wayland has had mail delivery by way of Lincoln. But for most of Wayland this is the first home delivery of mail in history.

The southern delivery route, R.F.D. #2, includes parts of the Town which used to be served by the Cochituate P. O. A couple of Cochituate postoffice patrons, it is reported, declined to have Wayland addresses after having Cochituate addresses for many years, and hired boxes at the Cochituate Post Office.

Some patrons put up their new letter boxes on the wrong side of the street. Some failed to put their names on the boxes. Some unskillfull do-it-yourself citizens had severe wrestling matches with boxes, posts and postholes before they got equipped.

One immediate effect of the change is a falling off in attendance at the morning social hour at Wayland Postoffice, and a lessening of the traffic jam outside the building. Mr. Hynes says a number of Wayland residents have relinquished their boxes at the Postoffice, and that for once boxes are now available to any who may want them.

The new deal makes more work sorting mail, he says, but cuts down on window work. He says some residents who lived some distance from the Center used to get their mail only once or twice a week, for lack of transportation. All in all, he thinks the new arrangement is going to work out as a big improvement.

JOHN B. GREGORY of 19 Concord Road, spoke at the May 17 meeting of the Kiwanis Club in connection with Chemical Progress Week. He is a partner of the Bacon Laboratories in Watertown.

Alert This Month For CD Workers

In connection with the nation-wide Civil Defense test exercise known as "OPERATION ALERT 1955," on June 15 and 16 there will be no public participation in the Town of Wayland. Civil Defense Control Centers in both ends of Town will be manned and test messages will be sent and received. No audible alert will be sounded on the fire alarm and activities will be confined to Civil Defense personnel.

The exercises will start at 12:00 noon on June 15 and extend through 2:00 p.m. on June 16.

Wayland Civil Defense organization will presume that Wayland will not be evacuated, but that Wayland will have to keep Routes 20 and 30 open for evacuees moving westward from the Greater Boston area.

D. A. R.

State officers of the DAR will be guests of the Wayside Inn Chapter at a buffet luncheon on Friday, June 3 at 1 p.m., in the vestry of the First Parish Church. On this fiftieth charter day of the chapter, special patriotic emphasis will feature the program of the afternoon. Mrs. Phyllis Durgin and trio will present a program of Stephen Foster music.

During the year the chapter presented Wayland Girl Scout Troop 14, seventh grade girls, with an American flag and standard. At this meeting a formal presentation will be held, as the girls accept the flag with a Girl Scout flag ceremony. Girl Scout leaders of Wayland, and those especially interested in Troop 14, are invited to attend.

Happy Hollow P.T.A.

A musical program by pupils of the school will be featured at the final meeting of the Happy Hollow P.T.A. on Tuesday, June 7. Officers will also be elected.

D.B.W. Writes Detroit

It's Time for Man Size Ash Trays

Open letter to Detroit:

Dear Motor Tycoon:

While you geniuses of the production line have been improving the automobile by putting in it every home-like device except the bird cage, you have forgotten something.

Back in the good old days when the self starter was a daring innovation, smoking on the open road was no problem. Even with a windshield, a driver could scarcely keep a Sweet Caporal going.

But things are different now. Driver and passengers are tucked inside a cushioned box, protected by weather eyes and air conditioning and Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn, and smoking is easy. So's necking, but that's not this problem.

Here is where progress has failed. You big designers have put ash trays in dash boards, but what size ash trays?

Ever see a poison-neat housekeeper?

When a smoker comes in her house, she brings out, reluctantly, an ash tray the size of a half dollar. Two cigarette stubs in it and it's full, and the caller flees.

That's substantially the size ash tray your designers are still giving us.

It's not as though there weren't room in that dash for an ash tray of decent size. Take the glove compartment. In 50 years, no resident of this Town has ever put gloves in a glove compartment. Spare dungarees, old road maps, licenses and registrations, pint bottles, aspirin bottles, ham sandwiches, Baby's report card, flashlight, Tom Linnehan's bill, old love letters . . . but never a pair of gloves. The heater has made gloves obsolete, but your boys haven't heard the news.

So why not take some more room from that big dash and put in two ash trays, each one as big, at least, as half a grapefruit? And how about a lip on the thing, so somebody can put down a cigarette, or even a cigar, for a moment or two, while he fishes in his pocket for the money for the current payment on the heap?

And how about eliminating the kind of incinerator ash tray now in use?

That's the one you close up when the mess inside catches fire and begins to smell up the interior of the $4000 sedan. The idea is that the one-alarm fire, deprived of oxygen, will go out. So it will in 150 miles, after it has made the vehicle smell like Hiroshima after the blast.

You should know that women will never stop putting cellophane into the ash tray.

The trouble is that the lawmakers are getting neat, too. The signs say you mustn't toss smoking material overboard. Therefore there must be a trash container of size inside.

How about a grinder, a machine in the dash which will take cigarette stubs, sandwich wrapings, tissues, chain links from hot dogs and similar minor rubbush, and transform it into a thin ash which may be safely dropped from the speeding vehicle, to be blown away harmlessly? You could sell it as an accessory, like wheels, for $178 extra.

Trash is the great American problem, sir, and you aren't solving it. Why, there's a man in this Town who has put up his car for the summer. Can't get into it, it's so full of old papers and banana skins. — D.B.W.

cluding a Chief's room, locker room and two cells.

Selectman John W. Leavitt is chairman of the committee, which has been divided into two parts. Chief Clifton Haynes of the Fire Department, Director W. R. Hulbert of Civil Defense and Richard H. Burchill, member at large, have been working on the fire and police wing. Robert M. Morgan, Finance Committee; Frederick G. Perry Jr., Planning Board, and Herbert R. Fallgren, at large, have been studying the office wings.

All information on the building, including costs, will be presented at a Special Town Meeting, probably to be held this Fall. Forty thousand dollars of the cost, voted at the March Town Meeting, has already been provided for in this year's tax rate.

The building would house all the Town officials and Departments not otherwise provided for. The Library Board uses the Library, the School Committee uses the High School, the Board of Health has quarters in the Parmenter Health Center and the Highway Department and the Water Department have their own quarters. It would provide space for some officials who, like Town Treasurer Dorothy S. Damon, have been using private homes as offices.

Zoning Board

The Wayland Zoning Board of Appeals has taken the following action:

Granted: Application of Millie Palmer for frontage variance for two lots on Maiden Lane.

VIRILIUM
LIQUID FERTILIZER
For a green, healthy lawn you'll take pride in all summer long, fertilize regularly with Virilium liquid fertilizer. No fuss or bother to you! Our applicators spray Virilium on your lawn, scientifically and accurately.
A healthy, well-fed lawn crowds out weeds and crabgrass . . . resists drying out. Your lawn takes on a richer, greener appearance . . . often within twenty-four hours after feeding. Virilium's carefully-balanced formula — 12% nitrogen, 8% available phosphoric acid and 4% potash — reaches the grass through both leaves and roots, double-feeding the way no dry fertilizer can! For a lawn that will be the envy of the neighborhood, let us treat your lawn regularly with famous fast-acting Virilium. Call or write us today for a free estimate. No obligation!

Jr.-Sr. High School PTA

The Junior-Senior High School PTA held its annual election of officers at a meeting on May 9, at the High School. The following were chosen officers for the coming school year: President, Stanley J. Shurtliff; 1st vice president, Edward White; 2nd vice president, James Strong; Secretary, Mr. Rossi; Treasurer, Joseph Paradis.

Meetings with Sixth Grade Parents are Held

In order to make the transition from elementary school to Junior High a little easier for the pupils, the Junior High staff, with Miss Jean T. Nelson and Headmaster W. Maxwell Griffin, held meetings with parents of sixth graders in each of the three elementary schools this Spring. The three meetings, first of their kind to be held in Town, were well attended. As a follow-up, sixth graders were taken on orientation trips to Junior High. Seventh graders acted as guides, while the new boys and girls looked around at the place where they'll be going to school in September.

Tom Longtime Wins WHS Assn. Trophy

Twenty-nine black and orange jackets were awarded to Wayland High School boy and girl athletes at the annual All Sports Banquet and Dance, run by the Wayland High Association, on April 30.

Winners of the Babe Ruth Good Sportsmanship Awards were Andy Kerr and Patricia Lally. Winner of the Wayland High Association trophy for best athlete was Tommy Longtine, three-sport star.

Two hundred and fifty persons attended the turkey dinner. One hundred and thirty of the diners were boys and girls of the High School, winners of various athletic awards, who came as guests. It was called the biggest and best dinner of the Wayland High Association, the organization which recognizes athletic achievement by local boys and girls.

Maureen Carroll, Edith Hilton. Julia Hollis, Catherine Houston, Patricia Lacey, Mary Ann Lundy, Patricia Marotte, Jacqueline Masse, Mary Mussmacher, Betty Pettigrew, Priscilla Reid, Karen Riggs, Susan Robinson, Shirley Stevens, Marion Thorne and Carol Yarrish.

Donations for jackets and the general cause were given by dozens of citizens and business firms.

Dominic Anzivino was toastmaster at the dinner. Rev. Philip G. McGinty gave the invocation and Rev. George C. Gutekunst the benediction. Speakers were Dr. Rexford S. Souder, William M. Griffin, Samuel P. Strickland, Mrs. Mildred M. Goddard, Ralph Salvati and Russell T. Kerr.

Mr. Russell Kerr was later reelected president of the Association, as were G. P. Richardson, vice president, and Harold Ward, treasurer. New secretary is Dominic Anzivino, who replaces Rudolph Bruce. Head usher at the dinner was Joseph H. Carroll.

The boys and girls love those jackets.

— News Roundup —

The outside experts were due to begin their study of the Wayland school system and its needs on June 1 and are scheduled to report on Oct. 1.

Any person who has not received a notice of the nursing services available in Town may have one by applying at the Parmenter Health Center.

The house of Tom Barr, who has the store in Wayland Center, has been fixed up lately. Research showed that it was built in 1812, in what is now the front yard of the First Parish Church, and later moved to its present location. It was put together with oak beams and oak pegs, now almost as hard as rocks.

The New England office of the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report sends the Crier a report of no particular Wayland interest, except for its general statement that the taxpayers are getting it in the neck, as usual.

Community Chest

The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Wayland Community Chest on April 27: Walter H. Wilcox, president; Theodore R. Magoun, vice president; Mrs. Schuyler Hollingsworth; clerk and treasurer. Board of Directors: Francis W. Bartol, George G. Bogren, Hugh F. Colliton, F. Stetson Eddy, George I. Emery, Richard W. Foster, Charles Y. Wadsworth, Mrs. Frederick S. Whiteside.

Officers elected at the annual meeting were: Moderator: Roger P. Stokey; Clerk: Mrs. George F. Dickey; Treasurer: Maurice W. Williams; Parish Committee: Dunbar Holmes and Mrs. Walter H. Wilcox. Nominating Committee for 1956 will be: David A. Trageser, Mrs. David G. Bernard, and J. Cecil Bessell.

New Clara Stone Chapel is Dedicated

The Clara Olivia Stone Chapel in the new parish house of the Trinitarian Congregational Church was dedicated with a service held on the evening of May 1.

Mrs. Stone, the mother of J. Sidney Stone, prominent Wayland citizen, was born in Boston in 1852. During the last years of her life she lived in Wayland, where she died in 1945 at the age of 93. The Chapel was equipped by J. Sidney Stone as a memorial to her.

Troop #1 Cochituate, BSA

The Cochituate Boy Scout Troop was host at the Mohawk District Round Table on May 9. On the week-end of May 20-22 boys of the troop and their leaders attended a Camporee at the Parmenter School in Sudbury. At the last Board of Review, held at the Cochituate School, Allan Arnold, Kenneth Gray and Stanley Locka passed their second class rating. The following merit badges were awarded: Peter Baker, Jr., Home Repairs; Bruce Dusseault, First Aid; Brenden Woods, Architecture.

DE CORDOVA MUSEUM

During the month of June, two important and large-scale exhibitions will be on view at the deCordova Museum in Lincoln. Opening on May 29th will be the exhibition—"States and Territories"—81 designs by American artists for the Container Corporation of America. An interesting feature of the exhibition is the three-dimensional installation, designed by the Department of Design at the Container Corporation. Pictures are hung on a scaffold-like structure covering the entire floor of the gallery and enabling visitors to see only a few pictures at any one time. In the upper galleries will be the Boston Printmakers 7th annual exhibition.

Two Classes Will Be Held in Weston

Because of the increase of the local school population, says Dr. Rexford S. Souder, superintendent of schools, two Wayland classes will be held next year in the Weston elementary school.

The pre-school census, he says, shows 1221 Wayland children under the age of 6, an increase of 177 over 1954. That is as of Jan. 1, 1955. More children have been born since and have moved into Town.

The increase, says Dr. Souder, is the largest in any year since the census has been taken.

Because of the increase in the school population, he says, there will be eight first grades in September, as against six this year. In all, there will have to be 36 school rooms next year for elementary pupils, and there are only 33 existing rooms. One room will be found in the High School, and the other two will be in Weston.

Dr. Souder says the Weston School Committee has been most courteous and generous in this transaction. Wayland will administer these two rooms as part of the Wayland Center School, paying Weston the cost of utilities and custodial services at the rate of about $1000 a year per room. The children will go by bus, as though to a Wayland school.

Next year, says Dr. Souder, Wayland will have eight first grades, seven seconds, six thirds, six fourths, four fifths and four sixths, plus one special class.

The figures indicate a total school population for next September of around 1500, as against a little more than 1300 this year.

Cochituate PTA

A square dance and annual meeting were conducted by the Cochituate PTA on May 7. All officers were re-elected, as follows: president, Melvin Orenstein; vice president, Mrs. John J. McCann; secretary, Mrs. E. G. Slotta; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Schultz. Mrs. Richard A. Howard will be chairman of the nominating committee and Mrs. James Arnold, program chairman.

Mrs. Bertelson to be League President

At the annual meeting of the Wayland League of Women Voters, which was to be held May 25, at the Trinitarian Congregational Church, the nominating committee presented the following slate for election to office for the year 1955-56: President, Mrs. William Bertelsen; 1st Vice President, Mrs. Bruce Kingsbury; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. Leslie Flood; Secretary, Mrs. Richard Best; Directors: Mrs. Charles Gillespie; Mrs. W. M. Griffin, Mrs Raymond Zayotti, and Mrs. Richard F. Lincoln. The nominating committee for the coming year will be Mrs. John Quinn, Mrs. Harold Goldberg, and Mrs. Duane Haagensen.

A joint meeting of the retiring board of the League and the new board will be held Monday, June 7, at the home of Mrs. John Howard, Concord Road.

Pearson Appointed

The Board of Selectmen have announced the appointment of Henry G. Pearson, of Old Connecticut Path, to the Town Personnel Board to fill the vacancy left by John Brownell. Mr. Pearson is now in the field of personnel and during 1951 and 1952 was on the staff of the Regional Wage Stabilization Board.

—Health Center News—

The school dental clinic is now under way at the Parmenter Health Center. The school dentist, Dr. Joseph Fournier, is at the Health Center three mornings a week from 9 to 12. All dental work has been completed for the Center School. The children from the Cochituate and Happy Hollow Schools are receiving their dental care at the clinic presently.

The American Red Cross Home Nursing Classes will be conducted at the Center. Those wishing to take the course are requested to register for it by calling the Center at OL 3-5111.

Plans are under way for a chest x-ray clinic which we hope to have operating in the fall. The Middlesex Health Association, the Board of Health and the Parmenter Health Center Trustees and Staff met on May 19 to discuss details.

The Board of Health and staff and the Parmenter Health Center Trustees and Staff have been meeting to organize and coordinate the Public Health Nursing Service. A leaflet explaining what the Nursing Service will do has been jointly prepared by the Parmenter Health Center and the Board of Health and will be sent to each household in Wayland within the next few weeks.

Plans are being made for the physical examination program which will be conducted at the time that the children register for the first grade.

Outdoor School

There will be 45 children of the Fifth Grade at Happy Hollow School who will participate in an outdoor educational program during the week of June 10. At the Bradley Palmer State Park in Topsfield, they will observe first hand bird habitats both on water and land, lumbering and other activities closely related to their science studies.

Seniors Graduate From High School

Girls in white caps and gowns, carrying bouquets of roses, boys in black caps and gowns, 44 Wayland High School Seniors were graduated at exercises held in the Auditorium on the evening of June 9.

Shirley Stevens, secretary of the class, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Stevens of West Plain Street, won four awards and scholarships, totalling $555, on her record. She plans to go to the Boston University School of Business Administration next year.

The address of welcome was given by Edward Powers, president of the class. Senior speakers were Susan Robinson, Carol Yarrish, Andrew Kerr and Shirley Stevens. The class gift, a camera, was given to Headmaster William M. Griffin by President Powers of the class.

Lenore Butler recited the class poem. Rev. Otis F. Kelly gave the invocation and Rev. George C. Gutekunst pronounced the benediction. The High School Orchestra was led by Lester MacArthur. Accompanist for the Girls' chorus and the Mixed Chorus was Janet Archer.

Mrs. John W. Arnold, president of the Cochituate Mothers' Club, presented the Club's scholarship to Karen Riggs.

Mrs. Henry M. Doane, president of the Wayland Woman's Club, gave the Club's scholarship of $250 to Shirley Stevens.

Mr. Edward F. Thorburn, chairman of the scholarship committee of the Kiwanis Club of Wayland, awarded Kiwanis scholarships to Arthur W. Holmes and Catherine Houston. He said it was the second time a Kiwanis scholarship had been given. In 1954, it was given after the graduation exercises.

Mr. Ernest B. Walston, president of Cochituate Beach Rules Announced

Lake Cochituate Beach was opened formally for the swimming season at 10 a.m. on June 19. Some of the rules:

No fee for registration, but all residents are asked to pay $2 per family to help with expenses.

Families residing in Wayland for the Summer may have beach privileges for $5.

Guests by the day, brought by Wayland sponsors, may swim for 50 cents each, 25 cents to be refunded if identification tag is returned.

Out of town residents may use the area for a seasonal fee of $25.

Beach hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Anybody using the beach at any other hours does so at his own risk. Unauthorized persons using the beach are to be regarded as trespassers.

Class Night

The Class of 1955, Wayland High School on June 3 presented its Class Night program, toward which the High School P.T.A. contributed $50. The program included Class History by Catherine Houston and Timothy Smith, Class Prophecy by Shirley Stevens and Carol Yarrish, Class Will by Andrew Kerr and Thomas Longtine, and Comic Sketch by Susan Robinson, Mary Ann Lundy and Lenore Butler.

Doe Hits Car, State Pays Bill, Warden Gets Body

John J. Donovan Jr. of Blossom Lane, headed towards Wayland Center along the State Road at 8:30 on the morning of June 18, struck and killed a 150-pound doe which dashed into the highway from the Red Coach Farm Market, Chief Ernest H. Damon reports.

The impact of the deer's body upon the grill, radiator and hood of the automobile was disastrous, the Chief says. The State is responsible for the damage. The game warden picked up the body.

Crafts, Music, Speech On Summer Program

There's plenty going on in the schools this summer:

Arts and crafts program for elementary school children, in cooperation with Park Department and Junior Town House, began June 27. This is now a standard Summer program in Town.

Instrumental music program, directed by Lester MacArthur, began at same time. Two days a week for eight weeks. Those interested in joining late may call the Superintendent's office. Group work is free. A fee for private lessons.

A speech program for entering first graders. Two days a week. This is voluntary and free. Four weeks. Should help with ear training and hence should help the little ones learn to read.

The dental clinic will operate by appointment at Parmenter Health Center through the Summer. About 500 fillings are needed by 100 children, mostly Happy Hollow School kids who couldn't be reached during the school year because of the double sessions. Dr. Joseph P. Fournier of Framingham. Small fee for fillings by appointment.

Shed Burns

A shed connected with the barn of the old Fairbanks property on Main Street, Cochituate, next door to Dath's store, burned near midnight, June 14. Chief Ernest H. Damon says boys were suspected of being responsible.

Board Of Health Bars Piggery Plan

There are no pigs in Wayland and there won't be, it appeared last month after a hearing before the Board of Health.

This setback to animal husbandry occurred as a result of a petition by George Kanavos of Brighton, who said he wanted to lease the farm of Louis Dean on the State Road in Weston and raise 150 pigs.

Mr. Dean's farm, the petition said, is partly in Weston, but mostly in Wayland, in the region south of the State Road behind the Dean Dairy. And the piggery part, in Wayland, has been operating for 40 years until a year or so ago.

Twenty-five or 30 Wayland residents, mostly from the Westway Road and Blossom Lane, were invited by the Board of Health to an informal hearing at the Parmenter Health Center. The Board said the Weston Board of Health had agreed to support any action taken by the Wayland Board.

Members John C. Quinn and Norman G. Fair of the Board presided at the hearing, which was held in antiseptic surroundings on a June evening when the air was like perfume.

Neither Mr. Kanavos nor Mr. Dean appeared. Instead, James M. Curran of Natick, who has a real estate office in Cochituate, spoke as their representative.

Mr. Curran said that the piggery would be conducted in the best manner. Specifically, he said that in the past "there possibly had been an odor." Some laughed.

He said there are two kinds of piggery smells. One is from manure and the other is from leftover food. None of the proposed manure would be spread after May 1, he said. The rest would be buried until it could be used. As for the leftover food, there's a law nowadays which says garbage has to be cooked, and he said that after garbage has been cooked the pigs eat it all.

Mr. Curran also said there'd be a new, tight fence, because pigs are notorious burrowers, and that the premises would be bulldozed practically like a landscape job.

Then the questions. Had there ever been a permit for a piggery there during 40 years? No.

At this point Mr. Quinn and Mr. Fair said they'd never heard of this piggery before. Residents of Blossom Lane,

Mosquitoes Are Slapped Down

For the first time in its history, Wayland in June, 1955, was free of mosquitoes.

Person after person said he hadn't seen a single one of the miserable creatures. One man in Framingham reported that he had seen one.

People could sit out of doors in the evening, unmolested. They could even walk in the woods. Except as protection against the house fly and the bee, screens were unnecessary.

It all came about through the fact that the Town voted, at the March Town Meeting, to join the Eastern Middlesex Mosquito Control Project. This now includes 13 cities and towns consisting of an area of 160 square miles.

A few years back Wayland had a $1500 mosquito control project of its own. Some said it helped, some said it didn't, and after one year the project was dropped. Mosquitoes from unsprayed Sudbury seemed to blow right over into this Town.

The success of the present project, says its superintendent, Robert L. Armstrong, is that it covers a wide area. There are still complaints, he says, from the perimeter of the district up against the wild mosquito frontier, but inside the perimeter the mosquito is deader than the polio virus.

Wayland joined the project formally in mid-April, which seems to have been a good time to catch the mosquito larvae napping. They put oil on puddles and they sprayed the swamps and likely hatching places from helicopters and planes. They didn't find many larvae in the middle of the Sudbury marshes, but they did find many in some of the coves on the Sudbury side, and these they gave the DDT treatment.

Sudbury hasn't yet joined the Project. Instead, it has a program of its own.

Another thing that helped, says Mr. Armstrong, is that the State spraying for gipsy moths came at about the same time as the mosquito spraying. While the moth spray was killing all the gipsy

7301 Will Probably Be Official Count

Town Clerk Leila Sears reports that the Town's population, by the figure which probably has to stand as official for 1955, is 7301. This is substantially less than the round, tentative figure of 7500 given in the Crier last month, but it nevertheless shows a great growth. As people move in and out and people die and are born, the figure changes so rapidly from day to day that it is never possible, as of a given hour, to say exactly what is the population.

300 Children Receive First Polio Shots Here

Three hundred first and second graders of Wayland were given their first polio shots at the three elementary schools last month by local physicians, Drs. Charlotte A. Stewart, Ernest H. Damon Jr. and David R. Corey. Parke Davis vaccine was used.

When the children would get their second shots the Board of Health couldn't tell. They thought it might be Fall. Every bit of vaccine not used had to be sent back, they said. When more would be sent, local authorities were not told.

St. Ann's Guild Has Banquet in Sudbury

Approximately 100 members of St. Ann's Guild, the Catholic Women's Club of the Wayland-Sudbury Parish, attended the annual banquet at Wayside Inn, Sudbury, on May 31.

Mrs. Helen J. Cullen, banquet chairman, presented the officers for the past season who have been: Miss Claire Doherty, president; Mrs. Martha Curran, vice president; Mrs. Angie Genna, recording secretary; Mrs. Peggy Angelosanto, corresponding secretary; Miss M. Claire McManus, treasurer.

The popular after-dinner speaker, Mrs. Helene Maxwell Dardis, of Georgetown, who is a graduate of Trinity College and a member of the Bar Association, chose as her subject, "Candlelight and You," which was well received by the audience.

Father William J. Carty, Spiritual Director of the Guild, congratulated the officers and members on a successful year and presented the retiring President with a gift from the guild members.

The officers for the next season are: Mrs. Gloria Harvey, president; Mrs. Angie Genna, vice president; Mrs. Elinor Travers, recording secretary; Mrs. Rita Bagnulo, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Marguerite Lindquist, treasurer.

At the conclusion of the festivities, Mrs. Helen J. Cullen expressed her gratitude to her Co-Chairman, Mrs. Phyllis E. Sarsfield and to the members of her Committee who were: Mrs. Marion Rumpel, Mrs. Mae Stickney, Mrs. Gertrude Owens, Miss Claire Doherty, Mrs. Marion Birmingham, Mrs. Emily Logan, and Mrs. Madelyn Sharkey.

Changes in High School Curriculum

Of interest to parents of high school pupils will be the news that the Wayland High School curriculum has been substantially enlarged. Some of the changes:

Beginning next September, a number of courses will be offered each year which hitherto have been given in alternate years. They include physics, chemistry, algebra 2, trigonometry, solid geometry, salesmanship, commercial law and consumer economics.

A course in physical science will be an 11th and 12th grade elective, as will a course in the rudiments of music and harmony. These two courses have never been given before.

There will also be an accelerated mathematics program. A second section of algebra 2 will be offered, for those of extra talent and those preparing for engineering courses. There will be a 12th grade course which will include a semester of college mathematics.

The language section has also been strengthened. Two years ago the school had single classes in Latin 1 and 2 and French 1 and 2. Next year there will be 10 classes in Latin and French, including Latin 3 and French 3.

The teaching staff will be organized more completely by departments, also, and the size of classes in the Senior High School will be reduced.

There will also be a librarian at the High School. There is an appropriation for new books.

The money for these improvements at the High School was included in the budget submitted and approved at the March Town Meeting.

Dean Allen Feted by High School Faculty

The faculty of the Senior High School had a party for David J. Allen, school dean, who is retiring this year after 37 years on the Wayland High School faculty. Among the guests were Mrs. Mabel S. Draper, Miss Maude Merrithew and Miss Marion S. Simpson, all former members of the school staff.

Peck Ave. and Valley View Rd. Work Starts

The Highway Department has been doing a number of jobs around Town. Betterment work on Peck Avenue and Valley View Road has been well started, with excavation and spreading of gravel. A sidewalk has been put around the Cochituate Fire Station, and 700 feet of sidewalk has been built along the North side of East Plain Street, from Main Street to Dunster Avenue.

A long stretch of sidewalk along Old Connecticut Path, for the benefit of Happy Hollow School pupils, is awaiting its turn. Money has been appropriated for it.

Betterment work in the Wheelock development will probably start in the Fall.

Thirty miles of Town ways have been sprayed for brush and ivy control.

Old Sudbury Road Now Being Rebuilt

Reconstruction of 2000 feet of Old Sudbury Road, directly north of the Boston & Maine railroad tracks, began last month, and Highway Superintendent Albert E. Potvin said he thought this section should be finished by the end of June.

This job might have been finished last year, but for the hurricanes. After last year's section is finished, there's a 1955 piece of perhaps another 2000 feet to be done.

This is a Chapter 90 job, in which State, County and Town join. Mr. Potvin says he followed the plans laid down by the State engineers, and that these plans necessitated removing a number of trees. Many of them were storm-whipped maples which would have fallen over in the next big wind, he says.

Jr. High Team Ties in Dual County League

Volunteer Drivers are Needed by Red Cross

Volunteers for the Motor Transportation Corps of the Wayland Chapter of the Red Cross are urgently needed to drive their cars for persons in need of medical care and for children attending the swimming and water safety program at Lake Cochituate. Mrs. Richard Potter, chairman of the Motor Transportation Corps, said that schedules can be worked out for volunteer drivers to fit any day.

Drivers also are needed to transport children to the Parmenter Health Centre, it was pointed out. The drivers can volunteer for all or any one of the transportation needs of the Wayland Chapter. Volunteers may contact Mrs. Potter, EL 8-4562.

wrinkled their noses at this, and said they'd known about it for some time.

Then Mr. Theodore W. Fabisak asked from where Mr. Kanavos meant to collect his garbage. Answer: From the Norwood Hospital, four or five restaurants in Cleveland Circle and two Boston hotels. He explained that hotel and restaurant garbage is considered superior to ordinary leftovers.

Finally a motion was called for, and those assembled said, as one, that they were against pigs in Wayland.

On this note, all concerned walked out into the warm, sweet smelling June night.

After the hearing, Mr. Quinn and Mr. Fair said they had certainly had an expression of public opinion. The Board of Health says there will be no pigs.

Junior Prom

Barbara Roche, president of the Junior Class of the High School, was chosen Queen at the annual Junior prom on May 27. Comprising the queen's court were Joan Tewksbury, Beth Cusamano, Rita Brosseau and Jeanne Houghton. Theme of the prom was "Moonlight and Roses," the setting, a rose garden for which 1200 crepe paper roses were made.

Newton-Waltham Bank Official Attends Session

Howard P. Strum, Assistant Treasurer of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company is a member of the class of bank officers who is attending the Graduate School of Banking at its annual summer session at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J.

Mr. Strum is one of over 1000 leading bankers who is attending the two-week session of the school which is sponsored by the American Bankers' Association. To qualify for graduation, Mr. Strum must attend a similar summer session again in 1956. In addition, he must complete two years of extension work at home and will be required to write a thesis based upon original research in some phase of finance.

Meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Whiteside, Rice Road, on June 2, the Republican Town Committee elected new officers as follows: chairman, Mrs. Frederick Whiteside; vice chairman, Robert M. Morgan; treasurer, Elmer Bigwood; recording secretary, Robert H. Scotland; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Arthur Kimball. There are 33 registered and 32 associate members of the Committee.

Officers of the Committee express the hope that any residents of Wayland, old or new, interested in learning more of Republican activities, will get in touch with any of those named above.

D. A. R.

State officers of the DAR were guests of Wayside Inn Chapter at a luncheon and meeting in the vestry of the First Parish Church on June 3. A musical program had been arranged by Mrs. Howard Lyford, chairman, featuring Mrs. Phyllis Durgin, of Natick, and her trio.

Baseball Team Wins Five and Loses Five

Final record for the Wayland High baseball team was five won and five lost. The team split with Weston also, one game won and one lost.

Zoning Board

The Zoning Board of Appeals has made the following decisions:

Granted: John Quackenbos permission to make addition to house on non-conforming lot.

Granted: Catherine Daly permission for addition.

Granted: Newton YMCA permit day camp.

Granted: Anne Southworth permit to operate beauty parlor in her own home.

Bits from History

Thirty-two deaths in Town were reported in 1897. Nine were of children under the age of one year, and 11 were of persons past the age of 70. Joseph Bullard died at the age of 93 years, 10 months and four days. If people didn't die in childhood then, it appears, they had a fine chance of reaching 80.

O'Neill - DesRochers

Mr. and Mrs. Edward James O'Neill of Oxbow road, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Diane Elizabeth, to Joseph Louis DesRochers, son of Louis Joseph DesRochers, of Hudson, and the late Alma LaFrance DesRochers.

Miss O'Neill, a graduate of Wayland High School, Class '52, attended Northeastern University, and is currently employed at Edward A. Veno's office in Wayland. Mr. DesRochers, a graduate of Hudson High School in 1949 and an ex-Navy man, is now attending Northeastern University.

July 24th has been set for the day of the wedding and the place will be St. Ann's Church in Wayland.

Girls Softball

The Wayland High girls' softball team of 1955 included:

Carol Dyer and Marilyn Dusseault, co-captains, and Joan Lizotte, Joan Tewksbury, Nancy McEnroy, Jannie Houghton, Mary Ann Smith, Karen Weeks, Claire Witzell, Ann Kane, Dorothy Campbell, Carol Archer, Patricia Marotte, Jacqueline Masse, Carol Deverell, Carolyn LeDrew, Eleanor Perrin, Dorothy Thompson, Beverly Simpson, Judith Smith, Jean Otto, Janet Shepard and Linda Dusseault. Earth Movers Make Life And Landscape Too Smooth..D.B.W.

Modern mechanical contraptions are shaving this Town down to the water's edge, and it's muddy water at that.

The gasoline-powered lawnmower, obtainable on easy credit terms, cuts the grass so short that the green stuff is below the level of last week's brown clippings.

The bulldozers and other monstrous earth moving machines level vast areas like the Raytheon parking lot.

The big shovels rip into the gravel banks. The big trucks carry away the gravel, spilling quantities of it on the Town roads. Then the Town sweeps off the roads again. Sweeping is sweeping the Town.

Every new development has new roads. They are scraped down, smoothed over, then surfaced. Where the hot top once lands the grass will never grow again, Unless the Highway Department gives the whole thing up.

Hurricanes blow down all the trees, or all the limbs off half the trees, and everybody goes around picking the ground clean of arboreal trash.

At the south end of Town the dynamiters are at work. The roadbuilder's motto is:

"If you see a hill, take it away. A rock, blow it up. A house, knock it down. Any trees, cut 'em down. A lake, fill it in."

It's the passion for smoothness, not shared by many a worthy citizen who finds himself financially flat.

In the house it's the same story. Practically all of the floors are level, so they use a vacuum cleaner on them. If the floors aren't smooth enough, they rub them down with an electric sander. If that isn't good enough, they use an electric polisher on them.

The fussy housekeeper even insists that beds be made smooth, in spite of the obvious circumstance that as soon as anybody gets into a bed it becomes lumpy and disheveled.

What we need is the abolition of this machinery which makes so much smoothness possible and a return to comfortable old days when the grass in the dooryard was a foot tall, there were ruts in the road, corn husks in the mattress, trees on the hills, lumps in the mashed potato and holes in the screens. Those were the happy days, when many even had rocks in their heads, and liked it that way. D. B. W.

Rev. Gutekunst Not Going

A report got around that Rev. George C. Gutekunst of the Cochituate Community Methodist Church was leaving his post, but it's not so. "I am staying," he says. He says he was reappointed for one year on May 29 at the annual New England Conference by Bishop John Wesley Lord.

Paul F. Maxwell, of Davelin Road, was elected president of the Happy Hollow P.T.A. Vice presidents are Wallace Jones and Mel Berrett. Mrs. Donald Shea was elected secretary, and Mrs. Robert Davis, treasurer. At the final meeting, the various Grades sang choral selections under the direction of Mrs. Pauline N. Radford. The First Grade presented a unique circus show.

Daly - Busser

On June 18, Miss Jeanne Barbara Daly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Daly of Worcester, became the bride of Robert Carleton Busser, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Busser of Millbrook Road. At the 10 a.m. ceremony, followed by a reception, Mr. Busser was attended by his brother, John Reed Busser.

The groom is a graduate of Lawrence Academy and Cornell University and is employed by Pratt Whitney Company in Springfield. The bride is a graduate of Bay Path Junior College, Springfield, and Boston University. She is a teacher at Bay Path. They will live in Springfield.

Carol-Edna Refund

Town Accountant Norman E. Taylor reports that the Town of Wayland has received reimbursement of $23,654.63 so far from the Commonwealth for 1954 hurricane damage, plus $2,496.14 from insurance.

The Town's total bill for hurricane damage was $39,002.93, and Mr. Taylor says he thinks 90 per cent of that sum will be recovered from the State. The money comes from a special fund voted by the Legislature after Carol and Edna. Had it not been for this fund, says Mr. Taylor, those storms might have put something like $3.50 additional on the tax rate.

League of W. V.

New president of the Wayland League of Women Voters is Mrs. William Bertelsen, a former member of the Wayland Board of Health. Other officers elected May 25 are Mrs. Bruce F. Kingsbury, first vice president; Mrs. Leslie Flood, second vice president; Mrs. Richard Best, secretary; Mrs. John T. Howard, treasurer, and Mrs. Harold Belles, Mrs. Charles Gillespie, Mrs. William Griffin, Mrs. Ray Harris, Mrs. Philip Lane, Mrs. Richard Lincoln, Mrs. A. S. MacMillan, Mrs. Allen Morgan, Mrs. Charles Owen, Mrs. Kemp Reade, Mrs. Douglas Surgenor and Mrs. H. R. Zayotti, directors. Other committee chairmen are Mrs. Richard Howard and Mrs. Alfred Whiting.

Newton YMCA Opens Day Camp at Seiler's

Camp Chickami, a new day camp in Wayland, is open for the summer. It's located on the property formerly known as Seiler's Recreation grounds behind Robin Hood's Ten Acres.

Sponsored by the Newton Y.M.C.A., the camp is open to all boys 8 to 14 for three two-week periods, July 11 to July 22, July 25 to August 5 and August 8 to August 19. Registration may be made through the Newton Y.M.C.A., BIgelow 4-6050.

WATER DEPARTMENT NOTES

The Water Department estimates that there will be 200 more takers of water in 1955, not counting Raytheon.

The Water Departmeet wants to drill another well at Baldwin's Pond, near the pumping station, one of these days. Tests already made show that a supply of good water is available. Tests at a place nearby showed plenty of water, but full of iron. The Department thinks an additional supply of water will be necessary for the Town's needs.

This first phase includes installation of a new organ and new lights in the sanctuary.

Twenty-eight new members were received into the church in April and seven more joined the fellowship June 19th. Tom Dudley and June McSherry were received on profession of faith; Elwyn Reese joined by transfer of letter from Dr. Jones Memorial Church, Scranton, Pa.; Mrs. Elwyn Reese came from Hickory St. Presbyterian Church in Scranton; Mrs. Sophie Steward comes from Church of Good Shepherd (Episcopal) in Watertown; Mrs. Anson Van Amberg from Roslindale Baptist Church, and David Goodhue from the Methodist Church in Sidney, Maine.

Green Thumb Club

The new Green Thumb Garden Club, meeting on June 13 at the home of Mrs. George Smith, Sherman Bridge Road, enjoyed a program on corsages and flower arrangements, with Mrs. Georgia Alstad acting as speaker and demonstrator. Mrs. Elizabeth Vanderpool was chairman of the meeting. The club's next meeting will be September 12, at the home of Mrs. D. L. Bartholomew.

Band and Orchestra Give Spring Concert

The Instrumental Music Department of the Wayland Schools gave its second annual Spring concert June 1 under Lester S. MacArthur's direction. There were two pieces by the Wayland Elementary Band, strong in trumpets, and two selections for tonettes by about 50 students of the 3rd grade.

After that the Orchestra, assisted by instruments from Sudbury, performed, followed by the Wayland High School Band alone.

Violins: Robert Yorke, Jean Wesley, Joan Walston, Diane Knowlton, Marsha Tashjian Virigina Thompson, Lucinda Parker, Molly Gierasch; Viola: Vivi Thomas; Cello: Anne Pearson; Flute: Harriet Colby; Trumpets: Robert Keefe, George Newton, Allen Lynch, Karen Smith, Stuart Finlay, Elaine Gladu; Mellophone: Arthur Coe, Baritone: Christine Smith, Trombones: Agnes Smith, Carl Taylor; Bass: David Furst; Drums: William Hyland, Charles Scharone; Piano: Caroll Deverell, Karin Weeks; Clarinets and Saxaphone: Dotty Campbell, Tommy Walther, Peter Gierasch, Skippy Cheslak, Lauren MacArthur, John Eckhardt.

— Town Hall Notes —

Eighteen sub-standard houses in Town were destroyed in 1954. The Board of Health says there were about 90 in Town, in all, and that two-thirds of them have been eliminated. Forty years ago, more or less, when Wayland was really a rural town, many persons built country camps out here. Then came the depression, and people moved into the camps as homes.

As houses, however, they were inadequate, without foundations, plumbing, insulation or other modern improvements, and with age they began to fall apart. The policy in the past few years has been to acquire such decrepit buildings, as they become empty, and run a bulldozer over them. The general idea for the long run is to wipe out all the old camps which have become modern shanties, for the general enhancement of values, comfort and health.

Happy Hollow Predecessor

An old stereopticon picture of the Thomas School on Old Connecticut Path, which stood from 1803 to 1858, has been unearthed by Mrs. Kenneth E. Morrell of Cochituate, whose aunt, Cornelia J. Bent, used to go to it.

This was the brick school, which stood on the east side of the Path, across the road and up a short distance from what's now the Schofield farm—then the farm of Maynard Thomas. Its exact site is unknown. Perhaps it was in the middle of what's now the travelled way, which was relocated six or seven years ago.

Old records relate that the ventilation in this school was bad, and the teachers used to complain of headaches. The building was too close to the road, too, and its windows were tempting targets for small boys with stones.

By 1858 it had begun to show its age, so it was torn down. Ten years later a new Thomas School, of wood, was built on the other side of the Path, nearby, and bricks from the old school were used to build its chimneys. It ceased to be used as a school around 1896, when the Center School was built. It is now the home of Donald B. Willard.

A note on the back of the picture says five brick school houses were built in various parts of Wayland between 1799 and 1808. Curiously, the new Happy Hollow school of 1954 is being built on almost the same site as the little brick number of 1803.

Abe Lincoln Tribute

Agnes T. McCann, who's in the third grade at Cochituate School, recently wrote a pretty fair tribute to Abraham Lincoln. Like this:

"Abraham Lincoln was born in a log cabin with only three sides but he soon grew out of it and all the other log cabins he had lived in. He soon got up to the White House and beeame known as the Second Father of Our Country. He was practicly the nicest President our Country ever knew. Abraham Lincoln was the kind man that freed the Nigaroes from slavery and we should all think as he did and remember that whether some people are black or white red or yellow they are still people and we should always treat them welcome just like we would want them to treat us."

moths and all the tent caterpillars, it was killing mosquitoes.

Not only was the mosquito condition "very good" this year, says Mr. Armstrong, but in succeeding years it will be better and better.

This year Wayland deposited $6905 with the project as its share. In following years, it seems, the Town's contribution should be smaller, as the mosquito population is depleted towards the zero point.

Cities and towns in the Project, besides Wayland, are Arlington, Belmont, Brookline, Cambridge, Framingham, Lexington, Lincoln, Newton, Waltham, Watertown, Wellesley and Weston. Away from the perimeter, says Mr. Armstrong, the only mosquitoes are those which hatch in back yards, in puddles and rusty tin cans. Individual householders, he says, should get after the breeding places of these "house" mosquitoes.

Wayland voted a Mosquito Control Committee at the March Town Meeting in 1954. Its members were Mrs. L. William Bertelsen, of the Board of Health; George F. Bowers Jr., Planning Board; George V. Deverell, Finance Committee, and Richard W. Foster and Mrs. J. Cecil Bessell.

This Committee reported at the 1955 Town Meeting, recommending that the Town join the Project. This was voted.

The Project is run by Commissioners from the various cities and towns. John C. Quinn of the Board of Health is the Wayland Commissioner on the Board.

Rain Doesn't Dampen Square Dancers' Ardor

The Strawberry Festival and square dance got rained in for the first time June 11. Manpower was quickly mobilized, to get food, equipment, music and musicians undercover in the High School auditorium. Within 15 minutes the party was going even stronger indoors. George K. Lewis, treasurer of the Wayland Junior Town House which sponsored the dance, reported that approximately $650 dollars had been raised.

Local businessmen receiving thanks from John B. Gregory, chairman of the Food Soliciation Committee, included Red Coach Grill, Red Coach Farm Market, Robin Hood's Ten Acres, Marshall's Apothecary, Capps Super Market, Lobster Haven, Perodeau's Store, Post Road Liquors, Dath's Package Store, Walnut Hill Farm, Johnson's Pharmacy, Higgins Ice Cream Co., Lee's Farm Market, Collins Market, Nisbet's Store, Ritchie's Roadside Stand, Peck's Market.

Ice Age in Wayland . . .

Prof. Martin, Local Geologist, Tells What the Glaciers Did

The following article written especially for the CRIER by James R. Martin of Main Street, Cochituate, Professor of Geology, Emeritus, of Boston University, is probably the first and only written survey of the Town's geology ever made. The Editors thank Prof. Martin for his scholarly contribution, and recommend it to young and old.

Wayland's geology is the story of a local part of continental glaciation which consisted of at least four advances and recessions of ice fields within a period of maybe 100,000 years, each to melt away. Wayland was free from ice maybe 10,000 years ago. Total work of shaping our land surface was by combined work of the entire period; however, present evidences are of the final stages when the last ice field was melting away.

A moot question, whether glaciation was a blessing or a curse to a region? Maybe it was a great blessing to Wayland. It gave us large areas which are high enough to be well drained, and with underground drainage to allow cesspools. It gave the level land for much of Cochituate, and the rolling low hills which Wayland Center and North Wayland enjoy. It gave the possibility of deep wells to give as good water as the world knows.

From economic interest, glaciation provided a basis on which soil has developed for grass and woodlands, gardens and farms. And it gave the variety of sands and gravels for diverse uses by builders and engineers, essential resources for present activities here.

To the bed rock which underlies the glacial materials the name of igneous rock is the only praetical one to use. Only technical, difficult study could give definite names, and the names would have little meaning other than to geologists. Rock names depend on exact minerals which are present, and fine grained rock does not show the minerals.

So far as I know there is no granite in Wayland.

Bed rock reaches the surface of the ground in comparatively few places: the ridge east of Cochituate Road and Main Street, along Rice Road, and in small ledges elsewhere. It always shows the well rounded, smooth surfaces of glacial erosion.

Our Eastern Massachusetts glaciation was by movement of the field of ice from northwest towards southeast. The direction is shown by scratches, called striations, on smooth surfaces of recently exposed ledges made by fragments of rock which rubbed over the surfaces under the ice. The nearest scratches I have seen to show the direction of glacial movement were in North Natick and they were definitely northwest-southeast: I have seen none in Wayland but that does not mean there are none.

It means that the material of the glacial drift came from the northwest and was pushed along or carried frozen in the ice to this area. Distance of transport, theoretically, was from 10 feet to 100 miles; actually it was anything between those limits. It gives a wide range of sources from which our pebbles and boulders came. They are of many kinds, of whatever rock occurs to the northwest, and just as unnameable as our own bed rock.

Pebbles and boulders are of hard rock since the softer stuff went into the sand and clay, of which we have plenty. Pebbles were rolled along and rubbed along, rounding some surfaces and flattening others until glacial pebbles are distinguishable from those of beach and stream, which are much better rounded.

(Next month Professor Martin will describe just what effect gla[illegible] had on different sections of To[illegible]

Electronics Plant To Move To Wayland

Robert A. Waters Inc., an electronics manufacturing company of 4 Gordon Street, Waltham, said last month it was planning to build a new factory in Wayland, on the south side of the State Road adjoining the Sudbury line, and hoped to have it ready next spring.

A spokesman for the company said it had been in consultation with the Wayland Planning Board and was embodying many of the Board's suggestions in its building plans.

The company, which employs around 90 persons, means to transfer its entire operation to Wayland. Some of the employes, it was said, will move to Wayland.

The new building will be fireproof, on a single level, of 8000 to 10,000 square feet floor space, with provision for future expansion on a three-acre lot.

The building will be next door to the Atkins and Merrill plant in Sudbury. It's in the extreme western edge of Wayland, over the hill beyond the Sudbury River, in a district so far largely undeveloped.

OUTSIDE EXPERT VISITS WAYLAND

Dr. Nicholas L. Engelhardt, head of the firm of outside experts which is to make the $4000 survey of Wayland's school needs, visited the Town last month, drove around to see the housing development and said he'd be back with his staff to make the full study.

He took with him the material accumulated by various Town committees which have gone over the school problem, to use as a starting point. The report is due Oct. 1.

Eerie Phone Number, 49, To Be Simple Dial Job

The telephone arrangement by which an Elmwood subscriber dials 49 for Waltham (including Weston) and then speaks a number into a dark void after he hears two little beeps is going to be abolished, says manager Eugene Murphy of the Natick telephone office.

Beginning in December, Waltham is going on the dial system, and Wayland residents will dial Waltham numbers, as they now do Olympic numbers.

Moreover, says Mr. Murphy, beginning in December also, the operator one gets by dialing O will be in Newton, not Framingham. He promises the service will be improved.

4H Winners Go to Camp

The Four H Town Committee has awarded camperships to Priscilla Harrington of Mitchell Street and to Joseph Thorpe of Stonebridge Road. Priscilla sold the most cartons of cookies, 10, and Joseph the second most, seven. She is a member of the canning club, which is led by her mother, Mrs. Philip Harrington. Joseph is a member of the rifle club.

In addition, the Wayland Kiwanis Club has given a campership at the same camp to Kenneth Revell of Pemberton Road, a first year member of Mrs. Dana Thorpe's Garden Club. He has sold two cartons of 4H cookies and has been an active member.

Dutch Elm Epidemic in Town, Because of 1954 Hurricanes

John E. Nelson, moth superintendent, reports a great outbreak of the Dutch elm disease this year, blamed on the 1954 hurricanes, which picked up beetles carrying the fungus and spread them all over Town.

As of July 2, he says, he had sent 107 samples from 107 suspected trees to Amherst, for State examination, and he thinks he'll have 50 more by September.

All of these elms are along the roadways, or overhang public ways. He says local residents are doing a good job removing diseased elms on private land. Mr. Nelson's rough guess is that there are 3000 elms along Wayland streets.

The way they combat the disease is to cut down, remove and burn or bury the sick trees. It costs from $75 to $80 to remove each tree, and takes about one day per tree.

Incidence of the disease is 2½ times what it was last year, says Mr. Nelson, who is going ahead with a program of removing the bad trees as rapidly as possible.

Some experts say, Town authorities have been told, that in 10 years all the elms in the woods will be gone, but that up to 40 per cent of the roadside elms can be saved. And Wayland is said to be better off in this respect than many other communities.

Beach Closed, Opened Again

The Town bathing beach at Lake Cochituate was closed for more than a week in July by order of the Board of Health, after many cases of nose, ear and throat infection had been blamed on the water. However, it was reopened again after some rain fell and the water had had time to settle.

No Unemployment For W.H.S. Class of 1955

Fourteen of the 44 graduates of the Wayland High School class of 1955 were planning to continue their educations at higher institutions this Fall. Eight boys expected to enter the service, one girl was married and 21 had jobs.

788 Kids Signed Up For Beach Program

A total of 788 children from Wayland and Cochituate were enrolled in the swimming and water safety program of the Wayland Chapter of the Red Cross at Lake Cochituate this summer.

This figure represented an advance in enrollment of over 50 per cent over last year. The swimming and water safety program is maintained and paid for by the Wayland Chapter of the Red Cross.

Of the 788 children participating in the program, 441 were from Cochituate and 347 from Wayland.

Mrs. Ruth Hatch, in charge of instructions, is assisted by Mrs. Connie Johnson.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kelsoe on Park Ridge Road was ransacked and robbed of jewelry one afternoon last month, it was reported. Damage was done to the interior of the house. Chief Damon suspects juveniles were guilty.

Teachers Leave, New Ones Come

Dr. Rexford S. Souder, retiring Superintendent of Schools, said that the teaching staff for 1955-1956 was nearly complete, as of last month. Some of the changes:

Clement J. Hasenfus, teacher of languages, arts and social studies in the Junior High, has resigned to take a position in the Rhode Island College of Education.

Mrs. Annie L. Hurtt, fourth grade, Center School, has resigned for personal reasons.

Mrs. Mary G. Keenan, teacher of languages, arts and social studies at the Junior High, has resigned to teach languages at Waltham.

Mrs. Patricia LaFrance, first grade, Center School, has resigned for personal reasons.

Miss Marilyn A. Drake, High School music teacher, was married in July. She has resigned.

John M. O'Sullivan, who taught the special class in the High School, has taken a teaching job in Fitchburg, where he lives.

Miss Jacqueline E. Durbin, who has been teaching the second grade at Cochituate, will be teacher of the elementary special class.

And the new appointments:

Forrest L. Morton, graduate of Tufts, master's degree in education from Harvard, will teach social studies in the High School. He has been teaching at Lawrence Academy, Groton. His home is in North Reading.

Town Nearly Runs Dry, Water Rationing Ordered

Wayland nearly ran dry during the July hot spell, the Water Commissioners report, and they finally had to publish a rule limiting the use of hose to four hours a day. For a couple of days, it was said water outgo was pretty close to water income.

A new well, to provide another 1,000,000 gallons a day, has been finished at Baldwin's Pond, but the pumping equipment isn't yet installed. The new water supply will come in handy during some 1956 heat wave.

Mrs. Alstad Appointed To Finance Committee

Mrs. Norman J. Alstad of Rich Valley Road has been appointed a member of the Town Finance Committee, taking the place of Charles Y. Wadsworth, who has resigned. So far as anybody can remember, Mrs. Alstad is the first woman ever to serve on this Town Committee, and one of few to serve on such a Committee in the Commonwealth. Mrs. Alstad has been active in the Wayland League of Women Voters.

Dr. Souder Takes New School Job

Dr. Rexford S. Souder, for the past four years Superintendent of Schools for Wayland and Sudbury, notified the Wayland School Committee last month that he will become Superintendent of the new $1,500,000 Lincoln-Sudbury Regional High School. He will also continue as Superintendent of the Sudbury Schools.

As he explains it, he doesn't exactly resign. Wayland and Sudbury have been joined in a school union which both Towns have voted to dissolve as of Sept. 1. This is how he put it, in his letter to Cornelius J. Maguire, chairman of the Wayland School Committee:

"As the time approaches for dissolution of the Wayland Sudbury Superintendency Union, I have been considering how I might continue to be of maximum service to the young people of these communities. I needed to decide whether to seek the position of Superintendent of the Wayland Schools or the post of Superintendent of the Sudbury Schools and of the Lincoln-Sudbury Regional High School.

"My decision to seek the latter position was based primarily on my deep interest in the opportunity to participate in the creation of the new high school. After reaching this conclusion I discussed the possibility of being selected [illegible] with the Committee [illegible] have now indicated [illegible] accept this Superintendency.

"I wish to express my [illegible] and personal appreciation [illegible] scientious support of policies [illegible] designed to provide the [illegible] and girls with the highest [illegible] ard of education."

Mr. Maguire's statement [illegible] the School Committee:

"Since he came to [illegible] Dr. Souder has worked [illegible] for our School Department [illegible] direction the Town's educational [illegible] and facilities have continued [illegible] and effective development [illegible] ful for his service to Wayland [illegible] him every success in his [illegible]

The Lincoln-Sudbury [illegible] Committee also issued [illegible] Dr. Souder's background [illegible] ments. Before coming to [illegible] Sudbury he was Assistant [illegible] of the Brookline schools. In [illegible] 1946 he was administrative [illegible] director of research in the [illegible] San Diego, Calif. He received his [illegible] tor's degree from Teachers' College, Columbia University, in 1941.

As Superintendent of Sudbury schools, Dr. Souder has worked from the beginning with those planning the Regional High School.

The school "union" system, Dr. Souder explains, has been in effect about 50 years. When there were many small towns, it was difficult for each to afford a trained superintendent, and the union plan was to permit a number of towns to share the salary expense of a qualified person. At various times in the past 20 years, Wayland has been in school unions with Dover, Sherborn and Sudbury. After Sept. 1 the present union, with Sudbury alone, will be dissolved, and Wayland will be on its own in this respect.

The Lincoln-Sudbury Regional High School is scheduled to be completed in September, 1956. It will occupy a 72-acre site near the Sudbury-Lincoln border and will have a capacity of 650 pupils, drawn from two Towns whose combined population is about the same as that of Wayland.

Dr. Souder, whose home is in Goodman Lane, says he will continue to live in Wayland for the present.

Chief Ernest H. Damon reports the [illegible] traveling crane, turning out of Sherman's Bridge Road onto Concord Road [illegible] afternoon of July 15, hit an [illegible] and knocked it in two. He [illegible] down and started a grass [illegible] fire alarm system w[illegible]

Selectman Leavitt, Active In Town Affairs 30 Years

By CAROL FOSTER

When John W. Leavitt, now our senior Selectman, first took office the Selectmen were the Town government. At that time there were no zoning laws, no building and plumbing codes, no town traffic regulations, no Road Commissioner, no Planning Board, no Town Accountant, and one piece of fire apparatus. And the entire school system was contained in the Cochituate and Center school buildings. This was Wayland in 1930.

Today Mr. Leavitt brings to his post as Selectman a background of great value to the town. During the growth of local bureaucracy he has been here and on the job while so many essential parts of our present Town government were created and have grown to their present importance. Today, rather than doing it themselves, the Selectmen have an appointive responsibility to sell people the idea of accepting jobs for the town.

Mr. Leavitt first appeared in Wayland in 1922 after serving as military "Mayor" of five towns near Coblenz in the Interallied Rhineland Commission, as a Captain. Prior to that he had been overseas for five years. He had studied at Massachusetts Agricultural College and Norwich University. Returning from overseas, he purchased the Granville-Loker Farm in Cochituate.

When Mr. Leavitt first arrived here, a snowstorm had blocked all roads and the only way he could reach his farm was by driving up the old trolley tracks between Wayland and Cochituate. This was the only ploughed thoroughfare.

During their first winter here, Mrs. Leavitt cut trees at snow level for Mr. Leavitt to cut up for firewood on weekends. When spring came, some of the stumps were four feet high. In spite of all this, the Leavitts combined farming with Mr. Leavitt's business job for a couple of years.

Mrs. Leavitt, the former Suzanne Marthe Sagnet of Paris, taught school at Argentan, a small town near Caen. There were then 60 children in her class ranging from 5½ to 13. She later worked for the Interallied Rhineland Commission where she met Mr. Leavitt.

Today she says she is his part time secretary. Her main public activity is in the child welfare field in connection with the American Legion Auxiliary of the Alward Post, A. L.

Recently the Child Welfare Unit, which works with children of Veterans and non-veterans, of which Mrs. Leavitt was chairman, received a state award and citation for meritorious service. Mrs. Leavitt was singled out for special distinction at this time for her service in this cause. Mrs. Leavitt has also been a member of the League of Women Voters for several years.

Mr. Leavitt ceased farming and moved to his present home in Cochituate 30 years ago. He has been with Kidder Peabody and Company for thirty-one years, both as a salesman and as manager of the securities division. At present he is also director of the Boston Stock Exchange Clearing Corporation, and a member of the Cashier's Association of Boston.

When Mr. Leavitt first lived in Cochituate, he was local president of the Knights of Labor, the first big Labor Union in this country. It has since been superseded by today's host of specialized unions. At the same time, he was an active member of the American Legion. Not only did he serve overseas in France and Germany in World War I, but he saw service on the Mexican border in 1916, as a member of the Vermont National Guard. He has been Post Commander of the Charles H. Alward Post four times.

These activities, combined with his taste of local government during his post-war service, led to his running for local office.

There were many things to be desired at that time in the administration of Wayland. After the first World War the housing shortage made the post World War II situation look like a buyers' market. Assessments were high, (in fact many local properties carry the same assessment today as at that time) although the tax rate was only $17. Banks were reluctant to risk loan money on country property although it was possible to gain a quick resale profit.

Many people around here handled their property with this rather than a long range view in mind, a situation which has caused overcrowding in certain areas.

Mr. Leavitt was first elected Selectman in 1930. It was then a one-year term. He has held this office ever since with the exception of three years. During part of the three-year interim he was a member of the Finance Committee.

While Selectman, Mr. Leavitt was Veterans' Agent for 23 years, served on the committee to study and modernize town by-laws, has been chairman of the Memorial Day Committee, President of the Memorial Building Association (which owns the Legion Hall — rented to the Alward Post) and was chairman of the recent Fire Department survey. During World War II he organized the 21st Regiment which was the first volunteer State Guard in Wayland since the Revolution. He was retired a Colonel in the National Guard. Mr. Leavitt is chairman of the New Town Hall Committee, and License Commissioner.

Mr. Leavitt says his most difficult period as selectman came during the depression years. Over this period, when Wayland was hard hit by unemployment, selectmen had to be directly responsible for administration of P.W.A. and C.W.A. and for State and Federal relief. The

Raytheon Requirements Necessitate Addition to Wayland Phone Building

To take care of the new Raytheon plant in Wayland, says manager Eugene Murphy of the Natick telephone office, an addition will have to be built on the Wayland telephone building which was put in service April 4, 1954.

Raytheon, he says, will have a big dial switchboard of its own, with a number of telephone instruments not yet determined.

And as of May 31, 1955, there were 1309 telephones in Wayland, a net increase of 66 since Jan. 1. There was no easy way of telling how many new Cochituate phones had been installed, because Cochituate is included in the Natick exchange, Olympic, but he says the increase in Cochituate is certainly comparable with that in Elmwood.

Mr. Murphy also says that everybody in Town now has the kind of service he wants, and that the new telephone goes into the new house before the occupants do. Before the big telephone change of April 4, last year, it was pretty difficult for local residents to get telephone service in new houses at all.

LESLIE M. TOURVILLE, of 221 Commonwealth Road East, a comparatively new resident of Town, has been appointed principal of the Holliston High School. He has had three years as a teacher in the Newton schools and is working towards his doctor's degree at Harvard.

No Bridge News Yet

Although money is available for the reconstruction of the Old Sudbury Road and the Stonebridge Road bridges over the Sudbury River, the Massachusetts Department of Public Works said last month that no date has been set for the beginning of the work.

Also, there are no immediate plans for the construction of a bypass to the south of Wayland Center. The grapevine report is that the State will wait until after the toll road is in use and then take a traffic count.

Truck traffic along Route 20 has been heavy for many years, and it is supposed that the opening of the Raytheon laboratory will cause a twice-a-day rush of passenger vehicles.

The bypass, it is believed, would run through the lowlands, from old Dead Man's Curve to the railroad crossing near the river. Its construction would make a comparatively quiet backwater of Wayland Center, but it appears to be some distance in the future.

The Wayland Board of Health asks all householders to help the mosquito control program by making sure they aren't leaving any hatching places in their own back yards. Old tires, old pails, barrels, ornamental pools and miscellaneous puddles should be drained or sprayed. Back yard hatching of mosquitoes is the kind the community program can't control.

Douglas Hatfield of Concord Road and Bruce Wallace of Rice Road have completed their junior year at Cambridge Academy.

Better Care of Children Is Aim of Health Center

Commenting on the purpose and function of the Parmenter Health Center, The Board of Health has made the following statement:

Since the recent opening of the Parmenter Health Center there have been many questions and numerous misunderstandings concerning its purpose and function, and concerning the financing of the various projects undertaken by the Center. Some clarification would seem to be in order.

Since it was not possible to fulfill Mr. Parmenter's original plan for a hospital to serve Wayland residents, because the sum was insufficient for upkeep, and because there are available, nearby, several hospitals accommodating Wayland people with the same benefits as their local townspeople, the Health Center came to be, designed to promote the general health of the residents of the town to a degree not possible by use of town funds alone.

Medical problems of the individual will remain, of course, in the hands of the family physicians.

But the equipment and opportunities of the center will make possible more complete medical supervision of our school children with resultant better health as they mature; more extensive dental care for our children; education in matters of health for such citizens as desire to avail themselves of the opportunities, such as home nursing, first aid, baby care, and general hygiene; and more thorough searching out and eradication of certain diseases which if neglected serve as a focus to threaten community well being.

Obviously the Parmenter Center and The Board of Health will work hand in hand from now on to develop the best public health program possible for Wayland. The Town funds appropriated for The Board of Public Health will provide the same services as formerly and such new projects as seem advisable. The Parmenter Trust Fund will make possible a more extensive program than we could otherwise afford, and will be of great assistance in expanding the health services rapidly enough to keep pace with our increase in population.

THIRTY-FOUR ELMS were taken down in 1954 and 14 were tagged for destruction as of January, 1955.

Town Hall People

For the benefit of newcomers to Town and of others who may not be acquainted with municipal personnel, here is a list of those who work in Town Hall:

Norman E. Taylor, Town Accountant and office manager; Theodore H. Harrington, Tax Collector; Leila Sears, Town Clerk, and Homer L. MacDonald, Building and Wiring Inspector; Mrs. Madeline Hampstead, Assessors' clerk; Mrs. Helen Havener, Tax Collector's clerk; Lillian Larry, Water Department clerk; Mrs. Bessie Davis, machine room and general clerk; Mrs. Grace Conrchine, part time, clerk for Town Clerk, Building Inspector and Planning Board; and Neva Jones, part time, clerk for the Assessors and general clerk.

Other Town departments and officials have their working quarters elsewhere. There isn't room for them in Town Hall.

Home Nursing Courses Offered at Parmenter

"Home nursing courses sponsored by the American Red Cross will be conducted at the Parmenter Health Center. The course consists of six lessons, each lasting two hours and 20 minutes. The contents include causes and symptoms of illness, nursing care of the sick, what to do in case of illness in the home, how to handle home emergencies, food and nutrition guidance and the basic principles of personal and family health. There will be lectures and practise periods.

"When a sufficient number of persons register, a class will be organized. Courses will be given in the morning, afternoon and evening, to try to meet individual preferences.

"Persons may register by calling the Parmenter Health Center, OL 3-5111. It is our aim to have a member of every household in Wayland take the course. Illness or disaster may create a major change in our way of life. We know that the course will give confidence in meeting these situations, should they arise."

What to Do in Case Of Hurricane Brenda

Hurricane Alice of 1955 died in January in the Carribean Sea, reports Wayland Director of Civil Defense W. R. Hulbert, but the names of the storms yet possible are already picked.

Civil Defense gives directions for what to do in case of hurricane (or tornado) warning.

Arrange for emergency lights. Look out for water in the cellar. Pull up awnings. Close fireplace damper. Put car away. Don't park it near trees. Have car in running order and gas tank full.

Keep away from windows. Set freezer at maximum freezing level, so that food in it may keep for as long as three days. Have three days supply of canned goods, and a can opener. Have paper plates.

Save up bottles of water. Be careful in use of candles. And when the storm is over, be careful in walking about. Wires, trees, streets and bridges may be dangerous.

The Summer workshop of the Middlesex County Extension Service is held every Thursday at 19 Everett Street, Concord. Home demonstration agents are there to answer homemakers' questions. A new bulletin on canning by Kirby Hayes is to be available Aug. 1.

New Teachers

Reed K. Taylor of Gloucester will teach English in the High School. A graduate of Emerson, he has been teaching at North Andover High.

Miss Ruth W. Bailey of Newton will be High School Librarian, which will be a full-time position for the first time. She has both bachelor's and master's degrees from Boston University and she is also a graduate of the Simmons School of Library Science. She has been librarian at Babson Institute.

Mrs. Onida L. Bailey, who lives on Red Barn Road in Wayland, will teach science in the High School. She has a bachelor's degree from the University of Chattanooga and a master's degree from the University of Iowa. She has taught at Pembroke High School (North Carolina), East Moline High School, Illinois, and Iowa State Teachers' College. She has recently been doing research in physiology at the Aviation Medical Research Laboratory in the Graduate School of Medicine, University of Pennsylvania.

Robert A. Andreoli will teach mathematics. He comes from Worcester State Teachers' College and has taught at Stacey Junior High in Milford. He has been in service at Sampson Air Force base.

Mrs. Elsie T. Freeman of Cambridge will teach languages, arts and social studies. She is a graduate of the Albany State Teachers' College and has a master's degree from B. U. She has done editorial work for the New York State Department of Education.

Miss Marianne M. Sanderson, with a bachelor's degree from Regis and a master's degree from Harvard, will teach mathematics.

Edward C. Barry, Boston College and University of New Mexico, will teach science in the Junior High School.

Mrs. Dorothy C. Walsh of Lakeview Road, Cochituate, a former teacher in the Wayland schools, will teach fifth grade at Cochituate.

Mrs. Eleanor Landrigan of Ashland, a gradnate of Emmanuel College, will teach a first grade at the Center.

Mrs. Florence G. Lindenburg of Old Connecticut Path, Wayland, will teach a fourth grade at the Center.

Miss Sue Spaulding, Smith 1955, will teach a first grade at Happy Hollow. Miss Katherine Barron, a graduate of Regis who has taught at New Bedford and Arlington, Va., will have first grade at Happy Hollow.

Mrs. Terri L. Finn, from Syracuse University and Boston University, will have a second grade at Happy Hollow. For a year she was assistant music director at a classical music radio station in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Ann P. Hartig, Framingham State Teachers' College, who formerly taught in Natick, will continue as a second grade teacher at Happy Hollow, where she started in the second half of last year.

Sudbury Road Work Is Nearing Completion

The work of resurfacing and widening 3200 feet of Old Sudbury Road, from the railroad tracks northward, was scheduled to be completed by the end of July, Highway Surveyor Albert E. Potvin reported. It was a Chapter 90 job, with costs shared by State, County and Town, and the Town doing the work.

Meanwhile, the main part of the betterment jobs had been done on Valley View Road and Peck Avenue.

Next job scheduled was construction of a sidewalk on the Happy Hollow School side of Old Connecticut Path, from Maiden Lane to Pine Ridge Road, for the benefit of school children. Mr. Potvin said it was hoped to have a six-foot-wide gravel walk ready by the time school begins.

Two other jobs remained on the list. One was living Winter Street, in Cochituate, and the other was a start on the betterment job, voted last March, in the Wheelock development.

Leavitt

P.W.A. connected the water system in the two precincts, and through P.W.A., the original High School was built in 1934. $55,000 was put up by the town and $110,000 by Uncle Sam, a job which in Mr. Leavitt's opinion, is the "best construction break the town ever had." The P.W.A. also put in the original drainage system on the land around the High School.

Since this period the Town government has been increasingly involved with Federal and State laws. There are continually new specifications to be met, especially in connection with roads, schools and welfare, so that selectmen have more of a task all the time to keep abreast of new laws. Selectmen, as part of their delegatory powers, must select people who are desirable for town jobs; those who seek office because they are willing to take a part in the good management of the town. Selectmen are also "Judges and referees" as members of Town Committees.

On the whole, Mr. Leavitt feels proud of Wayland's management today. Our tax rate was increased $2.00 this year, with an increase of town service for our population, while 107 out of the 351 towns and cities in Massachusetts have had an increase of more than $10.00 during the past year. Mr. Leavitt says we'll have to wait until after January first to see how Raytheon will affect all this.

JOAN FAIR FLETCHER, daughter of Norman G. Fair of the Wayland Board of Health, has gone to Alaska with her husband, Fred Fletcher, who's doing a two-year tour of duty there with the Air Force.

O Neill -- DesRochers

At the double ring ceremony which united her in marriage to Mr. Joseph Louis DesRochers on Sunday afternoon, July 24, Miss Diane Elizabeth O'Neill of Wayland wore a white gown of imported embroidered Swiss organdy, with a fingertip-length illusion veil caught to a cap of lilies-of-the-valley. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of white estereades, stephanotis, and green ivy.

The wedding ceremony, performed by the Rev. William J. Carty of St. Ann's Church, took place at 2 o'clock, and was followed by a reception on the lawn of the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward James O'Neill, at 206 Oxbow Road. Mr. O'Neill gave his daughter in marriage, and the music was provided by Mr. Clifford Orr as organist and the full choir of St. Ann's church with which the bride has been associated as organist for some time.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Doris O'Neill LaFrance, as matron of honor, was gowned in white organdy over pink taffeta, and carried a bouquet of pink estereades. Her small daughter, Diane Marie LaFrance, who served as flower girl, was dressed exactly like her mother. The bridesmaids included another sister, Miss Noel O'Neill, dressed in white organday over aquamarine taffeta, and also a sister of the bridegroom, Miss Therese DesRochers, dressed in white organdy over yellow taffeta. The third bridesmaid, Mrs. Gail Osmond Bowers, wore a dress of white organdy over blue taffeta, and all carried bouquets of mixed flowers.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Louis J. DesRochers and the late Mrs. Alma LaFrance DesRochers of Hudson, was attended by Richard Coleman of Hudson as best man. The ushers were Robert Queen, Donald Field and Raymond Curley. Mr. DesRochers, a graduate of Hudson High School, and a former Navy man, is now attending Northeastern University.

His bride, who is a graduate of Wayland High School, also attended Northeastern University, and has lately been employed in the office of Edward A. Veno in Wayland. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. DesRochers left on a wedding trip to Pennsylvania.

5 Man School Board Election Is Explained

Mrs. Norman J. Alstad, who is holding a petition asking the Town to increase the size of the School Committee from three members to five, has had the law on the matter looked up, and she says this is how it would work:

If the Town votes the change, perhaps at a Special Town Meeting this fall, two new members would be elected at the regular Town Meeting in March. One would be a member of the "old" committee and one would be an added starter.

Three members would not be elected immediately, because that might amount to outvoting the "old" Committee at once.

So two members would be elected in 1956 and then two in 1957, when the Committee would reach its membership of five. Thereafter, either one or two Committee members would be elected each year, as their three-year terms ran out.

Census Not Official

Town Clerk Leila Sears wants it made plain that the figure given in the July Crier for the Town's population (7301) was strictly unofficial. The Secretary of State's office, she says, has announced that no official figures on the 1955 census will be given out until December.

Moral: Swat the Fly, But Don't Feel Guilty If You Miss

Although mosquitoes in Wayland have been wiped out — well, practically — nothing similarly drastic has been done about the common housefly. And this brings up a problem of dignity.

The aboriginal Indian in these parts didn't have to be concerned about his leftover beans or fish bones. He just threw them at a squaw or somewhere, and in the course of time Nature's scavengers took care of everything, or he moved. Anyway, being a simple savage, he had no false pride about garbage.

In this super-civilized age and place, however, people tend to become sensitive about those second-hand materials which in some towns are cast before swine.

The housewife who finds flies in her kitchen gets a worse guilt complex than she would from shooting a husband or two.

She has been brought up on super-sanitation. Housefly has become a horrid word. Nice people, she knows, just don't have flies in the house.

To be sure, she knows wrong. Lots of nice people in this Town have flies. Ever check up after a lawn party at which the refreshments included lobster salad and champagne? Or ice cream and cake? Or plain beer and potato chips?

The fact is that the fly is tougher than human beings. He has been around longer, and he has been living on a more varied diet, to which an extra vitamin, DDT, has only recently been added.

Years ago, somebody invented those hanging strips of gummy paper, to which the flies would stick. This seemed like the fly's last stand, but it wasn't.

Then there was the screen door, which also had a weakness. When one child goes out a screen door, a dozen flies come in.

Then came the modern preoccupation with the disposal of leftovers, so that they should be neither seen nor noticed. And DDT, which turned out to be a semi-deadly drug. And the old fashioned fly swatter or folded newspaper, which still comes in handy now and then.

The plain truth is that, as they used to say about the bombers, some of them will always get through.

Therefore let us rearrange our thinking, and cast out the sensation of guilt when a fly swarms into the tea party.

There were flies before us and there'll be flies after we're gone. That goes for leftovers, too. Neither one is our fault. We didn't create the flies and even leftovers, as in hash, can be beautiful.

So let us seek to slay the miserable fly, using every dirty trick we can think of, and let us try to remove him completely from the environment, especially that of the ranch type house. But let us not be put to shame by the little villain. If two flies buzz into the living room while the church committee is paying a visit, shrug it off with some gay philosophical quip.

Such as: "Huh! Adam and Eve had it worse. They had snakes." — D. B. W.

G. PRENTIS RICHARDSON of Old Connecticut Path has been appointed Acting Superintendent of the Wayland Water Department.

An automobile ran into the stone wall on the State Road, outside the home of Dr. Charlotte A. Stewart, on Saturday, night, July 16. Malden people. Nobody hurt.

Plain Road Kids Will Attend Weston School

Second and third-grade children living in the State Road East, Glezen Lane, Plain Road and Moore Road area will be the ones who will attend the Weston School this Fall, it has been announced. They will go directly by bus, and the announcement says the time and distance involved should not be excessive.

The notice, sent by Dr. Rexford S. Sonder to parents of children involved in the rearrangement of school schedules, does point out that there is no hot lunch program in the Weston School. Wayland children will have to carry their own lunches.

Other changes:

Fourth grade children on the Tower Hill bus route will go to the Center School, instead of Happy Hollow. Fifth and sixth graders on this route will go to the Cochituate School, instead of Happy Hollow.

Fifth and sixth graders in the Rice Road, Oak Street and Daymon Farms area will go to Cochituate School instead of Happy Hollow.

The Center School sixth grade will have a room in the High School.

The report explains that all 33 rooms in the elementary school system will be filled this year, plus the two rooms to be accomodated in Weston. "By making these rearrangements," says the announcement, "a reasonable balance in class size can be maintained and double sessions can be avoided during the 1955–56 school year."

Box 132, the Lake Cochituate Beach number, sounded on the afternoon of Jan. 19, scaring everybody who thought it might mean a drowning accident. However, says Chief Ernest H. Damon, it was just an automobile which caught fire in the parking lot.

Devine - Withington

Mary Devine Withington

On July 10, St. Ann's Church was the scene of a pretty summer wedding when Mary Jane Devine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Devine, of Alpine Road, became the bride of William Ralph Withington son of Mr. and Mrs. George Withington, of State Road East. The bride was attended by Miss Mary Holt as maid of honor, and Mrs. William O'Connell and Miss Patricia Withington as bridesmaids. Richard Withington was his brother's best man. Ushers were Frank Arcudi and Joseph Devine.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Withington are graduates of the Wayland High School. The bride is employed by the New England Telephone Company, and the groom by Raytheon.

260 Children in Arts And Crafts Program

The Wayland Arts and Crafts Workshop closed July 22 after four weeks of varied and interesting activity. More than 260 children were enrolled.

The primary workshop, with preschool through second graders, developed interest through clay modeling, painting, sewing, weaving, beading, belt making, puppets and other creative activities. The children participated in spontaneous amateur programs. Games and dances were taught to the group. One of the high lights was an Indian pow-wow, in which the children, dressed in original costumes, danced around teepees they had made themselves.

The primary workshop was under the direction of Mrs. Patricia LaFrance, first grade teacher at Center school, and Miss Mary Connolly, third grade teacher at Cochituate School last year. (Next year Miss Connolly will he in Europe as an exchange teacher). Junior helpers with the little folks were Henry Christle, Joan Walston, Joanna Duggan, Cynthia Dunnam, Ronnie Nolan, Robert Bullock and Mary Ann Turner.

The older children, third through sixth grades, worked with model airplanes, totem poles, baskets, wood and metal, leather, felt, tile craft, gimp, reedene, stencils, raffia and most anything else one could think of.

The shop program was under the direction of Walter Doucette, fifth grade teacher at Cochituate, with John Woodcock and Kenneth Berger as helpers.

Several teachers helped with the older group. Mrs. Eva Gately, fifth grade teacher at Happy Hollow, was there for two weeks. Mrs. Anna Perodeau took over for a week. The last week Mrs. Mary Keenan of the High School staff came and helped. Junior helpers were Judy Cherry, Carol Magnusson, Linda Cherry, John Mahoney, William Halley, John Gebhardt, Barry Ekler, Donna Herland, Tracy Hill, Debby Hill, Lynda Clausen, Kate Howe, Mary Rose Hoven, Anne Woodcock, David Zocchi, Charles Campbell and Karen Weeks.

Mrs. Donalene Brainerd, third grade teacher at Center School, conducted nature walks in which everyone participated. The last day of the workshop all the children gathered in the gym to see films on Nature.

Mrs. Brainerd and Mr. Doucette were playground activities directors.

The last day also included the special treat of ice cream bars on the lawn instead of the milk, fruit juice and cookies which were served every other day as a mid-morning snack.

The complete program was under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Jones, Art Supervisor at the High School, and was sponsored by the Wayland Junior Town House and the Public Schools.

Work on the exterior masonry and cast stone of the Cochituate School was scheduled to be done this Summer, and the exterior of the Junior-Senior High School building was to be painted. The interiors of the schools were being cleaned.

New Students to Register

Pre-registration for new students entering Wayland Junior-Senior High School, grades 7–12, will be held at Wayland High School, Thursday, Sept. 1, from 9–12 a.m., and 1–4 p.m.

Students should come to the High School Office for direction. Academic records and certification of age should be available at this time.

TOWN HALL NOTES

The Highway Commissioners don't know exactly how many miles of road there are in Town. There used to be 61, they say, but there have been so many new developments and betterments they've lost count. There are two miles of new road in the Damon Farm development alone, they say.

* * *

A rare old piece of furniture around which Wayland's municipal business has been transacted for more than two decades is the huge table in the Assessors' office in Town Hall. For a guess, it's a good 18 feet long by five or six feet wide, and it's as solid as the United States Constitution.

Selectman John W. Leavitt says it used to be the conference table of the directors of the Cambridge Gas Light Company, and that Wayland bought it back in 1932 or 1933 for $10

They say it's going right into the new Town Office Building, to remain in the Town's service for several centuries.

* * *

The ancient, 1875-model jail which stood behind the old fire station on Harrison Street was picked up bodily by the Water Department and transported to Baldwin's Pond, where it was set on a foundation and fixed up neatly to provide a fine garage, at a fraction of the cost for a new one. Bars were removed and it was covered with stucco and nobody would ever know the building's rakish past.

From 107 Years Ago

From the Report of the Wayland School Committee, March 24, 1848:

"We are, as a town, well persuaded of the obligations we are under to common schools. Most of us are indebted to them for our first teachings — our continued progress, and for much of the mental discipline we have attained.

Yet, it is, undoubtedly, true that we do not now appreciate them sufficiently; or do as much as we might, or ought, to promote their welfare. If there are any causes in which we should be interested, publicly or individually, this is one. If we care not for our children, for whom, or what, ought we to care? And how can we do the most for their good, while we live, and leave them the best inheritance when we die? Take care of their minds. A good education is a richer heritage than a world of dollars."

Signers of this Report were J. W. Allen, A. Gleason and G. A. Somerby.

TOP PAY $24 PER YEAR

A line from the report of the Wayland School Committee, dated April 7, 1845, signed by Edward Mellen, James S. Draper and J. W. Allen:

"The consideration of a few dollars in the price of a teacher's services should not prevent our securing the very best that come within our reach."

Top pay for a teacher for the winter term, that year, was $24, plus $8 per month for board. For the summer term of 1844, the pay ranged from $8 to $11 a month, with $6 for board.

Local Poet Sings in Praise of League of Women Voters

Frank W. Hatch, author of the Vokes hit, "One on the Town," responded with a check to a League of Women Voters plea for funds, and tossed in a poem for good measure. The verse:

Fibre, nerve and palpitant tissue
In close detail you strive to note
Weighing objectively each issue
Before you cast your precious vote.

Illuminate the hidden truth;
Aye, man the ramparts, scan the quotas —
Good luck, long life, more power forsooth
To Wayland League of Women Voters!

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The Water Department and the Town of Wayland have lost a good friend and a man of many accomplishments, John Phylis, born and raised in our town. He started working for the Water Department in 1940, and was appointed Superintendent in 1947. His place will be hard to fill.

John had no interest more important to him in business than the Town of Wayland and the Water Department. Being a man of more than average intelligence, more than average ambition, very honest and a friend to everyone, his deeds and works for his town will long be remembered in the history of Wayland. His way of life will be a goal many of us strive for, but never attain.

John was a loving family man, always doing something for the young people, as well as others. He loved sports of all kinds. His favorite sport was hunting.

Although John has left us for a better life at the age of 46, he lived a full life, for he seemed to know how to do twice as much as most of us can do in any day.

We will all miss him, but can be glad he was with us at a time when we needed him most.

Wayland Water Board,
FERN A. TAYLOR,
ALFRED C. DAMON,
GEORGE K. LEWIS.

In the 1955 budget, $6,963 was appropriated for fuel to heat the Town's four school buildings.

Wayland H. S. 1909 Has 46th Anniversary

The Wayland High School Class of 1909 held its ninth consecutive reunion on June 19 at the home of former Selectman William A. (Toke) Loker on Loker Street.

Of the five living gradnates, four were present. They were James O'Brien from Essex, Margaret Ward Kenney from Brighton, and Ernest. Lawrence and William Loker of Cochituate. Also present were two living teachers of the class, Miss Louise Thacher of Merrimac and Mrs. Abby Burns Kelley of Brockton. Also present were Dr. Kelley of Brockton and Mrs. Mildred Loker.

After talking over old times, the party went to Ten Acres, where Toke Loker was host at dinner. Next year the class will hold its 47th reunion at the home of Ernest F. Lawrence on School Street.

Red Feather Pays $1,400

Wayland Community Chest President Walter H. Wilcox of Old Connecticut Path, says the Wayland Junior Town House Association has been granted $1000 from money raised in last year's campaign and Hannah Williams Playground Association has been given $400.

Town Hall Model Planned

The Town Office Building Committee has been working this Summer, and hopes soon to have available for public display a scale model, to show what the structure will look like.

It is proposed that the building be made large enough to accomodate the various departments needed to serve a Town of 15,000 population, which is about the maximum expected in Wayland.

Tennis Court Available

Thanks to the boys and girls committee of the Wayland Kiwanis Club, the Recreation Council, the Park Department, the school authorities, the Junior Town House and many individual workers, a doubles tennis court has been put into service near the Center School, and is available, no questions asked, to any Town residents who want to use it.

The Kiwanis Club, it is reported, is planning, for some time after Labor Day, a tournament for youngsters. Plans for tennis instruction, under school auspices, are also being considered.

Mr. Burke in Business

Frank A. Burke, who sold the Socony gas station at the traffic lights in Cochituate to John Sullivan eight years ago, bought it back recently and will run it in association with a son, Andrew L. Burke. Mr. Burke ran this station for 15 years before he had to give it up on account of his health. Another son is Edward J. Burke, Wayland police officer, and the third is Francis D. Burke, who runs a gas station on the Worcester Turnpike in Framingham.

Three New Divisions In Town Baseball — Gifts Help Out

The Town baseball program was flourishing this Summer, with more than 300 boys registered to play, 50 adults helping as coaches, umpires and managers, and civic groups making cash contributions for uniforms.

The Newton-Waltham Bank, celebrating the opening of its Cochituate branch, gave $200 to buy uniforms for 15 Pony League (age 13 to 15) All Stars.

The Wayland Kiwanis Club gave $200 to buy uniforms to outfit a Pioneer League (ages 15-17) team. The Charles Alward Post of the American Legion also contributed $50 towards the program.

This is the fourth year of the program, which started out as simply a Little League, with boys 8 through 12. Then a Pony League was added. This year there are three additional divisions, Little Nippers, 8-10 years; Pioneers, and Big Nippers, past 17.

In 1951 the registration was 200 or so. The baseball program operates in part with an appropriation of $960 from the Town, under the Park Department budget.

The Little Nippers were organized because it was found that 8-year-olds couldn't do well in competition with 12-year-olds. Put in a division of their own, however, it is reported that they have lots of fun and learn fast.

Wayland has two Little Nipper teams, the Senators and Athletics, coached respectively by Will Brown and Caleb Roehrig and by John Sibley and Foster Abbott.

Cochituate has four Little Nipper teams: Cubs, coached by Ken Tibbets and Charles DeMartini; Phillies, Ray Smith and Tony English; Reds, Bob Selby and Bob McKnight, and Pirates, Ernest White and James Ristaben.

In the Little League, there are four teams in each end of Town.

Wayland: White Sox, Jerry Joyce and Paul Honen; Tigers, Harry Woolard and Ed Sweidler; Yankees, Bill Shannon and Larry Langley, and Indians, Dan Weed and Bob Paine.

Wayland has one Pony League team, the Owls, Edward Caraker and Robert Page. Cochituate has two, the Gulls, Ken Moran, and the Eagles, George Pearce.

There is one Pioneer team, from both ends of town, directed by Robert Kent. The same is true of the Big Nippers, directed by Bill Morris.

The Committee arranged a trip to Fenway Park to see the Red Sox on Saturday, July 29. Five buses were chartered, as against three a year ago for a similar trip, and this time it was arrranged as a recreational deal, so that girls could go, too.

Winners of the Little League playoffs were to meet at Cochituate under the lights on Aug. 1. Both Little League and Pony League All Stars were scheduled to be playing during August, both away from Town and at home under the lights.

At the end of the season, perhaps in October, it is planned to have a meeting of all those active in the program, to take up ideas and recommendations for the 1956 season.

The Boy Could Pitch He Struck 'Em Out

Jack Arnold tells this story about an 11-year old in the baseball program:

He wasn't considered the most talented player in the world, so he was sent to an 8-to-10-year-old team which needed a man. He reported to the coach, who asked him what position he played.

"I'm a pitcher," he replied, "and I don't mind telling you I'm one of the best."

So he was sent in to pitch. He struck out the first two batters, walked the next nine, then struck out the next one.

As he walked in to the bench he said to the coach: "See what I mean? I struck out the side."

Emily Blair — Lee Keith

Miss Emily Blair, daughter of Mrs. Pierpoint Blair of Tower Hill, will be married on Aug. 12 at her home to Mr. Lee Evans Keith, Republican floor leader of the Wyoming Legislature. She will live on the Keith ranch near the Big Horn Mountains, and her mother quotes her as saying, "I'm glad I learned how to dress chickens years ago."

Miss Blair was graduated from Weston High School in 1941. She worked for Capps market and, lately, in the Wayland Postoffice.

This April she went to Wyoming to visit Romaine Pushee Metz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horton Pushee of Claypit Hill Road, who was married a couple of years ago. Mrs. Metz's husband, William Metz, grew up with Mr. Keith, and thus the introduction.

Rev. Miles Hanson of Weston will perform the ceremony.

Poster Prizes Given

Children in the three elementary schools received pins for their prize winning posters for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals:

Center School, first prizes: Arnold H. Christie, Hannah Stebbins. Second prizes, Joy Kerr, Martha Bonengen, John Benjamin. Third prizes, Marylin Lord, Patty Osmond.

The baseball field outside the Happy Hollow School isn't being used this Summer. They say people have to keep off it for a season, to give the grass a chance to get rooted.

Mr. and Mrs. Fern A. Taylor plan to attend the 31st annual meeting of the National Shade Tree Conference at Santa Barbara, California, in the first week of August. Mr. Taylor, a Wayland Water Commissioner, is in the tree business.

TO CRIER READERS

Some changes are being made.

This month's Crier has five columns to the page, instead, of four. Five columns is the general standard. It enables us to get more news in the paper.

Next month the Crier will start a new schedule. It will be published every two weeks instead of once a month. New subscription rate will be $2. for 26 issues. All present $1. subscriptions will be good until the 12-month period runs out.

Moreover, beginning this Fall, the Crier will be expanded to cover Weston news also. Doings of Wayland and Weston, two Towns side by side and not unlike, should be of interest on both sides of the line. The New York Times covers the world. The Crier hopes it can cover two Towns adequately.

Since its beginning, four years ago, the Crier has been fortunate in enjoying the warm support of its advertisers and readers. The Crier hopes to grow and improve, but it hopes to maintain unchanged the happy community relationships which make its growth possible.

14 Stricken, 2 Die in Worst Polio Season

Fourteen cases of polio, two of them fatal, had been reported this Summer up to Aug. 20. It was the Town's worst recorded epidemic of the disease, and it spread a pall over the whole community.

Nearly all of the cases, for some reason unknown to the health authorities, occurred within a mile or so of the housing development known as Happy Hollow, just to the east of the Happy Hollow School.

As a result of the epidemic, the Wayland Board of Health obtained a supply of gamma globulin from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and had it administered at the Parmenter Health Center to persons living near the homes of the polio victims. Pregnant women were also to receive the injections. In two days, 225 injections were given.

The gamma globuliu was administered by four Town physicians, Dr. Charlotte A. Stewart, Dr. Ernest H. Damon, Jr., Dr. James P. Burke and Dr. David R. Corey. In addition, the doctors gave the injections to many at their offices, and it was reported that they developed blisters on their fingers from handling the syringes.

Nurses who helped were Miss Louise McManus, Miss Marion Howes, Miss Gertrude Martin and Mrs. Milton M. Cook.

The list of victims:

Danny Robinson, 6, Mathews Drive. Non-paralytic, returned home.

Robert Moenzherg, 5 months, Emerson Road. Steven Souder, 5, Goodman Lane, son of Superintendent of Schools Dr. Rexford S. Souder. Non-paralytic, returned home.

Mrs. Brier Roberts, 28, Woodridge Road. Non-paralytic. Robert Allington, 20, Pequot Road. Non-paralytic. Alice Waldon, 30, Peck Avenue. Jamie Porter, 5, Rice Road.

WHETHER THE WAYLAND SCHOOLS would open on schedule on the Wednesday after Labor Day wasn't decided last month. School authorities and the Board of Health were thinking it over.

Outside Expert Can't Find Breakfast in This Town

Dr. Nicholas L. Engelhardt, the ontside expert whose firm is to make the school survey for the Town, arrived in Wayland at 7:30 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 16, and couldn't find any place to get breakfast. He finally ate in Framingham.

Dr. Engelhardt, a big, gray haired man who has been studying school situations and programs for more than 30 years, said he was going to spend 10 days in Town, with some members of his staff. On his first day here he visited all the existing local schools, to see what facilities already exist.

He said he means to study up on the Wayland map, on where the present and probable houses are, and present a comprehensive report — dne Oct. 1 — covering what seem to be the Town's ultimate needs, so far as they can he judged now.

He said the report will consist largely of simple charts, maps and tables of figures. He will have access to all the school site material so far compiled by local agencies and committees, and he will cover the Town in person also. He promised that his report will be impartial.

He was staying at the Wayside Inn in Sudbury.

Toll Road Takes Just One Wayland House

Although the Turnpike Authority at first threatened to run the highway right through the middle of Wayland, causing no end of trouble and wiping out a great deal of property value, it ended by taking one house in Town and only 26 acres of land, much of the latter belonging to the State anyway.

The one house was that of William S. C. Henry, at the rear at the foot of Haven Laue. He bought it back from the Authority and moved it to the end of Eden Road, in the same section.

At the same time, at least two houses from out of Town, displaced by the toll road, have been moved into Wayland and settled on local lots. Thus, it is reported, instead of causing Wayland a tax loss, the road has caused a net gain of a little.

A utility shed in the rear of the home of Donald E. Parker, Haven Lane, had to he moved, and the Authority paid for the moving.

A couple of years ago, when it appeared that the toll road would go through the middle of Town, there was a big indignation meeting of citizens at the High School. As it turned out, this particular trouble never happened.

Beach Closed Aug. 20 For Rest of Season

The Wayland Park Department and the Wayland Board of Health, acting togcther, ordered the Town beaches closed Aug. 20, the day after the big rain, for the rest of the season, as "a matter of general health."

The water had been tested weekly before the big storm, and had been found clean, "almost as good as the drinking water." But after the temporary closing of Lake Cochituate beach in July, many were afraid of the water and attendance at the heach fell far off, despite the heat.

The storm causcd washing of the beach at Cochituate and the Lake received a great inflow of water from everywhere. It was felt that it needed to be closed for a period anyway, until the water could be tested again, but there were only two weeks left in the season and it was decided to call the whole thing off.

Roger Stokey Resigns

Roger P. Stokey, Town Counsel for the past four and a half years, has given his resignation to the Selectmen, to be effective wheu a successor is appointed. Mr. Stokey says that the pressure of private business has become too much.

Rebecca Regan, Born Aug. 6

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Regan of Willard Street became the pareuts of tLeir sixteenth child, Rebecca, on Aug. 6. Fourteen of the 16 are living, eight girls and six boys. The family is believed to be the largest in Town.

Raytheon Plant Should Be Ready For Use In October

Raytheon people say the new Wayland building is going acecording to schedule, which calls for completion and occupancy of the structure by October of this year.

At first, the building was to be of 145,000 feet of floor space, at a cost of $1,500,000. Later, it was decided to make it 225,000 square feet, for $2,250,000.

As of mid-August, the building was closed in and all the sub-contractors were said to be working inside. Landscaping was scheduled for this Fall.

GEORGE W. LEWIS, formerly active in Wayland Town affairs, who had been spending the Summer in Vermont, visited Wayland on the week end of Aug. 6 and 7 and nearly died from the heat. He is the father of George K. Lewis, present Water Commissioner.

Girls Wanted, Age 18 Up

The American Legion Auxiliary of the Alward Post wants some girls to go to a dance.

Twice a year the local Auxiliary holds a dance at Bedford Hospital, as entertainment for the patients. Next danee is to be held Sept. 26, and the Auxiliary would like some dancers. Any girl or woman in Town, married or single, from the age of 18 up, will be welcome. No men need apply.

Girls who'd like to go may call Mrs. Albert Potvin or Mrs. John W. Leavitt.

Bridge Cracks, Route 20 Closed In Town's Biggest Flood

Although the old bridge on Stone Bridge Road took a bad beating from last month's flood, when the water rose higher than ever before in the Town's history and blocked the State Road at the Center, the first surveys indicated that Wayland got off comparatively lightly.

Highway Surveyor Albert Potvin said that damage to Town highways was minor. Where the roads were flooded there was not much pressure, and therefore not much washing out.

Snperintendent of Schools Dr. Rexford S. Souder said that as of Aug. 21 there was little damage to schools.

Old Bridge Takes a Beating

The old bridge over the Sudbury at Riverview, said to be two centuries old, finally crumbled in the 1955 flood. After this picture was taken, the gully in the right foreground washed out further, until the water was sweeping clear across the bridge.

Water was up around the High School, but hadn't risen far enough to get inside. There was a little water in the basement of the Center School.

At the Cochituate School the surface water started to run in, as it did in Hurricane Edna last year. This time, however, there was experience for a guide. Firemen from Cochituate put a pump in there bright and early, and as a result the damage was small. Happy Hollow School escaped completely.

Many cellars were flooded, and there was a good deal of personal inconvenience. Power went off for a few hours at the height of the storm on Aug. 19, but was restored. Many telephones went out, but service was generally restored by Saturday, Aug. 20.

The Sudbury River did most of its rising after the rain stopped.

Around 4:30 a.m. on Aug. 20 the water began to flow over the old stone bridge, which the State had planned to replace this year anyway.

At this bridge, the river is narrow and swift. The bridge, said to be two centuries old, acted like a dam, holding back a head of perhaps four feet of water under great pressure.

Big stones on the downstream side fell out, and the roadway gullied out until by the afternoon of Aug. 21 the water was sweeping across a clean 25-foot break, adding to the spreading floods on the marshes below.

Twice in Twelve Months

Paul Finley, whose house on Stone Bridge Road is right beside the Sudbury River, was washed out in Hurricane Edna, 1954, and again last month. He said he was getting tired of it.

Although the bridge looked bad, Mr. Potvin said he thought it could be repaired.

According to tradition, the famous cannon captured at Ticonderoga in 1775 were hauled over this bridge on their way to Boston. It was a solid thing, and it took the biggest flood in history to crack it.

Nearly a foot of rain fell in two days in Boston and the same in Worcester. It was assumed that about the same amount fell in Wayland.

After the rain ended, Route 30 across Lake Cochituate was closed for some hours. Traffic through the Center plowed through the water, under police direction, until Aug. 21, when the road was closed.

By morning of the 21st, several

To Crier Readers

Beginning the last week in September, the Crier will be published in both Wayland and Weston every fortnight.

By publishing every two weeks just as much space will be devoted to Wayland and Coehituate events as at present. In addition, we shall be able to give quicker coverage.

There are three good reasons why we are taking this step: One: Many of our advertisers have potential customers in Weston, and some are located in Weston. Two: It is financially possible to publish oftener only if we give this greater coverage and circulation to our advertisers. Three: There's a demand for a newspaper in Weston.

Just as Wayland and Cochituate have been drawn closer together over the years by new homes and residents, so we predict will Wayland and Weston. Every day our two communities have more and more in common.

People who have never set foot in Wayland have told us how they read the Crier from cover to cover. We think this will be even more true of people reading about the doings in a larger community.

Improvement and growth such as this has been made possible by the loyal support of subscribers, advertisers and volunteers who have helped put the Crier on its feet. To them we again express our warmest thanks.

Work on Bridges May Begin Before Winter

Bids for the two projected Sudbury River bridges will be opened in October, says the Massachusetts Department of Public Works, and work on the projects may be begun before Winter.

The Old Sudbury Road bridge is what's called a Chapter 90 job, in which State, County and Towns share the cost. The Stonebridge Road bridge will be what they call a waterways piece of business, and the Commonwealth will bear the entire cost.

Letters to the Editor

Cat Call

To the Editor:

Circa 15 July I wrote the Crier on two counts: agendum #1 — renewal of subscription ($1.00 enclosed) ag. 2 — an ad ($.50 enclosed c Scotch tape) to the effect of "FREE, kittens — cute, fluffy, double-pawed, etc., ready by Aug. 8, El. 8-4373."

Per erratum of The Crier my ad did not appear in Aug. publication. It is as of this writing that aforementioned kittens are cute, fluffy, double-pawed, desirable and ready, etc.

If The Crier has any sense of honor whatever, it will desirably place three (3) kits with three wives in St. Ives for all I care, within hours of receipt of this letter. In which case I will concede the $.50 to its pension fund. Otherwise I will guarantee delivery by Labor Day to every staff member of The Crier a brace of cats, thoroughly empowered procreative-wise, and by every Labor Day thereafter till Hurricane Zulda.

With little affection,
One of yr. readers.

To the Editor:

I feel that some of your readers might like to know why the limitation of lawn and garden sprinkling had to be imposed again this year.

Wayland receives its water supply from driven wells. There is not now and probably never will be any shortage of water in the ground in Wayland.

Above ground there are two parts to our water supply picture: pumping capacity and storage capacity. This Summer we have four electric pumps in operation, two in our station near Happy Hollow and two at Baldwin's Pond. In addition we have an old Diesel pump for standby use that is our salvation during periods without electricity, as after the hurricane last year.

For storage we have a 500,000-gallon standpipe on Reeves Hill. The Town uses about this amount per day in Winter, but up to three or four times as much per day in Summer. Even then our pumps can keep up with Town use.

During our hot, dry spells everyone quite naturally gets out the hose and sprinkler. This simple little device can use more water in one hour than an entire family uses in one day. Water emergencies in Wayland can occur when most of the Town gets to sprinkling all at once. As a result, late on a Saturday afternoon we may find our standpipe nearly empty and our pumps unable to keep up with the demand.

We are just completing a new pumping installation that will assure sufficient capacity for some time. The real need now is for a new standpipe, which is in the planning stage.

With these installations and meters in every house, the Water Board hopes that it will never again have to send out those unpopular postcards!

Thanks for everyone's cooperation.

George K. Lewis
(Of the Water Board).

To the Editor:

I can't believe that Wayland people would throw trash from their cars on local roadsides, but somebody is doing it. My front yard is constantly littered with empty beer cans, ice cream soda containers and the tail ends of hot dogs. I'm sick of it. I hope they catch some out-of-town motorist throwing out rubbish in this Town and send him to Alcatraz for 87 years.

Town Dump.

Charles Potter Heads Aberthaw Company

Charles E. Potter

Charles E. Potter of Winthrop Road, who served as a Wayland Water Commissioner five years ago, has been made executive vice president and general manager of the Aberthaw Construction Company, which in turn has become a subsidiary of Cabot, Cabot and Forbes Company.

Mr. Potter has been general superintendent of Aberthaw for the past 10 years, a job previously held by his father, the late Charles F. Potter. The company has built many well known structures around Boston, including the Christian Science publishing building, the Suffolk Downs grandstand and college buildings for Harvard and Wellesley.

Mr. Potter, a resident of Wayland for 14 years, served in the South Pacific in World War II as a major in the 1307th Amphibious Engineers Battalion. His son, David Potter, a graduate of Wayland High School and a former student at Brown University, is now a paratroop pfc, stationed at Fort Bragg N. C.

The idea is that Mr. Potter, in his new job, will direct an expanded program of construction of many kinds.

Swiss Freedom Celebrated By 300 Guests in Wayland

Wayland, in a nation less than 200 years old, was the scene of a celebration when the 664th anniversary of Swiss independence was observed at the home of Georges H. Barrel, Switzerland's Consular Agent in Boston, on Sunday, July 31. More than 300 members and guests of the Swiss Benevolent Society gathered to celebrate the pledge of alliance made by the original three Swiss Cantons on August 1, 1291.

Rev. Ewing Called to Congregational Church

DONALD S. EWING

The Reverend Donald S. Ewing, 39, of Greenfield, New Hampshire, will move to Wayland to assume the pastorate of the Trinitarian Congregational Church on September 15.

Mr. Ewing completed his undergraduate work at Aurora College and his graduate theological studies at Northern Baptist Theological Seminary, Chicago. He has fulfilled the residency requirements for the Ph.D. degree in philosophy at Boston University, where he has been a graduate assistant and the chief seminar assistant in philosophy.

Before going to the Union Congregational Church in Greenfield, N. H., where he has served for four years as pastor, Mr. Ewing was the pastor of the First Baptist Church in Weymouth, and previously, of churches in Central Illinois and Chicago.

He has been the chairman of the Religious Education Committee of the Hillsborough Association of the New Hampshire Congregational-Christian Conference, the president of the Greenfield P. T. A., a member of the corporation of the Monadnock Community Hospital, Peterborough, and an active member of the Greenfield Fire Department. He has conducted tennis lessons for the past three years for the children of the community.

Mr. Ewing, originally from Peoria, is married to the former Irene Kathleen Hollis of Elyria, Ohio. They have a three year old son, John. Mrs. Ewing is a graduate of the Wheaton (Illinois) College Conservatory of Music, and has been an artist pupil of Blanch Branch of Chicago. She studies now with Harry Jompulsky of Boston. She has also done graduate work in theatre and radio at Boston University. She is president of the Greenfield Woman's Club.

State Health Plan Was Drawn by Ted Fabisak, Mr. De Normandie Says

By James DeNormandie

Wayland, Lincoln and Sudbury Representative in the General Court

By the time this appears in print, I hope the 1955 session of the General Court will have finished its work. It has been a long drawn out affair, in many respects not as constructive as one would have hoped. There has been no attempt to face and solve major problems of the Commonwealth. This has naturally been disappointing to a new Representative.

However, there have been many constructive individual bills passed. In the field of recreation, Horseneck Beach in Westport, Walden Pond in Lincoln and Concord, and Pilgrim Spring in Truro have either been acquired as new park areas or expanded to do a better job.

In the field of employer-employee relations, the Commonwealth has pioneered a health insurance plan for its own employees; actually the first state in the Union to do so. Like so many plans in effect in industry, the employee pays half the cost and the Commonwealth half.

Of particular interest to Wayland is the fact that our neighbor, Ted Fabisak, worked out the entire program and convinced Gov. Herter that it was a sound, progressive piece of legislation.

Another good piece of legislation will allow the use of newly developed building materials that have previously been barred by archaic building codes. Legislative action became necessary here because of overwhelming difficulties involved in correcting local codes.

Along this same line, progress is being made to put health and safety regulations on a more realistic basis. This will permit new schools to be built without excessive installations of plumbing and ventilation, long a thorn in the flesh of school building committees.

Former state employees and school teachers who had retired on small pensions have been given a $200 a year boost. This will be a real help to those who devoted their lives to teaching at low salaries and retired before recent increases took effect.

Still to be passed are the extension of the Crime Commission with adequate funds, the Highway Bond Issue and a bill to establish the Port of Boston Authority. This last would take over the management, including financing, of the Bedford and Logan Airports, the Sumner Tunnel and the Mystic River Bridge.

There is no doubt in my mind that the work being done by the Crime Commission must be continued and completed. Opposition is hard to understand except for the unpleasant fact that crime and lower forms of politics tend to work together.

The Port Authority Bill sets up a strong public agency which must be carefully done. So, should it fail of passage at this session, it could be that some conscientious legislators would like to be sure it is right before giving approval. Basically it is a progressive concept which in other cities has been a key to success in handling this type of sound public agency.

The Highway Bond Issue is still a nip and tuck affair. Attempts to make it a partisan issue have succeeded, so far, only because a two-thirds vote is necessary to authorize a bond issue. I feel sure that in the end, the importance of a good road system will be so apparent that the overwhelming majority now in favor will produce the necessary two-thirds vote that will continue our present orderly non-partisan highway development program.

In closing, I cannot help recalling that just one year ago, my wife Martha and I were campaigning feverishly for the Primary. We called on many of you at inconvenient moments but you were all considerate and gave us those few minutes to get acquainted that are so important to a man running for office.

We have seen many of you since but there are those whom we have not. I would like to take this opportunity to thank you all for your friendly help and for your many constructive suggestions during the year.

I am sure some of you have ideas for improving the services of the Commonwealth in the future. If so, be sure to let me know so that we can have them in shape for the legislative session, which begins in January.

Girl Scout Leaders Wanted

With a constantly increasing number of girls who wish to be Brownies and Girl Scouts, the Wayland and Cochituate neighborhoods of the Natick Council will welcome new adults to help with troop leading and other Scout activities.

Mrs. F. L. Heinrich, El 8-2984, and Mrs. Lyman O. Seley, El 8-2967, will take the names of interested Wayland persons, and Cochituate women may call Mrs. Alfred Swift, Ol 3-2389.

Notices will be sent out for a meeting of adult Scout workers, to he held in September.

Green Thumb Club to Meet

The first fall meeting of the Green Thumb Garden Club will be at the home of Mrs. Daniel Sheehan on Concord Road Monday, September 12. On Saturday, September 17, the club will have a family buffet supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Bartholomew on Sherman Bridge Road. Chairman will be Mrs. Daniel Sheehan, assisted by Mrs. Ruth Mangue, Mrs. D. L. Bartholomew, Mrs. Donald DeAngeles, Mrs. Phyllis Wandell, Mrs. Joseph Joyce and Mrs. James Burke.

MRS. ROBERT JOHNSON, formerly Betty Lou Spencer of Cochituate, and her new daughter, Deborah, will leave around October 1 to join Pfc. Robert Johnson in Munich, Germany, where he is stationed. Little Deborah was born July 18. Her mother, of the Wayland High School class of 1950, was an outstanding student leader. She later attended Tufts College and was graduated from Fisher Junior College.

Flower Show of Cochituate Garden Club, Sept. 8 and 9

A colorful early fall event will be the flower show, jointly arranged by the Natick and Cochituate Garden Clubs, to be held Thursday, Sept. 8, and Friday, Sept. 9, 2 to 9 p.m., at the First Congregational Church, Natick.

Following a New England theme, exhibits will include Indian Echoes, a basket arrangement; Pilgrim's Pride, weeds and wildflowers; Autumn in New England, autumn leaves and herries; The Blizzard, evergreens and white materials; as well as other arrangements, and house-plants. The show is open to all members of both clubs, and each member is requested to exhibit in at least one class. Tea will he served at a cost of 50c.

Chairman of the event is Mrs. Graydon R. Bean, assisted by Mrs. Duane Haagensen, co-chairman; Mrs. John Logan, president of the Natick club; and Mrs. James Sandler, president of the Cochituate club.

50-FOOT ICE CLIFF Cochituate Was Under Water, North Wayland Under Glacier

Here is the second and concluding installment of an account of Wayland's geology, by B. U. Emeritus Professor of Geology James B. Martin of Main Street, Cochituate.

Let us use our imagination to picture the story of our area, and it takes plenty of imagination.

Our bed rock is geologically old and it was subjected to erosion for millious of years to wear it to the hills and hollows on which glaciation finally acted.

Sudbury Valley was probably already a depression before glaciation; however, how much of highlands and lowlands were preglacial and how much was due to ice erosion is a matter of study.

Then glaciation worked over everything during the long glacial period, down to a final stage during which much of our present surface conditions resulted.

We need the picture of the terminus of a glacier as shown at present in many places of the world. The ice field moves slowly but steadily to a point where melting balances the advance of the ice. A vertical wall of ice may occur along that line, maybe 50 feet or more high. The position of that wall of ice remains constant so long as climate remains the same.

A local terminus of the final ice field remained for a long time in Cochituate. It was a wall of ice from east to west from about Rice Road to Mansion Inn. It lay at the southern margin of the lowland from Dudley Pond to School Street and beyond, and at the northern margin of the Cochituate Plain.

Streams of water flowed from the melting ice from over the surface, from under the ice and from crevasses. A large lake resulted which reached southward beyond our own limits. Cochituate Plain was built of the sediments which strong currents carried away from the ice and through the lake. And the currents must have been strong for the distances of occurrence of stratified beds of gravel.

Clay was the finest sediment and was carried far and into areas of gentlest water motion. The result was the bed of clay which underlies the center of Cochituate and interferes so badly with local drainage. Coarser sediments were more or less sorted and deposited in stratified beds which range from pure sand, through fine gravel, into coarser material, until evidently even cobbles and small boulders were rolled by the water.

Actual boulders, too large to be rolled by water, were carried frozen in floating masses of ice. Their presence, so widely distributed, supplements the levelness of the plain as evidence of the standing water of a lake for the development of Cochituate Plain.

The basins of Lake Cochituate and Sudbury Valley remained filled with ice long enough to explain their persistence as depressions. Flowage of water from those ice fields could well have built the sands which border them.

Wayland Center and North Wayland were under the continuously moving ice during the long time that the glacial terminus was over Cochituate. Their low hills and shallow hollows would be partly due to unequal erosion of underlying bed rock. It would be importantly due to action while the glacier's terminus was in final recession, a slow recession with a long time for water carried sediments to accumulate irregularly in hills and ridges. Or a level area of ground would indicate that a pond had formed south of the ice into which sediments were carried for a uniform deposition.

Masses of ice became detached and remained stranded away from the glacial front, icebergs if stranded in water. Sediments accumulated around such masses so as to leave depressions when the iceberg finally melted. A circular depression of such origin is called a kettlehole. Baldwin's Pond is such a kettlehole and there are other hollows which must have similar origin.

The Sudbury Valley offers problems for study. Its breadth for so shallow a valley does not seem like New England. How much of the valley is preglacial and how much did ice and glacial waters do? How much of the flood plain is a terrace of glacial sediment to agree with other New England valleys, or how much is flood alluvium to make it a perfect bottomland to match the bottomlands of interior American valleys? Did the valley once have a river much greater than its present one?

Finally, glacial recession freed channels to allow northward drainage by way of the Sudbury, Concord and Merrimack Rivers. Then our lakes could be drained toward their present levels and there could be a beginning towards present conditions.

Nothing spectacular, not even all the features which the glacier gave other localities. Just an ideal place for a town. Just a reminder that New England's greatest resource is the quality of her many localities for cities and towns, and Wayland is one of the towns.

THE TOWN carried on a program of crosswalk marking and stop line painting this Summer. It seemed to help the traffic situation at a number of points.

Town Hall Notes

Norman E. Taylor, Town Accountant, moved to Concord Road, Wayland, from Merrimac, on July 9. He says he likes Wayland and is happy not to be commuting such a distance.

State auditors were going over the Town books last month.

The new Town valuation book is in print and available free to any Town resident willing to take the trouble to go to Town Hall and ask for it. It won't be delivered. It's a fascinating little book, telling what valuation the Board of Assessors has put on everybody else's property.

The model of the proposed new Town office building was in preparation, but wasn't ready. Stakes had been put out on the lot in Wayland Center, marking the proposed site.

The dope is that there will be a special Town Meeting sometime this Fall, to settle several important issues, but no date has been set.

Schedule on Street Projects is Progressing

Final touches to Old Sudbury Road should be put on this month, Highway Surveyor Albert Potvin believes. Work on betterments for Valley View Road and Peck Avenue is also scheduled for September and October. In addition, work was started on the sidewalk for Old Connecticut Path from Maiden Lane to Pine Ridge Road.

Most of the Wayland Highway Department force went on vacation in August, reporting back to work on Aug. 14. A skeleton crew was left on duty, to take care of any possible emergencies.

Library Will Resume Regular Schedule Soon

The Wayland Public Library will resume its regular schedule on Saturday, Sept. 10. Both branches will be open that date and Saturdays thereafter.

Library hours are Monday to Saturday 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Refuse To Close Route 30

The contractor building the section of toll road which crosses Lake Cochituate asked the Wayland Selectmen for permission to close Route 30 while the work was in progress, and was turned down.

Oak Street, at the south edge of Town, is already closed for toll road construction, and there are frequent traffic jams at North Main Street and Pine Street, Natick, just over the line from Cochituate, caused by the road work.

Closing Route 30 would have made West Plain Street a through way to Old Connecticut Path, with truck traffic. The Wayland Selectmen met at the construction scene with those of Natick and Framingham, and they all agreed that they didn't want any additional traffic problems in their Towns.

The upshot, it is reported, is that the contractor is building a Route 30 detour right at the lake, with $70,000 extra provided for the purpose by the Toll Road Authority.

Zoning Board

The Wayland Zoning Board of Appeals has made the following decisions:

Granted: Philbob Real Estate Trust, a permit for use of limited commercial land on State Road West and incidental variances.

Granted: Ernest G. Maloney, a frontage variance for one of three proposed lots on 20 acres of land on Concord Road.

Granted: Norman Fair, a variance to build on parcel on Dudley Pond, if required.

Granted: Thomas Linehan permission to build a new house on Hawthorne Road, the existing building to be removed.

Congregational Fair

The date for the annual Fall Festival of the Trinitarian Congregational Church is November 18 and 19, it has been announced by Albion Allen, of Concord Road, chairman.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE K. MUHLBERG of Atlanta, Ga., announce the birth of a son, Paul Kenneth, on Aug. 5. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Muhlberg of Oak Street.

Elizabeth Hancock

Mrs. Hancock Will Open Voice Studio on Davelin Rd.

Elizabeth Hancock, a member of the staff of the New England Conservatory of Music, will open a studio on Davelin Road for the teaching of voice and piano.

A mezzo-soprano, she recently received her degree in Master of Music from the Conservatory where she has been teaching for the past year as assistant to Gladys Miller Zachareff.

In May she was elected into the honorary society of Pi Kappa Lambda, a fraternity for scholastic and artistic attainments.

FRIEDA BOESENBERG AND CAROL YARRISH of the Wayland High School class of 1955 have gone to work for the telephone company. Frieda is an operator and Carol a teller in the business office, both in Framingham. Both girls were active in High School affairs and received good experience on the year-book staff and the secretarial staff.

Foreign Students Spend Weekends In Wayland

Thirty-four foreign students, members of the Foreign Student Summer Program at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, have been guests of Wayland families during three "hospitality weekends" on June 25, July 23, and August 20. For the fourth summer Mrs. Daniel Kennedy, of Orchard Lane, has arranged these with M.I.T. and Wayland residents.

Hosts have been Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Grannis, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Leiby, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sweidler, Mr. and Mrs. John Tanger, Mr. and Mrs. David Trageser, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Y. Wadsworth.

The students are young men and women who have graduated from universities and begun work in their respective fields either in industry or universities. They are accepted by the M.I.T. summer program on a competitive basis. Ability to speak English is one qualification. The students not only have M.I.T. at their disposal during the three months they are here, but they are taken on trips to U.S. industries and laboratories. Usually it is also made possible for them to go to Tanglewood during the music festival. The hospitality weekends are their chance to meet Americans in their own homes.

This summer guests came from the following countries: Australia, Austria, Belgium, Burma, Brazil, Egypt, France, Germany, Gold Coast, South Africa, Great Britain, Greece, India, Ireland, Indonesia, Japan, Korea, Netherlands, New Zealand, Nigeria, Norway, Spain and Switzerland.

Traffic Control in the Center

As usual in floods, Sudbury River water backed up over the State Road at Wayland Center. The water rose some more after this picture was taken, too.

Mainstone Farm Wins Green Pastures Prize

Mainstone Farm, Old Connecticut Path, won first Middlesex County prize in the Green Pastures competition for this year, and DeWitt Mitchell, manager, was told that the Wayland place was in contention for higher honors. The prize is nothing but glory, for conserving feed, raising better grass and making maximum use of pasture land.

Mainstone is said to be the oldest Guernsey cattle farm in the United States. Its first herd dates from 1874. Some descendants of the first herd are still on the premises, but Mr. Mitchell says that modern developments in breeding are such that 1874 model cows are practically obsolete.

RONALD ERIC MORRIS, a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. George J. Morris, of 8 Old Farm Road, on July 16.

Flood

inches of water were flowing over the causeway on the road to Sudbury and the Wayland Town dump. The flow of the Sudbury is so sluggish it was feared it would be a long time before the water receded.

Wayland firemen went on 24-hour duty in both engine houses. Up to afternoon of the 21st, however, there were no fire alarms and no rescue calls.

The bridge on Sherman Bridge Road was closed for a time. There were many reports of flooded cellars in the North End of Town.

For a time Route 9 traffic was detoured through Routes 20 and 126 in Wayland. Helicopters hovered over the marshes, but apparently had no rescue work to do. Water came close to many houses in Riverview, where residents put in a sleepless night as the river rose.

False Alarm in Daylight

Fire apparatus responded to an alarm from Happy Hollow School late in the afternoon of Aug. 13, but there was no fire and nothing seemed to be wrong.

"False alarm," said Homer MacDonald of the Fire Department. "They don't even wait for the shades of night to fall now."

League Will Hold Tea For Its New Members

The Wayland League of Women Voters will hold a membership tea on Wednesday, September 21. Early September bulletin will carry details to members, and those who wish to visit or join may contact Jane Griffin, El. 8-4870.

The program for the tea will endeavor to explain simply and lightly the structure of League and its accomplishments up to the present time, also the National and State Agenda for this year. Portions of every unit will be devoted to our local item "Know your Town Committees and Officers." Material used will be the result of extensive interviews.

Three young people of the First Parish attended the Junior High Camp at Rowe, Mass., from July 31 to August 20: Harriet Colby, Jack Tanger, and Russell Tarbell. During its first session, early in July, the camp was directed by former Wayland minister Rev. Raymond G. Manker. The second session was directed by Rev. Russell Bletzer of Needham.

Next Year's Vacation - - - Stick It Out in Wayland -- Go Broke Here As Well As Anywhere

Hot as it was in Wayland in July and August, it is reliably reported that it was hotter in Death Valley, not to mention Last Resort, where many of us will wind up, and it brings up the question of Going Away for the Summer, or part thereof.

The only trouble with getting away from the Wayland climate is that if one is going to do it at all he might as well shoot the works and stay away 12 months a year. This, unfortunately, would involve staying somewhere else for 12 months, and that might easily be worse.

Connoisseurs of vacations have long maintained that the best place to get away from it all is one's own back yard. Or cellar, in case of hot spells.

The alternative is to get into an automobile and ride on the hot highway to a $14 motel, climb a high mountain and sprain an ankle or go to a beach where the sand burns the feet.

Note the advantages of staying home:

No mosquitoes. Well, not many.

Excitement. The hurricane season and dodging the water inspector by squirting the hose after midnight.

Action. Watching the gravel trucks go by. Watching the toll road builders rip the good looks out of the landscape. Watching the dust blow around the Raytheon building.

Living it up. One can live just as far beyond his means in Wayland as in Texas, say. Why go in debt at the beach? Do it at home, where local creditors will take a personal interest.

Lights. There's always likely to be a grass fire in the night.

Diet. Why eat boarding house food elsewhere, when good vegetables are available at local establishments? If good meals at home seem monotonous, mention it to the cook. She'll be glad to burn a few items, especially if the temperature is around 95.

Comfort. No rocks in the mattress. At least, no more than one is accustomed to.

Social life. See the people you're accustomed to seeing. Why bother to go a long way to meet others, who may want to come and pay you a long visit next Summer? Perhaps better still, leave a bottle of milk on the doorstep for a decoy and hide inside and see nobody.

Intellectual life. Sit around and think up a speech for next Town Meeting. Study the bees and the ants. Think up how far the money would go if all the bills were paid. Put yourself in your creditor's shoes. Do they fit? Could you dodge faster in them?

Exercise. The prone method, naturally. Just wiggle the wrist occasionally. Or, if sitting up, just rock gently, once every 10 minutes or so.

Nature study. Watch the leaves droop and the grass burn.

This is the life when one stays at home. When he goes away, he doesn't have as much, it's more effort and it costs more. The do-it-yourself way is the stay-at-home vacation. D. B. W.

Fritz Walther Will Head Chest Drive

F. P. Walther, Jr., of Cochituate Road, will direct and organize activities within the Town for the 1956 Red Feather drive. Mr. Walther, a resident of Wayland for nine years, is president F. P. Walther, Jr. and Associates, Inc., an advertising firm in Boston.

No newcomer to the Red Feather drive, Mr. Walther has been active as a solicitor in previous campaigns. His community activities also include former chairmanship for the Board of Trustees, Wayland Junior Town House and present trusteeship for this local group. At one time he served as cub master for the Wayland Cub Scouts. He was also editor of the old Junior Town House Town Crier, predecessor of the present Crier.

As Wayland's Red Feather chairman, Mr. Walther will supervise all solicitation within Wayland for the forthcoming drive which seeks the support of 277 Red Feather social and health welfare agencies in Greater Boston.

Mystery of Dudley Pond Water Level Seems To Be Solved

A committee directed by the March Town Meeting to investigate the water level of Dudley Pond thinks it has found the trouble. The tunnel under the Hultman Aqueduct, which carries the overflow from the pond, is plugged with debris.

Miss Jean Caul, who lives near the pond, made a speech about it in Town Meeting. She said the pond was sometimes high and sometimes low, and that it was a nuisance. Sometimes the water was away out and sometimes it was away in.

So the committee was chosen. It includes George F. Bowers of the Planning Board, Frank S. Tarr of the Selectmen, Norman G. Fair of the Board of Health and Jacob Reimer and Miss Caul, members at large.

The level of the pond, says Mr. Tarr, is set by the dam at its northern edge. From this little dam the water goes through a tunnel under the Hultman Aqueduct, then flows in a brook which runs past Happy Hollow School and eventually into the Sudbury River. Through the years, however, the tunnel has become choked so that the water sometimes backs up. The committee thinks it will recommend that the tunnel be cleaned out.

TEACHERS AT HAPPY HOLLOW SCHOOL, according to a grapevine tendril, call it the Old Maids' Home. It seems a rather remote and secluded spot, topographically speaking.

DUCK FEEDING AT NORUMBEGA

Wayland Man's Hobby is Feeding Ducks on Charles at Norumbega

By Carol Foster

Walter R. Koe, who moved to Plain Rd., Wayland, in July, has for the last 10 years made it his responsibility to take care of the flock of ducks which make their home at Norumbega Park on the western side of the Charles River. This year he figures he has handed out 23 tons of grain and bread to a crowd of birds he estimates total 900 in the winter. These are mostly ducks as well as seagulls and pigeons who congregate at Norumbega during the cold months.

At first Mr. Koe just began stopping by Norumbega because he has always enjoyed birds and wild life and would take along something to feed the ducks. As winter came he saw them frozen and starving and began to make their feeding a regular thing. He bought the bread and grain himself. By 1953 he found the feed bill too high to foot himself and sent out a few appeals to people he thought would contribute toward it. One of these appeals came to the attention of Morgan Baker who mentioned it in his 6:30 broadcast. This happened just as Mr. Koe was afraid he'd have to give the whole thing up.

"It was a miracle," he says. Letters and calls began to come in to Mr. Koe, and after that he began to establish his duck feeding program on what he hopes will be a permanent basis. Now he has 192 donors toward the duck food bill, although he still has to pay for a lot of it himself. He says, "Like the old gambler I'm hoping this will be the year for me."

Last fall Mr. Koe sent out a letter signed "Petey," — one of the oldest ducks Mr. Koe had been able to identify because of a stuck-up wing feather. His "A Buck for a Duck" campaign got quite a lot of publicity around Boston in the newspapers and on the air. One of the replies was from a Mrs. B. S. Blake, of Weston, who wrote that in 1918 she had released near the end of Commonwealth Ave. her mallards which she had been raising for live decoys. Mr. Koe suspects these may have been the basis of the permanent duck flock there. Being somewhat tame they stayed, and since then birds who have been born and raised there have lost their urge to migrate.

In Winter word gets around, and birds from surrounding territory add to the group. Last winter when fishing boats in Boston stayed in port, hundreds of sea gulls found Mr. Koe and his handout.

Mr. and Mrs. Koe used to live in West Newton, and decided to come to Wayland partly because Mrs. Koe, the former Jean Poutasse, was born here. Mr. Koe heads for Norumbega about 2 P.M. The ducks now see him coming and gather around before his car has stopped.

He gets letters from all over the country and some from abroad expressing interest in his hobby. He enjoys meeting the people who come to feed the ducks and says that the pleasure the children get from this keeps him working on it. "It isn't just a matter of feeding ducks," says Mr. Koe, "It's maintaining an institution. A lot of people think I'm a crackpot, and a lot of people think I'm a good guy. Take your choice."

No New School Head Yet

The School Committee, which has been trying to find a successor to Dr. Rexford S. Souder as Superintendent of Schools, had no one signed up as of Aug. 20. Dr. Souder said he would remain to give enough direction to keep the school system going until somebody could be recruited.

Beach Attendance Off

Attendance at Lake Cochituate beach was high until its temporary closing for a week or so in July, but after it was re-opened attendance fell off a great deal, in spite of the heat. People were nervous about it.

But Mr. Tarr says the water was tested weekly by a sanitary engineer, and the tests showed it was almost as good as the drinking water. There was no pollution or stagnation at the beach, and the beach sand was raked daily, to keep it aired and dried.

C. O. Baker and Ed Lueier were the officers on duty every day at the entrance gate.

There Was Enough Water

Use of hose was ordered stopped on one hot Saturday afternoon during the July dry spell. Otherwise, the Water Department came through all right. It is said that continued installation of water meters will help, because presumably people will be careful about using water for which they will have to pay a proportionate charge.

Swamp Channel Dredged Outside the High School

A step towards improving the looks of the High School grounds was taken this Summer by dredging a channel for Mill Brook, from the traffic lights at Wayland Center westward to the new road into the school from Pelham Island Road. The job cost $1300.

The brook used to run under Cochituate Road at the corner and then spread out over a marsh. It often made unpleasant wetness in back of the houses along the State Road.

The brook now has a definite channel, 10 feet deep, 12 feet wide at the bottom and 10 feet wide at the top. The muck taken out was dumped on the school side of the brook.

Selectman Frank S. Tarr, who's also a Park Commissioner, says the Wayland Garden Club is much interested in the project, and that it's hoped to get something more done in other years, to make the area around the brook a beauty spot instead of an eyesore.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren G. Moulton and their daughter have moved into their new house on Plain Road. Mr. Moulton is an engineer with the Turner Construction Co. in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Braunmuller and their children have moved into their new house on High Rock Road. Mr. Braunmuller is with the James Thomas Chirurg Co. of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathia Leupold, and their son, John, have moved into the house on Stonebridge Road, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Albion O. Holgerson, who have moved to Florida. Mr. Leupold is an engineer at M. I. T.

Morgan Horses Entered By Wayland Residents

Residents of this area had several entries in the recent 13th annual National Morgan Horse Show at Northampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Ela of Wayland and the Townshend Morgan-Holstein Farm, Townshend, Vermont, entered the following Morgans: "Townshend Gladys," "Orcland Vigildon," "Townshend Cornita," "Sadwin," "Townshend Sealois," "Townshend Gladalect," "Westfall Barby," "Townshend Harryet," and "Townshend Chelecta." Miss Nancy Ela competed in equitation classes.

Wistful Gives 8151 Quarts

Wistful, a Guernsey cow of Mainstone Farm, has attracted wide attention among dairymen recently by her feat of producing 17,103 pounds, or 8151 quarts, of milk in one year. Had she produced around 17,600 pounds, says DeWitt Mitchell, manager of the farm, she'd have been up in the world's record contention.

In spite of her name, Wistful is said to be of average cow temperament, a 6-year-old mother. They milk her three times a day.

Gueruseys are light brown and white in color.

MacKEEN---MASON

Miss Audrey C. MacKeen of 4 Commonwealth Road was married by Rev. George C. Gutekunst on June 25 to Mr. Robert S. Mason of Hyde Park at the Coehituate Community Methodist Church. Mrs. Mason is a graduate of Wayland High School. Mr. Mason, a mechanical engineer, is a graduate of Northeastern University. The couple now lives in Pittsburgh. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Lawrence MacKeen, is a granddaughter of Warren D. Valentine, a Wayland Cemetery Commissioner.

Joe Boothroyd Resigns — Other School Changes

Joseph E. Bootbroyd, who was to have been vice-principal and mathematics teacher at Wayland High School this year, has resigned to accept a position as superintendent of schools elsewhere, Dr. Rexford S. Souder, Wayland Superintendent, announces.

Mr. Boothroyd had been a teacher at Wayland High for four years.

The position of vice-principal will be filled by James E. Reid, who has an A.B. from Bates, 1939, and an M.A. from Tufts. He will also teach Latin. He comes to Wayland from Malden High, where he taught Latin and was assistant football coach.

Robert P. O'Hara, who has been teaching Latin, has resigned to study for his Ph.D. degree.

James F. Strong has also resigned from the High School faculty. He will teach physical education at Framingham High.

A new teacher will be Francis X. Corcoran, a graduate of Boston College, who will give science courses. He has just returned from three years of Navy service as a Lieutenant, J.G.

Francis J. Bottari, who has a B.S. from Suffolk University and a master's degree in education from Tufts, will teach language, arts and social studies at the High School. He comes from the Massachusetts Hospital School in Canton.

A few other faculty changes remain to be made.

G. PRENTIS RICHARDSON of Old Connecticut Path has been appointed superintendent of the Wayland Water Department, the Commissioners announced last month. Robert L. Groton of Winter Street will be "second man."

FRITZ A. GROSS, radar authority who has been appointed manager of Raytheon's equipment engineering division, lives at 71 Westland Road, Weston, with Mrs. Gross and their three daughters, Jane, 14; Martha, 10, and Susan, 9 years old.

Charles Wadsworth Moves

Charles Y. Wadsworth of Old Sudbury Road, until recently a member of the Wayland Finance Committee, has moved to Sandy Pond Road, Lincoln, partly, he says, as the result of a real estate transaction. But he and Mrs. Wadsworth lived in Lincoln when they were first married and, he says, they always thought of going back there some day.

New occupant of the Wadsworth home will be Chalfee E. Hall, Jr., former Dean of Men at the University of California at Berkeley. He is now on the faculty of the Harvard Business School.

New Telephone Books

New telephone directories should be in the homes of all subscribers by the first of September. Because of the changes in mail address which resulted when Wayland went on rural route service, some books may not have reached their destination, and because they are mailed fourth class cannot be forwarded.

If you do not have your book, call the telephone business office, Olympic 3-9950, suggests Eugene Murphy, manager of the Natick district. The telephone company will see that you receive a book.

According to Mr. Murphy, the new book contains 175 more Elmwood listings than the previous one.

Sale for Scholarship Fund

For the benefit of the High School Scholarship Fund, the Wayland Woman's Club will hold a food sale on the green in Wayland Center, Saturday, October 1. Every member of the club will be solicited for contributions.

Wayland Leaders Wrestle With the Flood Problem

WAYLAND — What to do about the Sudbury River, whose floods are getting to be both expensive and monotonous, was engaging the attention and the emotions of a number of citizens and groups last month, and it seemed there would be many more developments before the issue was settled.

Then the question of the Stone Bridge at Riverview came up.

At a Special Town Meeting last February, Wayland put its OK on a proposition by the Waterways Division of the Department of Public Works to replace this ancient bridge with a new one, at no cost to the Town.

It was Waterways because the Stone Bridge acts as a dam when the water is high. The bids for this, said the D. P. W., were to be opened in late October.

Then came the flood. After it, Selectman Leavitt called Waterways. They told him:

"The bridge is still going to be built, but we're not going to build it. It's going to be built by the Department of Public Works with some of the $25,000,000 emergency money voted by the Legislature." Whitman & Howard, con-

Girls' Softball; Score 11 to 5 in 2 Innings

COCHITUATE—Seventh grade girls played the 8th grade girls in a softball game as part of the Way-Co Baseball Committee's Field Day on the Cochituate field on Sept. 10. The game was called at the end of two innings, with the 7th grade ahead, 11 to 5.

On the 7th grade team were Carol Wood, Cynthia Warwick, Betty Graves, Priscilla Harrington, Johanna McCann, Sandra Campbell, Judy Bigwood, Valerie Finley and Diane Knowlton.

Playing for the 8th grade were Judy Arnold, Miriam Vlass, Betsy Lundy, Janet Scott, Lynda Wheelock, Anne Stahl, Evelyn Archer, Beverly Parker and Peggy Rooney.

TO OUR READERS

Beginning with this issue, THE TOWN CRIER offers itself to a larger audience, the 13,500 persons who live in Cochituate, Wayland and Weston.

In a way, this is an unusual effort in journalism.

Many publishers put out papers for more than one community. Generally, however, what they publish is basically one paper, with changes in editorial content to fit individual localities.

What THE TOWN CRIER is attempting is what might be called integration.

Every effort will be made to strike a fair balance of news as between the two Towns. If and when a choice of news has to be made, it will be on the basis of what seems more interesting or important at the time, not on geography.

This issue is due to be in the hands of readers on Thursday, Sept. 29. Next one is due Thursday, Oct. 13, and one every two weeks thereafter until further notice.

Emphasis will be on news of local governments, local people, local schools, local churches, local civic and social organizations. THE TOWN CRIER columns will always be open to anyone or any group with a good cause to promote.

THE CRIER'S staff will collect all the news it can. It would help a great deal, however, if some representative of each organization in the Towns could be designated, or would take it upon himself, to send reports of his group's activities to THE CRIER. There will be a deadline, necessarily, but it would be better if the news could be sent in as fast as it happens, regardless of time. If it's too late for one issue, we'll get it in next time.

Accuracy will be one of THE CRIER'S aims. But there are bound to be mistakes which will be corrected, where possible, as soon as they are discovered.

This first issue of the combined paper goes free to as many Weston families as the postal laws allow. The new rate will be $2 per year by mail, 10 cents per copy on news stands. Wayland subscribers will continue to receive the paper until their $1 subscriptions run out by the calendar, not by number of issues.

THE CRIER'S new office is in the basement of the doctor's building in Weston Center. Somebody will be there all day every weekday to receive news, advertising, and it's hoped, subscriptions by the hundreds. Call WA 5-4290-J.

The names of the communities on the masthead are there in alphabetical order.

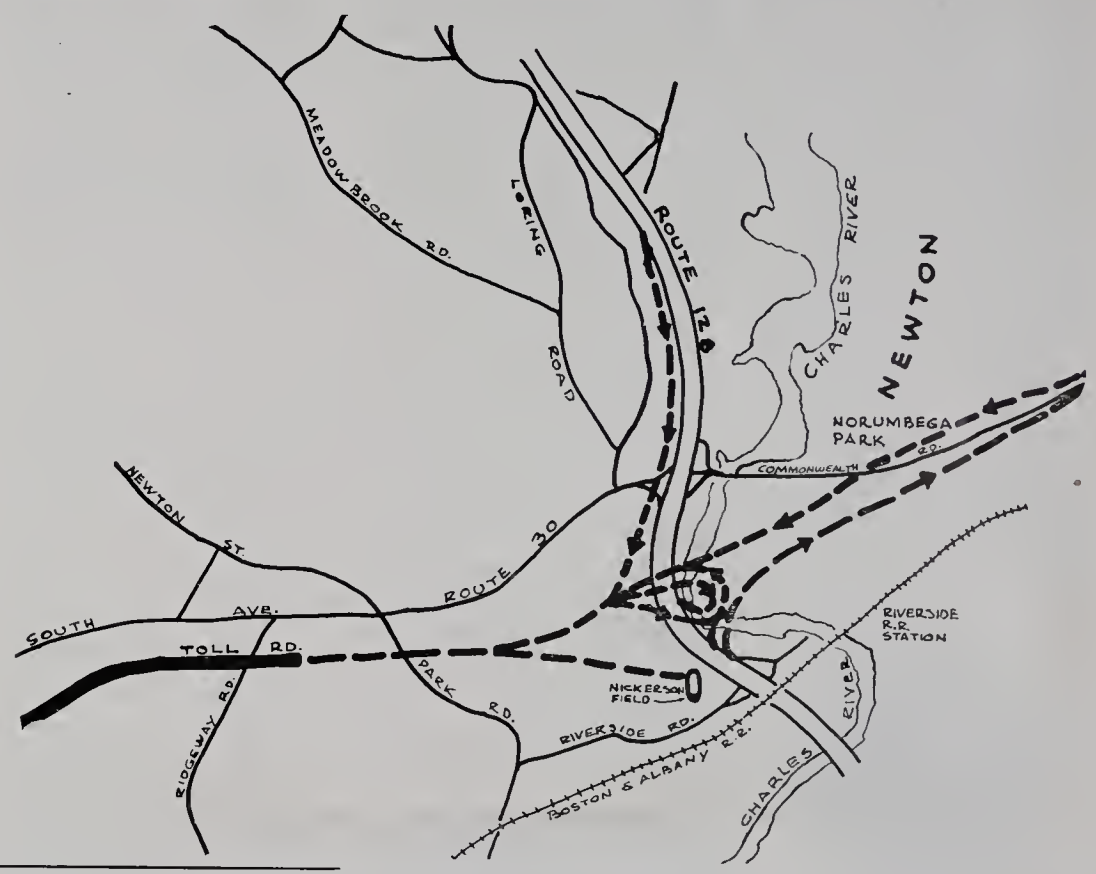
SURPRISE ENDING FOR TOLL ROAD PLANNED BY TURNPIKE AUTHORITY



To the surprise of all who had supposed that the eastern terminus of the Toll Road would be a big traffic circle at Nickerson Field, near Riverside, it was learned recently that the Turnpike Authority's plans call for an interchange midway between Nickerson Field and Route 30, with bridges spanning Charles River a little south of Norumbega.

What is planned for Nickerson Field is another branch of the toll road, the one which is to be continued by a route as yet unannounced into downtown Boston.

This second spur, to be built later than the Route 30 interchange, is shown by markings on an airplane map to cross the football field at about the 30-yard line, nearest the north goal. On this map it stops dead at mid-field, going east and west.

Reports are that from this point two routes to the city are being considered. One scheme is to take the road on a structure over the Boston & Albany tracks for 10 miles or so into Boston. The other is to cut to the east of Norumbega Park and follow the Charles River shore to Watertown.

Pretzel Pattern

These plans became known only when the big airplane map was sent to Weston Town Hall, with a message saying this was about what had been decided on.

In detail, this is how it goes:

Going east along the road route, contracts have been let only to a point 300 feet east of Ridgeway Road. That leaves a distance of about half a mile to Charles River.

The map shows the proposed Commonwealth Avenue, Newton, link swinging slightly northward, although still south of Route 30, at Ridgeway Road, reaching the river and Route 128 about midway between the football field at Riverside and Route 30.

At this point the toll road leaps over 128 and the river to high land opposite Norumbega on the Newton side. There is then a pretzel pattern of bridges, ramps and accesses to and from Commonwealth Avenue, 128 and 30.

In all, it is estimated, there will be nearly three miles of accesses and roadway in this one project.

The access road leading off 128 southbound to the toll road, for example, is said to be three-quarters

Supt. Anderson To Speak At Town House Meeting

Edward J. Anderson, new Wayland Superintendent of Schools, will be the speaker at the annual meeting of the Wayland Junior Town House Association, to be held at 8:15 p. m. Oct. 10 in Odd Fellows Hall, Wayland. Richard W. Foster, president, will preside.

The Town House kindergarten was scheduled to begin classes on Sept. 26, under the direction of Mrs. Dunbar Holmes and Mrs. Bruce Kingsbury. Three classes of 20 pupils each were arranged, under the supervision of Mrs. E. Le Caine of Waltham, Mrs. Ethel Bamforth of Wayland and Mrs. John B. Tanger of Wayland.

Two classes meet in Odd Fellows Hall and one in the Trinitarian Congregational Church. An effort was made to have a class in the Veterans of Foreign Wars building off Pine Ridge Road, but there weren't enough doors and windows in the building to meet the state rules for such schools.

Special Town Meeting Probable In Wayland

WAYLAND — The political dope is that there will probably be a Special Town Meeting either in late November or early December to take some action on schools, the proposed Town office building and Town expenditures.

The school article might be on the report of Dr. Nicholas Engelhardt, the "outside expert" whose report on Wayland school needs is due Oct. 1.

As of mid-September, the model of the proposed Town office building was not ready. What to do about this building could be another Article.

On account of storms and other unforeseen expenditures, a Town account or two may be running short. That would have to be taken care of, were a Special Town Meeting to be called. Overall, of course,

Wayland Polio Score Seems To Stop At 16

WAYLAND — The polio score for 1955 stood at a total of 16 cases on Sept. 16, at which time the count was only 2 higher than that reported in the Sept. 1 Crier. Of the two new cases, one was of the paralytic type.

Dr. Charlotte A. Stewart of the Wayland Board of Health says that none of the 200 to 300 who received gamma globulin shots contracted the disease, nor did any of the children who received the Salk vaccine last Spring.

Mosquito Warning

After Hurricane Diane, the Wayland Board of Health issued a warning against culex, the "house mosquito", of which there was a great plague. The East Middlesex Mosquito Control Project, to which Wayland belongs, did a fine job during the early Summer, but the flood waters left pools everywhere in which a new crop of insects hatched.

The Board of Health asked residents to spray all pools and puddles with 5% DDT, and, better still, not to let water collect in odd

Smith – Knights

Miss Deborah Knights became the bride of Mr. Lyman Whitman Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Abbot Smith of Weston and Manchester, on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 10, in the First Parish Church. The Rev. John Madison Foglesong, pastor for 15 years of the First Parish Church, Wayland, and now retired, returned to perform the 3:30 ceremony. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Franklin Knights of Wayland.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin with a cathedral train, long sleeves and a sweetheart neckline trimmed with family chantilly lace. Her long veil of heirloom Spanish Chantilly lace was first worn by the bridegroom's great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Saphronia Anne Whitman, in 1840. The bride's cascade bouquet combined phalaeanopsis orchids and stephanotis.

The matron of honor was Mrs. David A. Knights of Marblehead, sister-in-law of the bride. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Winsor Soule, 2nd, of Manchester, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Martha Stickney of Brookline, Miss Elizabeth L. Hill of Boston; Miss Patricia Fernald of Cohasset; and Miss Nancy Bailey of Clarks Summit, Pa. All the attendants wore gowns of beige brocade with portrait necklines and three-quarter length sleeves edged with mink to match the mink bands in their hair. They carried bouquets of Happiness roses.

The honorary bridesmaids were Mrs. George Bradford Foote of Dublin, N. H., and Mrs. Ernest Monrad of Charlottesville, Va. Heidi and Gretchen Knights, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. They wore pale green organdy with matching velvet sashes and carried baskets of rose petals.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Knights wore a gown of walnut silk brocade with a matching velvet flowered hat and a corsage of cypripedium orchids. Mrs. Smith, the bridegroom's mother, wore aqua green tissue taffeta with a mauve sequin neckline, a mauve and vois-de-rose sequin hat and a corsage of small cymbidium orchids.

The best man was Mr. George Bradford Foote of Dublin, N. H., brother-in-law of the bridegroom. The ushers were the bride's two brothers, Mr. David A. Knights of Marblehead and Mr. Richard H. Knights of Wayland; Mr. James K. Burch of Dubuque, Iowa; Mr. George C. Fant Jr. of Anderson, S. C.; Mr. Clifton W. Fichtner of New York City; Mr. Glover B. Mayfield of Chevy Chase, Md.; Mr. A. Louis Cloutier 4th of Boston; Mr. Francis A. Houston 2nd of Concord; and Mr. Robert T. P. Metcalf of Beverly Farms.

MRS. LYMAN WHITMAN SMITH

The bride was graduated from the Beaver Country Day School and from Stephens College. She made her debut in the 1949-50 season and is a member of the Junior League. Mr. Smith was graduated from Milton Academy, Harvard College, and the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. After a wedding trip they will live at 17 Conant Road, Weston.

Nurse's Aid Course

A nurse's aid refresher course is being organized at the Waltham Hospital. Anyone wishing to enroll should telephone Mrs. David Reid, WAltham 5-7269. The Waltham Hospital will welcome volunteers of all kinds, includinig Nurse's Aids. Mrs. Nathaniel Brackett, 37 Weston Street, Waltham, is in charge of volunteers.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM B. LEATHERBEE JR. of Brighton announce the birth of a first child, a daughter, Linda, on Sept. 7 at Richardson House. Mrs. Leatherbee is the former Gail Hubbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Hubbard of 56 Sunset Road, Weston.

Cochituate Mothers' Club

Nine members of the Mothers' Club of Cochituate and North Natick will have their hair fixed at the salon of Mr. Edwards of Holliston on Oct. 5, and that evening at 8 in Cochituate Grammar School, at the first meeting of the 31st year of the Club's activities, they will be shown as models to the rest of the members.

Many of the original members of the Club are now grandmothers. The first aim of the organization is its annual scholarship, given to further the education of a deserving Wayland High School graduate.

A series of lectures has been arranged for this season. One will be on child care. There will be talks by the staff of the Parmenter Health Center and also a fashion show.

The Club extends an invitation to new members, who may call Norma Miller, OL 3-4707, Betty Campana, OL 3-2244, or Monica Markinac, OL 3-5302.

Kitchen Canaries Sing

WESTON—The Kitchen Canaries, under the direction of Mrs. Owen C. Howe Jr., began rehearsals Sept. 22 for their Christmas concert. This year they will not give as many concerts because their talents will be involved in the Weston Friendly Society Musical in the Spring.

CHRISTMAS CARDS ARE IN !

Come now and look over the new books in peace and quiet. At the same time you might like to look over the new autumn wearables. We have lots of sweaters and skirts, shirts and shorts and dresses which we will be very glad to show.

New Neighbor In Wayland Brings House With Him

WAYLAND — Among new residents in Town are one who had his house moved here bodily, one returning after three years just because he likes the place, one couple, radio hams, who find reception better here, and a number of Raytheon people.

Newcomers:

Donald E. O'Niel, 14 Bald Rock Road (Daymon Farm), from Framingham. A salesman.

Werner A. Senff, 145 Plain Road. Insurance.

Alan A. White, 12 Fairfield Road, Cochituate. Mr. White, a 6th grade teacher in the Natick schools, lived in Natick. He had built his own house and all the furniture in it. Being right in the path of the toll road, he had his whole house moved to Cochituate. The building came up West Plain Street one day this Summer, causing no end of excitement among the neighbors. Mr. and Mrs. White have a 3-months-old son.

Gordon R. Wood, 1 Pequot Road, real estate and building. Just married.

Harry W. Schuerfeld, 6 Ridgefield Road, Cochituate. From Wareham, retired. This is the house formerly occupied by Dr. Myron Sandifer, who went to the University of North Carolina to teach.

Robert W. Lucey, 178 West Plain Street. From Westwood. A master electrician.

Harold G. Purdy, Claypit Hill Road, from Hartford, Conn. Mr. and Mrs. Purdy lived on Orchard Lane about three years ago, then moved away. Now they're coming back just because they like Wayland. He's a salesman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ferguson, Concord Road. They are both radio hams. They moved to Wayland because of a high tension line near their former home in Natick, which interfered. They are far enough from the Wayland high tension line so that it doesn't bother them.

George Mayberry, 6 Bennett Road. From Westwood.

Frank Melanson, an engineer, 240 West Plain Street, Cochituate. That's the house formerly occupied by Mrs. Ruth Hatch, who was swimming instructor at the Lake Cochituate beach this Summer. She has moved to Wellesley Hills.

L. W. Lightbody, 1 Mansion Road, Lakefield, retired. From Framingham.

G. T. Krinopolis, Pequot Road, From Cleveland. Raytheon.

H. Letaw, Concord Road, from Champaign, Ill. At Wayland Raytheon.

Vuilleumier - Ekdahl

Salem Lutheran Church was the scene of the wedding Sept. 10 of Miss Elsie Ekdahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ekdahl of Quincy, to Robert Gage Vuilleumier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henri C. A. Vuilleumier of 61 West Plain Street, Cochituate.

Rev. Bertil E. Hult performed the 7 o'clock ceremony and the bride was given in marriage by her father. A reception followed at the South Shore Country Club in Hingham.

Mrs. Jean McKenney of Weymouth was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Louise Fruth, Ann Hellner and Elizabeth DeLappe.

George Jamieson of Maynard was best man and ushers included Norman Hollett, and Peter Bogren and George Vuilleumier of Cochituate.

Mr. Vuilleumier was graduated from the University of Massachusetts, and served with the Marine Corps in Korea. His bride is a graduate of Boston University. They will live in Columbus, O.

"Musical Hay Ride" At Country School

WESTON — The Children's Theater workshop, sponsored by the Community League, will present a workshop play, "A Musical Hay Ride", at the Country School in January. Children of the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades, and workshop alumni of the seventh grade and above will have opportunities for experience in acting, dancing, and singing, as well as designing and making sets and costumes. Watch for registration dates.

The Massachusetts Broken Stone Company, near the railroad tracks and Route 128, is the only large industry in Weston.

Annual Appeal Of Salvation Army

COCHITUATE— The Salvation Army is launching its Friendly Annual Appeal in Cochituate under the leadership of Mrs. Anselm Delaney, general chairman. Mrs. George F. Johnson, Jr., is the campaign treasurer for the third year in succession.

Mrs. Delaney has been busy organizing the corps of workers conducting the friendly "good neighbor" canvass. The campaign opened Monday, Sept. 12, under the direction of the general chairman.

"One dollar in every five contributed here will remain in the Cochituate Service Fund exclusively for local needs," Mrs. Delaney reports. This fund is administered entirely by a local committee, whose members know local conditions and needs best of all.

Mrs. Delaney is chairman and Mrs. Johnson is treasurer of the Cochituate Service Fund. The other members are Mrs. Helen Tufts, director of welfare, and Miss Edith Thayer, social worker.

While 20 per cent of the money contributed in Cochituate remains here, local residents also benefit from the money regional activities of The Salvation Army such as the Booth Memorial Hospital, the Red Shield Club for the Armed Forces, Wonderland Fresh Air Camp, the Men's Social Service Center, the League of Mercy and the Missing Persons Bureau.

Elmer W. Bigwood has charge of publicity.

Camp Nacochwa Runs Like a Dude Ranch

The Natick Council of Girl Scouts operates the largest day camp in New England on the shores of Lake Cochituate in Wayland. This past summer, 250 children and adults "went camping" for the first half of July and 245 attended during the second half of the season. About 50 girls had to be turned away, for lack of space, which is strictly governed by Girl Scout standards.

The camp was run this summer as a dude ranch—all the campers became ranch-hands; their tents were "bunkhouses"; the counselors were ranch foremen, and the main building was the Old Bar X. It served as counselors' coffee-break haven and headquarters for the camp directors. This building was made possible last year by the sale of Girl Scout cookies.

The campers enjoyed weekly cook-outs, an over-night under the stars, a program of two daily swims, archery, crafts, hiking, nature, singing and lots of laughs and good fellowship. The work of keeping the camp shipshape was shared by everyone, from the director down to the youngest Brownie. Each bunkhouse was inspected every day by the assistant director and camp nurse. as every girl scout camp must keep health and safety standards up to regulation.

This year, the crafts program was geared to ranching — the campers tie-dyed neckerchiefs; Brownies made simple designs — older Intermediates created intricate ones with some startling and lovely patterns resulting. All campers made leather tie slides for their kerchiefs; the little girls made cowgirl hats — the older girls made fancy chaps and others made bracelets, headbands and belts.

One hundred twenty-nine girls worked on scout badges at camp and 68 Red Cross swimming badges were earned. On the final day of camp, every unit of campers planted a pine seedling, in line with the scout conservation program.

The following Wayland girls attended Camp Nacochwa this year: Paula Marston, Penny Marston, Miriam Prouty, Laurie Dame, Barbara Kane, Pamela Allen, Alison Dyer, Janice Gerald, Donna Marston, Sandra Cain, Marylin Lord, Judith Pratt, Dorothy Paradis, Sharon Shepard, Betsy Sullivan, Cheryl Lorentzen, Marie Ham, Patricia Cain, Harriet Colby, Martha Collins, Ursula Riley, Judith Moss, Stephanie DiSenso, Terry Jones, Dorothy Cormack, Linda Knaack, Claire Stearns, Ellane Landsberg, Karen Zaniboni, Janet Gilman, Ann Duda, Diane McSherry, Cheryl Megson, Elaine Parker, Jo Ann Roseberry, Judy Woodman, Wendy Clausen, Roberta Richmond, Cynthia Rossborough, Rhonda Polk, Joan Hartmann, Kathy Phair, Betty Marsh, Sandra Van Wart, Carol Ann Reese, Linda Barrett, Bonnie Huston, Romayne Columbe, Patricia Mitchell, Randy Johnson, Janice Fredrickson, Betty Revell and Nellie Revell.

A number of camperships were awarded by Natick organizations this year, and the Wayland Kiwanis Club awarded one to a Wayland girl. This is a truly philanthropic gesture and one which fits the aims of all adult organizations.

In addition to Vi Sullivan, who served as camp director this year, the following adult volunteers served at camp this summer: Mary Johnson, assistant director, Ruth Lorentzen, business Manager, and counselors Helen Collins, Marie Mitchell, Ruth Columbe, Scotty Cay, Lucille Cain, Eleanor Swift and Marie Zaniboni.

Weston Sportsfest Goes Off Happily

WESTON — Unhampered and undampened by hurricane, rain, thunderstorm or frost, the 1955 "Sportsfest" went off on schedule and some schedule it was, with 180 plus members and guests working at it from 8:30 a.m. until well after 6:00 p.m. to decide the various championships.

All the day's activities wound up in a real wing-ding cocktail party and dinner dance, when the champions were awarded their handsome prizes.

Clothing Exchange At Jones House

WESTON — The Children's Clothing Exchange, run by the Weston Community League, opened its doors on Sept. 27. Every Tuesday until Dec. 6 the Exchange will be open in the Mary E. Windsor rooms at Jones House.

Any resident of Weston may have an account at the Children's Exchange. Good used clothing and home-cooked food is sold on a consignment basis, the owner to receive 75% of the price of clothing and 85% of the price of food. Proceeds go to the scholarship and welfare funds.

Wayland Library Parking Lot To Be Surfaced

WAYLAND — Improvement of the parking space outside the Wayland Library was being considered last month, and the only question about it seemed to be when.

A couple of years ago a good deal of gravel was dumped in the low spot on the south side of the building. This made more parking space than before, when there was none. But motorists had to bounce up over a sidewalk to get into it.

Way-Co All Stars Make Tourney Final

WAYLAND — The Way-Co All Stars, picked from all the Wayland and Cochituate Little League teams this summer, played in a six-team tournament at Milford and were finally beaten in the finals, 6 to 3, by a Milford team.

The White Sox won the Wayland pennant, in Town competition, and played the Cochituate Orioles under the Cochituate lights for the Town championship. The Orioles won.

The Little Nippers All Stars of Wayland beat the Cochituate team in the same classification.

A Pony League All Star team from the Town played games with teams from South Natick, Auburndale, Newton Centre, Ashland, Waltham, Holliston, Sherborn and other places.

The Pioneer League team, boys under 17, played games with teams from Natick, Waltham, Newton and Ashland. The Big Nippers, over 17, got organized late, but had games with teams from Framingham, Waltham and Saxonville, besides one with local old timers.

The Baseball Program Committee says it hopes next year's program will be even better than this one was, and extends thanks to the 50 adults who helped handle the project for the more than 300 boys.

COCHITUATE ORIOLES, LITTLE LEAGUE CHAMPS

COCHITUATE — A throwing contest in which a Little Leaguer, Bob Schofield of the Dodgers, threw a baseball 255 feet, was one of the features of the Field Day, held on the Cochituate Playground on Sept. 10, which wound up the fourth and most successful season of the Way-Co baseball program.

The trophies were awarded by coaches Bill Morris and Jerry Joyce to all the boys on the Little League All-Star team. The trophies were donated by Mr. Sol Chopnik of the Waltham Sports Mart.

Then Bruce Waldman, captain of the Little League All-Stars, presented Bill Morris with a plaque in recognition of his services to Little League baseball during the past four years. Bruce said in part: "This is for putting up with us brats all that time."

Team pictures, made and given by Melvin Orenstein of Cochituate, were awarded to all members of the Orioles and Giants, winners and runners-up in the local playoffs. The Tigers will receive pictures later.

Each boy received a strip ticket entitling him to one hot dog, milk, popcorn and ice cream. Mothers who served the refreshments included Mrs. William Halley, Mrs. John Arnold, Mrs. Raymond Smith and Mrs. William Morris. Also helping out in this department were Misses Peggy Rooney, Judy Arnold and Mary Sullivan, Godfrey Blombach, Arthur Holmes and Mrs. Lawrence Scott.

Winners of the events in the Pony League class:

Bob Page, longest hit and longest throw; John LeBlanc, 2d in pitching, 3d in fielding and hitting; Steve Powers, 1st in fielding, 2d in baserunning, throwing and hitting, and Bob Pierce, 1st in base running and pitching.

Little League:

Throwing for Distance: Bob Schofield, 255 feet; Charles Simpson, 206 feet and Tommy Linnehan, 156 feet.

Points won counted towards team totals, which came out White Sox 11 points, Giants 9, Orioles 8, Dodgers and Tigers 5 each, Indians 4 and Braves 3. White Sox players received individual prizes.

Little Nippers Division (boys aged 8 to 10):

Base Running: Bobby Burgett 1st, Bill Brown 2d, Gary Charles 3d.

Longest Hit: John English 1st, Bob Kather 2d, Danny DiSenso, 3d.

Team Scores: Phillies and Senators, each 14; Cubs 12, Athletics 4, Reds 1. First place prizes went to members of both top teams.

North Ave. Development Is Biggest In Weston

WESTON — Biggest single real estate development in Town at present is that of Techbilt houses on North Avenue. Forty to 50 houselots have already been approved out of a possible total of 140 to 150 in the development. Installation of water mains for the lots approved was started on Sept. 8.

Boats Worth $250,000 In Lake Cochituate

RALPH SEAMAN of the Carling Brewery was scheduled to address members of the Lake Cochituate Yacht Club on Sept. 22 on conservation and improving the waters of the lake. Members of the Club report that they have outboards worth more than $250,000 in the lake.

Indian Corn Hills Still Visible After 300 Years?

George G. Bogren of West Plain Street, a Wayland native who is now a Library Trustee, raises the interesting suggestion that certain little hillocks visible in Cochituate wooded areas may be the remains of Indian cornfields.

And Mrs. Francis W. Walsh of Lakeview Road, who has studied local Indian lore, says she thinks it's possible.

Some of these hillocks, says Mr. Bogren, are near Lake Cochituate, off Route 30, near where the toll road is being built. Others are back of his house.

Behind the Bogren home is a patch of woods, now well grown, covering several acres. Plainly visible, here, are regular rows of squarish mounds, two or three inches tall. Each mound is covered with green moss, and is about three feet square. The spaces between mounds are covered only with dead leaves and twigs, the usual debris of a forest floor.

The Bogrens have owned the premises since the 1890s, and Mr. Bogren says that since that time this particular part of the land, running back practically to Dudley Pond, has never been cultivated.

A first thought might be that it seems impossible little hills of dirt should have survived for more than 300 years. But Mrs. Walsh points out:

The first settlement of Wayland, then called Sudbury, was at the Center, probably along what is now Bow Road and Old Sudbury Road. There was also an early settlement at Lokerville, Cochituate, a good two miles from the Bogren house.

Wayland was settled in 1638. Not until 1725 was there a road between Lokerville and Wayland, and that one ran not where Cochituate Road is today, but to the east, near Rice Road. West Plain Street, so called because that part of Cochituate was called "The Plains", was not laid out until perhaps 1770.

During the early years of the Town the population was small. Areas not under cultivation were left as woods. Most of the Town, for a couple of centuries, must have been left virtually untouched, except as hunters occasionally roamed through it.

The houses now along West Plain Street are believed to have been the first ever built there. None of them is believed to be more than a century or so old.

Mr. Bogren says he has the tradition of the Indian corn hills from a Wayland Civil War veteran whose mother was an Indian. He also says some of the corn hills are, or used to be, visible near the present site of the Girl Scout Camp, Nacochwa, on Lake Cochituate. There used to be, he says, a small ditch, perhaps a foot deep, running from near the Dudley Pond edge, across the Bogren place, across West Plain Street to the Cochituate shore near Nacochwa. Primitive irrigation?

It is also recalled that the Indians had no plows, and hence never plowed whole fields. Would they have cultivated only the hills in which they meant to plant, keeping the same hills year after year?

Mrs. Walsh has found that the local Indians were Nipmucks or Nipnits, of the Narragansett tribe. They had been reduced in numbers by the disease, probably smallpox, which swept away so many Massachusetts Indians just before the Pilgrims landed. She thinks there could not have been more than 400 or so Nipmucks at Cochituate.

And these Nipmucks, it appears, were commuters. They came to Lake Cochituate, many of them to the place on the West shore where a brook still runs out, in the Spring, and then returned to Milton and Dorchester in the Fall. At Lake Cochituate they did their gardening and fishing. They caught bream, carp, pickerel and bass.

The road they used, says Mrs. Walsh, was Old Connecticut Path, and they used it for centuries, until it was worn wide enough for an oxcart and several feet deep. It was the path to Connecticut, and when the settlers went from Dorchester to Connecticut in 1635 they followed it and their journey was a picnic.

One may consider also the possibility that these Indians continued to live at Cochituate for some years after Wayland Center, where there were no Indian villages, was occupied by the white men. If they did, that would cut down further the amount of time which needs to be accounted for.

Perhaps somebody has more information or more ideas on this subject.

The Weston Town Hall, finished in 1919 at a cost of $220,000, is all paid for.

Weston Has 5 R. R. Stations; Wayland 2

Both Weston and Wayland are full of commuters, who go to Boston each day while women stay at home and keep the communities going. Here's how the commuters travel:

Weston has five railroad stations. Three of them, Kendall Green, Silver Hill and Hastings, are on the Fitchburg Division of the Boston & Maine. Weston and Cherry Brook are on the Central Massachusetts.

The Middlesex & Boston buses serve Cochituate and part of Wayland. It is reported, also, that Middlesex & Boston buses from Waltham have been seen on Route 117, near Kendall Green.

The Boston & Worcester buses run through both Wayland and Weston to Park Square, Boston.

Dr. Alfred S. Sharpe has opened an office for the general practice of dentistry at 310 State Road West, Wayland.

Burns, Murder Victim, Gets Modest Funeral

Arthur S. Burns, 26, of Boston, described by police as a small time thief and hoodlum, was shot to death in Wayland on Aug. 30 and buried Sept. 2 from the Gibbs Funeral Home.

As of mid-September, nobody has been charged with his murder.

Reports in the Boston papers said that Burns was believed to have been robbing dice games and big winners at race tracks.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon of a sunny day somebody put four or five bullets in him and he fell dead on a little wooded knoll beside the Weston Aqueduct, off a lane leading in from Cochituate Road.

Stephen E. Hodges of Cochituate Road, working in his melon patch in a field off the lane, heard the shots and supposed somebody was shooting woodchucks or squirrels. Then he saw a man in a station wagon come down the lane, turn around and go out, too far away to be plainly seen.

At 5 o'clock Mr. Hodges drove home for supper and saw the man lying under the trees. He supposed he had wandered in off the road for a nap. At 6, when he came back, he saw the man still there and stopped to investigate. Then he called Police Chief Ernest H. Damon, who called State Police and the Medical Examiner, and there was a murder story which held the front pages for a couple of days.

Nobody claimed Burns' body.

Fewer than a dozen persons attended the funeral.

Present were two half sisters and a niece, all with their husbands, a State detective in plain clothes, a few reporters and the funeral home attendants.

No clergyman was present. The lay service lasted 10 minutes.

The only flowers were two gladioli, placed on the casket by the funeral home.

Once the service was over, the body was buried in an unmarked grave in Lakeview Cemetery.

The dead man had $128 in his pockets when he was killed. The District Attorney's office took that, on the theory that it was probably stolen money.

Under the law, the Wayland Welfare Department pays $150 for the funeral. Because Burns was not a Wayland resident, the Town expected to be reimbursed by the Commonwealth.

Station Wagon, New Murder Car, Hits The Social Skids

Use of a station wagon in murder on the Weston Aqueduct just goes to show how this vehicle, once the very symbol of suburban social standing, has come down in the world.

Strangely, this descent from the heights to Skid Row occurs because this vehicle is so useful for hauling rubbish to the dump.

In Wayland and Weston, where the do-it-yourself movement is in full swing, every man is his own scavenger. Once a week, or oftener if he's tidy, he takes barrels, boxes and paper bags to the dump. Barrels don't fit well in trunk compartments, and they're no fun on the front seat beside the driver. They're round and firm and fully packed, to be sure, but they just don't have charm.

But to return to the station wagon.

Back in the days when the railroads ran passenger trains, before the floods and hurricanes, the station wagon was the sign of luxury.

The commuter, egg still on his chin, would be whipped through the streets to the old depot by his wife. The commuter would be dressed and his wife would be covered in whatever rags she found hanging on the back of the cellar door.

The commuter would get aboard the train and his wife would drive off home to put on something more formal, such as dungarees and a sweatshirt, before setting off to the meeting of the League of Women Voters.

The peasantry, admiring the vehicle from the rear seats of 1934 Chevrolets, would wish they were rich, too.

(Incidentally, there's still an unsolved mystery in Wayland. A year or so ago a matron attired in a nightie which peeked out prettily beneath her fur coat was driving home from the station one morning when her station wagon quit on her. She's at home now, but the mystery is what she did about the vehicle.)

But the bloom is off the station wagon. Like the common cold, it is now within the reach of anybody who wants to keep up the payments. No more expensive than a high powered black sedan or a family of children.

Nowadays anybody who wants to be a hot shot has to drive a convertible, the feature of which is that it's useful only in dry weather when it isn't too hot or too cold, say about 14 days out of 365. The point of having a convertible is that it shows everybody its owner can afford to be wasteful.

There's one good thing about the decline of the station wagon. It doesn't have to be shiny and clean, nor even new. In some circles, in fact, a beat up old model is highly esteemed. It doesn't call attention to the driver's old clothes, which are the only kind worn in this vicinity in daylight hours.

Another good thing is that it is a wonderful freight car. It will carry fertilizer, wet bathing suits, accident victims, a baseball team, all the groceries anybody can afford or even a long handled rake, which last is awkward to fit inside a two-door sedan.

So the station wagon, after a season of glory, has become at last just another mobster's death wagon. First thing you know, they'll be taking people on one-way rides in mauve and heather pink convertibles, which doesn't seem fitting. — D.B.W.

Seagoing Family Makes Wayland From California

Sam Foster, brother of Richard A. Foster of Glezen Lane, Wayland, and his family, arrived in Marblehead Harbor on Labor Day after a 100-day sail in the 61-foot schooner "Privateer" from Balboa Island, California, and came to Wayland for a visit.

Aboard the schooner were Mr. Foster, his wife, Betty, and three children, Cameron, 14; Suzanne, 12; and Melissa, 3, all good deck hands.

They sold their house in California to buy the vessel, and one problem they failed to solve on their visit to New England was what to answer when people asked them their street address. They planned to sail back to California by way of the Caribbean Sea.

Allen Barker To Teach Piano In Wayland

ALLEN BARKER

Mr. Allen N. Barker, who moved with Mrs. Barker to a house at the corner of Draper Road and Glezen Lane in July, is a concert pianist on the faculty of the Cambridge School in Weston and of Wheelock College, and he plans to offer piano lessons to Wayland children. He is a graduate of Yale and the New England Conservatory of Music, and has appeared as a soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Mrs. Barker is a dancing teacher.

Robinson - Harris

Linda Martin Robinson, daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Fahey Robinson of Wayland and Lt. Col. Edward Hamilton Robinson of Ottawa, will be married at 4 p.m. on Oct. 8 at the Trinitarian Congregational Church, Wayland, to Christopher Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Lawrence Harris of Concord.

Miss Robinson attended Wayland schools and was graduated from Wayland High School in 1953. She attended Connecticut College for Women for two years.

Mr. Harris was graduated from Middlesex School and from Yale in 1955.

The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Donald Ewing. Afterwards there will be a reception at the Wayside Inn. Mr. and Mrs. Harris will live near Chicago.

Toll Road We Love You

Can this be Route 30, thru Weston and Wayland—
The towns that the real estate men once called Playland?
The bulldozers bull while the townspeople doze.
Were we slipped phenobarbitol, do you suppose?
Have our characters weakened, our spirits grown meek?
It can't be! It must be! For week after week
The Toll Road moves onward, its progress progresses,
Leaving tree roots and sand dunes and unsightly messes.
With an unholy roar our pine trees crash down
Causing havoc and ruin all over the town.
Our native frugality gets quite a wrench
When we see all that firewood burn with a stench
Clouding the sky with its smoke and its blaze—
Replacing our seasonal autumnal haze.
What happened, what caused this disaster, this pillage,
That has splintered the quiet of each little village?

The answer is Progress—do we have what it takes?
Yes, we'll tear thru the cabbages, drive thru the lakes,
Pull up on what once was a neighbor's green knoll
And then, after paying a minimum toll
We'll find we can travel from east to west.
Aren't we lucky and aren't we blest!
And remember—be happy, for last but not least,
There will also be travel from west to east
So that people from Worcester and other far places
Will be able to drive here and see our oases.

Outsiders Set Weston Values; Tax Rate $40

WESTON — This year the tax rate is $40, the real estate valuation is $19,251,280 and the personal property valuation is $1,260,830, for a total of $20,512,110.

The taxes on real estate are based on 50 per cent of an appraisal value set by an outside firm in 1953. The outside appraisal, it is said, was opposed by many, but the only four cases which finally went to the Appellate Board of Tax Appeals were all won by the Town.

The net result of the complete re-appraisal of Town real estate was a gain of seven per cent in total valuation. Some property owners had to pay more and some less. A general feeling was that inequities were eliminated.

As of now, all new houses built are appraised by the same firm which made the 1953 survey. The Assessors have on file a complete description, with statistics, of every building in Town. When the Turnpike Authority took property for the toll road, there was no question as to what the houses and land were. The records were down in black and white.

41 Boy Scouts Get Wet

COCHITUATE—Forty-one Boy Scouts of the Cochituate Troop, spending their annual week at Camp Resolute in Bolton, were evacuated a day early by a rescue party from home after they had received a drenching in hurricane Connie.

In charge of the operation was George Fullick, assisted by Explorer Scouts Dick Irwin and Brendon Wood. Among the chauffeurs were Albert Lizotte, Alfred Perodeau, Mrs. Perodeau, Harvey C. Newton, Mrs. John Simoni, Walter Cheslak, Jack Arnold, Mrs. John Gebhardt and Mrs. William A. (Toke) Loker.

Swiss Envoy Visits In Wayland Home

Distinguished visitors to Wayland this Summer were His Excellency M. Henry de Torrente, minister of Switzerland to this country, and Madame de Torrente, who were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Georges H. Barrel of Clay Pit Hill Road.

M. and Mme. de Torrente were on a vacation trip through Canada and New England which was cut short by the flood. Mr. Barrel represents Swiss interests in Boston.

Bridge To Be Replaced Anyway, Says D. P. U.

WAYLAND—Plans to replace the stone bridge and the Old Sudbury Road bridge over the Sudbury River were not changed by the flood damage elsewhere, the Massachusetts Department of Public Works said last month.

Before the floods, the Department said bids for the new bridges were to be opened in October, with work to start, possibly before the end of the year.

The Stone Bridge Road bridge was well battered by the flood and closed to traffic. The other bridge was opened after the water went down.

Rice Descendants Meet And Visit Old Spring

Descendants of Edmund Rice, one of the first settlers of Wayland in 1638, were to have their annual family reunion in the First Parish Church on Saturday, Sept. 24.

Edmund Rice, a deacon in the first church, was a prominent citizen in early days. He lived near the big spring off Old Connecticut Path, beside which is a stone marker noting the fact. He is credited with having done much of the work establishing Old Connecticut Path as a highway. He had many children and his descendants are numerous.

The Spring near the site of his old home is interesting. It is perhaps 30 feet in diameter and perhaps four feet deep. By report, it never freezes. It overflows into the Sudbury River marshes.

Town Dump Is Weston Institution, Too

WAYLAND — Local residents who think that all the municipal services are provided on a grander scale in Weston may be interested to know that Weston also has a Town dump—this one off Church Street — and that every Weston householder either carries his own trash or hires somebody to take it away for him.

The report from across the Town line is that the Weston dump is as big a social center on Sunday morning as is either of the two Wayland rubbish centers. The story also is that Weston men herd together on the dump about church time.

Furthermore, while Wayland has a garbage collection paid for by the Town, Weston residents have to take care of their own, by whatever means they find expedient.

Like the Wayland dumps, the Weston dump also burns occasionally, even though the bulldozer keeps putting dirt on top of the accumulation.

of a mile long. It goes southward at a long angle and rises over the the middle of the traffic circle on the Weston side. The east and west accesses to Commonwealth Avenue are also long, starting and stopping to the east of the amusement park at Norumbega.

A Big Y

This is the end of this line. Apparently, if this were all, east bound traffic would just naturally continue towards Boston along Commonwealth Avenue in Newton.

But the next step in the toll road plan calls for another complete section of turnpike, starting near Ridgeway Road and going eastward to the south of the other spur, making a big Y. The top right arm of the Y, on the map, stops dead in the middle of the football field. From this point, presumably, it would eventually cross the river and 128, without any access or exit, and continue to some interchange further along in Newton or Boston.

Weston Town officials and citizens met at Jones House in the evening of Sept. 12 to consider this proposition.

Among those present were Town Moderator Francis G. Goodale, Selectmen Wm. R. Dewey Jr., Charles M. Ganson and Edward M. Dickson; Assessor Marshall Dwinnell, Guy Garland of the Board of Appeals, Mrs. Helen E. Cutting, Treasurer and Collector; Finance Committee members Edward R. Langenbach, Frederic S. Mann, Leonard H. Dowse, Stanley G. French, J. Kenneth Bennett and Roger W. Hardy.

Police Chief J. Sumner Viles, Benjamin S. Blake Jr. of the Park Department, Recreation Commissioner Harry C. Crawford Jr; John A. Paine Jr., John Desmond Glover and E. Olsen Field of the Planning Board; School Committeeman Theodore B. Bayles and Superintendent of Schools Calvin E. Gross; Carl E. Anderson and Harold B. Colpitts of Water Commission; Superintendent of Streets Stanley Fabbri, Town Engineer Charles H. Stimpson, Jr.; Town Accountant J. Ward Carter and others.

Blocks Park Road

One of the features of the plan which the group objected to was a proposal to block the present course of Park Road, which now connects with South Avenue (Rte. 30) at Newton Street. Park Road, with two big toll road branches chopping it, would be diverted westward to join Ridgeway Road, which in turn runs into Route 30. The group thought it would be better if bridges could be built so that Park Road could continue its present course.

Another objection was that the land inside the branches of the Y would become an "island" of 40 acres or so, most difficult of access, cut off from the rest of Town by two toll road branches and Route 128. In addition, this arrangement would put heavy traffic on Ridgeway Road and Route 30.

Between the two toll road branches the distance would be about 800 feet.

Moreover, this project involves additional land takings. In the part of the road already under contract in Weston the road has taken 136 acres and caused the removal or demolition of 11 houses. The new taking would involve 11 more houses and more than 40 acres, it was estimated. Town valuation eliminated by the first taking was set at around $180,000, and the proposed second taking at $157,000 additional.

Another Meeting

No representative of the Turnpike Authority was present at the Weston meeting of Sept. 12. The Selectmen and the Planning Board were to meet with Philip H. Kitfield, chief engineer of the toll road, to make an appointment for another Weston meeting, at which some Turnpike representative could be present to answer questions.

Some of the houses already taken have been moved to new locations, some have been torn down. Some of the owners moved with their houses and a few have left the Town.

The list shows that the following houses were affected:

Those of Francis A. Hattem, South Avenue; Virginia M. Corrigan, 11 Oak Street; Alice T. Fraser, 18 Oak Street; Stewart L. Chamberlin, 10 Oak Street; John R. Asberg, 326 South Avenue; Murray W. Finard, 292 South Avenue (three houses); Abner Post Estate; Frederick D. Hawkins, 37 Ridgeway Road; and Frank H. Allison, 32 Ridgeway Road.

Not all the houses in the proposed new taking could be identified, but it was believed that several on Park Road which had been believed safe would be disturbed.

Flood Problem --

sulting engineers, have examined the spot and made a survey. Thomas F. Hanron, D. P. W. District Engineer, at 130 3d Street, East Cambridge, wrote a letter to Mr. Leavtit offering all cooperation.

Then James DeNormandie of Lincoln, Wayland's Representative in the Legislature, went over to see the wrecked bridge, and thought it too bad that such an ancient structure, put together by dry masonry and thus almost unique, should be destroyed.

He thought it might be possible to restore it, at State expense, and have a channel cut around the Wayland end of it, so that there would be no further blocking of the river's flow. The restored bridge, he thought, might be a landmark and picnic spot, especially when and if the river is ever cleaned up.

To see what Wayland people thought about it, Mr. DeNormandie was in Town interviewing a number of citizens.

Another cause of the slow burn some citizens were doing was that the Legislature, which appropriated $50,000 two years ago to study the Sudbury flood problem, failed to appropriate any money this year to do anything about it. Long before the flood, an item of $600,000 for Sudbury Valley flood control came up and was tossed out of the budget unceremoniously.

As almost everybody in Town knows by this time, the trouble is that the Sudbury River drops only two feet in 19 miles, and thus empties slowly in flood time. The Sudbury and the Assabet join to form the Concord, which doesn't have a precipitous flow, either. The solution most often suggested is to dynamite a rock shoal and a dam at Billerica, but that would involve getting a good many permissions.

Some of the Activities

Wayland Selectman John W. Leavitt wrote to Congressman Harold D. Donohue, who represents this district, and told him he thought the Army Engineers could take care of the problem.

Mr. Donohue wrote back, saying he had been in contact with the Army Engineers, other Federal agencies and the Massachusetts Department of Public Works, urging immediate action. He said he would present the Wayland case to the other Massachusetts members of Congress. He also said the agencies he consulted promised that a survey of Mr. Donohoe's whole district would be made at once.

SUASCO, the organization for doing something about the Sudbury, Assabet and Concord Rivers, got a good start in Framingham and enlisted members in Wayland. Phil Farina of Wayland, whose golf course went under water, was one of those who circulated a petition which had many signers.

Residents of Riverview circulated another petition. They get some of the worst of it every time the river rises, and they wanted something done about it.

Wayland Republicans Test Public Opinion

Forty Wayland residents, 20 in each precinct, will be polled on Sept. 29 to find out what they think about United States foreign policy, defense and economics. The 40 are supposed to be picked at random.

This is a Republican project. One precinct in every county in the country is supposed to be polled completely, and a sampling taken in all precincts.

Free Chest X-Rays At Health Center

All residents of a number of Towns including Wayland and Weston may have free chest x-rays, at the Parmenter Health Center, Cochituate Road, Wayland, during the next few months by making appointments at the Health Center, OL 3-5111.

This deal comes about because the Framingham Union Hospital gave the Center the equipment for this service. There is cooperation among local Boards of Health, the Center, local tuberculosis committees and the Middlesex Health Association, and the financing comes in large part from the sale of Christmas seals.

Towns thus served are Wayland, Weston, Sherborn, Natick, Hopkinton, Holliston, Framingham and Ashland. First date was Sept. 27, for doctors, nurses, personnel and Board members. Next one is Oct. 24, and thereafter on the fourth Tuesday of each month. The hours will be 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

This will be the schedule for the first few months. After that, it is believed, appointments will have to be made through family physicians.

New Wayland Superintendent

EDWARD J. ANDERSON

By Carol Foster

"I'm here to help this Town have the kind of schools it wants," says Edward J. Anderson, who arrived Sept. 6 to become new Superintendent of Schools in Wayland.

Before he went to be interviewed by the School Committee Mr. Anderson, who was Assistant Superintendent of Schools in New Canaan, Ct., took a long look at the Town. He drove all over it, and studied Town reports for the past three years. He decided he liked the place.

Then he went to see the School Committee, to which he had been highly recommended. The Committee liked him at once and promptly hired him. He intends to move his family to Wayland as soon as possible. Mr. Anderson succeeds Dr. Rexford S. Souder, who has become Superintendent of the Lincoln-Sudbury Regional High School.

Ex-Wrestler

Edward J. Anderson is 39 years old, black-haired, dark-eyed, tall, is an ex-sailor who was a champion wrestler both in the Navy and at Indiana University, where he received his B.A. Degree. He has worked hard to get established in what he wants to make his career: Public School Administration.

"Superintendents are not important people," says Mr. Anderson. "They are the executive agents of the School Committee. No superintendent is successful without good teachers and it is up to the Superintendent to find good teachers and to provide them with all the materials with which they need to work."

Born in Georgia, Mr. Anderson was orphaned while in high school, and upon graduation enlisted in the U. S. Navy, in which he spent the next four years. Then he went to Indiana University, majoring in history, English and speech.

While at Indiana he wrote radio scripts on historical subjects. He was graduated in 1942, and married the former Ruth Roberts of Evansville, Indiana. The next three and a half years Mr. Anderson again spent with the U. S. Navy on the battleship South Dakota, mostly in the Pacific, and was commissioned an ensign shortly before the end of the war.

When he got out of the Navy, Mr. Anderson went into business in the commodity market reporting field before he could prepare himself for the career which had been a goal since his high school days.

He received his M.A. Degree in School Administration at Teachers' College, Columbia, and while working in New Canaan commuted to New York for night classes. He is now working toward his Ph.D. in School Administration, and next semester plans to continue at Harvard.

"Brilliant Woman"

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson met while students at Indiana University. She studied market research at college and then worked for the Rheem Manufacturing Co. of New York, a manufacturer of water heaters and steel drums. She became a steel buyer for the company, which position she held until her resignation a year ago.

"My wife is a very brilliant woman," says Mr. Anderson. He adds she's of medium height, a few years younger than he, and very nice looking. They have a three-months-old son, John.

Mr. Anderson says our school system is not only good but "in advance of most in its inclusion of several things which are new in most school programs, and therefore hard to get established, notably our guidance, music, and speech and hearing programs." The background and training of the Wayland faculty are impressive, in Mr. Anderson's opinion. He would like to have the citizens of the Town hear as much as possible about the teachers so they can better appreciate them.

Of prime importance in choosing teachers, to Mr. Anderson, is "a deep love of youngsters and a warm personality". It follows then that such people would enjoy family life and this Mr. Anderson feels is one of the main factors in the high turnover of teaching staff at the High School level.

"People like that just naturally want to get married and then often have to move as their families grow. And that's a dangerous situation," says Mr. Anderson, calmly.

"Greatest Investment"

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson plan to rent a house here as soon as possible, and then to buy. Mr. Anderson believes the Superintendent should not just work in the Town but should be a taxpaying citizen, too.

Mrs. Anderson has stayed temporarily behind in New Canaan to sell their house which they had been about to move into when Mr. Anderson decided the job in Wayland was the kind of opportunity he'd been looking for. The house was within two weeks of completion. At present Mr. Anderson is staying with friends in Maynard until he can find a place for his family here.

"Schools belong to the people and should be fully used," Mr. Anderson believes. "They are the Town's greatest investment so that to get our money's worth, the more use the public can make of schools the better."

The school site problem has a familiar ring to Mr. Anderson. A similar program existed in New Canaan, which town also employed Dr. Nicholas Englehardt to study its site situation. Mr. Anderson feels confident "we will get a complete and unbiased report" from Dr. Englehardt.

In any case Mr. Anderson is convinced that schools "have a way of surviving rough spots and coming out stronger, because honest people are willing to fight for good schools."

Benson - Klebe

Mr. and Mrs. William N. Benson of Training Field Road, Wayland, announce the engagement of their daughter, Joan Grace, to First Lieutenant Alton S. Klebe of the U.S. Air Force. Lt. Klebe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Klebe of East Greenville, Pa. The wedding is planned for Christmas Eve.

Dr. Cox Addresses

WESTON — Dr. David Cox of the department of research and strategy of the Massachusetts Council of Churches spoke on the benefits of a church census at the meeting of the Weston Council of Churches, held Sept. 15 in St. Peter's Church with Mr. Wayne Wetzel presiding.

Ministers and delegates from four Weston churches attended, and it was voted to have a church census next year.

President's Reception Of W. C. L. On Oct. 3

WESTON — The Women's Community League of Weston will start its year's program with a President's Reception on Monday, Oct. 3 at 2:30 in the Weston Town House. Mrs. George N. Chamberlain will be president this year. John T. McNaughton, of the Harvard Law School faculty, will speak on "The Free Mind and Self Government".

The purpose of the Community League is to sponsor women's activities and to raise money for scholarships for Weston girls. Last year six girls received scholarships totalling $2,200.

Recipients of Community League scholarships were Judith Ferries, who also received the League prize of $100, Smith College; Johanna H. Blake, Smith; Frances Howell, Lasell College; Gail Luther, Fisher Junior College; Claoro E. Styron, Royal Victoria College in Montreal and Sylvia E. Tilly, Jackson College.

JIM BROWNING of Weston Golf Club, who lives on Old Connecticut Path, Wayland, had two paragraphs of good golf advice in the Sept. 19 issue of Sports Illustrated. He told duffers to be careful about the backswing.

Cochituate Softball Team 11th In World Tourney

Cochituate Motors softball team, sponsored by Howard C. Phillips, went to the World Tournament at New Bedford, Ill., this Summer, after winning the Massachusetts championship, and came home 11th among 38 from as far away as Hawaii and South America.

Cochituate won two and lost two, beating the state champs of Missouri and Illinois and losing to Colorado and Pennsylvania.

Rollie Whelchel pitched three of the four games. Cochituate beat the Missouri champs 1-0 in 11 innings, with Rollie striking out 20. Robert C. Whelchel of Cochituate managed the team for the tournament. Rollie Whelchel and Richard Riley were the Cochituate boys on the team. The others come from Natick and Newton.

Mr. Whelchel reports that this town of New Bedford, Illinois, 125 miles southwest of Chicago, has a population of 98 persons and two bulls. One of its residents, however is a millionaire named Earl C. Sickle, who's crazy about sports. Mr. Sickle built a fancy ball field, complete with grandstand, lights and dressing rooms, and here the tournament games were played. From 4000 to 4500 showed up for every game, from larger towns not far away.

Mr. Whelchel thinks inexperience hampered the Cochituate team, and he thinks they'll do better another year.

Long Beach, California, won the tournament, for the third successive time.

Wayland Delegates Attend Conference

WAYLAND—Six Wayland residents served as delegates to the Massachusetts Conference on Education at Amherst on Sept. 8 and 9. They were William A. Waldron and John B. Butler of the School Committee and Mrs. Richard A. Howard, Mrs. Rudolph Bruce, Mrs. Roger P. Stokey and Mrs. Norman Alstad.

Also a delegate was Janet Starr of Framingham, who was formerly an active member of the Wayland League of Women Voters.

Ed Dickson — Selectman, Town Clerk, Fire Fighter

By CAROL FOSTER

Weston citizens who want to see a Selectman usually seek out Edward M. Dickson, who was elected in 1954 and has lived in Weston all his life. Today he "receives problems of the Selectmen" because he makes Weston his headquarters and spends most of his time there. Mr. Dickson is, as Justice of the Peace, also available for marriage ceremonies, although he might, as a volunteer fireman, be called to help put out a fire. Meanwhile, as Town Clerk, he keeps track of who is born, gets married and dies in Town.

Mr. Dickson became a town official in 1951 when he was appointed Town Clerk, succeeding Francis Blake, who moved away. At the end of that term he ran for the office and is now on his second elected term. Meanwhile he ran for Selectman against J. Robert Ayers, who is now a Representative in the General Court.

Although Mr. Dickson's elections are fairly recent, he had previously taken part in many Weston activities. The Red Cross, First Parish, Boy Scouts, Taxpayers' Association, Civil Defense, Weston Men's Club and American Legion Post 214, are organizations to which he has devoted his time. He is now Post Commander of 214 and Veteran's Agent in Weston.

"We haven't had many controversies," Mr. Dickson says, speaking of his duties as Selectman. The professional revaluation of property in 1950, combined with "stiff" zoning regulations voted soon after the war and in 1954, have helped keep Weston's tax rate stable. It is now $40.00, based on 50% assessment.

87 Attend Wayland League's Fall Tea

WAYLAND—Eighty-seven members and prospective members attended the Wayland League of Women Voters Fall Tea on Sept. 27. The program aimed at orienting new members in general League structure and explaining our local study item, "Know Your Town Boards and Committees".

Units will start the week of Oct. 17 and take up "Individual Liberties" which ties in with the League platform principle, " . . . representative government and individual liberty established in the Constitution of the U. S."

As president of the Massachusetts League, Mrs. Rudolph Bruce presided at the Fall Conference held in Winchester on Sept. 29. Others attending from Wayland were Mrs. Norman Alstad, Mrs. Frank Bentley, Mrs. L. Wm. Bertelsen, Mrs. Leslie Flood, Mrs. Richard Howard, Mrs. Philip Lane, Mrs. Richard Lincoln and Mrs. H. R. Build Three New Schools At Once, Outside Expert Advises Wayland

WAYLAND — Dr. Nicholas L. Engelhardt Sr., the "outside expert" commissioned by the Town to outline a school program after the Town had failed to agree on which school sites to purchase, presented his recommendations to the School Committee, the School Building Committee and the School Site Committee, at Wayland High School on Oct. 5.

The report recommends:

Building an eight-room elementary school and kindergarten on Loker Street, to serve the southeast corner of Town.

Building a six-room elementary and kindergarten school off Oxbow Road in North Wayland, at about the site recommended by the old Site Committee last year.

At the end of about five years, he says, the Town's school needs should be studied closely again. But for the period from 1960 to 1965, he thinks:

The Town should acquire a second Junior High School site near School and Loker Streets.

The present Cochituate elementary school site should be extended by acquisition of nearby property.

A site for a new elementary school at the south end of Orchard Lane should be acquired.

Cost, $2,650,000?

Dr. Engelhardt applauds the Happy Hollow School, but he says the Center School should not be used for children any more. He says it can still be used as an administrative building.

His 50-page report includes maps, charts, projections of population and indications of probable future population location. The nub of it is that the Wayland population has increased from 2,937 in 1930 to 4,407 in 1950. (And to 7,300 in 1955.)

He recommends community schools, as against big centralized ones. He says the bus problem could get to be tremendous, for one thing.

Exclusive of land purchase, he estimates the cost of the proposed elementary schools at $1,350,000 (for three) and that of the proposed new Senior High School at $1,300,000. This takes the Town up to 1960.

Dr. Engelhardt, a pipe-smoking veteran of the educational world who has been doing this sort of thing for many years, prepared a summary of his findings. Some excerpts from it:

Priorities

1. The immediate construction of an elementary school containing eight classrooms and one kindergarten in the south-eastern section of the Town.

2. The immediate construction of an elementary school containing 12 classrooms and a kindergarten. The area recommended by the survey is in the eastern central section of the Town between Draper and Claypit Hill Roads.

3. The immediate construction of a six classroom and one kindergarten elementary school in the extreme north-west area of the Town above Oxbow Road.

It is estimated that these three buildings will cost $1,350,000.

Miss Nicole Maitre Coming From Rombas

WESTON—Miss Nicole Maitre, who has just been graduated from the College Classique de Rombas, is expected to arrive here this month to attend Weston High School for a year under the auspices of the Weston-Rombas Affiliation Committee, it is announced by George B. Foote, chairman.

Miss Maitre will be the second Rombas girl to attend Weston High. The first was Miss Ursule Fischbach, who went back to France last Summer to attend the University of Strasbourg, where she will receive one of the highest scholarships. While in Weston, Miss Fischbach was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. David Blaney.

Rombas is a town near Metz. The relationship with it was established in 1950. Student members of this year's committee are Nancy Nichols and Daniel Bump. Secretary is Mrs. F. G. Shepard and treasurer is John W. Boyd. Other members are R. M. Hower, Martin Martinian, Miss Margaret Lamoureux, Mrs. Hildegarde S. Washburn, Mrs. H. C. Crawford, Mrs. W. H. Stockmayer, Mrs. R. A. Weaver Jr., Mrs. W. B. White, Mrs. W. H. Tweedhall and Mrs. C. F. Sinclair.

Special Meeting 1st Week in Dec.

WAYLAND—Latest dope from Wayland Town Hall is that the Special Town Meeting, to act on the proposed Town office building, the school report and various financial matters, may be held in the first week of December.

Wayland U.N. Meeting, Oct. 21

WAYLAND — Arthur Goldschmidt, director of the program division of the United Nations Technical Assistance Administration, will speak at the Wayland United Nations Association meeting at the High School at 8 p. m., Friday, Oct. 21.

Archibald Cox is chairman of the Association. Mrs. Walter H. Wilcox is secretary and Muriel Flood, B. Allen Benjamin and Kenneth Larkin are the executive committee.

Vokes Players To Give "Remains To Be Seen"

WAYLAND — For the Fall production, the Vokes Players are presenting "Remains To Be Seen", by Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse. This play is a combination of comedy, character and mystery; a thriller which is a farce. John Buzzard is technical adviser to the director, Joyce Bertelsen, who in turn is being assisted by Mimi Hutchinson. Presentation dates are Friday and Saturday, Nov. 11 and 12, and Nov. 18 and 19.

Red Feather — Wayland, Weston

WAYLAND—Red Feather Sunday this year will be Oct. 23, when residents are asked to stay at home and wait to be called upon by solicitors. An organization of 250 persons was being signed up to do the visiting. Wayland's quota of the metropolitan total of $6,400,000 is $9,800.

Francis W. Hatch of Wayland is chairman of the whole Boston campaign.

The line-up:

Fritz Walther, Town chairman; William Hodgkinson, vice chairman; Ray Harris, Precinct 1 chairman; Wayne Heintzelman, Precinct 2 chairman; retail division chairman, John Quinn; advance gifts chairman, Francis Bartol; administration chairman, Mrs. Schuyler Hollingsworth; public relations chairman, Mrs. John P. Hyland; special assistant to Town chairman, Precinct 1, Dick Foster; and special assistant, Precinct 2, Ted Magoun.

WESTON — Samuel R. Payson, Weston Chairman for the Community Fund drive, says this is the largest charitable campaign of the year, and he asks Weston people to continue the generous support they have given the Red Feather in past years.

The divisional heads:

Camillo F. Petri, 64 Wellesley Street, retail, schools and public employees, and William T. Wolf, public relations.

Scout Rummage Sale At Town House, Oct. 22

WESTON — The annual Scout rummage sale, an event which started small years ago and now has more than 100 workers, will be held at the Town House on Saturday, Oct. 22, from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m. All donations, it is hoped, will be left at the Town House on the preceding Friday, as early in the day as possible.

Dancing Starts Soon At Junior Town House

WAYLAND — Wayland Junior Town House dancing classes under the direction of Mrs. John Baldwin will begin early in November. As in the past, invitations will be issued through the schools to all pupils in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Classes will be held on Friday nights in the Happy Hollow School.

Mrs. Allen Barker will teach ballroom dancing. Grades 5 and 6 will have classes once a month, alternating ballroom and square dancing. Grades 7 and 8 will dance twice a month, alternating ball-

Wayland Park Board Bans All Carnivals

By a unanimous vote, the Wayland Park Commissioners decided last month not to allow any more carnivals in Town.

These carnivals, generally held on the Cochituate baseball field, caused cancellation of Little League baseball games this summer. There also has been criticism of the carnivals on other grounds.

Office Building Meeting Scheduled For Oct. 24

Scale Model of Proposed New Wayland Town Office Building, Now Being Shown, Arouses Much Interest.

WAYLAND—A scale model, four feet by eight feet, of the proposed Wayland Town Office Building is on display this week at Wayland Town Hall. During the week of Oct. 17 it will be in the Cochituate Library, and on Oct. 24, at the High School cafeteria, there will be an open meeting of the Building Committee at which all interested persons may ask questions.

It is planned to be big enough to house all the departments for a town of 15,000, which is estimated to be Wayland's probable maximum size.

It will have a reasonably bomb-proof Civil Defense control center in a basement below ground level, surrounded by plenty of concrete.

It will have a pistol and rifle range for the auxiliary police pistol team. The range could also be used by a boys' and girls' rifle team, planned for the High School.

It will put the valuable Wayland fire apparatus in a completely fire-proof building.

It will have a large modern, fire-proof vault to house the Town records, many of which are now in private homes.

It will centralize the communications of the Police Department, the Fire Department and Civil Defense.

The police station in the building will have two cells, one for men and one for women. Nobody has been locked in a cell in Wayland for many years, but these cells are required by State law.

As designed, the building is said to be the last word in its field. Very few Massachusetts towns have office buildings specially built for the purpose, except for the ordinary Town Halls.

There is no provision for a "hall", on purpose. The Committee felt that the cost of building a hall big enough for Town Meeting would be simply prohibitive. The idea is that the High School Auditorium should continue to be used for meetings until such time as the size of the Town may make a limited form of Town Meeting desirable.

Suggestions Invited

The Committee, of which Selectman John W. Leavitt is chairman, has been working since Jan. 9 of this year. The architect of the building is Frederick H. Gagnon of Worcester, and the model was made by Richard B. George & Son of Holden.

The Town has already voted $45,000 towards the cost of the building. The plan is that it shall be paid for out of the tax rate and with a short-term loan, thus avoiding a long-term bond issue. The Committee is unable to say just what the total cost may be.

The Committee says it now wants to hear from the public. Ideas, suggestions and criticisms will be welcomed. The purpose of having the open meeting on Oct. 24 is to get more opinions which may be reflected in the final plans.

After the meeting, specifications will be prepared and put out to construction firms for bids. After the bids are in, and a firm price is known, a Special Town Meeting will be called to vote on the proposition.

C D May Help

The model shows a one-story structure, shaped roughly like an H. The office part of the building parallels Cochituate Road, just north of State Road. The front of the building is 150 feet back from the street. The front section, one long leg of the H, is 142 feet by 32 feet.

The rear part of the building, where the fire station is planned, is 75 feet south of Millbrook Road, which it faces. This part, another leg of the H, is 112 by 52 feet. The crossbar, containing the police station and other facilities, is 69 feet long by 52 deep.

The model shows a building of red brick, 25 feet tall, with a 15-foot cupola atop the crossbar. Everything in it is on one floor except for the control center, the pistol range, the heater room and some other available space in the basement. The basement is to be waterproofed, as its floor is just about at high flood level.

As the Civil Defense quarters would be built to the CD standards, it is expected that Uncle Sam will pay half the cost of this part of the building. With all the Town's protective agencies and communications centered in one bunker, it is considered that this should be an excellent disaster command post.

The building is insulated throughout, but not air-conditioned. Forced hot water heat is supplied by an oil furnace. Windows are weatherstripped. Partitions in the office section are movable, so that there can be flexibility of arrangement of space.

The present police station at Cochituate, it is suggested, may be turned to some other Town use. What's to be done with the present Town Hall, now 80 years old and rather rickety, remains to be seen.

There will be a small hearing room in the office section. The Fire Department will have a meeting room, 22 by 26, repair room and storage space, washrooms, a kitchen and space for quarters for some permanent firemen at some possible future date.

Mr. Gagnon, the architect, estimates that it would probably take eight or nine months to put up the building after its authorization.

Besides Mr. Leavitt as chairman, the Committee includes Robert M. Morgan, for the Finance Committee; F. Clifton Haynes, for the Fire Engineers; Frederick G. Perry Jr., for the Planning Board; and three members at large: Richard H. Burchill, former Finance Committee member; W. R. Hulbert, Civil Defense Director, and Herbert R. Fallgren, former president of the Wayland Kiwanis Club. Norman E. Taylor, Town Accountant, serves as clerk of the Committee.

Weston U. N. Party To Be Held Oct. 24

Letters to the EDITOR

To the Editor:—

Enclosed my $2.00 for 26 issues, and thank you for many pleasant hours.

I wonder if any of the "old timers" of the early 1900 era have written you of their absolute heart-break upon seeing what the toll road has done to the area surrounding the old "Gate-house". (Route No. 30)

I have talked with more than one and we are all suffering from a severe case of nostalgia. The "Gate-house" with its beautiful pines, this was our play ground; where we picnicked in the Summer, where there was always a breeze on the hottest day, where solomon-seal, ladies slippers and violets grew in profusion, to be picked in little bouquets and perhaps placed on the grave of someone we loved who lay quite close by.

Who remembers when everyone —but everyone—on Sunday afternoon walked up through the gate house to the bridge to watch the gaily colored canoes gliding from one lake to the other, under the bridge, with graphophones playing the sweetest music on earth.

The hurricanes have taken their toll, but man has wrought havoc at this once beautiful spot. I am not in my dotage but old enough to have memories. We are watching progress I know, but thought you might like a little glimpse into the old town.

Women's Community League Announces Year's Program

The Women's Community League of Weston opened its season with the annual President's Reception at the Weston Town House at 2:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 3, followed by a talk at 3 o'clock by Professor John T. McNaughton of the Harvard Law School. He spoke on "The Free Mind and Self-Government," the subject being a part of the nationwide Freedom Agenda Program.

On Friday, Nov. 4, 1955 at 8:45 p.m., Francis W. Dahl, cartoonist of the Boston Herald, will speak on "Boston on a Blackboard, or a Loose Spoke on the Hub." This will be Guest Night and husbands and friends of members are cordially invited.

Monday, Dec. 8, 1955, S. S. Pierce's party consultant will exhibit delicacies and talk about "Adventures in Food."

Monday, Jan. 9, 1956, will bring a topnotch photographer, Mildred Capron, who will show movies and tell stories of the west, "Sky High in Wyoming"!

On Monday, Feb. 6, 1956, the program will be musical. Nemone Balfour will recreate "Rare Songs and Ballads" accompanied by her lute and Celtic harp.

The Mar. 5, 1956, meeting should help League members and their guests to understand the last fifty years of art. Mr. Frederick P. Walkey, executive director of the De Cordova and Dana Museum in Lincoln, will speak on "There is no Mystery in Modern Art."

Phyllis Kirk Case, wife of the president of Boston University, will lecture on "Puppets and the Contemporary" at the April 2 meeting, interpreting problems of the individual in our busy, mechanized world.

The annual meeting will take place Wednesday, May 9, 1956 and will include a program by the new A Cappella Choir of the Weston High School.

WAYLAND QUESTION: The Historical Society would like to know about a Cochituate Library Association, which is said to have given books to the Wayland Library in 1881. Does anybody have any information about it?

Weston School Pop. Now 1435, Up 122

WESTON—Weston schools reopened on Sept. 19, a little late on account of the polio epidemic, with a total of 1435 pupils as against 1313 a year ago but room for everybody and space for a third grade and a fourth grade of Wayland children left over.

This year there are 116 tots in the kindergarten in Case House and 801 children in the elementary schools. This elementary total of 917 compares with an enrolment of 866 in 1954. Weston High School has 518 this year, as against 447 a year ago.

Included in the High School figure are 42 students from Lincoln in on tuition, and three others, also on tuition.

Superintendent of Schools Calvin Gross explains that Lincoln has never had a high school, and used to divide its high schoolers between Concord and Lincoln. But Concord can't take them any more, on account of growth, and Weston can't either. Lincoln kids now in Weston High will stay until they are graduated. By next year, the Sudbury-Lincoln Regional High School should be in operation, and the Lincoln-Weston arrangement will end.

The Wayland children in Weston are housed in "Building C" of the school complex on School Street. This building was remodelled in 1949, following an incendiary fire, and it looks like a fine modern structure. The Wayland youngsters are in rooms on the bottom floor, with a view out on a playing field. They travel to school in a Wayland bus.

From Edisto Beach, S. C., comes a report that Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Ward of Wayland went fishing from the Edisto Pier on Sept. 25.

JOAN LIZOTTE was elected captain of the Wayland High School Varsity field hockey team on Sept. 29. Agnes Smith was elected captain of the junior varsity.

Notes On Diane

Weston reported 75 cellars were flooded and pumped out in Diane. There was one minor street washout, but on the whole the damage was light. Weston does not have the Sudbury River to contend with.

In Wayland, Town Accountant Norman S. Taylor set the public damage at $10,000 and the damage to private property, at a guess, at another $10,000.

Highway Surveyor Albert Potvin estimated that the damaged stone bridge at Riverview could be patched up for $5000. He estimated road damage in Town at around $1,000, which he said could be fixed in routine fashion.

When the flood waters went down, and even before, there was a rich aroma around the banks of the Sudbury River.

The twelve houses on Pelham Island Road were cut off for more than 10 days.

Fire Chief Clifton Haynes reported that between 60 and 70 cellars were pumped out. The Fire Department had to pump 500 gallons a minute continuously for 12 hours to keep the water out of the Cochituate School.

Cellars were pumped out without charge. This brought up the question whether the Town should also provide emergency electricity when the power fails, to protect freezers and their contents.

Five families had to leave their homes at Riverview, and were sheltered in the V. F. W. hall. The Red Cross was prepared to feed these temporary refugees, but received no request for such assistance.

Town Accountant Taylor said that under the same arrangement as that made last year after the hurricanes, the Town was empowered to spend up to $15,000 from available funds for emergency disaster use, with a chance of reimbursement from the Commonwealth. However, it appeared that it would not be necessary to spend nearly that much.

Daniel E. Kennedy Jr., opened up the Wayland headquarters on Aug. 19 and stayed until the rain stopped. With him were Maunsell B. Babin, Frederick L. Heinrich, Daniel E. Kennedy Jr., Shelton W. Kennedy, Richard F. Lincoln, C. Fessenden Morse, Richard J. Rice and Albert E. Sanderson.

At Cochituate, Auxiliary Police Captain Charles H. Berkebile opened the center, in Cochituate School basement, where the water was three to four inches deep on the floor. With him were Mrs. Frances LaFrance, Lawrence Ekdahl, Fred Newton, Ward Keller, Del Henderson.

Howard Barry, Louis Bourette, George Alexander, Robert Megson, Arnold Benware, Reginald C. Day, Donald MacPhee, Tom Allen, Tom Dolan, Don Varey, Ettrick Lacey, Roy Impey, Richard Corr.

Frederick Wade, Walter Richards, Herbert Smith, Arthur Holmes Jr. and Charles Smith. In addition, three boys, Robert D. Brewer, Richard Brewer and James Sleeper came in to volunteer whatever help they could render.

Wayland CD Offers 9 Disaster Suggestions

Wayland Town officials, with Civil Defense Director W. R. Hulbert acting as chairman, held a meeting at Wayland Fire Station on Aug. 29 to discuss the Diane flood of Aug. 19, count the damage and see what steps should be taken to guard against similar disasters in future.

They wound up with nine specific recommendations:

1. There should be two-way radios in Water and Highway Department trucks, on the Fire Department frequency.

2. Civil Defense should get a supply of saw horses, kerosene bombs and detour signs, for closing off roads.

3. The Police Department should have a boat with outboard motor for emergency use.

4. The Fire Department should have two more small, portable pumps for pumping out cellars.

5. There should be an additional drain at Cochituate School, so the Fire Department won't have to pump continuously.

6. Civil Defense should have a trailer as a permanent mount for the 5 kw gasoline generator.

7. Civil Defense should get one more small portable electric generator.

8. The Fire Department should get a gasoline driven chain saw.

9. The principal Civil Defense Control Center in the basement of Wayland Library should be headquarters for Town operations during existing or threatened emergencies.

Among those who attended the meeting were George I. Emery, Highway Commissioner; R. S. Campbell, Highway Commissioner; Clifton Haynes, Fire Chief; Capt. Daniel E. Kennedy Jr., Auxiliary Police; Homer L. MacDonald, Building Inspector; George K. Lewis, Water Commissioner; Elmer W. Bigwood, Assistant Director of Civil Defense; G. P. Richardson, Water Superintendent; Albert Potvin, Highway Surveyor; G. M. Blomgren, Highway Commissioner, and Police Chief Ernest H. Damon.

Weston Trying To Cope With Sylvania Traffic

The new Sylvania factory off Route 128, on the Weston side but in Waltham, has created a traffic problem on Lexington Street which Weston authorities are trying to do something about.

The trouble is that there is no access from the plant to Route 128, and that Lexington Street, from North Street (Route 117) to the Waltham line, about half a mile, is an ancient road not sufficiently modernized to carry heavy traffic. And it remains the easiest way for motorists from Route 20 to get to the factory.

As a result of complaints from residents, they say at the Town House, these things have been done:

"No Passing" signs have been erected at either end of this stretch of Lexington Street.

The triangle at the intersection of Lexington Street and Legion Road has been enlarged, under the direction of Superintendent of Streets Stanley Fabbri, so that school buses can turn there in a circle, instead of backing out. The morning traffic here is worst at the same time the school buses are traveling.

Utility companies are to be asked to relocate three telephone poles on Lexington Street which are so close to the traveled way as to be dangerous.

White "Caution" signs are to be replaced with yellow signs, which the Registry of Motor Vehicles recommends as being better.

These measures are admittedly only partial solutions to the problem. However, it is reported that negotiations are being carried on with the Department of Public Works to have direct access from Sylvania provided to Route 128 at Winter Street. A question about this is whether word might not get around that Lexington Street was another way to reach 128, and that traffffic on it might get worse.

An approximate traffic count given the Town by the Registry was about 125 additional vehicles per half hour, morning and evening, to Sylvania. This problem became apparent only last Winter. The Town of Weston has asked the County Commissioners to lay out Lexington Street anew, with a 50-foot right of way, so that something may be done to it from time to time, but so far the Commissioners have taken no action.

Community Chorus Starts Rehearsals

The Community Chorus of Weston, Wayland and Sudbury has begun rehearsals for a Christmas Concert. The Chorus, under the direction of Chester W. Williams, Dean of the New England Conservatory of Music, is seriously interested in presenting concerts of high musical quality. The Community Orchestra and soloists from the Conservatory assist at these concerts. For the Christmas Concert this year selections from the Handel "Messiah" will be presented.

On the social side there are casserole suppers in the High School Cafeteria, coffee and doughnuts, an annual picnic and a chance to meet others in the community who share a love of music.

Those who are new to the community and would like to participate may call Mr. Henry Brown (ELmwood 8-2088) or just come to the Wayland High School Auditorium any Monday at 8:00. They will be more than welcome.

The Chorus wishes to thank all its sponsors for their support.

Old Sudbury Road To Be Improved

WAYLAND—During the past year a new foundation has been laid on Old Sudbury Road running out from Wayland Center toward Sudbury. The foundation material will be allowed to settle during the winter, and after the frost is out of the ground it will get its permanent surface.

Albert E. Potvin, Highway Surveyor, and Road Commissioners George E. Emery and Ronald Campbell have had a lot of phone calls about this road, which has been re-done in sections.

As the foundation settles, patches must be applied and people get tired of waiting and driving around steam rollers. Be patient, say the Road Commissioners, because this type of road construction will better withstand frost heaves, and the permanent surface, a four-inch coat followed by a two-inch coat of road surface, will give us a really good road. Eventually the road will connect with the new bridge to Sudbury.

Weston Pop. May Get To Be 14,500, Survey Shows

WESTON — Weston's maximum population will probably be 14,500, and its total number of dwellings will probably be around 4,100, according to a report made to Town officials on Oct. 4 by B. Allen Benjamin of Wayland, engineer.

These totals should be reached in 35 to 40 years, the survey shows. Also in the survey was a suggestion that there might be 3000 dwellings in Town in 1970, which is 15 years hence.

The survey was entitled, "Basic Master Plan Studies for Weston". The idea was that there should be a guide, to all Town agencies in planning for future schools, roads, expenditures and services. Nothing of the sort had been provided in recent years.

The survey took into account existing houses and sub-divisions, buildable land and swamps and hills, existing people and people expected, zoning restrictions and all the other factors, including Town land and other property not likely to be built on.

The meeting on Oct. 4 was held at Jones House. It was for Town officials, who expect to use the report as a guide. Copies of the report, likely to be of interest to all residents, are not to be mailed out, but may be had by application at the Town House.

Among those present at the meeting:

Glenn N. Lempereur, John Desmond Glover, John A. Paine Jr. and E. Olsen Field, Planning Board; Wm. R. Dewey Jr., Charles M. Ganson and Edward M. Dickson. Selectmen;

Edward R. Langenbach, J. Kenneth Bennett, Paul D. Bartlett, Stanley G. French, Robert A. Warren and Charles G. Squibb, Finance Committee;

Henry J. Burn, Theodore B. Bayles, John G. Brooks, Mary C. Nichols and Frances V. Marshall, School Committee, and Calvin E. Gross, Superintendent of Schools;

Karl Adams Jr. and Allison B. Powers, Recreation Commission;

John H. Bishop, Board of Health;

Donald Wyman, Walter W. Weld and Benjamin S. Blake Jr., Park and Cemetery Commissioners;

Ralph M. Hower, Assessor;

John W. Ayer, Geoffrey Sawyer, Board of Appeals;

Dr. William A. Elliston, John Chipman Gray, Aimo H. Teittinen, Town Forest Committee;

Helen E. Cutting, Treasurer and Collector; Charles H. Stimpson Jr., Town Engineer; Maurice Upham, Fire Chief, and Stanley Fabbri, Superintendent of Streets.

No action was called for or taken. The idea of the survey was simply that Town officials should be informed on what was likely to happen, so that they could be prepared.

WAYLAND — Wayland High School football team won its first two games, beating Millbury, 14 to 0, and Westboro, 26 to 6. Oct. 8 was an open date. Ralph Salvati is coach.

30 Wayland Elms Cut, 100 Doomed

WAYLAND — The Dutch elm disease in Town is getting worse instead of better, reports John Eric Nelson, moth superintendent.

On July 15 he found that 97 samples out of 107 taken were positive. That meant that 97 roadside trees were infected. In September he had 40 samples, not reported, but he was sure at least 35 would be positive.

During the Summer he had 28 roadside trees taken down, plus two on the High School grounds. That leaves, probably, more than 100 to go.

Some of these trees were big. One, on Water Row, was 70 feet tall and 5 feet in diameter at the base. Taking down each tree is a two-day job for a crew of three, he explains, because it has to be topped and trimmed, with an eye to wires and traffic, before the trunk can be knocked over, and then almost half the job consists of removing the debris.

Some citizens suggested that if all the roadside elms were going to perish, it might be a good idea to plant new trees, perhaps maples, right away.

Mr. Nelson says, however, that it would help a lot if all the infected trees now known could be removed and burned this Winter. The bug, or whatever it is, begins to hatch early in Spring, and the tree should be destroyed before that happens.

Many fine elms off the highways are on private property, and these he has no authority to touch. But he says that if owners of such trees will call him, he will be glad to take a look at them and help check on their condition. If it is found that they are diseased, the owner who wants to remove them will have to pay for the job himself.

Mr. Nelson says it's important that the trees should be burned at once, not cut into fireplace lengths and saved to be hatching places.

Red Cross First Aid Course

WAYLAND—A Red Cross standard first aid course is to be given at the Parmenter Health Center on Monday evenings, starting Oct. 31. There will be nine classes, from 7:30 to 9:30. George Johnson will be the instructor. Telephone the Parmenter Health Center, OL 3-5111, to register for the course and for further information.

Suasco May Get the River Fixed Meeting Is Told

WAYLAND — Suasco, the Sudbury Valley flood control group, is the first in New England to have filed an application for a Federal flood control project under Public Law 566, passed in 1954, and it is expected that work parties from the United States Department of Agriculture may be in this area within a few weeks to make preliminary studies.

Suasco, short for Sudbury, Assabet and Concord Watershed Association, was explained to 150 or more Wayland residents at a meeting held in Wayland High School cafeteria on Oct. 4. Phil Farina, a leading spirit in promoting flood control in Wayland, presided. The main speaker was Rep. Tony Colonna of Framingham, president of Suasco.

The Federal Government, it was explained, will pay about 50 per cent of the cost of approved projects, with the State and municipalities affected putting up the rest in a proportion to be negotiated. In the Suasco area there are 35 cities and towns.

As the speakers explained the project, it sounded like the first real chance to fix up the entire Valley, from the junction of the Concord with the Merrimack at Lowell all the way back to Westboro. The project would involve building dams under a single control, so that they could be opened or closed to provide a steady flow the year round, without floods and without stagnation in dry spells.

$10,000,000 Job?

Among those present were Governor's Councillor Endicott Peabody, who said he just came to listen and learn; Rep. James DeNormandie, Ex-Rep. Howard Russell, Selectmen Frank S. Tarr and Thomas F. Linnehan; Frederick G. Perry Jr. of the Planning Board, Robert M. Morgan and George V. Deverell of the Wayland Finance Committee, and many others.

Under the formula used by the Government in these cases, the cost of the project could run up to $100,000,000, it was said. However, Mr. Colonna said he doubted it would cost that much. Something like $10,000,000 or $15,000,000, spent over a period of up to five years, would be more like it, he thought.

One piece of information was given by Mr. Colonna about the dams on the Sudbury River. They are controlled by various persons and agencies, and each dam management is a law unto itself. Each one opens floodgates or keeps them closed on its own, without bothering to consult anybody. In the flood Diane, half the floodgates refused to open.

The question of low water in the river was also raised. This was the story about that:

Each day the Town of Natick discharges 4,000,000 gallons of effluent—not sewage, exactly, but treated sewage—into the Sudbury, and Framingham discharges 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 gallons a day. If it weren't for this unpleasant stuff, the river would run dry in periods of drought, and the M.D.C. woud have to be paid money to flush the stream with clean water.

Natick and Framingham have signed up with the M.D.C., which will handle its sewage in a big new tunnel now being built to run to the sea. Completion is expected next Summer. Then, it was said, there'll be no more effluent in the river, but it will be in danger of running dry in Summer.

Recreational Use

Public Law 566, it was pointed out, relates only to flood control and soil conservation.

Rep. DeNormandie suggested, however, that once the streams were controlled, with pollution removed and perhaps new ponds created, the opportunities for recreational use of the area would be great. The Sudbury Valley is in about the region of the proposed Bay Circuit, existing as yet only on paper, which is planned as another belt of park and perhaps the site of another Route 128, perhaps 10 miles further out from Boston.

Nobody seemed to know exactly what effect the proposed plan would have on the level of the river in Wayland. Everybody said the engineers would have to tell that, after making surveys. The famous dam on the Concord at Billerica was also discussed. That dam holds back nine feet of water, it was reported, and practically regulates the level of the Sudbury back to Route 20 in Wayland.

Suasco, it was said, was organized in April, 1955. It initiated action seeking Federal aid for a grand clean-up of the whole untidy river complex even before Diane. Small group meetings had been held in Wayland before, but this was the first one to which everybody was invited. The organization seeks 5000 members, and its aim is to end a condition which has been a nuisance and a menace for centuries.

Happy Hollow School Sidewalk Being Built

WAYLAND — A beginning on the $5000 job of building a sidewalk along Old Connecticut Path for the protection of children going to the Happy Hollow School has been made, Highway Surveyor Albert Potvin reports.

The section now built runs from Pine Ridge Road to Maiden Lane, on the south side of the road. Mr. Potvin says he put stone dust on the path this year, and will let it settle until next year before he puts a hard surface on it.

Eventually, the sidewalk is supposed to run along the south side of Old Connecticut Path to the corner of West Plain Street. Some property problems and some engineering problems will be encountered, it is said.

"Boom On Highway 128"

"Boom on Highway 128" is the title of an article in the June "Industry", publication of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, recently reprinted in pamphlet form with a map showing the great development of new factories and business establishments along the circumferential highway.

The author of the piece, Frank M. Prendergast, describes 128 as "The Magic Semicircle".

ARTHRITIS

NEW HEAT-AND-MASSAGE PAD SOOTHES ARTHRITIC PAIN

Now, Science makes it possible, for the first time, to apply two of mankind's most famous healers simultaneously for the relief of pain of arthritis, bursitis, fibrositis, and sprains.

A new, soft, comfortable pad, called the Thermo-Cyclopad, has been developed that contains a cyclo-massage (R) motor and a special heating element. The motor develops a pleasant, soothing, non-electrical massage action while the heating unit develops a penetrating type of deep heat.

Research proves that this unique combination of heat and massage drives deep down through tissue and bone to relieve aching muscles and joints, stimulate peripheral and local circulation, decrease many types of reflex pain, relieve nervous tension, and encourage deep, restful slumber.

A Free Booklet tells you all about this blessed, new pain-reliever. Write for your copy today to Niagara of Waltham, 48 Sunset Rd., Weston, or call WA 5-4369-J.

Turnpike Authority Agrees To Meeting in Weston

WESTON—Weston leaders had a talk with Chief Engineer Philip H. Kitfield of the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority about what the Authority planned to do in Weston, and Mr. Kitfield said they'd study the matter some more. He also agreed that the Authority would send somebody to talk at a public meeting in Weston, on this subject.

He said he recognized the validity of the Town's objection to the proposed closing of Park Road, which would leave a large area practically without access. He said this would be looked into.

He also said he thought they might be able to shorten the long ramp connecting Route 128, southbound, with the westbound lane of the toll road. This ramp is now shown as about three quarters of a mile long.

He said they expected to have detailed plans for the terminal's construction about the end of December, and to start the job in the Spring.

He added that when the toll road is opening, minus a missing link at the end in Weston, it will not be opened east of the interchange with Route 9, near the big motel just west of Framingham. That is, the Speen Street interchange will not be opened. The effect of keeping the toll road closed east of Framingham will be to put the main volume of eastbound traffic into Route 9, and keep it off local highways.

He announced an additional land taking of one acre for a toll plaza service road. A quarter acre would come from M.D.C. aqueduct land and the rest from Peter and Anna O. Mezzit.

Weston officials who attended the meeting, held Sept. 15 at the toll road office in Boston, were Selectman Edward M. Dickson, Town Engineer Charles H. Stimpson, Jr., Planning Board members E. Olsen Field, Glenn N. Lempereur, John A. Paine, Jr., and John Desmond Glover, and Town Accountant J. Ward Carter.

Cochituate And Wayland Give $700 Flood Aid

Residents of Wayland and Cochituate donated more than $700 to the emergency fund drive of the Red Cross to aid the victims of the recent floods in New England.

The Wayland Chapter of the Red Cross gave $250 as soon as the drive was announced, because of the urgent need for funds. This donation was above the contributions made by the residents of the Town.

Alex M. Hammer, chairman of the Wayland Chapter of the Red Cross, congratulated the residents for their fine and generous spirit in donating to the emergency Red Cross fund.

Willard B. Dik, treasurer of the local chapter, acted as emergency fund chairman.

The Wayland High School National Honor Society elected new officers on Sept. 29. They are: President, Eileen Bresse; Vice-President, Mary Jane Fabisak; Secretary, Kathleen Andrews; and Treasurer, Agnes Houston.

New Books, Wayland

The library has now received the 1955 edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, made possible by a gift of the Friends of the Library.

The following new titles were added during August and early September:

Fiction:

Asimov—The End of Eternity; Berckmann—The Beckoning Dream; Faralla — A Circle of Trees; Gaskin—Sara Dane; Graham—The Vows of the Peacock; Haas — Live Till Tomorrow; Hitchens — F. O. B. Murder; Hocking — Poison in Paradise; Huxley — Genius and the Goddess; Laing — Jonathan Eagle; Morgan—The Great Man; Payne — The Roaring Boys; Smith — The Cellar at No. 5; Steele — The Way to the Gold; Warren —Band of Angels; Wouk—Marjorie Morningstar; Yerby — Treasure of Pleasant Valley.

Non-Fiction:

Beebe — Adventuring With Beebe; Dolson—Sorry To Be So Cheerful; Hachiya — Hiroshima Diary; Izzard — Abominable Snowman; Ketchum — What Is Communism?; Ketchum— What is Democracy?; Klein — Grand Deception; Lewis—High Sierra Country; McNulty — My Son Johnny; Paul — Minding Our Own Business; Schultz — It's Time You Knew; Townsend— How to Plan a House.

Juveniles:

Blough—Lookout for the Forest; Hyde — Atoms Today and Tomorrow; Kay — One Mitten Lewis; Kyle — Carolina House; Morgan—Prairie Star.

Records:

Great Operatic Arias — Bjoerling Merrill; Mendelssohn—Elijah — Huddersfield Choral Society; Puccini—Highlights from La Boheme. Albanese Munsell, Warren; Saint-Saens — Samson and Delilah; Selections — Stevens, Pierce, Merrill.

WALLACE F. JONES of 23 Oak Street, Cochituate, has been appointed sales manager of the Northeast District of the Mutual Boiler and Machinery Insurance Company, located in Waltham. Mr. Jones served in World War II with the 7th Armored Division in Europe.

Win, Lose or Draw

WESTON—A pleasant annual event in this Town is the "Win—Lose—Draw" dinner, to be held on Dec. 1 this year, for the High School athletes. Letters and jackets are awarded to boys and girls. Parents and friends attend, and usually some well known athlete speaks. The affair is sponsored by the Rotary and Boosters Clubs, and has been going on for years.

The corresponding event in Wayland is a dinner given by the Wayland High Association, generally around the first of May, for the same purpose.

List of Street Numbers At Wayland Town Hall

The revised, official list of Wayland street numbers is now available in book form at Wayland Town Hall, free to any resident who wants to go there and ask for it. It is not to be mailed out to everybody because, it is reported, it costs a dime to mail each copy.

Mr. Russell Is Busy Although "Retired"

Howard S. Russell, former Wayland Representative in the Legislature, who retired from that office before the last election, says he's now down to one job, but is still so busy he doesn't have time to take up two or three more careers he'd like to have.

This year is the 30th he has put in with a farm insurance agency, and this is the job he's staying with. His business in Waltham he sold out this year. He and Mrs. Russell hope to attend meetings of the Wayland Historical Society this year, and they hope they'll be able to take it easy.

Mr. Russell is still, as he has been for many years, Moderator of Wayland Town Meetings. His salary for this important job is $10 a year, and he is still in the Town's debt because he has never collected it.

BENJAMIN E. SLEEPER, formerly of Cochituate, a graduate of Wayland High School, has been transferred from Hagerstown, Maryland, to Greensboro, North Carolina, as manager of the business machines division of the National Cash Register Company there. He attended American International College and, as a Lieutenant in the Navy in World War II, the Harvard School of Business Administration. He is the father of six children.

Wayland Wonder Truck May Arrive By Nov. 1

The wonder truck for disaster use which the Town voted to buy at the March meeting hasn't arrived yet, but Civil Defense Director W. R. Hulbert says that delivery by Nov. 1 is possible. It was promised for Sept. 15, but they said a strike spoiled the schedule.

This truck, a $10,000 job carries every imaginable kind of tool for disaster work, from power saws to stretchers, ladders and crowbars. It's Civil Defense equipment and Uncle Sam will pay half its cost, $5,000. The Town of Wakefield acquired such a machine the day before one of the 1954 hurricanes, and it was reported that it performed great service for several communities after the storm.

It will be housed in the new fire station. Although it is officially Civil Defense equipment, in practise the Fire Department will probably handle it.

MRS. BLAKSLEE H. COLBY, former Crier reporter who went down to Wellesley College one day this Summer to ask for a catalogue and wound up with a job in the Wellesley publicity office, reports that half of this year's students are wearing skirts. The rest are in blue jeans and Bermuda shorts.

Six Fish Recipes

WESTON—Miss Helen Snyder of College Park Laboratory, College Park, Maryland, was scheduled to give a demonstration of six fish recipes at the Weston High School cafeteria on Oct. 11. High School mothers and the Weston School Committee members were invited. Weston was chosen as the site of the demonstration by the Massachusetts School Lunch Program.

Invisible Change To Help Phone Service

WAYLAND — Scheduled for Nov. 6 is an invisible telephone changeover which, manager Eugene Murphy of the Natick office says, should make Elmwood toll calls faster, more accurate and more easily heard.

At present, Wayland toll calls go through Framingham. But the whole Framingham area has grown so much that the calls can't be handled there any more. A couple of dozen "switchmen", led by Fred West of Framingham, have been working for a month in Wayland to change the equipment in the central office.

After Nov. 6, Elmwood subscribers who dial zero for operator will get Newton instead of Framingham. Mr. Murphy says a great amount of work has been done behind the scenes to make this change, which won't make any show at all but should improve the service.

MISS MARY H. BENEDICT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manson Benedict of 25 Byron Road, Weston, was one of the Wellesley College sophomores who were awarded honors for high academic standing at the opening chapel service of the college this year. Miss Benedict is a graduate of Weston High School.

Raytheon Has 600 New Telephones

The telephone company last week was finishing the job of installing 600 telephones and a "tremendous" switchboard in the new Raytheon plant in Wayland, Natick manager Eugene Murphy of the company says. Deadline for the job was Oct. 15, and 10 men were on the job.

As of the end of August, 1357 telephone instruments were in use in the Elmwood exchange. Mr. Murphy estimates that Raytheon will finally have about a third as many telephones as the rest of the Wayland end of Town.

Weston Pop. 6257, Up 1231 from '50

WESTON — Population of this Town, determined by the 1955 State census, is given unofficially as 6257, as against 5026 in the Federal Census of 1950.

Wayland's 1955 population is given unofficially as 7303.

Col. Lamson's History Is the Book on Weston

The history of Weston was written as of 1890 by Col. Daniel S. Lamson, a Civil War veteran and apparently a descendent of some of the earliest settlers of the Town. He notes that many of the early records have been lost, but enough information had been saved to make his book interesting.

In the earliest days, he says, what is now Weston was known as the "Farmers' precinct" of Watertown. It was after 1700 before the inhabitants of the Precinct, who lived a long way from church, managed to cut loose and form a Town of their own. Waltham was set off from Watertown in 1737.

One story told by Col. Lamson is about a character named Howe, a British spy, who came out to Weston early in 1775 to see the chances for an expedition to go to Worcester to destroy stores. After being entertained by Tories in Weston, and going as far as the Sudbury River to note the bridges and the roads, he got back into Boston and reported that if 10,000 men should be sent to Worcester by this route, they would all be cut off.

So the British went to Concord, and many men from Weston and Sudbury were on the line of the retreat, guns in hands.

Pack 51 Committee

WAYLAND—On Sept. 22 the Pack Committee of Pack 51 of the Wayland Cub Scouts met with the den mothers and their assistants and Robert Paine, advisor. It was decided that Committee meetings would be held on the second Tuesday of each month, and the monthly pack meeting on the third Thursday of each month starting at 7:00 p.m.

The first monthly pack meeting is scheduled to take place on Oct. 20 at the Wayland High School auditorium. The theme of October for the cub program will be "Robin Hood".

Den mothers will include Mrs. William M. Young, assisted by Mrs. Edwin J. O'Neill and Mrs. Alfred Gledhill; Mrs. William L. Whelan, assisted by Mrs. Leslie A. Wellman; Mrs. Frederick G. Perry Jr., assisted by Mrs. John Sibley and Mrs. Robert H. Charnock; Mrs. Leslie G. Blomberg, assisted by Mrs. Will S. Brown; and Mrs. Ralph Shorey, assisted by Mrs. Jackson Turner.

A/2C Calvin M. Clifton of Shaw Drive, Wayland, has re-enlisted in the United States Air Force for six years and has been assigned to Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, the Framingham recruiting office reports.

Build 3 Schools -

These elementary building priorities would include 26 new classrooms and three kindergartens for elementary children. These three projects should be started very soon. With these additional classrooms, the estimated elementary school population needs of 1960-61 will be met.

Large elementary schools would not be satisfactory. Community schools are considered more acceptable to parents and children. After the first five-year period, other centers are proposed in the survey as well as additions to Happy Hollow and Cochituate to meet emerging needs.

Junior High School

It is proposed that the present High School, with some alterations, be assigned to junior high school purposes. In the early growing stages Grade 6 may be used to keep the Junior High enrolment sufficiently high for the facilities it is using.

Early in the 1960s the need for a second Junior High School may become urgent. The recommended site lies to the northeast of the junction of School and Loker Streets.

Future Senior High

The proposed future senior high school site lies to the west of Cochituate Road and east of the Sudbury River on a site now occupied by a privately operated golf course. It is recommended that at least 50 acres of high land be secured here. The cost of the proposed senior high school for building only has been estimated at $17.50 a square foot or approximately $1,300,000.

Rapidly Growing Area

Impressive additions to the number of homes in Wayland have come in recent years. Although the zoning regulations will tend to keep down the number of families in the Town, there is much vacant land available for residential building and other land in considerable acreages still not released for home building. Although there is great density of homes in the southwest quadrant of the Town, continued additions of new homes may be expected in the northern, central and south-central sections of the Town.

Under present zoning regulations the total number of homes, if total saturation were reached, would be approximately 5,500, according to the survey. This is a potential of about 3,300 homes in addition to those now located in the Town.

Increased Enrolments

There has been a steady increase of births to the residents of Wayland (1948—94, 1955—164), but enrolments are rising even faster because of the number of families with young children moving into the Town. For the past five years there has been an average annual increase of approximately 16 children in each pre-school age group, according to census figures prepared by the school department.

Elementary school enrolments have risen steadily and this increase will be reflected in corresponding increased enrolments in secondary schools.

Estimated public school enrolments based on present figures and future estimates as they appear in the survey follows: 1,444 in grades 1-6 in 1960 as against 864 in 1954, 486 in grades 7-9 in 1960 with 292 presently enrolled, and 281 in grades 10-12 in 1960 as against 160 in those grades now. This means a total increase of 895 pupils by 1960-61. By 1966 there will be an estimated 707 students in grades 7-9, and by 1969 an estimated 532 pupils in grades 10-12. In 1945, there were 687 students in grades 1-12. The pattern is a steady increase in all grades.

Existing Schools

The Happy Hollow site has been well chosen and together with the Cochituate site, furnishes the pivot around which the remainder of the elementary school plant should be developed.

The Center School cannot be expected to serve much longer for the housing of school children. The cost of modernization for elementary school purposes would be exclusive and not defensible in this building. The replacement of this school becomes one of the first features of the oncoming school building program.

In the over-all school building program for the years ahead, the survey recommends that the present Senior High School site be designated for Junior High School purposes. The acreage would suffice for that purpose and the building can well be adapted for that use.

Capacities Versus Enrolments

The maximum capacity of existing elementary facilities is 900. New facilities for 544 children will be needed by 1960-61 in addition to the replacement of 225 Center School children. The recommended building program would meet these needs.

The optimum capacity of the present high school is 500. High school enrolments have increased steadily from 163 in grades 7-12 in 1945-46 to 459 presently. These increases are expected to advance steadily with 648 students enrolled in 1958-59, 883 in 1962-63, and 1,167 in grades 7-12 by 1966-67.

Chairmen of Committees: Cornelius J. Maguire, School Committee; Allan R. Finlay, Building Committee, and Lewis W. Avard, Site Committee.

Copies of the Report may be seen at both Cochituate and Wayland libraries. There aren't enough for wholesale distribution.

Ed Dickson --

Weston's school sites are located on land which the Town acquired from the Case Estate, left to Harvard, and now used by the Arnold Arboretum. Although Weston has long had a good Town Hall and Fire Station, it has had to put in a water system over the past few years.

The tax burden imposed by this and new schools, has been largely absorbed by new valuations. The toll road, fought to the end by Weston citizens, will take a good deal of assessed valuation. Mr. Dickson says his latest news on the turnpike is that it is expected to open from Framingham west next November.

Navy Lieutenant

Mr. Dickson was graduated from Harvard in 1934, after preparing at Belmont Hill School, and then went to Harvard Business School. The summers of 1934 and 1935 he spent bicycling in Europe, visiting England, Holland, Germany, Italy, France, Austria and Spain, biking a grand total of 3,300 miles.

After graduating from Business School he went into the investment advisory field for a few years. Then he returned to Harvard to study education, after which he taught American History and Social Sciences to fourth, fifth, and sixth graders at the Dexter School in Brookline.

Entering the Navy in 1940, Mr. Dickson spent his time in "shore battles" with a Maritime Training Station and Bureau of Ordnance until 1946, when he went on inactive duty as a Lieutenant.

After the war, with five other veterans, Mr. Dickson founded the North American Manufacturing Co. which made interior finish and custom cabinets, in Natick, and served as treasurer of the company. Next Mr. Dickson founded Hospital Radio Inc., which installs radios in hospitals. He is Treasurer of the company.

The Weston Selectmen, William R. Dewey Jr., Charles M. Ganson and Mr. Dickson meet once a week. They are, as in Wayland, responsible for appointing most of the Town officials. The Finance Committee is principally active from January until the Town budget meeting which precedes the regular Town Meeting in March. The Selectmen present the budget at this meeting, which takes some of the pressure off the regular Town Meeting. Mr. Dickson is secretary to the Selectmen. Executive secretary for the Selectmen and Town Accountant is Ward Carter who has "worked day and night for the Town" since 1950.

Reads the Papers

In the first week of October Mr. Dickson attended a Town Clerk's convention in Springfield, along with his cousin, Leila Sears, Town Clerk of Wayland. Mr. Dickson's and Miss Sears' grandmother lived in the house now occupied by Trefrey Real Estate on Route 20 on the Weston-Wayland border.

Mr. Dickson lives on Highland Street with his mother, Mrs. Brenton H. Dickson Jr.

Mrs. Dickson is known to all in this area who enjoy horses and riding. For many years she has helped children who want to ride to find a horse and learn to ride it. She founded the Townshend Morgan Horse Farm in Townshend, Vt., now managed by her daughter, Mrs. Roger Ela of Wayland.

Mr. Dickson's father, who died in 1946, was Town Clerk in Weston for 25 years and Selectman for 20 years. He was instrumental in establishing the Weston Fire Department, and was a volunteer Engineer.

For 40 years the Dickson house has had a fire tap signal. Mr. Dickson's father used to ring the 7 a.m. signal every morning. For awhile the signal used to go off by mistake on Saturday, when in the course of household routine the laundry floor was washed, short-circuiting the wires.

Mr. Dickson regularly reads three Boston newspapers, the Wall Street Journal, and the Town Crier with great thoroughness. He enjoys going to the theater in Boston, and then reads the theater reviews in the Wall Street Journal, which he recommends. Summers, when possible, he heads for Orleans on the Cape, where his family has a house on Pleasant Bay and he enjoys striped bass fishing.

Winters, he skiis around in New England and hopes sometime to get a chance to ski out west.

Weston has hired B. Allen Benjamin, of Wayland, town planning consultant, to prepare an overall long range plan for the Town. Recently Weston has made arrangements for a Town forest consisting of two areas totalling about 300 acres, which can be included in the Town's future layout. Also in the offing is a revision of building codes which Mr. Dickson expects will be ready to present to the citizens of Weston before long.

Field Hockey—Wayland

WAYLAND—On Tuesday, Oct. 4, Ashland High School's varsity field hockey team defeated Wayland High 4-1, but Wayland's junior varsity won by a score of 3-0.

School Population Near 1500, Up 173

WAYLAND — Enrolment in the local school system as of Oct. 1 this year was 1496 as against 1323 a year ago, an increase of 173, says Mr. Edward J. Anderson, Superintendent of Schools. The Junior-Senior High School roster is 508, against 459 a year ago, an increase of 49.

Elementary school population is up 124, from 864 to 988. Experience has shown that these figures usually increase during the year, says Mr. Anderson, and he expects that the total enrolment will be more than 1500 before many weeks have passed.

The Cochituate School had 72 pupils in two first grades. To reduce the size of these classes, the School Committee approved the hiring of a third first grade teacher. This third first grade was to use the faculty room.

Unicef Collection In Weston, Oct. 30

On Sunday, Oct. 30, the young people of Weston will visit the homes of the Town to receive gifts for the United Nations International Children's Fund.

This effort, commonly called UNICEF, is a health-building program for children in more than 90 under-developed countries; a program in countries willing to use their own resources and match UNICEF aid, more than dollar for dollar.

UNICEF helps them to help themselves in establishing health and nutrition facilities. One UNICEF dollar provides enough powdered milk to give 9 children a glass of milk every day for a week, or protects 24 children against tuberculosis.

Last year Weston young people raised $320, part of $273,335 raised in 4,000 communities in 48 states.

This project is under the joint sponsorship of the Weston Council of Churches and the United Nations Day Observance Committee.

No Polio In Weston

WESTON — Although Weston health authorities had no reports of any polio cases in the Town up to Sept. 9, the opening of Weston schools was postponed to Sept. 19.

Some Weston residents were reported nervous about the two classrooms of Wayland children who were scheduled to use Weston school space.

Norman Harris To Speak on Oct. 26

WAYLAND—Norman Harris of the Museum of Natural Science will be the speaker at the first meeting of the season of the Laymen's League of the First Parish Church, on Wednesday, Oct. 26. Boys and girls will be guests. John W. Williams is president and James Arnold is program chairman.

Wayland Women Wanted As Substitute Teachers

WAYLAND — Mr. Edward J. Anderson, Wayland Superintendent of Schools, says there seems likely to be a continuing need of substitute teachers in Wayland from time to time, and he would like housewives who had teaching experience before marrying to let him know if they can be called on for occasional service.

He says that the progression from good teacher to good housewife is a natural one, and he thinks a good teacher should be better for experience with children of her own. He says the commercial market for substitute teachers is thin, and he would rather have local teachers anyway, women interested in their own community.

MRS. ROBERT JOHNSON of North Main Street, Cochituate, flew to Germany on Oct. 2 with her 11-weeks-old daughter, Deborah, to join her G. I. husband, says Pan American World Airways. Mrs. Johnson used to be Betty Lou Spencer, who was prominent in activities at Wayland High School a few years ago.

A SON, ROBERT MARK, was born at the Grover Memorial Hospital, Needham, on Sept. 27, to Mr. and Mrs. Souren Soorsoorian of D'Angelo Road. Grandparents' honors are shared by Mr. and Mrs. Aram Soorsoorian of Newburyport and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bergquist of Newton.

MRS. RUDOLPH (PEGGY) BRUCE, of Plain Road, Wayland, will be on television on Monday, Oct. 17, on the Swan Boat Program, between 9 and 10, in her capacity as President of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters.

MR. FRANK GUARINO, JR., of Beverly, a graduate of Boston University who has just been discharged from the United States Marine Corps as a lieutenant, has been appointed a sixth grade teacher at the Cochituate School.

Evening Ceramics Class Starts at Wayland Oct. 17

Classes in ceramics for beginners, men and women, will be held at Wayland High School on Monday evenings, from 7:30 until 10 p. m., beginning Oct. 17 and running for 10 weeks. The number of pupils will be limited to 15.

Mrs. Lillian Jones, art director of the Wayland High School, will be the instructor. Those interested in taking the course may call the Wayland Superintendent's office between 9 and 4, or Mrs. Jones, LAsell 7-4592, after 5 p. m.

Cochituate Explorers Camp Out At Marion

Nine Explorer Scouts of Post 1, Cochituate, three of whom are Eagle Scouts, together with two leaders, George W. Brown, Explorer Advisor, and George W. Fullick, Vice President of Algonquin Council, enjoyed camping over Labor Day weekend at G. H. T. Brown's in Marion, Mass.

One large and one small tent were pitched for sleeping and all cooking was done in the open.

After setting up camp Friday evening the Scouts attended the Band Concert at Marion in full dress uniform.

Many of the Explorers attended the tennis matches and also enjoyed swimming in the cool salt water. Some took a trip to the Edaville Railroad in South Carver and others tried their luck at fishing.

Sunday morning all Explorers and leaders attended regular church services in town. That evening five scouts from Troop 32 of Marion joined the campers in their evening meal, which was followed by a softball game.

STEPHEN M. HYLAND, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hyland of Plain Road, Wayland, has been enrolled as a senior at Vermont Academy, Saxtons River, Vt., the school reports.

PUBLISHED FORTNIGHTLY FOR THE RESIDENTS OF COCHITUATE, WAYLAND, AND WESTON

Vol. 10, No. 4 | NOVEMBER 10, 1955 | 10¢ a copy, $2.00 per year

West Newton Bank Branch To Occupy Bigwood House

WAYLAND—After a history dating from 1808, when it was built as one of five brick school houses in Town, the former home of Mrs. Everett R. Bigwood on Millbrook Road, next to Tom Barr's store, is to become a branch of the West Newton Savings Bank, it appears.

Mr. Kenneth W. Rogers, president of the bank, says there must be a hearing before the Banking Commissioner at the State House on Nov. 14. There is no indication, he says, that the State authorities will nix the project of opening a branch in Wayland, but the routine has to be followed.

Mr. Rogers says that the bank will lease the building from its present owners and remodel it and landscape the premises. Every effort will be made, he says, to retain the general appearance of the house and to keep it in harmony with the general surroundings of the Center. He thinks a doorway will be cut in the end of the building, facing the street. He wants to staff the bank with Wayland persons and make it as much a Wayland institution as possible.

So far as anybody knows, this will be the first bank ever to be established in Wayland Center. A branch of the Newton-Waltham Bank, set up in Cochituate a year or two ago, is believed to be the first bank ever established inside the Town limits.

Mrs. Kenneth E. Morrell, student of Town history, finds that five brick district schools were built in the Town in early days. The present Bigwood house, known as the Center School, or Number 3, was built in 1808, and is the only one of the five brick schools left standing. It was used as a school until 1841.

In 1842 it was remodelled by James Draper, of the well known Draper family of Wayland, into a house. The widow of Josiah Russell lived there for a time, as did William Stearns and Marshall Russell. A famous character of perhaps the 1870's, "Blind Charlie" Russell, a noted fisherman, also lived there. It is recorded that he was to be seen fishing at Baldwin's Pond or at the bridge over the Sudbury River on Old Sudbury Road.

A later resident of the house to make history was Everett Bigwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bigwood, then 15, who leaped into Sudbury River on Sept. 3, 1954, in an effort to rescue Eric and Gregory Lind, small brothers, sons of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Lind, who fell in from the Pelham Island Road Bridge and were drowned. In memory of the boys, the Eric and Gregory Lind Memorial Fund was established at the Brooks Hospital in Brookline, to establish hospital rooms in which mothers might stay to be near their children.

Other brick schools built in this era were Number 4, the Rutter School, on Old Connecticut Path opposite the present entrance to Mainstone Farm, 1799; Number 5, the Thomas School, built in 1803 on Old Connecticut Path somewhere opposite the present home of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Willard, which was a later, 1868 model, Thomas School; Number 2, the Street School, on Old Sudbury Road near the four arch bridge, 1804, and Number 1, the North School, at the corner of Concord Road and Lincoln Road, 1805. All four have vanished. Later on, says Mrs. Morrell, these brick schools were replaced by wooden ones, and the numbers were changed a couple of times.

Mr. Rogers says that the West Newton bank has many customers in Wayland and hopes to make more friends.

Eugene Hanson Tells Rotary About Paper

WESTON — Four hundred pounds of paper per person are used in the United States each year as against 14 pounds per person in the Soviet Union, Eugene O. Hanson of 23 Pinecroft Road, New England sales manager for the Brown Company, told the Weston Rotary Club at its Oct. 27 meeting.

Some of the other facts about paper given by Mr. Hanson:

It replaces glass, tin, rubber, wood, cloth, burlap, aluminum and plastics.

The paper produced each year weighs twice as much as all the new automobiles manufactured.

A paper making machine costs from $2,500,000 to $5,000,000.

Paper making is the fifth largest industry in the United States, the third in Massachusetts.

Drawings and blueprints for a battleship require 50,000 pounds of paper.

The first paper was made in ancient Egypt from strips of papyrus crossed, soaked in the Nile, pressed, dried and polished. From papyrus comes the word, "paper".

Weston Raises $382.30

WESTON—The Weston Council of Churches and the United Nations Day Observance Committee wish to thank every resident of Weston who shared in the recent UNICEF (United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund) project.

The young people of the community met in the four Protestant churches on Sunday, Oct. 30, at 3 p. m. and from these points visited every home in the town.

Through the willing efforts of close to 200 young people and countless adults, $382.30 was raised for hungry and sick children in 90 under-developed countries.

One Dollar Per Family Would Fill S.A. Quota

While numerous Greater Boston communities announce they have reached their quota, the Weston Salvation Army campaign lags behind its total of a year ago, says Richard F. Lincoln, campaign treasurer for Weston.

According to Mrs. Richard P. Berry, Salvation Army Chairman for Weston, the donations have been generous. However, it is again a case of the burden being borne by too few. "If every Weston family would contribute one dollar," she says, "we shall reach our goal."

Checks payable to the Salvation Army are still acceptable and should be mailed to Richard F. Lincoln, Newton-Waltham Bank & Trust Company, Weston 93, Massachusetts.

Nov. 23 Issue Deadline

On account of Thanksgiving, the next Crier will come out on Wednesday, Nov. 23. This means that all advertising copy and editorial material must be in by Tuesday, Nov. 15.

Frank Kilburn New Town Counsel

FRANK KILBURN

WAYLAND—Frank W. Kilburn of Sylvan Way, an attorney connected with mutual insurance companies in Boston, has been appointed Wayland Town Counsel to take the place of Roger P. Stokey, who resigned because of the pressure of private practise, Chairman John W. Leavitt of the Selectmen, announces.

Mr. Kilburn was born in Brockton in 1921, and grew up in Waban. He was graduated from Wesleyan in 1943, as of the class of 1944, served in World War II as Naval Intelligence officer and agent, and later obtained his law degree from Boston University. He has lived in Wayland four years, has a 3-year-old son, Andrew, and belongs to the Kiwanis Club of Wayland.

He was active a couple of years ago in the Wayland Anti-Toll Road Committee, which was formed to fight the original plan of the Authority to run the road through the middle of Town. He is with the law firm of Murray, Von Rosenvinge and Hennessey, at 60 State Street.

His appointment dates from Oct. 17.

Special Town Meeting May Be Off Till Jan.

WAYLAND—Latest report from Town Hall is that the expected Special Town Meeting may not be held until later than was supposed, perhaps not until January.

The Town Office Building Committee has a meeting scheduled for Nov. 15. It has found that the job of getting bids and making the other preparations needed for submitting the project to the Town won't be completed for a while.

Hangs Hose On Bumper, A Friend Saves Him

WAYLAND—A local resident, picking things up in the dooryard on a recent Sunday, looped 100 feet of hose together and put it, temporarily, on the front bumper of his automobile.

Later on, he had to go to Wayland Town Hall for a time. When he came out, he found a piece of paper under his windshield wiper.

"Have you looked at the front of your car lately??" said the note, signed, "A friend."

Sure enough, there was the 100 feet of hose, still draped on the bumper.

"Nice thing about the country," said the forgetful citizen to his friends. "In the city, they'd simply have swiped the hose. Nice person did that. Can't tell by the handwriting. Might have been a woman."

He couldn't tell whose writing it was, he thought, but he found out. It was his wife's.

Nicole Eats First Hot Dog, Enters Weston High School

WESTON—Nicole Maitre, 17-year-old girl from Rhombas, France, who's going to spend the coming year at Weston High School, arrived in Weston Nov. 1, ate her first hot dog, without mustard, and enrolled as a student with Principal Julius H. Mueller Jr. on Nov. 2.

She had her first look at American television. In Rombas, she says, television is generally to be seen only in the stores.

She liked the hot dog. On the day she arrived at school, she hadn't had her first ice cream soda, but that was about to be provided.

Nicole's English is pretty good. She studied it for five years at the College of Rombas, from which she has graduated, but she has never before had a chance to practice it with English-speaking people.

This College of Rombas, they say, takes a student the academic equivalent of half through an American college. Thus Nicole is generally ahead of the senior class at Weston, but because the curriculum is different it is felt she will be able to benefit here.

She crossed the ocean by boat to Quebec, where she was met by Mrs. C. F. Gimber and Mrs. H. C. Crawford. They meant to drive her to Weston by way of the White Mountains, but it was raining and the scenery was invisible, so they took the quicker way home through Maine. The ocean crossing was stormy.

She has visited Switzerland, Germany and Luxembourg, but this is the first time she has ever been as far from home as this.

She said she was "a little" homesick. However, her hosts say the chief problem will be to protect her from too much entertainment for a while, until she can get adjusted.

At school, she will study senior English, French III (in which it is expected she'll be able to help other students, as Ursele Fischbach did last year), modern problems, maybe geography and lots of music, in which she is much interested.

Nicole says she has brown hair. It's cut short. Her eyes seem to be blue. When she arrived in school she was dressed in blouse, sweater and skirt, like any American girl.

She's the youngest of six children. Her father is manager of a cokery. She brings with her the highest recommendations.

For the first half of the year she will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Robinson of 161 Boston Post Road.

Found: Watch and Sweater

WESTON — A child was seen throwing her dark blue sweater from a moving automobile on Boston Post Road, in Weston Center, recently. The sweater was brought into the Crier office, where it awaits a claimant.

Another article is a man's watch, still running although its crystal was broken, found on Sunday, Oct. 30, on the street outside St. Peter's Church. Whoever lost the watch may call WAltham 5-9216.

Wayland Notice

The Dr. Nicholas L. Engelhardt report on Wayland school needs will be discussed at a meeting in Wayland High School auditorium at 8 p. m., Nov. 10. Dr. Engelhardt will be present to answer questions. All those interested in the school programs are urged to attend.

Bowditch Field, Framingham

The Wayland-Weston football game will be played at 2 p. m. Saturday, Nov. 19, at Bowditch Field, Framingham. Wayland is the home team this year, but does not have room for all the spectators expected.

Black Widows Live in N.E., But Don't Bite

WAYLAND—There are black widow spiders in New England, but there's no record that they ever bit anybody, Norman D. Harris of Rich Valley Road, educational director of the Museum of Science in Boston, told 100 members and children of the Unitarian Laymen's League at the organization's first meeting of the season on Oct. 26.

Mr. Harris, who showed some of his famous insects and reptiles, said that the black widow, who's really pretty small, is secretive. His nest may sometimes be found around here, but he runs and hides.

Other highlights: Probably there will be one or two sawwhet owls in Wayland this Winter. These are the smallest owls, without tufts on their ears. They are night hunters, who fly silently.

There are no poisonous snakes in Wayland and few in Massachusetts. On Great Blue Hill there are a few copperheads and rattlers, and in the western part of the state there are a few.

The milk snake doesn't like milk. Not only does he never steal milk directly from the cow, his stomach capacity for liquids is around three table spoons. He actually hangs around the barn in order to catch rats and mice, and he's the most valuable snake in New England.

There are no water moccasins north of Virginia.

There is no record of any death from a copperhead or timber rattler in Massachusetts. The rattler's rattle sounds like the buzz of an insect. The rattler can strike only about half the length of his body, and then only when he's coiled. Stretched out flat, he can't strike at all. His bite should never result in death, if measures are taken in from one to three hours.

The black widow is indeed dangerous. But there is no record of a death from a tarantula bite.

Many snakes have teeth. But their "bite" would be about equivalent to scratches from a bramble bush.

Mr. Harris showed a number of live snakes, among them a "tree green snake", two or three feet long, from Central America, the color of pistachio ice cream. Another was a seven-foot boa constrictor. He called Lyn Parker and Joanna Pratt to the stage to touch the constrictor, and by the time he had finished talking with them about it, the two little girls found themselves holding the big serpent all by themselves.

When he was about to bring out the poisonous snakes, he explained that there was no danger but that it would be just as well if the children in the front row moved away a little.

"A very good idea," said some small boy, in a loud voice.

Jack Williams presided and Jim Arnold, the program chairman, introduced the speaker.

Percussion Group to Play at deCordova

The Boston Percussion Group will give a concert at the deCordova Museum in Lincoln on Friday, Nov. 11, at 8:45 p. m. The group is directed by Harold Farberman, percussionist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Faberman's own composition, "Evolution", scored for 25 percussion instruments, will be played, as well as "Toccata for Percussion" by Carlos Chavez, and a light number of Faberman, "Variations on Pop Goes the Weasel".

A series of five lectures by the weaver and artist, Anni Albers, will be held at the Museum from Nov. 14 to 18 at 8 p. m. She has taught at Black Mountain and the Museum of Modern Art and has had exhibits of her weaving in many museums.

Letters to the EDITOR

To the Editor:

On behalf of the School Committee, I would like to thank the Wayland League of Women Voters for delivering copies of the Dr. Engelhardt report to Wayland homes. The League saved the Town a big mailing bill and also contributed to the spread of information about local school problems. I think this action was typical of the fine citizenship always practised by the League.

Sincerely,
Cornelius J. Maguire
Chairman,
Wayland School Committee

Happy Hollow PTA Will Square Dance On November 18

WAYLAND—There'll be a hot time in the old town on Nov. 18 and everyone is invited. That's the night of the Harvest Moon Square Dance, sponsored by the Happy Hollow P.T.A. The jumping is scheduled to begin at 8:00 p. m. in the shiny new gym at the Happy Hollow School.

A very good professional caller from Whitinsville will do the calling. Three prizes are planned: a door prize; a prize given in connection with a dance; and a prize for the 100th couple to appear. Tickets are 75c per person and may be obtained by calling Dan Di Senso at OL 3-0752.

Next meeting of the Happy Hollow P.T.A. executive board is Nov. 21 at the school. Next P.T.A. meeting is Dec. 6.

Memorial gifts honoring five former Wayland residents have been received during the past six months, the Massachusetts Heart Assoriation announces. Those remembered in this way were Frederick Fahlgren, Bernard W. Horner, Ida Kaufman, John Phylis and Jo P. Williams.

From Weston, the Heart Fund has received memorial gifts honoring five late residents: Edward C. Dooley, John Ferguson, Walter Peacock, Albert P. Reid and Cornelia Horsford Willis.

HENRY M. PARKER of Cochituate Road, Wayland, was a member of the committee in charge of arrangements for the 73d Stated Meeting of the American Ornithologists' Union, held in Boston at the Museum of Science, Oct. 25-30. This is the bird watchers' convention.

U.N. Official Talks On Technical Aid

WAYLAND—Technical assistance to underdeveloped countries costs the United States only 5c per capita per year. And it is one of the few United Nations programs with which both East and West are in hearty agreement.

Taghi Nasr, chief of the U.N. Technical Assistance Administration for Europe and the Middle East, speaking before the Wayland United Nations Association on October 21, declared that the program was the most positive action taken by U.N. to improve international relations. He was introduced by Archibald Cox, chairman.

Mr. Nasr, formerly Minister of Finance of Iran and president of the Bank of Iran, said there are many obstacles to be overcome in giving technical assistance. It is difficult to obtain the services of the proper expert. Often he must be paid as much as the prime minister of the country to which he is assigned, that is $10 a day plus expenses.

Solutions recommended by the expert are often expensive, or unpopular, such as instituting a methodical tax collection system. Local customs also stand in the way. In Ethiopia 12 A.B. graduates were trained in telephone communications at considerable expense. When they were then asked to climb telephone poles to repair lines they refused because it was infra dig for them to do manual work in public.

Whereas community effort is common in the U.S., it is novel in the Middle East. U.N. technical assistance has brought this kind of cooperative enterprise to the undeveloped countries for the first time.

Although some feel that giving technical assistance will eventually jeopardize the economic position of the developed countries, Mr. Nasr said this could not be so. The little aid the Middle East and Africa are receiving will never enable them to catch up with Europe.

Den Mothers Chosen For Pack 51, Scouts

WESTON—First meeting of the year for Pack 51 was held Oct. 7 at the Unitarian Parish House. Most of the meeting was devoted to organization and administrative planning to insure a successful year of varied activities for the Cubs. Mr. Stewart Woodworth Jr., Pack Committee Chairman, presided and announced the various committee memberships and introduced the Committee Chairmen present at the meeting.

Cubmaster Robert Ogilvie outlined some of the interesting and constructive activities scheduled for the interesting year ahead. In keeping with the theme of the month—Robin Hood—a lively cartoon about Robin Hood and his merry men was shown to the obvious (and audible) delight of the Cubs.

Den Mothers for Pack 51:

Den 2, Mrs. William D. Manice; Den 6, Mrs. Lester Johnson; Den 9, Mrs. Val H. Laughner; Den 12, Mrs. Ken French; Den 15, Mrs. Alfred Thomas; Den 19, Mrs. Stephen Mallet, and Den 22, Mrs. James Farrell.

The Pack 51 parents who attended the Cub Scout Pow-Wow held on Oct. 16 at the Country School were unanimous in their praise and appreciative of this very helpful, informative and stimulating meeting. Next Pack Meeting was scheduled for Nov. 4 at the Parish House. Theme, Cub Scout Bee Keeping.

George Nolan's Mules Star In Boston Parade

WAYLAND—George L. Nolan of Old Connecticut Path, owner of the only pair of mules in the Town and maybe in the County, drove them in the Community Fund Parade in Boston on Oct. 23. They hauled a big covered wagon, labelled "Algonquin Council, B.S.A." Aboard the wagon as a passenger, for a portion of the trip, was Frank W. Hatch of Wayland, this year's general chairman of the fund campaign.

Theodore R. Magoun handled this feature of the parade, without a budget. Thirty-seven Cochituate Boy Scouts went along to march in the parade, too. George W. Fullick, Raymond G. Giles, William G. Brown and Ronald H. Wood lined up the boys.

Mr. E. Robert Gould of Ashland provided a horse pullman to carry the mules to the big city, where the sights are not what they had been accustomed to in Wayland. Mr. Arthur C. Dusseault of Cochituate drove the van.

Otis Whitney of Concord, Commissioner of Public Safety, helped to get the permit for horse moving on Sunday and Police Chief Ernest H. Damon of Wayland cleared the local loading route. State trooper Arthur W. Quinlan provided an escort to the city.

One of those mules kicked Mr. Nolan once and put him in the hospital for weeks, but he didn't blame the animal. He said he stepped into the stall and forgot to speak, so the mule was startled. Many passers-by on the country highway have seen these mules, but this was the first time they ever were so prominent in city life.

Members of the Wayland Finance Committee, of which Robert M. Morgan is chairman, are beginning their meetings with various Town departments this month, in preparation for the regular March Town Meeting.

Prof. Sohn Speaks At Weston Observance

WESTON—Prof. Lewis Sohn of Harvard Law School, who was on the legal staff of the U.N. in 1950 and 1951, spoke on "What the United Nations Means To You" at the 10th anniversary observance of U.N. at the Country Day School, Oct. 24, the night the storm put out some of the lights in Town.

Rev. Robert W. Huston was master of ceremonies. The program included singing of "America the Beautiful" by the audience, with Mrs. J. Phillip Lane at the piano; a demonstration of Scottish bagpipes and Highland dances by Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Thomson and their clan; instrumental music of India and an Indian classical dance, by Anu Sankar; a short movie on Unicef, introduced and operated by Julius H. Mueller, and a candle lighting ceremony, arranged by Mrs. Wayne D. Wetzel, in which the actors were Senior Scouts Jay Crowe and Nancy Nichols.

Mrs. Lewis Mustard arranged the hall decorations and Weston Girl Scouts assisted in the lobby.

Co-chairmen of the Observance Committee were Victor C. Harnish and Mrs. David Blaney.

Members:

Treasurer, Charles B. Cutter; Secretary, Mrs. Stephen Tyng; Publicity Chairman, Mrs. E. Olsen Feld; Steering Committee, Rev. Robert W. Huston, George B. Foote and Mrs. J. Phillip Lane, and other members:

Edward M. Dickson, Rev. Joseph O'Donnell, Julius H. Mueller, Miss Mildred Marble, Mrs. Lewis Mustard, Mrs. Wayne D. Wetzel, A. Kent Herring and Mrs. John Callinan.

Mrs. James Greason of Conant Road is expecting her daughter, Sarah, and family, to visit her.

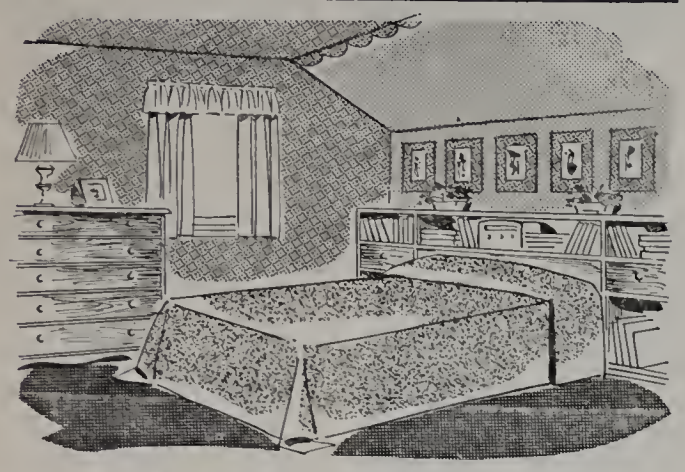
By HAL BURKE



DRAMATIZE THAT SLOPING CEILING

The small room with a sloping ceiling need not be a decorative stepchild. With a little imagination and the minimum of effort, it can easily be converted into an attractive, livable room—a bedroom, den or study, or space permitting, a family fun room. And at a cost that will not strain your budget.

Here, as in every room, style and purpose should dictate the choice of furniture. Provincial decor and furnishings are "naturals" for this type room.

Soft sprout green was selected as the basic color for the bedroom sketched above. A small-patterned Provincial wallpaper (predominantly green and yellow) covers one wall and the ceiling. Note how variety of line has been achieved by extending the narrow scalloped border of the paper down onto the sloping wall. Colorful Flemish prints matted on the same wallpaper have been used in group above the headboard — show up importantly against the soft green wall.

This color scheme plays up the rich burnished beauty of the maple furniture. Headboard which provides copious space for books, magazines, radio and knicknacks fits well into space beneath the sloping ceiling—allows bed to be placed where bed-making is easy.

Are you overlooking unused space in your home? If so, come in and let one of our trained decorators tell you how you can convert it into an attractive functional living area. We are always most happy to talk over your room plans with you. Do come in soon.

Architect Says Office Building Cost Approximately $200,000

WAYLAND—"I think we're talking about $200,000," said Frederick H. Gagnon of Worcester, architect of the proposed Wayland Town office building, in reply to a question of probable cost, at a public hearing held in Wayland High School cafeteria on Oct. 24.

Only a dozen or so persons attended the hearing.

Selectman John W. Leavitt, chairman of the building committee, presided.

Some of the information:

Mr. Leavitt described the present Town Hall as an "antique", and said, "It should be condemned."

All of the proposed new structure would be above high water mark of any flood so far recorded.

Many persons have looked at the scale model in Town Hall and at Cochituate.

Mr. Gagnon said the building would be 14,500 square feet in area. Construction of the walls would be brick veneer over cinder block. Basement, concrete. Some structural steel. The roof mostly wood.

The land costs nothing. It was given to the Town for this very purpose many years ago.

Widening Millbrook Road is not the plan of the building. But Town authorities are thinking about it.

What's to become of the old Town Hall? Nobody knows. One suggestion is that it should be torn down and the site used for parking space.

What about furinshings for the new building? The matter hasn't come up yet.

Parking space for about 60 automobiles is proposed.

The financing of the building?

Of the total cost, $45,000 has already been appropriated by the Town and is in this year's tax rate. The idea is that another good piece of the price may be put in next year's tax rate, that another part may be taken from the excess and deficiency fund (which has it) and that the rest should be paid for with a short-term loan, payable in one or two years. Chairman Leavitt said that by doing it this way the cost of the building will be out of the way by the time big new school costs come along. In fact, the financing was timed so that it would not interfere with school costs.

Those present: Chairman Leavitt, Allan R. Finlay, Mr. and Mrs. George Vinsonhaler, Town Accountant Norman E. Taylor, Selectman Thomas F. Linnehan, School Committeeman John B. Butler, Frederick G. Perry Jr. of the Planning Board, W. R. Hulbert, Civil Defense director; Mrs. Richard A. Howard, Herbert R. Fallgren, Police Chief Ernest H. Damon, architect Gagnon and Donald B. Willard.

Tricks Outmoded Treats Net $100

WAYLAND — Tricks became outmoded on Hallowe'en and treats came in the form of pennies and nickels for the U.N.'s Children's Fund.

The children of three Wayland churches, Community Methodist, Trinitarian - Congregational and First Parish, dressed up in costumes and pulled door bells. In return they collected cash and brought it back to costume parties at their own churches.

In all they collected just over $100. It goes to buy food, clothing and medicine for children all over the world.

Two New Subdivisions

WAYLAND—At least two subdivisions have been before the Wayland Planning Board recently. One is for about 16 houses between Dudley Road and the aqueduct, in Cochituate, and another is for 18 houses in a wooded section of Moore Road.

The Wayland High School driver education program is under way again. The car is furnished by Cochituate Motors.

Pequod Lodge Held Annual Roll Call

WAYLAND—Pequod Lodge of Odd Fellows held its annual rollcall on Thursday evening, Oct. 27, attended by 39 members and 41 invited guests. The rollcall, an annual event, was started 30 years ago by Ernest F. Lawrence Sr. of Cochituate, to be a get-together for members who live far away or for some other reason can't get to meetings regularly.

Outstanding this year was the presence of all three heads of the male branches of the Order, with their boards of officers.

Pequod Lodge has members in Wayland and in many surrounding Towns. Last summer the Patriarchal Branch sent 52 boys and girls to camps, and next Summer, it is expected, Pequod Lodge will go along with the Summer camp project.

Members of the Lodge are proud of their little hall, which has been standing on Cochituate Road for a century or more. The building is now being used for kindergarten classes by the Wayland Junior Town House Association, and it was used for Sunday School classes by the Trinitarian Congregational Church before the latter's new parish house was built.

50 New Members Join Woman's Club

WAYLAND—Fifty new members were welcomed into the Wayland Woman's Club at the "Get Acquainted Tea" held in the First Parish Vestry on Nov. 1.

Each new member was presented with a small corsage and greeted by Mrs. Robert M. Carson and Mrs. Fred J. Christensen Jr. Tea tables were arranged with yellow and white chrysanthemums and white candles. Mrs. C. Robert Woodsum and Mrs. S. Burt Wolbach poured tea.

Officers of the club were introduced by the President, Mrs. Burton R. Clay. Vice-president Mrs. John M. Hughes Jr., introduced the Lexington String Quartet composed of Charlotte Marty, violin, Mary Louise Stewart, violin, Lucy Parker, viola, and Mary Frances Williamson, cello. They played Mozart's Dissonance Quartet, Turina-La Onacion del Tornero, Knoll-Little March, and Cossack.

Mrs. Harold Chamberlin Jr. and Mrs. Ernest Neal were co-chairmen of the committee, which included Miss Ethel Carter, Mrs. Andrew Cay, Mrs. Ernest Cherry, Mrs. Frank Cooper, Mrs. Lloyd Cutten, Mrs. Edwin B. Damon, Mrs. John Dunning, Mrs. Roger Ela, Mrs. Kenneth Emery, Mrs. George E. French, Mrs. John Gregory, Mrs. Arthur Hager, Mrs. Paul Persson, Mrs. Charles Potter, Mrs. Peter Salvucci, Mrs. Gilbert Small, Mrs. Vernon Wiley, Mrs. S. Burt Wolbach, and Mrs. Robert Woodsum.

New vice president of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company is Nathan I. Greene, who has been connected with the Canal National Bank of Portland, Me., for the past 24 years. He has been vice president of the Canal Bank since 1945.

Bruce Kingsbury has been appointed to the Wayland Planning Board to take the place of Mrs. Gordon Baldwin, who resigned some time ago.

Wayland Officials Ask Bypass Be Considered

WAYLAND—The Wayland Selectmen and the Wayland Planning Board have sent a joint letter to Commissioner of Public Works John A. Volpe, asking him to give immediate consideration to the Town's traffic problem and the building of a long proposed bypass around the Center.

At about the same time, Raytheon also sent a letter of similar purport to Mr. Volpe, telling of its plans to open the new laboratory soon and of the traffic it will entail.

A few weeks ago the State did take a traffic count in Wayland Center, on traffic going in all four directions.

When Raytheon goes into operation, it is expected, hundreds of automobiles will be using the State Road, Route 20, all at once, night and morning. It is supposed that this additional traffic will be added to the usual heavy traffic on Route 20, and to the school bus traffic around the Center.

The bypass, which has been under study for a long time, would leave State Road East at Dead Man's Curve, go south of the Center and rejoin Route 20 somewhere near the railroad crossing near Raytheon.

Were there such a bypass, Wayland Center would be as free of heavy traffic as Weston Center is now. The bypass is much wanted by residents of the Center.

A year or so ago, the word from Boston about the bypass was that the State would wait until after the toll road was completed, and then take another traffic count.

Wayland People To Get Their First Look At Nike

WAYLAND—Wayland Selectmen have worked out with the Army a guided tour of the Nike installations in North Wayland and Lincoln, for the afternoon of Saturday, Nov. 12.

The tour is for Wayland residents of high school age and up. Younger children are excluded because, it is indicated, there are ways they could get into mischief or trouble at the installations.

People will not be able to drive their own automobiles. They will go to the parking lot at Walden Pond between 2:30 and 4:30 p. m. There they will be picked up by buses and taken both to the control center, in Lincoln, and the launching site, in North Wayland.

Lincoln people will get the same trip on the morning of Nov. 12.

This will be the first opportunity for local residents to get a look at these important anti-aircraft defense posts.

New Weston Pediatrician Is Former Navy Plane Pilot

WESTON—The only pediatrician with an office in Weston, Wayland or Sudbury is Dr. Thomas C. Peebles of 100 Summer Street, Weston, who moved into the Doctors' Building in Weston a month or so ago. And this is Dr. Peebles' background:

His father, of Newton, is head of the German department at Boston University.

Dr. Peebles, then not even a medical student, was in the Navy for five years, flying airplanes.

After the war he married, had a baby and decided to enter Harvard Medical School, which he did. With the aid of scholarships, he worked his way through. He got the college laundry concessions, for one thing.

Eight years ago he and his wife moved to Weston, where they built their own home. (Now they have three children.)

After being graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1951, Dr. Peebles was associated in the study of viruses with Dr. John Enders, who won a Nobel prize. Dr. Peebles had some mention of himself, in that connection, in Life Magazine.

He went into the practise of pediatrics because that's what he has long wanted to do.

Andrew Dent, a second son, was born Oct. 14 at Waltham Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Jerome M. Gale of 137 Lexington Street, Weston. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Douglass of Old Road, Weston.

The Waltham Hospital Associates buy needed equipment for the hospital by selling pictures of new born babies to proud parents.

2 Kiwanis Parties Draw Nearly 500

WAYLAND — Nearly 500 Wayland youngsters were entertained at two Halloween parties run by the Kiwanis Club.

More than 200 younger children were at the Cochituate School, where they had refreshments and were amused by movies and a cartoonist. Highlight of the evening was a costume parade, with Donna Sears, Charlie Cook, Janet Stevens, Valerie Mesite, Sharon Shepard, Nils Aunes, Celia Clements and Thomas Irwin winning prizes.

More than 250 teenagers had a dance at the High School, where a dozen or more youngsters from Weston also appeared. There were prize waltzes, jitterbug contests and balloon dances, with awards for winners. Refreshments were served during intermission by wives of Kiwanians.

General chairman was Ollie Riggs. George Stockbridge was in charge of the Cochituate party and Joe Kelly ran the one in Wayland Center. Many members of the club assisted. Kiwanis President Clayt Morrill said he thought the parties were a tremendous success, and that the effort used in running them each year was worth while.

Wayland Building Permits

Thomas E. Wentworth

WAYLAND—Funeral services for Thomas E. Wentworth, 72, long time resident who built many of the houses in the Town, were held at his home on Plain Road on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 27. The services were conducted by Rev. George C. Gutekunst of the Cochituate Community Methodist Church. Burial was in the North Cemetery.

Mr. Wentworth was the husband of Mary A. (MacNeil) Wentworth and the father of John R. Wentworth, Warren J. Wentworth, Mrs. Charles Gaston Smith, Mrs. Joseph R. Martin and Mrs. L. Kingsbury Houghton.

Business Areas May Be Enlarged, Board Says

WAYLAND — Chairman Frederick G. Perry Jr. of the Planning Board says the Board has engaged James Harris of Cambridge, architect and planner, for assistance in working out new zoning bylaws to give more room for business in both Cochituate and Wayland Center.

Several meetings have been held with Mr. Harris, one has been held with business men, and several others are planned.

What the Board has in mind is not an area for a big deal, like Shoppers World, but room for small retail stores, perhaps in small shopping centers. At the present time there is almost no available land zoned for additional business. In Cochituate there is not much parking space, and the traffic in Wayland gets worse by the day.

No conclusion has been reached as to where the additional business zones may be. The study now is to see how much more business areas may be needed.

Two "Victory" Dances Listed For Nov. 19

Through some mix-up, there appears to be a conflict of events for the evening of Nov. 19.

Both Weston High and Wayland High are holding "Victory" dances that night. This is peculiar, because the two football teams will play each other that afternoon, and in the ordinary course of events there would be only one winner of such a contest.

The Wayland dance is to be given by the seniors, with the football players and the cheerleaders as guests.

Some Want Bleachers At High School Field

WAYLAND—Although nobody had done anything about it officially, so far as known, many persons have been saying that there should be at least some portable stands at the Wayland High School athletic field.

When attendance is light, spectators can follow the play by walking up and down the sidelines, back of the ropes. But on Oct. 29, when Wayland met Ashland, a crowd reported by one Boston paper to number 4000 showed up. A more conservative estimate might have made the crowd 2000, but even so, it was big enough to make watching the game difficult.

Weston Has Set Some Seats At Field

WESTON—This year, for the first time, Weston High has some stands at its football field. They came from Nickerson Field, and were obtained from Boston University. Through the cooperation of the Boosters Club, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, a Waltham industrial concern and the Weston School Committee, six sections of bleacher were purchased at $100 a section.

Additional expense was incurred in setting up the stands, so that the whole bill came to somewhere between $1200 and $1500. Volunteer labor helped a lot.

This stand is set up on the home team's side of the field. As yet there are no seats on the visitors' side.

Weston Bank Branch Open House, Nov. 21

WESTON—Residents of Weston and surrounding towns are invited to an Open House scheduled for Nov. 1 from 4 to 6 p. m., at the Weston Office of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company. The occasion is the celebration of the Bank's tenth anniversary in Weston.

It was November, 1945, after much groundwork by many Westonites, that the Newton-Waltham Bank & Trust Company opened its office on the Boston Post Road in the building formerly occupied by the Waltham Trust Company. This entire area has grown greatly during these 10 years and this growth has been refletced in the bank. In February of 1954 it became necessary to expand and the bank moved into part of the building that at one time was the Weston Post Office.

For the celebration, Mr. George L. White, newly-elected President and other officers and directors will be on hand to greet the Bank's friends in this area. Tea will be served with Mrs. Charles O. Richardson and members of the Women's Advisory Committee presiding. Gifts will be presented as memos of the occasion.

On the staff of the Weston office are Richard F. Lincoln, Assistant Treasurer, Miss Carol Lloyd of Wayland and Miss Edna Precourt, Miss Jean Cahill and Mrs. Richard Naughton of Weston.

Zabilski To Speak At Win, Lose, Draw

WESTON — Joseph Zabiliski, football and basketball coach of Northeastern University, is to be the speaker at the Win - Lose - Draw dinner of the Weston Boosters Club, to be held Thursday evening, Dec. 1, at Weston High School.

Besides being an outstanding coach, Mr. Zabilski is also one of the best known after dinner speakers in New England.

The Club says the purpose of the dinner is to show the boys and girls of the football and field hockey squads that the Town is behind them all the way, no matter how the games come out.

Mr. Harry Ferries, president of the club, says tickets are available at Weston High School, and he urges people to get them early. Those who can't attend are asked to buy tickets for boys or girls.

Weston High Notes

Mr. Harold Putnam, Needham's representative to the Massachusetts Legislature, spoke to the seniors and juniors on Massachusetts Constitution Day, Oct. 25, which this year marked the 175th birthday of our Constitution. Mr. Putnam, introduced by Barbara Rushforth, gave a very interesting talk emphasizing the role of John Adams, the father of our State Constitution, and pointing out the ways in which this set pattern for the Federal Constitution, especially in the arca of civil rights, Mr. Putnam came as a representative of the Massachusetts Bar Assocaition, and his talk was part of the program worked out by Mr. Albert West, Chairman of the Legislative Committee concerned with the celebration of the anniversary.

Connie Maguire Was First To Land A Plane In Wayland

Mr. Maguire will round out 30 consecutive years on the Wayland School Committee in 1957.

By CAROL FOSTER

"Wayland's lack of a good educational plant could go on indefinitely if people don't cooperate in giving the children a good start," says Cornelius J. Maguire, chairman of the Wayland School Committee, who is now serving his 29th year as a member of the Committee. His term will expire in March, 1957.

"There could be a million different opinions on the Engelhardt Report, but the facts are there, and we can't afford to be stubborn about them. The situation is serious. There will be at least 100 children coming into first grade who can't be properly taken care of as things stand now. The question is not where but how we're going to do it."

Work Has Tripled

Mr. Maguire says he "appreciates the value of a good education probably as much as anyone in the world". For this reason, since someone "talked (him) into" running for the School Committee, he has devoted himself to this job for the Town and now has the Town record for longest continuous public service in one elective job.

During June and July Mr. Maguire, with William A. Waldron and John G. Butler, members of the Wayland School Committee, met three evenings a week interviewing candidates for the school superintendency. In their effort to see all who were recommended, they interviewed some 40 candidates. When they wanted to reach Edward Anderson after this interviewing, they had to call Connecticut via Albany because of the hurricane. Mr. Maguire is somewhat used to such complications as he has helped select the past five superintendents for the Wayland Schools. During the past few years the work of the School Committee has tripled, along with the size of the school population.

Mr. Maguire attended the Cochituate School himself, going through nine grades in eight years, and was graduated from Wayland High School, class of 1913. He played football and baseball, going on to become shortstop of the Worcester Club team, New England League. He says his interest in athletics kept him in town with school affairs between graduation and joining the School Committee. During summers Mr. Maguire was night phone operator and during the day, a hod carrier for Everett W. Small of Concord Road.

World War I Flyer

After High School, Mr. Maguire was graduated from Cornell University School of Aeronautics and in primary flying from Payne Field, West Point. He was commissioned a pilot in the signal corps, which before the start of the U.S. Air Forces, was in charge of military flying. He did secondary flying at Call Field, Wichita Falls, Texas, and went on to aerial combat training at Talliaferro Field, Fort Worth, Texas. At that time his commanding officer was Major, now General, Carl A. Spaatz.

Mr. Maguire became Chief Instructor at the Garrison School at Talliaferro, and commanding officer of the Flying School Detachment there. He then went to Hazelhurst Field, Long Island, and was a pilot in the third Aero Squadron, U.S. Army Air Service, First Provisional Wing.

After World War I, Mr. Maguire became chief pilot for the Lynnway Aerial Transportation Company, holding Massachusetts pilot license number three, issued in 1921. He still has it. He was the first person to land a plane in Wayland. At one time he parked his plane at Loker farm in Cochituate, and one day around 1923, flew his sister to High Schol. Mr. Maguire was engaged in commercial and private flying until 1954.

Mr. Maguire took night classes at Northeastern University in structural engineering, and for 30 years has been associated with J. J. Prindiville Construction Co. in Framingham. He has been variously timekeeper, cost clerk, paymaster, foreman, superintendent, estimating engineer, architect, construction bidder, and fire loss appraiser, and has dealt with leases, rentals and residential and summer colony developments.

Lives on the Lake

In July, 1953, Mr. Maguire married Doris G. Currier, of Natick. She had then been teaching fifth grade at the Cochituate School for 18 years, and continued to teach for a time after her marriage. The Maguires live on Maguire Road in Cochituate, on a high point overlooking the lake. Mr. Maguire says the southwest breeze off the lake makes it 10 degrees cooler on their side of the lake than anywhere else around. Because he wanted to live there, he acquired and developed the property near Parkland Drive. He also found himself in a similar situation with his land on Bear Island in Lake Winnipesaukee.

Until back trouble grounded him, Mr. Maguire enjoyed flying his Cessna 170, which he kept at Marlboro, to Winnipesaukee, and says he and Mrs. Maguire prefer flying to driving when they can. Mr. Maguire has owned two planes jointly with Dr. Norman R. Nathanson of Natick, an oral surgeon and former Navy flyer whom Mr. Maguire met when he rented Dr. Nathanson an office in Framingham.

When Mr. Maguire served on the Town's first Planning Board in 1928, there were no Town maps so he got some aerial photographs of the Town and Everett M. Brooks, Civil Engineer, was hired to begin mapping the town.

The schools were at Cochituate and the Center. The area of land on which the High School is located was given to the Town by some public-spirited citizens, led by Edmund Sears. The first section of the High School was built in 1932. Happy Hollow School was the next addition to the plant.

Sees Money Problem

The present per pupil cost in Wayland is around $300.00 per year. This represents 40 per cent of the total cost to the Town of an average home. The remaining cost includes police, fire protection and other Town services, Mr. Maguire says. Many properties are therefore an expense to the Town when several school children are involved.

During the past few years there has been discussion of the present Town appraisal system, conducted by three elected assessors. In Mr. Maguire's opinion, the cost of hiring an outside firm of evaluators for a complete survey of the Town, which would have to be redone every five years or so to keep it up to date, would be about equal to the cost of having a full time assessor. But he feels that would not be a solution to the Town's tax problems. Business and industrial areas are needed because "a bedroom Town doesn't pay the tax bills."

In June, 1953, Mr. Maguire organized a 40th reunion of the Wayland High School class of 1913. All 12 members returned for the occasion. There were eight girls and four boys in the class, which included Robert L. Moore, organizer and now treasurer of the Sheraton Hotel Corporation, Alfred Davieau, who has just retired as Superintendent of the U.S. Conditioning and Testing Corporation, and Malcolm E. Morell, who has been Athletic Director of Bowdoin College for more than 25 years. "The class has done well", says Mr. Maguire, "And we were well prepared, for those days."

Mr. Maguire wants to see to it that children are as well prepared as they can be. At this point the School Committee is trying to locate four more needed classrooms for next year. "We put Weston on the spot this year," Mr. Maguire says, "because the situation became especially difficult because of polio. The Weston school officials were wonderful."

Junior Town House Dance Series Dates

WAYLAND — The Junior Town House Friday evening dance series will begin this month. Mrs. John Baldwin of Wayland is again in charge of this series and will be assisted this year by Mrs. Allen Barker, of Wayland, who will instruct ballroom dancing. Mike Belson's orchestra will play.

Square dancing will alternate with ballroom in both series, which includes the 5th and 6th grades, one dance a month, 7:45 - 8:45 p. m. and 7th and 8th grades every other Friday, 8:00 - 10:00 p. m. Dick and Beth Best of Wayland will be callers and orchestra for the 5th and 6th grade square dances.

Last year there were around 100 children in each group from Cochituate, Wayland and Sudbury. Invitations are sent through the schools in these towns. All dances will be held at the Happy Hollow School, with the exception of the first dance in the 5th-6th grade series which will be held at the Wayland High School gym.

Dates are — for the 5th-6th grades: Nov. 18, square dance at Wayland High; Dec. 2, ballroom at Happy Hollow; Jan. 6, square at Happy Hollow; Feb. 3, ballroom; March 2, square; April 13, ballroom, and May 4, square.

The 7th-8th grade series will begin with ballroom dancing Nov. 11. Nov. 25 will be square dancing, Dec. 9, ballroom; Dec. 23, square; Jan. 13, ballroom; Jan. 27, square; Feb. 10, ballroom; Feb. 24, square; March 9, ballroom; March 23, square; April 6, ballroom; April 20, square, and May 11, ballroom.

Free X-Rays And Diabetes Tests For Weston

The Boards of Health of Weston and Wellesley are giving an opportunity to the citizens of each Town to obtain free chest X-rays and screening tests for diabetes during the week of Nov. 14, which is set aside as National Diabetes Detection Week.

A mobile X-ray unit will be located in Wellesley on Tuesday, Nov. 15, outside the Board of Health office, 324 Washington Street, Wellesley Hills, from 9:00 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., and at the corner of Washington and Grove Streets, Wellesley, adjacent to the Newton Savings Banks, from 2:00 p. m. to 7:00 p. m. Registration with the Board of Health or the Public Health Nurse at the Country Day School, is desirable in advance.

NATICK—General Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, visited the Quartermaster Research and Development Command's new laboratory at Natick last month and was photographed discussing a new insulated boot with Robert L. Woodbury of 336 North Avenue, Weston, who's a Quartermaster Command military analyst. Mr. Woodbury moved to Weston a few months ago.

Wayland Had 85% Of Quota By Oct. 31

WAYLAND — Wayland had raised 85 per cent of its Community Fund quota of $9,800 by the first report luncheon of the Greater Boston Community Fund on Oct. 31. Francis W. Hatch of Wayland, Chairman of the Greater Boston Red Feather campaign, announced that the drive had reached 38.4 per cent of its total goal at that time. Only Dover and Arlington had raised a greater percentage than Wayland.

Fritz Walther, Town chairman of Wayland and Cochituate, urges all to remember that "the last 15 per cent is the hardest", and wishes to thank the more than 200 persons who have been working on the drive here. There are more than ever before working on the drive in Wayland and Cochituate, giving the Town second place in organization enrollment in the West metropolitan area. This is the second year that Wayland and Cochituate, who have a single Town government, have had a joint Community Fund drive.

In addition to other drive chairmen, whose names have been previously published in the Crier, are Miss Mabel Draper, school chairman, and Mrs. Theodore Parker, club chairman.

Wayland Republicans Hear Mrs. Newman

WAYLAND—More than 150 Wayland and Sudbury Republicans gathered at the High School cafeteria on Nov. 1 for a buffet supper and a discussion of the recent session of the Legislature by Mrs. Edwin B. Newman of Cambridge.

Mrs. Frederick S. Whiteside, chairman of the Wayland Republican Town Committee, presided. She introduced State Senator Charles Olson, Rep. James DeNormandie and the Wayland State Committeewoman, Mrs. Thomas B. Gannett.

Mrs. Newman, a member of the State Parole Board, is a former State Representative from Cambridge and now serves as legislative assistant to House Minority Leader Charles Gibbons. She emphasized the importance of election work done in the precincts and said no district should ever be considered safe for either party.

Mrs. Victor Carr and Mrs. Bruce Kingsbury were co-chairman of the dinner committee, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Grannis, Mrs. Philip Lane and Mrs. Richard Lincoln and Mrs. Frank Kilburn. Wayland Republicans interested in joining the group are urged to call Mrs. Whiteside at OL 3-4323.

of English — Whose Responsibility?"

A Thought

It was wagons that opened the West to grow,
Rich with families by hearthsides glow;
Families who toiled through daylight hours,
To build the great future we know as ours.

Now we'll keep faith with those stalwarts of old,
By building our future for others to hold;
Community service is surely one way,
So give to Red Feather and do it today.

For here at home there's work to do,
To build that future, youth needs you!

— Theodore R. Magoun

The Bowdoin College Glee Club will give a concert at the new Natick High School Auditorium on Saturday evening, Nov. 19, for the benefit of the Natick Rotary Scholarship Fund. Fred Maffeo is chairman of the Rotary Committee in charge, and other committee members are Bill Allison, Al Hodgson, Bob Fairbanks and Gene Murphy.

Chester A. Arthur Never Had It So Good, Or—

You, Too, Can Build a Town Building

You, too, can build a Town building.

First, you think up what you want it for.

Then you figure out an argument you think will go down.

Then you get a site committee.

This committee will go out on Sunday mornings and case the whole community. Its members will fall into swamps, get hung up on brambles, be viewed with suspicion by property owners and tend to wrangle among themselves.

Having picked a site, you have the committee bring it into Town Meeting.

Interested citizens who have heretofore never heard of the project will immediately rise to say the site is no good. It's too hot, too cold, too wet, too dry, too expensive, too near a cocktail lounge, too near a school, too far from transportation, too near Tierra Del Fuego. In short, it will be pointed out that it is about the worst site possible.

In addition, somebody will want to know where the money is coming from and what's the effect on the tax rate.

After the site is finally picked—this may take from 10 to 25 years—you appoint a building committee.

This committee will waste its time hiring an architect, visiting similar buildings in other communities, studying building materials, trying to get the most for the least and sitting up late nights for a year or so.

When your committee has a set of plans all prepared, you make them public and ask everybody in Town for suggestions. Nobody will open his mouth. Chief sign of interest will be a sniff or two.

Somebody will remark to a friend, not to the committee, "They didn't have such things in the Chester A. Arthur Administration."

Then you call a public hearing to explain the proposition and answer questions. Nobody shows up, on account of the bad weather. Seems a cloud passed over the face of the moon that evening and besides, it was dark.

Then you have the committee bring the building plans into Town Meeting.

That's when you find out what's wrong with the building.

Wrong style entirely. Should be early American, not modern.

Faces the wrong way. Should face the Town pump, not the hog reeve's office.

Hot top driveway is wrong. Should be brickwork, with a design showing the Town seal and maybe a wreath of lucky horseshoes.

Plumbing all wrong. What do we need gold knobs for?

And you get questions.

What was the committee thinking of?

Is it true that this will put $12 on the tax rate?

Did the architect see you coming?

What's the committee's excuse for not making a house-to-house canvass, getting everybody's ideas?

Why didn't the committee get a bid on second-hand bricks?

Move to pass over the Article.

You, too, can build a Town building, but maybe next year or the year after that.—D. B. W.

Mary L. Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew Kelly of 226 Summer Street, and Cynthia Adams, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Warren P. Adams of 59 Wellesley Street, both of Weston, are students at the Chandler School for Women, 448 Beacon Street, Boston.

Miss MaryJane Hartmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Hartmann of 15 Ferndale Road, Weston, represented her dormitory, Bates Hall, on the committees for the recent production of an original musical revue, "In a Pickle", presented by the Junior class at Wellesley College.

The Bradford Junior College Club of Boston held its first luncheon meeting of the season at the Weston Country Club on Nov. 1. Dean Frederick C. Ferry Jr. told the alumnae about the new speech laboratory building.

Weston High Notes

In a recent series of meetings Mr. John W. Zorn, Chairman of the English Department, served as consultant for the Communication Arts Department of Boston University Junior College under the direction of Dr. Glen Wilcox. Mr. Zorn aided in the correlation of the reading, writing and speaking activities program.

On Monday, Oct. 24, the high school marked the tenth anniversary of the United Nations by a morning program conducted over the school's public address system. The large display case in the front lobby was decorated with posters and a replica of the U.N. building in New York, made by students in a previous year. Books and pamphlet material on the United Nations and the problems with which it deals were also on display.

Thanks to the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company, the Weston High School will receive for the school year of 1955-56 all of the materials of the Chronicle Guidance Publications, Inc., of Moravia, N. Y. This service, worth $30.00, includes several hundred up-to-date articles on occupations as well as bulletins containing scholarship announcements and a number of educational posters.

The senior class, who had addressed a get-well card to our President in Denver, received an engraved card of thanks from the White House in Denver, signed by Mrs. Eisenhower.

Try-outs have been completed and the cast named for the high school's forthcoming performance of a 'different" mystery play, Ladies in Retirement. Mr. John Zorn, Chairman of the English Department, is Director of the production and will conduct the rehearsals. The cast:

Lucy—Sandra Cunningham
Ellen—Joanna Bartlett
Leonora—Suzanne Wilson
Emily—Judi Wilkinson
Louisa—Judy Wetzel
Nun—Carol Raynor
Albert—Martin Pollock
Bates—Richard Cahill
Detectives—Craig James and Robert Murray

Members of the student production committees:

Assistant Directors: Nancy Nichols and Andrea Sullivan.

Stage Managers: Peter Rayner and Thomas Malamud.

Assistant Stage Managers: Lorna Seavey and Carolyn Wheeler.

Properties: Martha Conrad, Nancy Foster, Valerie Sawyer, Chairman, and Sally Richardson.

Costumes: Nancy Wilkes, Chairman, Priscilla Colter, Eleanor Farar and Anna Melone.

Stage Committee: Barbara Haywood and Mary Jane Graves.

Elizabeth Hancock of Davelin Road, Wayland, with three colleagues, presented a program of songs and arias which was broadcast over WGBH-FM from Jordan Hall, New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, on Nov. 9.

The pleasant sunken lawn in front of the Weston Town House was a swamp 40 years ago, old timers say.

Community Chorus To Write Cook Book

One of the remembered highlights of the Fall Social Season for the Community Chorus members will be the delightful evening spent at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Walter T. Goodale in Weston. Sherry preceded a casserole dinner brought and prepared by various members of the Chorus. Coffee was served by Evelyn Campbell, our hospitality chairman, and others who graciously assisted her.

For background music we listened to recordings of the Messiah and the Brahms German Requiem and Liebeslieder Waltzes taken from previous concerts of the Chorus.

It was unanimously agreed that the recipes for the many excellent casseroles should be gathered and printed under the heading of "The Chorus Casserole Cookbook". We hope to have it ready before Christmas.

Chairs being gathered from all corners of the house, we completed the evening with our usual Monday rehearsal. Although the Goodale children did not get much sleep that night they enjoyed the concert. We hope any near neighbors did too. — Mari Dengler.

Stolen Hydrant Tops Halloween Mischief

Halloween characters dumped a hydrant on a lawn in Wayland, played with toll road illumination bombs in Weston and pulled three false alarms in Cochituate, but otherwise organized activities kept the youngsters occupied and little real damage was done.

Mrs. Charles E. Potter of Winthrop Road, Wayland, woke up on the morning of Oct. 29 to find a big yellow hydrant on her lawn. She called the Wayland Water Department, and it was all that two Water Department men could do to drag it away and put it in a truck. It was not a Wayland hydrant. Mr. Potter used to be a Wayland Water Commissioner.

Somebody in Weston went bowling with some of those basketball-size oil bombs used for lights beside road work. One or more rolled under a work shed, and the Weston Fire Department was called.

Early on the morning of Oct. 31 three false alarms were pulled in Cochituate, the first one just before 1 a. m., the next an hour later and the third a little after 2 a. m. Wayland police say they know darned well who did it, but they didn't catch them in the act.

Camp at Parmenter

COCHITUATE — Thirty-eight Cochituate Boy Scouts attended the Mohawk District Camporee at Parmenter Reservation, Sudbury, Friday night and all day Saturday, Oct. 21-22.

The scouts pitched camp Friday in the dark and had a campfire with songs and stories. Rain in the night made things seem as usual and although it was very cold everyone came through all right.

On Saturday there was competition between patrols of participating troops on campcraft and scouting skills. The spirit of Davy Crockett was recaptured in a game of Indians and Pioneers. After a campfire with all the campers, the Cochituate Scouts left for home with parents and members of the troop committee.

Ray Giles and Dick Irwin were adult leaders for the camporee, assisted by Explorer Leaders David Furst, Brendan Woods and James Brown.

Cochituate Boy Scouts had a Halloween Party at the Cochituate School on Oct. 26. Mr. M. Langsburg of the Quartermaster Depot talked on "Foul Weather Gear" and a motion picture was shown. Games and entertainment were planned by Exp. Scout R. Brown.

Wayland League of Women Voters

The October units of the Wayland League of Women Voters were concerned with individual liberties. Chairman Muriel Flood reports substantial agreement that some sort of security risk program is necessary, but the danger of infringing on the individual's civil rights needs safeguarding. In this regard, many felt that Security Board hearings should be conducted in privacy. Mrs. Bruce Kingsbury, chairman of the Local Item, reported on the Board of Assessors. Mrs. Kemp Reade will report on the School Committee at November units.

The subject matter for November unit discussion will be presented by Mrs. A. S. MacMillan, Legislation Chairman, and will give information on legislation coming up in the Massachusetts General Court in 1956 pertinent to League study. Hostesses for these units will be: Nov. 15, morning, Mrs. Kemp Reade; evening, Mrs. Robert Cummings; Nov. 16, morning, Mrs. William Hammond, evening, Mrs. Ray Harris.

4H Boys Plant Tree In Honor of U.N.

COCHITUATE—In honor of the 10th anniversary of the United Nations, members of the Cochituate Garden Club and of the 4H Garden Club planted a flowering dogwood tree at one corner of the Cochituate Library and Fire Station on Oct. 24.

Paul Cheslak, Robert Berry and Thomas Irwin did the work, while members of the Wayland Park Department and George "Pop" Fullick and Mrs. William Irwin Jr., representing the Garden Club, looked on.

New Neighbors—Wayland

Rev. Donald S. Ewing, new minister of the Trinitarian Congregational Church, settled in the parsonage on Cochituate Road. He comes from Greenfield, N. H.

Congo Bazaar Nov. 18, 19 — Carl deSuze Nov. 25

WAYLAND — The Trinitarian Congregational Church will hold on Nov. 18 and 19 its Holiday Bazaar, featured by an auction, sales of all sorts of stuff, movies, games and pony rides for children, and door prizes every half hour.

The affair begins at 6:30 Friday night, Nov. 18, with an auction in Fellowship Hall. The snack bar will be open all evening.

On the 19th, the doors will open at 10:30 a. m. On sale will be home made foods, hand made gifts, white elephant bric-a-brac, plants, candy and other goods. The snack bar will be open all day.

Everything winds up with a harvest supper, to be served from 4:30 to 7 p. m. Saturday evening. Adults, 99 cents, children, 50 cents.

* * *

Carl deSuze, author, lecturer and radio announcer, will speak in Wayland High School auditorium on Nov. 25, under the sponsorship of the Men's Club of the Trinitarian Congregational Church, on

CARL deSUZE

"Crossing the Time Bridge". He will show colored movies and stills taken on his recent trip through Yugoslavia, Greece and the Near East. Tickets, $1 for adults and 50 cents for students under 16.

* * *

The Fall meeting of the Women's Fellowship of the Trinitarian Congregational Church will be held at 2 p. m. Nov. 15. The speaker will be Mrs. Ralph Shrader, well known in Newton church groups, whose topic will be "How Far Can You Reach?" Devotions will be led by Mrs. Robert Charnock. The Martha Circle will serve tea.

"Women's Guild" Formed At First Baptist Church

WESTON — Three previous organizations of women at the First Baptist Church have combined to form the "Women's Guild of the First Baptist Church in Weston". Meetings are to be held at the church on the second Tuesday of the month, usually in the evening.

Officers elected:

Mrs. Lineoln Smith, president; Mrs. Joseph Crowe, vice president; Mrs. Gordon Littlehale, vice president of missions and Christian service; Mrs. Leonard Hall, secretary, and Mrs. C. Francis Whittemore, treasurer.

Three chairmen will serve with the vice president of missions and Christian service: Mrs. Donald Pollock, Love Gift; Mrs. Stephen Colpitts, White Cross, and Mrs. Guy Akers, Christian Relations and Chairman.

The Guild is presently divided into three circles. Circle 1 meets at the church from 10:30 a. m. to 3 p.m., probably on the second Wednesday of the month. Circle 2 will meet in private homes from 9:30 a. m. to 12 noon on the first Tuesday of the month, and Circle 3 will meet in private homes at 8 p. m. on the third Friday.

History of 2 Cochituate Churches Told at Meeting

COCHITUATE — Miss Joann Brown gave a talk on the history of the Cochituate Community Methodist Church and Mrs. Arthur H. Dudley told about the history of St. Zepherin's Church in Cochituate at the Oct. 21 meeting of the WSCS of the Community Church.

Fifty members and guests were present. The talks came after a business meeting conducted by Mrs. W. Harrison Ware, the president.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Edgar Lawrence, Mrs. Robert Hatton, Mrs. Edward Peatfield, Mrs. Lief Hansen and Mrs. Herbert Schliecher.

Community League Morning Coffees

WESTON — Many Community League members graciously opened their homes to newcomers in Weston during the months of October and November. Mrs. Kimball A. McMillin of Webster Road gave a coffee Oct. 26 for Mrs. Walter Goodale, Mrs. Floyd Wilson, Mrs. Carl S. Hoar, Jr., Mrs. Harrison Ripley, Mrs. Lyman Smith and Mrs. Robert Shaw.

Mrs. George N. Chamberlain, Jr., President of the League, Mrs. Lewis W. Mustard III, Vice-President, Mrs. Charles G. Ball, Membership Chairman, Mrs. Edward R. Langenbach and Mrs. Frank L. Hitchcock, Board members, were present to welcome the guests.

On Tuesday, Oct. 25, Mrs. Richard B. Fowler and Mrs. Alfred L. Backstrom gave a coffee at Mrs. Fowler's home on Glen Road. Mrs. Manson Benedict, Chairman of Arts and Activities for the Community League, was present to help welcome the following new residents: Mrs. Frederick Link, Mrs. L. Charles Biggin, Mrs. Wyman Shaw, Mrs. Nelson R. Richardson, Mrs. Clayton Colcord, Mrs. Raymond Smith, Mrs. Harry Dean, Mrs. Hillary Smart, Mrs. F. E. Knox, and Mrs. Roy Palmer.

Friday, Oct. 28, Mrs. Joseph B. Hartwell of Conant Road, Mrs. Alfred R. Crampton and Mrs. Everett A. Shekleton were hostesses at Mrs. Hartwell's home to a large group, including Mrs. Logan Field, Mrs. W. A. Merdinyan, Mrs. J. L. Wilson, Mrs. Richard Allbrecht, Mrs. Herbert Nelson, Mrs. Peter Mansfield, Mrs. Edwin Woodland, Mrs. Charles Curry, Mrs. Eric Franzen, Mrs. Harvey Roberts, Mrs. Robert Bernard, Mrs. Edward Clark, Mrs. Henry Lehne and Mrs. Robert D. Murray.

On Nov. 3, Mrs. Edwin Weidig gave a coffee and on Nov. 4, Mrs. John H. Underhill, Jr., of Irving Road, entertained new residents in her neighborhood.

Cornerstone of New Wayland Electronics Plant Is Laid

WAYLAND—The cornerstone of the new building of the Waters Manufacturing Company on the State Road at the Sudbury line was laid with simple ceremonies on Nov. 14. Commissioner Richard O. Preston of the Massachusetts Department of Commerce wielded the trowel and President Robert A. Waters of the company told how it had grown.

Mr. Waters welcomed the two score guests. Rev. Ernest Bodenweber Jr., pastor of the Sudbury Congregational Church, gave the benediction. John W. Leavitt, chairman of the Wayland Selectmen, was on the program to speak for the Town. Commissioner Preston was introduced by Charles O Monahan, general counsel for W: ters Manufacturing, Inc.

The building covers 10,000 square feet, on the South side of the State Road, next to Atkins & Merrill.

Mr. Waters said his company, which makes electronic measuring devices, was established 10 years ago in a "hole in the wall" in Waltham. It kept outgrowing its accommodations, until, less than a year ago it was decided to move it to New Hampshire.

Commissioner Preston heard of this decision to leave, he said, and within six weeks his Department had located this three-acre site. It was bought at once.

"We are delighted with Wayland," said Mr. Waters. "We mean to stay here and try to be good citizens of the Town."

About 70 per cent of the Waters controls are bought by aviation companies. The company has sales offices in New York City, Chicago, Los Angeles, Dayton, Detroit, Clearwater, Fla., and Toronto, Canada. Mr. Waters often flies himself in the company airplane to visit these offices.

The company now has 100 employes, including a number of residents of Wayland and 20 past the age of 60. A Massachusetts Department of Commerce release says the Department has been told that within a year the company will probably have 200 employes, with an expected payroll of $500,000.

It was said that the plant should be completed and open for business in February.

Wayland Wins It In The Snow, 18 to 0

Wayland High, which happened to have it this year, beat Weston, 18 to 0, in the snow at Bowditch Field, Framingham, on the afternoon of Nov. 19, to wind up an excellent season for Wayland and an indifferent one for Weston.

Weston won the band contest, one band to none.

The snow began just before the game did, and continued all afternoon. The players slipped and slid all over. Cold fingers caused dropped passes and the bad going caused tackled ball carriers to skid on their noses.

Wayland won on two passes for touchdowns from Fred Tassinari to Paul Bradley, and one two-yard plunge by George Bradley.

In spite of the snow, all the traditional zip connected with the game was present. Prominent citizens showed up on both sides of the field, the cheerleaders screamed their heads off, and the boys played their best. And everybody managed to have a good time at the dances held at both High Schools that night.

The Boston Herald said 1000 attended the game.

The Boston Globe's line-up:

WAYLAND — Le, Willard, Senory; lt, Keating; lg, Woods, Fichter; c, Richardson; rg, Thorpe; rt, Marotte; re, P. Bradley, Thorburn; qb, Tassinari; lh, G. Bradley; rh, Parker, and fb, Houghton.

WESTON—Re, Jones; rt, Donaldson; rg, Coburn, Murray; c, Gates; lg, Lawson, Hallett; lt, Gilman; le, W. Healey; qb, Howell; rt, K. Healey; lh, Cahill, Dunn; fb, T. Healey.

Jim Piersall in Weston, A Magician in Wayland

Jim Piersall, Red Sox outfielder, is scheduled to appear in person at Triple "A" market in Weston at 2 p.m. Friday, Nov. 25, to give autographs and draw baseball equipment to be given to some lucky kid.

And at Capps Market in Wayland "Norell", the magician, will entertain and a rabbit will be drawn from a hat and given to a child, on Dec. 1 at 3:30 p.m.

Glacial Clay Is Dug From Winter Street

COCHITUATE—In the course of the job of rebuilding Winter Street, Wayland Highway Department workers under the direction of Highway Surveyor Albert Potvin dug down deep and had a look at the glacial clay which has caused many drainage problems in this part of Town.

Winter Street, which has never had a surface, runs north from Commonwealth Road East (Route 30) northward for several hundred feet. Residents living along it had been troubled with water seepage.

The power shovel excavated to a depth of eight or nine feet, mostly through clay but partly through coarse sand. The clay stratum had apparently acted as a base through which surface water couldn't sink.

The material excavated was taken to the Town Dump on Cochituate Road, and the street was filled up with stones, broken rock and coarse gravel. It was hoped that water would sink through the new fill. When the job is finished the street will be surfaced.

Weston Children Find Long Distance Balloon

WESTON—Ann Molan, 11, and her brother, Lewis J. Molan, 10, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Molan of 36 Chestnut Street, got off the school bus near their home on Oct. 31 and found a radio sonde balloon, deflated, hanging from its red paper parachute, caught in a tree 20 to 25 feet above the ground. The radio box was undamaged.

The children knew what the thing was, because they had read about it in an article in their school science magazine. The only place the article mentioned was Lowry Air Force Base near Denver, Colorado, and the assumption was it must have come from there. The article also said there was a reward of $25 for return of such equipment. But there was nothing to show just where this thing did come from.

Mrs. Molan sent a card to Lowry, to see if she could find out more. Meanwhile, the Molans have custody of the unusual device.

Raytheon To Hold Open House Dec. 3

WAYLAND—The Raytheon engineering laboratory in Wayland is open and operating, with 1200 persons working in it, and three open houses are planned, to let everybody see it.

On Dec. 3, a Saturday, from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m., guided tours and open house for the public.

The building, begun Nov. 29, 1954, contains 225,000 feet of floor space, set on 73 acres.

Santa Claus Truck? See Postmaster Hynes

WAYLAND—Postmaster Thomas E. Hynes asks anybody who has a truck or other motor vehicle for hire to get in touch with him, for possible help in delivering Christmas mail. This is the first Christmas since the beginning of mail delivery in Wayland.

Mr. Hynes also issues the annual reminder to everybody to mail early. All local mail should be in by Dec. 19, he says.

On Christmas Day, which falls on Sunday, and on the next day, Monday, there will be no delivery of packages. Only special delivery letters will be handled.

Special Town Meeting In Weston, Dec. 5 or 12

WESTON—Weston Selectmen hope to hold a special Town Meeting on Monday evening, Dec. 5 or 12, to present a new building code for action and to offer two Articles calling for supplementary appropriations.

The Committee to Study Revision of Building By-Laws was appointed by the Moderator as a result of a vote taken at Town Meeting on March 22, 1954. The Committee has been working since August, 1954, and has now completed a revised building code to present to the Town.

One supplemental appropriation is for the School Department. It is said it was necessary, when hiring new teachers last Summer, to pay higher, competitive salaries.

The other Article calls for an appropriation for a survey of trees on private property, within 250 feet of shade trees on public property, which may be affected by the Dutch elm disease, and for a 50-50 split between the Town and private owners on the cost of removal of such trees as may be found infected.

Weston, it is reported, had its first confirmed case of an infected elm only in 1949 or 1950. Since then, eight or nine trees have been removed and burned on the Town dump each year. In 1955, nine infected trees have been found and eight of these have been destroyed. The Dutch elm disease Article comes up in December because Winter is the time to remove infected trees, before the bugs hatch in Spring.

Weston has escaped the Dutch elm trouble much more lightly than Wayland, which has lost scores of noble trees and bids fair to lose more.

Members of the building code revision committee are Maurice L. Upham, Marjorie N. Pierce, Hector J. Osmond, Walter H. Farrell and Douglas Mercer.

Ayers, DeNormandie Speak at Franklin

FRANKLIN — Five State Representatives and State Senator Charles W. Olson, representing 20 Towns of the Middlesex Norfolk District, and Republican State Chairman Elmer Nelson, participated in a panel discussion on Nov. 15 with citizens here. A number from Wayland and Weston attended.

The Representatives were Randall of Framingham, J. Robert Ayers of Weston, Nourse of Medfield, Amoroso of Natick and Jemes DeNormandie of Lincoln.

Questions were asked and answered about automobile insurance rates, the point system, the Crime Commission, the highway program and juvenile delinquency. Both citizens and legislators went away feeling they had learned from the exchanges.

A buffet supper was served before the meeting.

"One on the Town" To Help PTA Fund

WAYLAND—Music and scenes from "One on the Town", local musical put on by the Vokes Players last year, will be given again at Wayland High School auditorium at 8 p. m. on Dec. 9 for the benefit of the High School P.T.A. scholarship fund. Francis W. Hatch, author of the show, this year's Greater Boston Community Fund campaign chairman, will be narrator. The original cast will appear.

Thanksgiving Eve Service

WESTON—A Thanksgiving service sponsored by the Weston Council of Churches will be held at 8 p. m., Nov. 23, at the Methodist Church on North Avenue. Rev. Miles Hanson will speak.

County Commrs. Told About John Stone's Old Bridge

WAYLAND—Middlesex County Commissioners came to Wayland Town Hall on Nov. 8 to hold what they thought would be a routine hearing on replacing flood damaged Stone Bridge Road Bridge, and went away leaving the matter unsettled, after learning that the bridge is of considerable historical interest and that there is a plan on foot to preserve it.

The Wayland Historical Society and Wayside Chapter of the DAR asked the Commissioners not to destroy the bridge. A petition bearing 54 names was given to the Commissioners, saying it should be saved.

The bridge was built in 1722 of dry stone, without mortar, and is one of few of that type remaining. Moreover, it is the very structure over which passed the famous cannon from Ticonderoga, back in 1776, to drive the British out of Boston. Its real name is Stone's Bridge, not because it is made of stone but for John Stone, first settler in Framingham, whose house was just across the Sudbury River at this point.

The plan, in which State Representative James DeNormandie and many others have been interested, is to repair the bridge and leave it where it is, and dig a new channel to divert the river flow. In the Diane flood of last August the bridge acted as a dam, and that is one of the objections to it. In addition, it is too narrow for two automobiles to pass, and it is at the foot of two hills and curves.

With a diversion channel dug around one end of the bridge, there might be a wooden footbridge out to the old structure, plus perhaps a small park with picnic benches. Thus the old bridge might become an asset to State and Town, and the new, modern bridge might be built on foundations nearby. The happy idea would be to have the Commonwealth pay for it, since it's going to build the new bridge anyway.

Among those present at the hearing were County Commissioners Thomas B. Brennan of Medford and Herbert H. Applin of Watertown; Wayland Selectman Frank S. Tarr and Thomas F. Linnehan; Howard Hatch, County Engineer, and representatives of the Town of Framingham.

Among those who spoke in favor of saving the old bridge were former State Representative Howard S. Russell, Mrs. Susie K. Erwin of the D.A.R., Margaret Bent Morrell of the Historical Society, Mrs. Charles T. Morgan and Mr. George C. Lewis, the latter a consulting engineer who was formerly a Wayland Water Commissioner.

Mr. Lewis and Mr. Russell both said that visitors from the rest of the country come to New England to see antiquities, and that in other regions people would be much concerned to save such a relic.

The Commissioners said they would hold another meeting with Framingham authorities and would see State Representative James DeNormandie on his return from a vacation trip to Bermuda.

Stone Was The First Settler In Framingham

Originally the site of an old Indian fordway, this was the first bridge in Framingham, and was a horse bridge across the Sudbury River until 1674, when Samuel Howe, of the Wayside Inn family, built a cart bridge to replace it.

According to the brochure of places of historical interest, issued by the Framingham Historical Society, the present four-arched stone structure was built in 1722, and was known as the "New Bridge." No mortar was used in building it. It was entirely dry-laid, each stone fitted on top of another.

It received the name of Stone's Bridge, not from its material, but from the fact that John Stone owned all the land in that vicinity. He had emigrated from Cambridge to Wayland, then Sudbury Plantation, in 1639. With true pioneer spirit, he pushed on into the wilderness in 1646, and built his house on the west bank of the river, where he found rich pasturage. This spot was near the spring, a few rods from the present bridge. He was the first white man to settle on Framingham soil.

The Winter of 1776, when Boston was held by the British, General Henry Knox overcame almost unsurmountable difficulties on his rescue mission of bringing artillery for the siege of that city.

After the fall of Ticonderoga, he brought the cannon captured there, to Boston, on 40 heavily loaded sleds drawn by 80 yokes of oxen.

He struggled down through Springfield to Framingham with his cannon train. He was to have come through Marlboro on the Post Road and continued on this road to Boston, but scouts from Southborough reported that the British were planning to intercept them on this route. So they showed the officers a byroad unknown to the enemy, from Fayville through the woods to Nixon Road. During the stop in Framingham, the train was parked along Belknap Road, the line probably beginning at the Pike-Haven house and extending along part of Edgell Road and Brook Street.

Tradition states that Stone's Bridge was the only one in the vicinity strong enough to carry the heavy cannon train, so it passed over the bridge, down Old Connecticut Path, past the marker at Five Paths, Wayland, erected by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in 1927 to commemorate this event, and thence through Weston to Cambridge.

General Knox delivered the train to General Washington in time to force the British to evacuate Boston.

So Stone's Bridge contributed its bit to American history and the preservation of Boston. Let's preserve the bridge. — Margaret Bent Morrell.

WCRB Invites Chorus To Make Recordings

Radio Station WCRB in Waltham has approached the Community Chorus of Weston, Wayland and Sudbury about making some recordings for its Good Listening program next year.

The chorus will present its ninth Christmas concert next month in the Wayland High School. The program will be Handel's Messiah, with soloists and orchestra.

Principal objective of the group, direrted by Chester W. Williams, dean of the New England Conservatory of Music, is to bring fine choral music to these communities. This is accomplished by giving two concerts a year free of charge and to which the entire family is invited.

In order to make this possible it has been necessary for the chorus to receive financial assistance through voluntary contributions.

Persons interested may make their contributions in the following categories: Sustaining member, $10 or more; Sponsor, $5; or Business Patron. Checks may be mailed to Malcolm E. Berrett, 8 Timber Lane, Cochituate.

Forest and Trail Hike, Sunday, Dec. 4

WESTON—The Weston Forest and Trail Association is to have a Sunday afternoon walk on Dec. 4, weather permitting, in the interesting section North of the Boston Post Road, then North of Stony Brook. Leader will be Mr. John Brooks 2d, and the group will meet at his home, 178 Boston Post Road, at 2 p.m. After the walk there will be tea with Mr. and Mrs. John G. Brooks.

Date Keeper Needed— The Crier Will Try

In spite of the publication of advance dates of events in both Weston and Wayland, conflicts have continued to occur and The Crier has been asked to serve as a clearing house for such dates.

Nobody has ever solved this problem, but the Crier will acquire two big calendars, one for each Town, and will put thereon each date communicated to it. If every organization sends in its proposed dates, this may help. To determine conflicts, an organization thinking of scheduling an event might only have to call WA 5-4290-J and ask what the calendar said.

The dates, even for routine events, should obviously be sent in far in advance. An example: Town Meeting dates for March. And the success of the effort would have to depend on almost 100 per cent cooperation by the organizations concerned.

Shown above are tumbler, champagne-sherbet, and cordial glasses in fine Swedish Crystal. Cocktail and wine glasses are also available in the same distinctive shape, all 1.25 each.

Double Sessions Certain In '56, Says the Expert

WAYLAND—The Wayland school system will lack room for 270 pupils next September, it was revealed on the evening of Nov. 10, when Dr. Nicholas Engelhardt, the "outside expert", answered questions about his report to a meeting of between 200 and 300 citizens.

The most encouraging thing he said was that if architects could be given plans by Jan. 1, the needed space could be under contract by May 1, and that double sessions might be necessary for only three or four months in the Fall.

Otherwise, the prospect is that the elementary schools will have to have both morning and afternoon sessions throughout the 1956-1957 school year, he said.

In general, Dr. Engelhardt defended his report.

He said the Sandy Burr site for a Senior High School is one of the best he has seen for a long time. "It has everything," he said. However, in reply to a question, he said that the land across the street from Sandy Burr, at the sharp curve on Cochituate Road, is "usable". He said that utilizing it would necessitate changes in the road, and he said that the lowland would be a little more difficult to reach. He said he rated Sandy Burr the Number 1 site and the one across the road Number 2.

To the question, "Wouldn't it be better to build an addition to Happy Hallow School than to transport children out of Town to school?" he returned:

"Why did you ever let yourself get in a position where you have to send children out of Town? But that sounds like scolding, and that doesn't get us anywhere."

(Two rooms of Wayland children are being accommodated in Weston. However, it was said, this room will not be available next year.)

Dr. Engelhardt said Wayland is going to need nine new classrooms in September, 1956.

Somebody asked whether portable schools would meet the emergency. He said portable schools would cost from $15,000 to $20,000 apiece, and there would be no State aid. Moreover, he said, the general experience has been that once the portable schools are put into use, they tend to stay there.

Asked again about the addition to Happy Hollow, he said he thought the Happy Hollow community or neighborhood was already well taken care of, and that it would be fairer to provide the next facilities in other parts of the Town. He spoke strongly in favor of small schools as centers of community life, and condemned the "mass production type of factory" in which the individual pupil may get lost.

He said each elementary school site should be of about 15 acres, a Junior High site of 25 to 30 acres, and a Senior High site larger. Of the latter, he said, "If you take a 40-acre site, later on somebody will ask, 'Why didn't you take 50 acres?'"

Dr. Engelhardt said he picked the Claypit Hill Road site, once rejected by a Town Meeting: "Because I thought it was the best and could be developed at least cost. Why in the world the community turned it down I can't see."

Somebody asked why the Happy Hollow plans couldn't be used again somewhere else. His answer to that was that while those plans fit the Happy Hollow site admirably, they probably would not fit a different site, in relation to roads, exposure, playgrounds or topography.

One expedient which has been used in rapidly growing towns, said Dr. Engelhardt, is to have the inside walls left out of new houses, which can then be rented by the community and used as small schools until regular schools can be finished. Then the contractor finishes up the houses and sells them.

Asked why standardized buildings can't be put on the sites, Dr. Engelhardt said it was because such buildings tend to deny the community the right to decide what's to go into the schools.

Asked whether Happy Hollow was an extravagant school, he said:

"In no sense. It's well planned. There is almost complete utilization of space. A good school. An attractive school. Color has been used well in it. In cost, it hits close to the middle figure."

At one point, Dr. Englehardt said dryly, "I was very fortunate in not knowing the ownership of any of the sites I proposed."

A question was, "Must we acquire all 10 sites at once?"

The answer:

"You have two already. You need four more elementary school sites, a new Senior High site and a new Junior High site. That's imperative. If you don't buy them while they're available, you'll pay much more for them later. The early acquisition of land is one of the greatest safeguards of a school situation. Two of the sites suggested are remote."

Jerry Joyce of the Center School P. T. O. introduced William A. Waldron of the School Committee, who presided.

CommunityLeague Morning Coffees

Members of the Membership Committee of the Women's Community League of Weston have been opening their homes for morning coffees through October and November to welcome new women residents in the Town and to tell them about the many Community League activities.

In October Mrs. Harold J. Adler of Merriam Street opened her home to welcome new residents: Mrs. Edmund Campbell, Mrs. Edgar J. Jones, Mrs. John Henzler and Mrs. Richard Larsen. Mrs. Richard A. Dobbins was co-hostess.

Mrs. George N. Chamberlain Jr., President of the League, Mrs. Charles G. Ball, Membership Chairman, Mrs. Thomas T. Craven, Vice Chairman of Memberhip and Mrs. Edward L. French, Program Chairman, were present, as well as Mrs. Arthur Barney and Mrs. George E. Bulwinkle.

Other hostesses include Mrs. George W. A. Hammond of the Boston Post Road, Mrs. L. B. Bishop, Loring Road, Mrs. J. Harvey McKenney of Newton Street, Mrs. Laymon N. Miller and Mrs. F. William Aseltine, Jr., also of Newton Street.

At Mrs. Hammond's home Mrs. James C. Cook was co-hostess. Also present were Mrs. Donald J. Hurley, Co-chairman for the Children's Theatre; Mrs. John W. Boyd, Mrs. Francis G. Shepard and Mrs. Marston Marshall. At Mrs. Bishop's coffee Mrs. John E. Begley of the Children's Theatre helped Mrs. Chamberlain and Mrs. Ball to welcome Mrs. E. Beale Wilson, Mrs. J. Wells Coggeshall, Mrs. Stuart Shotwell, Mrs. William Faye and Mrs. Paul E. Gardent Jr. Mrs. J. Harvey McKenney's guests included Mrs. Lawrence Davis, Mrs. Lawrence Pexton, Mrs. Vernon J. Matson and Mrs. Robert Preyer.

Mrs. Laymon N. Miller and Mrs. F. William Aseltine Jr. were cohostesses with Mrs. Braxton Nagle, Mrs Dudley Bell, Mrs. John L. Enos, Mrs. R. W. Pillsbury and Mrs. Richard Holden.

The last three welcoming coffees took place respectively on Nov. 2, Nov. 4 and Nov. 10, at the homes ofMrs. Edwin Weidig of Lexington Steeet, Mrs. J. H. Underhill Jr. of Irving Road and Mrs. James F. Eldon of Old Colony Road.

Mrs. Weidig asked Mrs. Frank L. Hitchcock, Printing Chairman of the Community League, as well as Mrs. Charles G. Ball, Membership Chairman, to be present to welcome a large group. Among those present were Mrs. Jerome Gale, Mrs. Vincent Campelia, Mrs. Edward Kerwin, Mrs. Frederick Thyng, Mrs. Robert Waters, Mrs. William Olson, Mrs. R. H. Silverman, Mrs. Albert Stolhman, Mrs. Richard Couch, Mrs. Fisher Pearson, Mrs. Andrew Gyorgy, Mrs. Peter Reimer and Mrs. Donald Rudin.

Mrs. Underhill asked Mrs. John A. Buzzard and Mrs. John H. Forte to join Mrs. Ball in welcoming her group. Miss Mary Gannon was present, as were Mrs. Marilyn True, Mrs. J. C. Wells, Mrs. E. Hefferon, Mrs. Otis Murphy, Mrs. Gustave Flieshmann, Mrs. Harrison Falkner, Mrs. John Kraus and Mrs. James MacKay.

Mrs. James F. Eldon's co-hostess was Mrs. Lawson Hill Jr., Mrs. Arthur C. Murphy, Treasurer of the Community League, and Mrs. George A. Paul, Board member, were both on hand to greet the guests. These included Mrs. Robert D. Lane, Mrs. O. G. Hayword Jr., Mrs. Robert Breck, Mrs. Justis De Witt, Mrs Sven Stenberg, Mrs. Otto Swanson and Mrs. Thomas L. Kelley.

Mrs. George N. Chamberlain, Jr., President of the Community League, has attended almost every coffee throughout the season along with Mrs. Charles G. Ball, Membership Chairman, in the hope of meeting and welcoming as many as possible of Weston's new women residents.

SCALED TO THE MODERN MANOR

In Modern there is a greater variation in size than in any other style of furniture. This is due to the fact that Modern is designed and planned to follow function and need. As there is a wide variation in the size of today's living quarters — from tiny one-room apartments to large rambling mansions — it naturally follows that there is a need for furnishings scaled to fit these homes of varying sizes. Modern meets this need—intelligently and beautifully.

Scale is one of the most important elements in successful decorating. Furniture should be in scale with the size of the room, and pieces used in close relation should be similar in size.

In the past, there has been a tendency to confuse elegance with size. Today we're wiser. We have developed a better sense of fitness and balance.

Note how all the furnishings in the Modern room sketched above "go together"—how no one piece dwarfs all the others. Also, see how space has been left free for easy movement . . . no obstructions in traffic lanes.

A symphony of browns and yellows gives a warm, spicy feeling to the entire setting.

We have all the Modern furnishings that will enable you to design and organize your home so that it will efficiently serve all the activities that take place there. We cordially invite you to come in, browse around and let us help you make leisurely selections.

Weston High Notes

The Junior Red Cross membership drive got off to a good start on Wednesday, Nov. 1, at a morning assembly, attended by all students from grades 7 through 12. Four outside guests were present, three of whom spoke about different aspects of the work done by the Red Cross.

Mrs. Theodore Bayles, who has been in charge of the Red Cross Bloodmobile program in Weston, spoke of the history of the blood donor program and of its tremendous importance. Mrs. Stanley Hobbs, head of volunteer services at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital, talked about the voluntary aid program that is carried on in that hospital with recruits from fifteen years of age and up. She interviewed Marian Larkin, a senior who has almost completed 100 hours of volunteer work in that institution. Mr. Philip Bassett, Red Cross Representative in charge of Disaster Relief in the Boston area, concluded the assembly with an interesting account of Red Cross work done during the two recent flood disasters in this area, and of the considerable part that Junior Red Cross members played during that time.

The Weston Rhombas Affiliation Committee is making plans. These will include a reception for the new French student, Nicole Maitre, who arrived in Weston Nov. 1 to spend a year at the Weston High School. Nicole's year in this country is sponsored by the Affiliation Committee, whose representatives from the high school are Daniel Bump and Nancy Nichols. Other school members are Judy Flanders, Alison Hower, Branda Rawding and Nancy White.

The faculty representative is Mr. Martin Martineau, teacher of Latin and World History. Other activities of the Affiliation Committee include the sale of Christmas cards and a cake sale. Money earned from these activities is used to bring a French student to the United States each year.

The seventh and eighth grades recently concluded the most successful Magazine Drive in the history of Weston High School. Subscription sales totalled more than $5400, and the two salesmen with the highest totals were John Rich, Grade 7, and Richard Ayers, Grade 8. Miss Marble's room had the highest sales total. Captains of the Magazine Drive were:

GRADE 7

Room 14 Kenneth Terkelsen, Juliette Doebler
22 Edith Wypler, John Akers
21 Graham Anderson, Ann Finison
11 Jane Wypler, John Akers
12 Keppler Stone, Betsy Gambrill

GRADE 8

Room 203 Frederick Crawford, Armine Avakian
205 John Gray, Maribeth Hanson
206 John Brooks, Joan Harding
207 Christopher Scott, Esther Lombard

Pupils will be awarded sales certificates and individual prizes in an assembly in the near future. Funds realized from this pupil project will be used for assemblies, sports and other worthwhile activities.

The State Cross-country Meet was run on Saturday, Nov. 5, at the Franklin Park Course. Weston's entries were: Harry Crawford, David Tiffany, Joe Wager, Joshua Lombard, Peter Rydell, Charles Phillips, Edwin Symmes, Vincent Hoagland, Geoffrey Wager and George Buckminster.

Miss Barbara C. Stiles, Teacher of Geography in the seventh grade, was elected State Vice President of the New England, St. Lawrence Valley Geographical Conference at an annual meeting of the Conference held Oct. 29 at Clark University, Worcester.

The meeting, attended by academic and professional geographers from over the whole region, featured some interesting papers by geographers, with an emphasis upon urban planning. Of special interest to Weston was an expression by several academic members present of their high opinion of Weston High School and its standards, and in invitation issued by Col. Herbert A. Rasche, Associate Division Chief, Environment Research Division, Natick QM. R & D Center, to students to visit the Army research project in Natick.

Introduction of new teachers:

Miss Irene Gesiak, who teaches General Science, went to Boston University for both her undergraduate and her graduate work. While she was there she won a number of awards including Phi Beta Kappa, Rabbi Abrahm's Award and the University Women's Award. She was Secretary of the History Club, Secretary of the Geological Association of Boston University, and a member of the Newman Club. Miss Gesiak's hobbies are art and music, and while at college she played the violin in the Boston University Orchestra.

Mr. Richard W. Ham, who formerly taught in Quincy, teaches Biology, General Science and French at Weston. Mr. Ham has degrees from Bowdoin College and Harvard University, and is a member of the Zeta Psi Fraternity and of Phi Beta Kappa. Mr. Ham is married and has a daughter, Deborah, now three months old.

Mrs. Rosamond C. Howe had a lot of teaching and administrative experience before she came to Weston. A graduate of Radcliffe College, with an Ed.M. from Harvard, Mrs. Howe used to teach at the Cambridge School, and for 11 years was principal of the Belmont Day School. At Weston she teaches seventh grade subjects, English, Science, Geography and Mathematics. Mrs. Howe lists her hobbies as gardening and music.

* * *

Miss Barbara C. Stiles teaches Geography in the seventh grade. When she was in college and in graduate school she was a member of the Geography Clubs, and among her hobbies are mountain climbing and hosteling. Miss Stiles got her Bachelor's degree from Teachers' College in Gorham, Maine, then for her advanced work went to California to Stanford University and to Syracuse University in New York.

Miss Stiles likes music; in college she was a member of the orchestra and the band. As a hobby she did fashion modeling in Florida. She is a member of Sigma Delta Epsilon, an honorary graduate women's fraternity. Miss Stiles has three nieces and two nephews. Her oldest niece is a second year student at the University of Edinburgh.

Back-to-School Night At Weston High

WESTON—American Education Week was observed at the Weston High School with a "Back-to-school" night for parents on Monday, Nov. 7. Some 400 parents attended and followed the schedules of their children's Monday programs.

The "day" started with opening exercises and announcements over the Public Address System. Mr. Eugene Hanson read a selection from the Bible and Mrs. Harry Crawford read the announcements pertaining to the program, while parents sat in their children's homeroom seats awaiting instructions. Each class period was 12 minutes long with a three-minute passing period between classes. Teachers devoted these all-too-brief periods to telling the parents something about the aims of their courses, the texts used, class procedures, and to answering any questions parents wished to ask.

During "study" periods parents were free to inspect the library, the shop, the laboratories, or any other parts of the building they wanted to see. At the conclusion of classes, refreshments contributed by the Parent Teachers Association were served in the cafeteria, parents lining up just as their children do during the day.

Parents and teachers alike enjoyed the evening and felt that it was profitable. Much of the success was due to the cooperation of the high school grade mothers under the chairmanship of Mrs. Thomas E. Rushforth. Grade mothers assisting were Mrs. Wayne D. Wetzel, Mrs. Stephen Tyng, Mrs. Oliver G. Haywood, Mrs. Arthur C. Murphy, Mrs. Arthur Spangler, and Mrs. Alfred R. Wypler, Jr. Some of the fathers, too, helped out in the cafeteria.

(As it happened, an almost identical back-to-school night was held at Wayland High on the same evening, and it inspired a Wayland parent to write a John Gunther-like piece about it. See elsewhere in the Crier.)

Reception For Ewings

WAYLAND—Deacons and Deaconesses of the Trinitarian Congregational Church held a reception on Oct. 30 in Fellowship Hall for Rev. and Mrs. Donald S. Ewing. Two hundred attended. Punch and tea cakes were served.

LISTINGS WANTED

Ah, Night! The Time For Guests And New Babies!

Poets like to sing about sunshine, rainbows and clouds with sliver linings. Only once in a while does a rhymester whack his lyre in praise of night, which is easier on the eyes and, in the residential suburbs, an even more prominent fact of life.

Night is the time when the weary commuter comes home to nurse his ulcers and go to the P. T. A. meeting.

Night is the time when the dog wants to be let out around 11 p. m., and get lost. He lurks in the dark and responds to nothing. At 3 a. m., however, he will return and wake everybody up, howling for admittance.

And this semi-rural darkness has a special quality. It's thicker than the ordinary city kind. It's blacker. Maybe it's on account of the local custom of putting street lights a mile and a half apart.

And darkness discourages pedestrians. In fact, it eliminates them. There are persons in Weston and Wayland who haven't walked 25 feet out of doors after dark for ten years. In the first place, no sidewalks. In the next place, ravening dogs. In the third place, the strange change by which a respectable daytime hiker becomes a suspicious prowler the moment the sun goes down.

Night in Summer is wonderful, now that the mosquito control project is flourshing. A fellow can sit out there in the dark, thinking big thoughts or sweet ones, and his wife can't see how many times he reaches for the ginger ale bottle.

Night in Winter is wonderful, too. It gives one a perfect excuse for staying in the house, where the furniture doesn't have to be moved every day for fear it'll rain.

And it's mysterious, of course. There is the drama of the automobile which stops in front of the house at 10 p.m. Is it a burglar, casing the joint? Is it somebody in trouble? Is it the income tax men, checking on the residents of the house? Most of the time the householders never get the answer to this riddle. They hear a few voices, the slam of a door or two, and the starting of the motor again. That's all.

There are lesser mysteries, too, especially in Winter. Is that an icy spot on the driveway, or just a black patch? Will a careless step get one a fracture of the left leg or the right? What's to be done if the wind blows the roof off before morning?

And there's sometimes the discovery, at 11 p. m., that there's no coffee for breakfast in the house.

Best of all, night enhances the appearance of real estate. With bright light shining from the windows, nobody can see that the paint is peeling from the walls, or that the shutters hang askew. Nobody can see the missing shingles, the cracked driveway, the unkept grounds, the overflowing trash can.

Ah, night! When history is made and babies generally choose to be born! — D. B. W.

Weston Lost a Hard One To Lynn Trade

WESTON—Weston lost a hard football game to Lynn Trade on Saturday, Nov. 12, by a score of 6 to 0. Two or three times Weston seemed on the verge of making a touchdown which might have made all the difference, but something went wrong every time.

Auxiliary Elects Mrs. Leavitt For 1956

COCHITUATE—The Charles H. Alward Auxiliary Unit No. 133, American Legion, held their regular meeting Nov. 21 at Legion Hall, Cochituate.

New officers for the coming year are as follows: President, Suzanne Leavitt; Senior Vice-President, Quo Heggan; Junior Vice-President, Natalie Groton; Secretary, E. Winifred Richardson; Treasurer, Rita Burke; Chaplain, Hazel Taylor; Historian, Rose Lizotte; Sergeant-at-arms, Blanche Fitzgibbon; Executive Board members, Edith Blomgren, Anna Sanborn and Katherine Damon.

Plans were completed for the Christmas gift shop to be held in all veterans' hospitals. Each member is asked to give at least one $1 gift. Volunteer workers from Auxiliary units will be in charge of the gift shops. Contributions by anyone interested in helping in this work will be appreciated. St. Ann's Guild To Have Bazaar, Dec. 3

WAYLAND — St. Ann's Guild will hold its annual Christmas Fair Saturday, Dec. 3, from 10:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. There will be games, fish pond and pony rides for the children. Santa Claus will be there from 2 p. m. until 3 p. m.

The food table will as usual feature all home cooked food. There will be a doll table, aprons, mystery packages, white elephants, gifts and novelties and a snack bar.

Mrs. Duane Haagensen, chairman, is assisted by the following committee: food, Mrs. William Curley; dolls, Miss Nellie Curley; aprons, Mrs. Helen Cullen; snack bar, Mrs. Joseph Conway and Mrs. John Hughes; mystery packages, Miss Claire McManus and Mrs. Gerard Fox; white elephant, Mrs. Russo and Mrs. Libby; gifts and novelties, Mrs. Thomas F. Linnehan and Mrs. James Dunn; fish pond, Mrs. Nancy Murray; pony rides, Mrs. Robert Sennott.

The regular meeting of St. Ann's Guild will be held Tuesday, Dec. 6 at 8 p. m. The meeting will open with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Mrs. Edward Kenney, program chairman, has planned an interesting evening.

A coffee hour will follow with Mrs. William Birmingham, Chairman, assisted by Mrs. James Burke, Mrs. William Curley, Mrs. F. Cincotta, and Mrs. Edward Duggan.

Wayland At Dracut Cancelled — Snow

WAYLAND— W ayland High's football team had its next-to-last game, scheduled to be played at Dracut on Nov. 11, cancelled on account of a snowfall which covered the Dracut field. Wayland offered to play at Wayland on Saturday or Monday, but the Dracut people said no thanks.

On Saturday, Nov. 12, there was a good deal of unholy joy in the Wayland High School set when it was learned that Ashland had been beaten by Franklin, 12 to 7. Ashland, by a score of 24 to 20, had been the only team to beat Wayland this season. Ashland had also defeated Weston.

Two Banks Want Wayland Branches

WAYLAND—When the petition of the West Newton Savings Bank to open a branch in Wayland came up for a hearing at the State House on Nov. 14, the whole deal was postponed to another hearing on Dec. 14 because the Waltham Savings Bank had put in a bid for the Wayland territory.

Benjamin F. Wood of Foxmeadow Lane, Wayland, president of the Waltham Savings Bank, says his bank does a lot of business in the Sudbury-Wayland-Weston area, and had been looking for a chance to open a branch in Wayland. However, he says, the West Newton Savings Bank actually put its petition in first.

The law, he says, is that only one savings bank may establish a main office or branch in a town. Therefore, if the West Newton bank were given the Wayland branch, Waltham Savings Bank couldn't have one.

So, he says, Waltham Savings Bank also applied for the Wayland territory. And when the West Newton petition came up on Nov. 14, with Waltham ready to oppose it, the Commissioner simply postponed the whole business until Dec. 14, when both petitions will be considered.

Mr. Kenneth W. Rogers, president of the West Newton Savings Bank, says that relations between the two savings institutions are perfectly friendly. However, he says, his bank is hopeful that, considering it was the first to ask for the privilege of serving the people of Wayland and vicinity, its petition will be the one to receive final approval.

Weston Methodist

In answer to an expressed need, the minister of the Weston Methodist Church will conduct a series of three informal lecture and discussion classes on "What It Means To Be a 'Methodist' Christian", beginning Sunday afternoon, Nov. 27, at 4:00 p. m. The group of interested persons will meet in the Taylor Room of the church for the opening session and for each of the two following hour-and-a-half sessions. An open invitation is extended to all interested persons.

Where Customer Good Will Comes First

Children's Exchange was Started as a War Project

In the Spring of 1941, Mrs. David Blaney of Wellesley Street, Weston, wanted somehow to contribute to the war effort, and believed that an exchange of Children's Clothing would answer a definite need. She was perfectly right, for her first effort worked out very well.

She wrote 60 mothers of her plan of bringing outgrown clothing to her kitchen on a certain day. The clothing came, and so did 120 mothers.

After that big response, and also considering the shortage of gasoline, it was quite clear that a larger place was needed to continue the project. Mrs. George Hammond's lower kitchen was larger and also nearer to the Town, so the Exchange continued there that spring and fall.

In the Fall of '42 the venture moved to Mrs. C. Richard Soderberg's barn. Mrs. Soderberg was helping on the War Economy Division of the Committee of Public Safety at that time, and this division put out "feelers" by running a second-hand sale there. Money was made, and they joined forces with Mrs. Blaney and Mrs. Hammond.

In January, 1943, The Exchange moved over to the Episcopal Church (basement), through the efforts of Mrs. R. P. Johns. Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. Blaney were handling the money and the books. Mrs. George Russell, Mrs. William Nash, Mrs. Alan Wheeler, Mrs. Leland Gates, Mrs. Parker Harrison and Mrs. John Nilan all worked specified hours entering goods and selling them.

Selectmen Helped

The next move was to the Town House, under the War Service Division of the Committee of Public Safety, with the help of the kindly Selectmen who had cupboards built to hold the clothes. Now, for the first time it became necessary to charge a percentage on sales, to reimburse the Town for its expenditures. This was paid back at the end of two years, and the money left in the Town from the Children's Exchange Project, about $600.00, was put towards the flag pole for the new High School.

The Women's Community League took the Exchange over in May of 1945; the percentage charge on sales from that date on, accrues to the Welfare and Scholarship Funds. This was also the time that the food department was originally started. In 1948, the Exchange closed its doors in December, as renovation and more office space was needed at the Town House. Down the main street it went and under Mr. Whelpley's Radio Shop for a trial, but it had to move back to the Town House, this time in the kitchen and the room next to it. Specially designed cabinets by Mrs. Frederick Winsor were put into this room. This was November, 1949.

Gives Scholarships

After the restoration of the Jones House, the Children's Exchange moved to its present quarters there in the Mary Elizabeth Winsor Rooms, where it has been for three years. It gained another room last year.

From the Community League Year Book of '55 and '56: "The six girls who have received Scholarships totalling $2,200 are Joanna H. Blake, who is going to Smith College; Judith A. Ferries, Smith College; Francis Howell, Lasell Junior College; Gail Luther, Fisher Junior College; Clara E. Styron, Royal Victoria College, (McGill), Montreal, Canada, and Sylvia E. Tilly, Jackson College. The Community League Prize of $100.00 was presented to Judith A. Ferries. This prize was given "to the girl who, by her leadership, character and scholastic standing, has contributed most to the Senior Class."

Three hundred and 26 dollars was given for camperships and recreational purposes.

The Children's Exchange will be opened on Tuesdays from 10:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. to Dec. 6, 1955, and will reopen February 7, 1956, until May 29, 1956. Any resident of Weston may have an account there. Good used clothing and home-cooked food is sold on a consignment basis. The owner receives 75 percent of the clothing and 85 percent of the food price.

How It Works

Clothing is brought in by the owner, and priced with consideration of the owner, and within the price range of the Exchange. It is then tagged. This tag is written in duplicate, so that when the clothing is sold the lower half is torn off and kept for the record.

Each member has a number. So let us suppose that a Mrs. Adams brings in a sweater and her number is 87. Her tag would read 87-1. If she brings in another sweater her next tag would read 87-2, and so forth.

The description, size and price is put on the tag. Then the sweater is ready to sell. It is quickly sold, a slip is made out, and the tag is stamped and away goes Mrs. Dee with Mrs. Adams' sweater. Good! Now if Mrs. Dee is not quite sure that the sweater will fit daughter Sally, and if it is priced more than one dollar, she can pay for it and take it out on approval.

By the following Tuesday before 11, she must return it, if it does not fit. Otherwise Sally will have to wear the too big or too small sweater, and the Exchange regards this as a sale.

If some clothing has been residing on the racks for three weeks, it is marked down at the discretion of the markers, to be more quickly sold and to make room for a new entrant. Clothing usually ranges from size 1 through the Teens to size 18, and the boys' and men's to 38 and 40. Day clothes, night clothes, evening clothes included; outside clothes and inside, all are here, and quite an attractive lot! If Sally does not find anything to suit on one Tuesday, the following week she well might, as clothing is brought in all the time. There are three sales there, also, and owners of the clothing are notified preceding the sales, if they wish to withdraw any of their things beforehand. (Two closing Sales, and one Sale for Winter clothing.)

Lots of Food

The Food Counter in the Exchange is hard to do justice to, as there are so many delectable things to eat. Homemade breads, pies, cakes and cookies, rolls, cinnamon buns, and sometimes casseroles. Always sandwiches, tea and coffee, and one can place an order for a future date. Apple tarts for dessert? A birthday cake for Johnnie? The counters empty quickly, come and see!

Posted on a wall in one of the rooms are lists of articles for sale, and another list of articles wanted. There are followed by the name and phone numbers of the owners. Children's equipment, sport and household articles are here; cribs, carriages, strollers, bicycles, sleds, skiis, furniture — practically anything one can think of. These are also sold through the Exchange.

It is indeed a busy place. There are the workers, 22 or more; the customers, some with children in or out of strollers, some alone or with friends. On a lovely Spring or Fall day, when the door is left open, a dog may wander in. He will not be buying anything but he will certainly know where the food counter is!

People from outside Weston are welcome customers.

Dr. Neal Tells Weston League How Federal Reserve Works

WESTON—Dr. Alfred C. Neal of Weston, vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston and an economist whose services have been used by Uncle Sam in the international field, explained how the Federal Reserve system works in controlling the economy at a meeting of the League of Women Voters held in the Country School on Nov. 16.

The meeting was sponsored by the Newton-Waltham Bank.

The Federal Reserve, said Dr. Neal, is one of the agencies used in controlling inflation. Other controls are consumer savings, rate of production and higher taxes.

Before the meeting, Dr. and Mrs. Neal were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Richardson of 6 Conant Road. Among other guests were Mr. and Mrs. George L. White and Mr. and Mrs. Rolf Stutz. Mr. White is the new president of the Newton - Waltham Bank and Mrs. Stutz is president of the Weston League of Women Voters.

WE'RE PROUD OF OUR NEW LABORATORY IN WAYLAND

. . . and we'd like you to come and see it

We cordially invite you to visit us with your family and friends on Saturday afternoon, December 3, when we are holding an "open house" and tour at our new engineering laboratory for the residents of Wayland and the surrounding areas.

We have just completed one of the largest moves in Raytheon's history. Twelve hundred men and women of our equipment engineering forces are now working in our new Wayland Laboratory. This laboratory provides the finest and most modern facilities for engineers engaged in the development, design and testing of advanced electronic equipments.

EVERYONE IS WELCOME!

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 3 — 1:00 P. M. to 6:00 P. M.

The Entrance to the Parking Area is on Route 20, one-half mile West of the traffic light at Wayland Center.

Bob Morgan—Once Head Of Dartmouth Outing Club

By CAROL FOSTER

"Mr. Moderator, the Finance Committee recommends . . . " is a phrase which during the past several years has served to introduce Robert M. Morgan, chairman of the Wayland Finance Committee, to citizens of the Town, at Town Meeting.

During the progress of Wayland Town Meeting, Mr. Morgan is frequently called upon to explain the policies of the Finance Committee with regard to the articles in the Warrant.

(Fabian Bachrach)

BOB MORGAN

"Because Wayland has no Taxpayers Association, the job that a Taxpayers Association does has had to be done by the Finance Committee," Mr. Morgan says. "Until the League of Women Voters undertook a study of Town finances, no other group studied Town finances except the Finance Committee. The League did an especially good job here and the resulting education of many of the women of the Town has been a most fortunate thing, filling a need for more people to know the Town's business.

"It is desirable to have groups other than those immediately concerned checking on what the Town is doing, and endorse or withhold recommendations, and it is desirable that any group willing to give time be heard by the Finance Committee."

Resident Since 1932

Mr. Morgan's present position as spokesman for the Finance Committee has evolved over the past few years because of his long experience in Town finances. The seven-member Finance Committee is appointed by the Selectmen. Five are named for a three-year term and two for a non-reappointable two-year term.

"There is usually a big turnover in the Finance Committee," Mr. Morgan says. "Only two or three stay on. The large turnover is good, as it gets more people familiar with Town finances, although it is vital to have two or three people with long Town service. To be successful in recommendations, we must know the departments' work fairly well."

Mr. Morgan has been one of the members of the Finance Committee who has "stayed on". A resident of Wayland since 1932, he first served as secretary to the Wayland Selectmen, and was appointed to the Finance Committee around 1935. He found he "liked working on the Finance Committee very much."

Selectmen, over a period of years, "have tried to choose the Committee on the basis of possible contribution, geographical distribution, and the support of different groups in Town." Mr. Morgan has "never recommended an appointment for the Finance Committee" although he has given his opinion on people suggested by the Selectmen. In turn, the Selectmen "have never attempted to interfere with the Finance Committee."

Mr. Russell Says:

Howard S. Russell, Moderator of Wayland's Town Meetings, and Representative in the General Court for many years, says:

"Town Meetings used to be an open financial situation, necessitating laws requiring each town to have a finance committee, which would give towns a continuity of policy that they otherwise would not have had. People used to get what they wanted without consideration to the tax rate. One town, years ago, upped the rate $17 in one year . . . The Finance Committee has a function similar to that of the Ways and Means Committee in the Legislature, studying income as well as outgo, and serving as coordinator.

"Town Meetings are more cut and dried than they used to be, and are criticized because they are too polished a job, but this Town has gotten to such a size that the ordinary citizen can't keep up with expenditures and policies. The law requires that Finance Committees check on Town policies in connection with expenditures. The Moderator's job is to see that each citizen is fairly treated."

Mr. Morgan says: "As Wayland has moved into a larger population bracket, it becomes more difficult for the Town to form a definite policy. Unfortunately there is a feeling that the Finance Committee has attempted to steer things, because it must formulate policy. It is not the Selectmen's job, under our Town form of government, to coordinate all the departments. Some officials are independently elected and the Selectmen have jurisdiction only over appointees.

"It's the job of the Finance Committee to keep proportion, making for a well-balanced Town . . . The character of the development of Wayland has led to a heavier proportion of children and interest in education than in a settled Town, where there are more buildings with a higher proportion of older people. So we must defend the need of new Town office quarters against the school group."

Sits In First Row

"There are two types of towns, with regard to expenditures, those with a varying tax rate and those with a steady, if rising rate. Henry Long used to say that 'the town with a varying tax rate showed no inherent planning'. Wayland has had only one year in which the rate varied. We can't avoid an increase in tax if people want an increase in expenses, and we haven't wasted money. What the Town has spent has so far been spent well."

Three times a year, during a production of the Vokes Players, a member of the cast, or backstage crew will peek around the curtain as the audience gathers, and pass back the word: "Morgan's out there".

Mrs. Hugh Colliton, of Wayland, director of many Vokes plays, says: "Bob will sit either in the first row, or the first row of the balcony. You can't miss Bob when he's at the theater because he so thoroughly enjoys it. He's more quick to get the humor of the situation than others."

Good Dishwasher

Robert M. Morgan grew up in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, was graduated from High School there and went to Dartmouth, graduating in 1924. While at Dartmouth, he got interested in mountain climbing, as a change from being a "city person", and became President of the Dartmouth Outing Club in the era when it was shifting from snowshoeing to skiing. He snowshoed up mountains, including Mt. Washington, and went to Switzerland one Summer to climb. Other Summers while he was at college he ran the Outing Club hut on Moosilauke, where they served meals to as many as 147. Because of this experience he is still one of the best dishwashers in Town.

After graduation from Dartmouth, Mr. Morgan went to Harvard Business School, then took six months off to go on an expedition to Mt. Logan, Alaska, organized by the American and Canadian Alpine Clubs. He was one of the people who first interested Bradford Washburn, Director of the Boston Science Museum, in Alaska. Mr. Washburn has since been employed by the U. S. Geodetic Survey to map the area.

After graduation from Harvard Business School, Mr. Morgan was assistant to the owner and manager of Pecketts at Sugar Hill, N. H. He came to Boston in 1928. In 1929 he married the former Theone Wilson. At that time he was employed by the First National Corporation, then an affiliate of the First National Bank, as a security analyist.

He then went with the First National Bank as Assistant Cashier and in 1934 joined the staff of the Boston Five Cent Savings Bank as Assistant Treasurer. He has been subsequently Trustee, Vice-President and Treasurer of the "Boston Five". Part of his job has been mortgages of all kinds.

Travels a Lot

At present Mr. Morgan is administrator for a purchasing pool for a group of banks which purchase residential out-of-state mortgages in many parts of the country. In connection with this he travels extensively to see residential developments in other cities and communities. Mr. Morgan has been President of the Appalachian Mountain Club, and chairman of its Hut Committee. He has been President of the Boston Real Estate Board. He is a director of the Merchants National Bank and the Nevada-Massachusetts Co., a tungsten mining company in Nevada.

Mr. Morgan was appointed by President Eisenhower to serve on the President's Advisory Committee on Government Housing Policies and Programs, which formulates legislative under the Housing Act of 1954. This is a national committee of 23 members. He has served as Chairman of the Mortgage Committee of the Massachusetts Mutual Savings Banks Association and the Mortgage Committee for National Association of Mutual Savings Banks. He has served on the National Voluntary Credit Restraint Committee, and now is a member of the Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program Committee, a national committee interested in extending credit on housing into small towns and to minority groups.

The Morgans have two children, a daughter, Martha, who was graduated from Middlebury College last June, and a son, Marshall, now in his last year at Noble and Greenough. Mrs. Morgan is a graduate of Simmons, who specialized in library work, and for three years after her marriage worked at the Boston Athenaeum, oldest private library in the U. S. For several years she has been a trustee of the Wayland Library.

While her children were small, Mrs. Morgan studied handwriting analysis, to keep herself and her friends entertained. At present she is one of the "Country Associates", an interior decorating firm with offices on the Wayland green. She is studying interior decoration at the Fine Arts Museum and with Mrs. J. Clifford Ross.

School Expense

During vacations, the Morgans have explored the West Indies, and the outer Bahama Islands, and have been to Venezuela and the Florida Keys. Recently they made a family trip West to visit the parks and spent some time at a dude ranch in the Wind River Range in Wyoming.

Beginning in December and through January and February, the Finance Committee takes "all the spare time" of its members, who meet Saturdays and Sundays and on many evenings.

In the fall, the Finance Committee meets with each department, reviewing expenditures. It plans: "An annual staggered replacement of equipment, going over each department and keeping year-to-year records in detail. We have worked with our departments. Rather than criticizing expenditures, we try to get our money's worth. The result is that we have increasing support from all Wayland departments and the Finance Committee is on good terms with all of them.

"The School Department constitutes not only the largest but the most rapidly growing department in Town. We have one of the highest Town expenditures proportionally for the School Department, although expenses for education in our Town are in proportion to total expenses. It means we can't have high expenditures in other departments. It all comes down to what do people want to spend Town money for.

"Can Get Sites"

"The Town could get unnecessarily scared of the school expansion program. If it's taken in proper steps, the Town can afford it. It will save us money to get school sites ahead of time. We can endorse the (Engelhardt) survey proposals, get sites, and then build school buildings as needed."

Although recent zoning has "already cut down the rate of growth in Wayland", according to Mr. Morgan, "because of the growth here in recent years, the duties of Town officials have doubled since 1950."

Mr. Morgan feels as a future policy it would be a help for all Town departments to have elected committees and boards to set policies, and details of their handling left to well paid administrative assistants. This is comparable with the School Superintendent in relation to the School Committee or the Water Department Superintendent in relation to the Water Board.

An administrative assistant to the Selectmen, for instance, "would give them more time necessary for policy decisions and make it possible to continue to get good quality men for Selectmen."

"In the past, most of Town nominating has been done by Town boards asking people to run", explains Mr. Morgan. "It has only been in the absence of such suggestions that groups have sought out candidates."

Because of his interest in Town government, Mr. Morgan says he will continue to interest others in "standing for" Town jobs, when a board has no candidate.

Special services for Veterans' Day were held at the Weston Methodist Church Nov. 11 with members of the American Legion Post 214 of Weston as special guests. The chaplain of the post and minister of the church, Rev. Robert W. Huston, led the service and used as his meditation theme, "Unfinished Labors."

Inside Junior High, With White Sauce

A John Gunther Type Explores Darkest P. T. A.

WAYLAND, Nov. 7—I was inside Junior High School here for 49 minutes. For seven periods of seven minutes each I simulated the actual conditions under which my seventh grade daughter studies all year. And it was better than any of the other seven wonders of the world I've ever been inside.

At the Junior-Senior High School PTA I bumped into about 300 other parents who were there for the same purpose. Max Griffin, principal of the High School, briefed us. Just before "opening bell" rang at 9 p. m. he dispatched us to our "home rooms."

Mine was No. 25 in the south wing. Miss Helen E. Timson asked us to be seated and remain quiet during the preliminary exercises. Over the "P. A." a voice reads from the Bible, "God is our refuge and strength . . ." We bow our heads and say the Lord's Prayer. Then the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Our "day" has started.

It's Monday for Class 7T. Two periods of "Core" have started, English and Social Studies, to you. Miss Timson, keeping a watchful eye on her pupils, explains how class assignments are made on the basis of a long-range project, called a "unit." The old days of expecting every child to be on the same page on the same day are gone. Now they plan their own work and pick their own pace. But they do have a deadline to meet.

First "unit" assigned was on School Orientation. There were a lot of tough questions to answer about studies, rules, school administration and costs. Papers are graded on content, expression, punctuation, spelling and neatness.

Good night! Two periods have gone by already. Larry Bailey, a 7th-grader, is ushering us down the corridor to Miss Janie C. Foster's beautifully equipped Home Ec room.

Now I'm not only inside Home Ec, but I'm the only man who's made it. Capt. McCutcheon will have nothing on me after I've studied this list of questions on the black board: "What ingredienas are there in white sauce?" it says. "How do you prevent lumping?" "What are croutons?" "What would happen if one used baking soda instead of baking powder?" I've got to bring back the answer to that one. I raise my hand and ask "What would happen?" My classmates turn and regard me with scorn. "Well, Mr. Gunther, it makes a rather flat cake!"

And that's the way I feel. Thank God, the bell. (How I remember that feeling of relief from my own school days back inside U.S.A.)

Mrs. Lillian M. Jones, the art teacher, is our next hostess. "My, aren't parents noisy," she comments as we come chattering into the room. On the walls are Hallowe'en cut-outs and travel posters of places not even I have visited.

She explains that the designs of paints and india ink give everyone, whether skilled or not, a chance to express himself. Even the senior high school children come in and want to do them. Oh dear, the seven minutes is up. That bell. Heck, I want to finish my painting, Mrs. Jones.

We dash downstairs to the Math class room to meet Mr. Robert A. Andreotti. There's tension in the air because all we know of Mr. Andreotti is that he kept our children, ours, mind you, after school and made them sit in solemn silence for a whole half hour. How could he?

He loses no time in explaining his philosophy about teaching. First, they've got to get used to the different ideas and approaches of their teachers. They have to learn more than Math. That is consideration of others and subjugation of their own desires to those of other people. Seventh graders, he continues, are a little jumpy. They need discipline at first. But just as soon as they can work on their own and not bother others, then they can discipline themselves. They need to know what's expected of them so that they can progress socially. In the end you'll have a good product.

"But why don't you let them study when they're kept after school," someone asks.

"Because that hour was not to teach them Math, but how to be quiet," he explains with a smile. We nod. "Sounds more like school the way I know it," says one parent. "I guess the pendulum is swinging back," says another.

Science comes in the next to last period. Mr. Edward C. Barry tells us our kids lap it up. They can't wait to make a microscopic exam of the growth of one-cell animals which are developing from a piece of humus dropped in a test tube full of bouillon. "Oh, that's where my bouillon cubes went," says Mrs. Gunther. (Forgive her. This is really her first trip with me inside anywhere.)

Mr. Barry stresses that his aim is to help the child to think logically, not only in science, but in other subjects. He speaks in a deep, friendly voice. Science looks a little more alive here than back in my school.

Now the bell. Back to the home room for a last "study" period, and then our accelerated day is up. This is one school I'd like to go back to. — H. G. P.

Weston Garden Club To Make Wreaths

WESTON—The Weston Garden Club will have an all-day meeting at the Unitarian Parish House on Thursday, Dec. 8, to make Christmas wreaths and swags to decorate the public buildings in Weston and the Murphy General Hospital in Waltham. Coffee will be served by Mrs. Harold Granger and Mrs. Edward B. Hubbard. Mrs. Alfred Thomas is chairman of the day.

Alward Post, Nov. 28

COCHITUATE—The Charles H. Alward Post, American Legion, will have a social evening at 8 p. m., Monday, Nov. 28. All members are asked to bring guests, who need not be veterans.

A movie will be shown on the research, drilling, refining and transportation of oil. Pool, ping pong, cribbage, pinochle and other games will be played. The house committee will serve refreshments at the end of the evening.

The Wayland Board of Health is making plans for a well baby clinic. Details later.

Miss Norma Brandel, presented by the High School Assembly Program, Incorporated, on Nov. 9, gave an interesting account of her trek, as a student, through Europe. She urged the students to plan a trip to Europe and to go while they were young and relatively poor. She told of her adventures in the Russian zone, life in a Spanish monastry, and the little customs and events that make a trip of this nature so worth while.

* * *

A "Victory Dance", sponsored by the Senior Class, was held on Nov. 19 in the High School gym. The football team and cheerleaders were the invited guests of the class.

* * *

Mrs. Bailey's Chemistry divisions went on a Field Trip to the Quartermaster's Depot at Natick on Nov. 10. The group saw the various chemical divisions in operation and thoroughly enjoyed the trip.

* * *

The first meeting of the College Club was held on Tuesday, Nov. 15. To be eligible you must be in the College Preparatory Program and planning on post secondary training. Miss Jean Nelson is the club advisor.

* * *

Campaign slogans were posted all over the school. Some samples:

"You'll be happy and gay if you vote the Nancy Way" — Nancy Damon for Vice President.

"Whether she's a Democrat or a Republican we will give her votes" —Sandra Owens for 7th grade Class President.

"Vote for Bailey, he'll be there daily"—Bailey for President.

"Don't flop, don't flip, vote for John, 'cause he's a pip!" — John Woodcock for President.

"Vote for Randy for Student Council" — Randy Johnson for Student Council.

Adventures In Food At Town Hall, Dec. 5

WESTON — "Adventures in Food" is the intriguing title of the lecture to be given at the Weston Town House on Dec. 5 at 3:00 p. m. by S. S. Pierce's party consultant, Leslie C. Browning. This is the Community League's third program of the season. It promises hints for smart but easy entertaining and suggestions for Christmas parties.

Mrs. Gordon G. Howie is Program Chairman of the day and Mrs. Lawrence Cugini is Tea Chairman. Floral decorations will be created by Mrs. Whitney R. Nolte, assisted by Mrs. George A. Paul. The pourers at the tea after the program will be Mrs. Edward C. Green, Jr., Mrs. Clifton V. Jennings, Mrs. Everett A..Brotchie and Mrs. Homer N .Sweet.

First Parish Christmas Sale, Saturday, Dec. 3

WAYLAND — With proceeds pledged to the repair fund of the parish house, the First Parish Church will hold a Christmas Sale in the vestry, Saturday, Dec. 3, 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. Everyone in the Parish is asked to provide something for the sale tables which will offer Christmas foods and baked goods, candy, holiday decorations and wrappings, unusual gifts, white elephants, grabs for the children, and a snack bar. Everyone in the church and community is invited to attend.

Mrs. Carl Emery and Mrs. May Thibodeau will be co-chairmen of the food table offering jams, jellies, fruit cakes, rolls, beans, pies, etc. Mrs. Ernst Beutner will sell candies — hard Christmas candy, fudge, nuts, pop-corn balls. Mrs. Richard York is in charge of holiday decorations—tree ornaments, bells, greens, plants and boutonnieres. Mrs. Edwin Schnaider will handle Christmas wrapping papers, ribbons, tags, etc. Mrs. Maurice Williams is chairman of gifts — aprons, children's smocks, scuffs, bags. Mrs. Georges Barrel will deal in "white elephants"—those miscellaneous items perhaps useless to one, highly desirable to another.

Carl DeSuze, Nov. 25

WAYLAND — Carl DeSuze will speak on "Crossing the Time Bridge" at Wayland High School Auditorium at 8 p. m. Nov. 25. The lecture is sponsored by the Men's Club of the Trinitarian Congregational Church.

Weston Senior Sociables

The first of the current series of the Weston Senior Sociables will bo held Thanksgiving night at the Weston Golf Club. Dancing will be under the direction of the John Cornish Notts, with music by Ruby Newman.

These popular formal dances are given for Weston young people from grades 10 through 12. Upon request, names of any in this age group from outside Weston will be placed upon the guest list.

Each of the three affairs takes place during a school vacation in order that students from both the public and the private schools may attend. House guests may be brought so long as the Sociables Committee has been informed of their coming. Also, those desiring to attend single dances rather than the complete series will please let the Committee know by paying one week in advance.

For information, call Mrs. Victor C. Harnish at WA 5-1246 or Mrs. Merton E. Williams at WE 5-2575.

Vokes Pleases With "Remains To Be Seen"

Vokes Theatre has once more delighted its audience, this time with "Remains To Be Seen", a mystery-comedy well-directed by Joyce Bertelsen, written by Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse.

The curtain goes up on an attractive set, the booklined living room of wealthy Travis Revercombe, who has just been found dead of a heart attack in his bedroom. Mr. Revercombe was a thoroughly disliked person whose ostensible interest in life was suppressing naughty literature (the bookcases that line the walls are full of pornography).

In his will all his wealth is left to his niece, Jody Revere (played by Penny Buzzard) or on her death to an organization for the promotion of a universal language, UNALINGUA, represented by Valeska Chauvel (Jane Hodgkinson).

While the coroner (Kemp Reade), the dead man's lawyer Benjamin Goodman (played by John Littlefield), and the cop on duty (Paul Moorhead) are all in the apartment, the body is stabbed with a large carving knife . . . and the plot thickens.

Vast numbers of detectives and policemen now join the cast of characters, and also Jody Revere appears on the scene. She charms the stuffy Mr. Goodman, and Waldo Walton (Sandy MacMillan), the shy apartment house manager whose hobby is jazz music and playing the drums. Their mutual devotion to "cool" jive bring Jody and Waldo together, and soon "the joint is jumping".

Meanwhile the police learn that Mr. Revercombe didn't die of a heart attack at all, but of an overdose of insulin. The search for the real murderer and the person who left the carving knife in the body gets more and more involved, until it appears that Dr. Gresham (Phil Bassett), the deceased's physician, was in love with Miss Chauvel of UNALINGUA, and he killed Mr. Revercombe to free his love of that hateful influence, and so that UNALINGUA could get the money they were sure Mr. Revercombe would leave that organization.

Of course the murderer is caught, the two young jazz addicts go off hand in hand to play in a band together, and all ends to the satisfaction of everyone and the delight of the audience.

Penny Buzzard as the singer did a magnificent job of charming everybody, audience included. The several times that she is called upon to dress and undress in full view of the audience brought howls of delight from all. Particular credit should be given to Mary Kilpatrick, who dreamed up a spectacular wardrobe for her.

This was Sandy MacMillan's (Waldo Walton) first time behind the footlights, and it should not be his last. Completely captured by the singer, yet totally embarrassed by her forwardness, he brought a wonderful combination of awkwardness and loveableness to the part. His performance on the drums is something that no one will forget.

John Littlefield as Mr. Goodman was as stuffy a New York lawyer as anyone could wish for, and did a good job of loosening up under the charms of youth and beauty. Phil Bassett, who did Dr. Gresham, played his part with great intentness, and succeeded in being marvelously sinister.

The rest of the cast included Paul Moorhead, who did an excellent job of slapstick as the cop who got too interested in pornography, Kemp Reade as the coroner, John Buzzard and Hoddy Gray as two undertakers, Peter Salvucci and Lee Covington as two extremely tough (and extremely well cast) cops, with Bill Hodgkinson and Fred Perry as their underlings. Jack Hyland was the burly police Lieutenant, Dave Greenlie played the Japanese houseboy, and John Buzzard again, was the porter.

Director Joyce Bertelsen, who must have had her hands full with a cast of 14 men and two women, was assisted by Mimi Hutchinson. This was Joyce's first directing job, and she and Mimi both should be congratulated for a most successful production. — Betty Littlefield.

"Flower Bouquet" At Woman's Club, Dec. 6

WAYLAND—The Wayland Woman's Club will meet in the Vestry of the First Parish Church, Wayland, on Tuesday, Dec. 6. After a social hour at 2:30, the regular meeting will begin at 3:15.

Mr. Edward Ponten of the "Flower Bouquet" will demonstrate and create holiday arrangements and follow up with a workshop in which all members may participate. Members wishing to take part are requested to bring their own greens and a pair of shears.

Co-chairman of the tea committee are Mrs. Allen Benjamin and Mrs. Edward Rigney with the following committee: Mrs. Richard Bagnulo, Mrs. Frank Bentley, Mrs. Rudolph Bruce, Mrs. John Busser, Mrs. Flora Cody, Mrs. Charles Cole, Mrs. Archibald Cox, Mrs. Henry Doane, Mrs. Prentiss Emerton, Mrs. Carl Emery, Mrs. Alice Freeman, Mrs. Richard Fuller, Mrs. Thomas Gannett, Mrs. George Gerrish, Mrs. Lee Johnson, Mrs. Daniel Kennedy, Jr., Mrs. Robert Page Jr., Mrs. Clarence Stickney and Mrs. Andrew Thomas.

Christmas Seal Sale

WAYLAND— Solicitations have begun for the annual Christmas Seal sale of the Middlesex Health Association. Mrs. Stanley N. Marshall is chairman of the committee, Mrs. Rexford Moss is treasurer, and the members are Mrs. Carlisle D. Scotland, Mrs. Donald B. Willard and Mrs. Charles G. Smith.

A. K. Tibbetts Elected New D.P.I.A. Head

COCHITUATE — The Dudley Pond Improvement Association elected officers for the coming year at their November meeting: President, A. K. Tibbetts; First Vice-President, John Arnold; Second Vice President, E. C. Coe; Secretary, Mrs. Grace Yeuell; Treasurer, Mrs. Ronald Woods, and Auditor, Mrs. John Arnold.

A progressive whist party will be held at the D.P.I.A. clubhouse, Old Connecticut Path, beginning at 8 p. m., Saturday, Dec. 3. Donation, 50 cents per person, with a door prize to be awarded. Proceeds from this whist party will be used for the children's Christmas party.

Arrangements have been completed for a Children's Dance, ages 8 - 12 years, to be held at the clubhouse from 6:45 p. m. to 9 p. m., Saturday, Nov. 26.

A clothing exchange is held the first Friday of each month from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Clothing will be accepted the preceding Thursday from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. The next clothing exchange will be Dec. 2.

Community League Tea

WESTON—The officers and directors of The Women's Community League of Weston gave a tea in honor of Committee Members of the League on Wednesday, Nov. 16, from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m., at the home of the President, Mrs. George N. Chamberlain Jr., Orchard Avenue, Weston.

The tea was given with the hope of providing the many committee members of the Community League with an opportunity to meet and know those working in different departments of the same organization.

Pourers were Mrs. Dexter B. Hill, Mrs. John D. Glover, Mrs. Raymond G. Hastings, Mrs. George E. Bulwinkle, Mrs. Vernon M. F. Tallman and Mrs. Henry M. Merrill.

Mel Orenstein, P.T.A. Pres. at Cochituate

COCHITUATE—At the October meeting of the Cochituate P.T.A., the following officers were elected: president, Mel Orenstein, vice-president, Mrs. John McCann; secretary, Mrs. Gene Slotta, and treasurer, Mrs. Robert Schultz.

Mrs. Richard A. Howard, a delegate to the Massachusetts Conference on Education at Amherst, and Superintendent Edward J. Anderson, were the speakers. The school faculty was introduced. Refreshments were served by first grade mothers under the chairmanship of Mrs. Cora A. Revell.

Wayland Women Told About India

WAYLAND—"When does a sari look sorry?", was one of the mysteries of "Everyday Life in India" explained by Miss Hemlata Shah to the First Parish Women's Alliance at a meeting on Nov. 8.

Miss Shah is a winsome 18-year-old psychology student from Bombay, India, now studying at Boston University. She is not a professional public speaker and was introduced to the Alliance by Mrs. John Tanger, who asked questions of Miss Shah regarding her life here and in India.

Miss Shah described her life at home as being a very westernized one—she wore the latest clothes copied from Seventeen, lived in an apartment building with modern electrical and gas appliances and many servants, too.

Here in the United States, she wears the brilliantly colored saris of her native India, partly, she explained, to cut down wardrobe expense and bother, as a sari just doesn't wear out and needs only dry cleaning for upkeep. Miss Shah demonstrated how to put on a sari. Saris go out of fashion just like our western styles in clothes—the patterns woven in the silk sometimes become passe. A sari costs in the neighborhood of $80 to $100 and takes about a month to make to order.

Miss Shah believes that Indian children are happier than United States children because they know just what is expected of them, don't have as much freedom and respect their parents' authority. Although a psychology major, Miss Shah stated that she would not raise a child by modern "psychology."

Mrs. Frederick Walther, Alliance president, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Henry G. Pearson was hostess for the tea that followed Miss Shah's talk.

Dave Walsh Honored As Contest Winner

WAYLAND — David E. Walsh of State Road East led the Boston agency of the Aetna Life Insurance Company in writing new business during the company's annual "App Scrap" selling campaign in October and was given a dinner for it at the Wellesley Country Club on Nov. 10. Fifty couples attended.

H. W. Florer, Boston general agent, said Mr. Walsh's record in the campaign was one of the best in the country.

Mr. Richardson, Church Member For 77 Years

WESTON — Funeral services were held at the Weston Methodist Church on Nov. 3 for Howard C. Richardson of 56 Westland Road, who was 88 years old and had been a member of the church for 77 years. He had sung in the choir, taught Sunday School and held almost every office in the church.

Two years ago the congregation gave him a scroll of appreciation and a color photograph of the church, in honor of 75 years of service.

Roger Ela's Morgan Is Grand Champion

Vigildon was pinned over a large class of Morgans from New England, New York, Pennsylvania and the Middle West.

Cub Scout Pack 53

WESTON—Cub Scout Pack No. 53 is sponsored by St. Peter's Church. Mr. Royce C. Kahler and Mr. Paul L. Secord are the leaders. Meetings are the first Friday evenings of each month at the church. Eight-year-olds are invited. If interested, call Mr. Kahler, at WA 5-6794-M.

Five Weston boys are attending Middlesex School at Concord this year. They are Peter Holland, John Williams, Richard Hartwell, Peter Freeman and Walter Weld.

Permit To Move Gravel Denied

WESTON — The petition of Henry A. Letoile to remove 75,000 to 100,000 yards of gravel from a hill on Winter Street has been denied by the Weston Zoning Board of Appeals.

The minutes of a public hearing held on the matter on Oct. 17 show that 19 nearby residents appeared in opposition to the petition. The minutes further say that Mr. Letoile testified he was a straw for B. Perini & Sons, contractors on the nearby toll road.

Mr. Letoile, says the record, acquired 21 acres on Winter Street, near the toll road. On this lot was a six-acre hill, about 25 feet high, more or less covered with trees. He proposed to use gravel from this hill in toll road construction, moving the fill directly to the highway site without using Winter Street. He promised not to remove topsoil and said he meant to create a couple of house lots.

At the hearing, William R. Dewey Jr., chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said he would oppose use of any Town roads in moving gravel. Spokesmen for the nearby residents said removal of the hill would be detrimental to the neighborhood. After the hearing, the Board decided unanimously to deny the petition.

Dana R. Thorpe of Cochituate, a field representative of The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, was nineteenth in volume of insurance, submitted during October, a month when more people applied for a greater amount of personal insurance with Mutual of New York than in any comparable period in the company's 112-year history. In number of applications for insurance submitted during the month, Mr. Thorpe also ranked high, the company says.

4-H Trial Riders Go For 18-Mile Jaunt

Tho Weston-Wayland 4-H Trail Ride was held on Saturday, Nov. 12. Forty horses were entered from Lincoln, Milton, Littleton, Chelmsford, and the North Shore 4-H Trail Riders.

Dr. Francis McGee of Marlboro and Mrs. Lyman Orcutt of West Newbury judged condition of horses and horsemanship.

Best Trail horse ribbon was won by "Townsend Gladaleet", ridden by Sally Ayers of Weston. Second was "Timmy", ridden by Sally Lord of Essex. "Westfall Barby", ridden by Ellen Raynor of Weston, was third and "Dakota", ridden by Betsy Hammond of Wayland, fourth.

Karen Smith of Wayland won the blue ribbon for horsemanship. Second was Harriet Hartwell of Weston, third Franklyn Poor Jr. of Wenham, and fourth, Carol Ganson of Weston.

The 18-mile route began and ended at the home of Mrs. Edward W. Raynor, Boston Post Road, Weston, and made a large circle going through Exmoor Farm, woods near Highland Street, Paine estate in Weston, Rice Road, Wayland, and the Mainstone Farm and Woodridge areas of Wayland. Some of this area is part of Weston's Town forest section. There was a three-hour time limit for the ride.

COCHITUATE—The Cochituate P.T.O. held a meeting at the school on Tuesday, Nov. 15. Six classrooms were open for inspection. Teachers explained the year's work and answered questions concerning the program. Two new Room Mothers were introduced, Mrs. William Southworth for Mrs. Triebs' third grade, and Mrs. John Horen for Mr. Guarino's sixth grade.

Grade One Parents To Meet on Nov. 29

WESTON — Parents of Grade One children are planning their first meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 29, at 8 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Rolf Stutz, 146 Conant Road. This is under the P. T. A. Child Study Group.

Mrs. William Malamud, Exexutive Director of the Massachusetts Association for Mental Health, will present a film, "Preface To a Life". A discussion will follow.

The Committee includes Mrs. Samuel D. Bush, Mrs. Arthur Greene, Mrs. Richard Lamarche, Mrs. Stuart Shotwell, Mrs. Rolf Stutz and Mrs. C. Richard Powers.

PUBLISHED FORTNIGHTLY FOR THE RESIDENTS OF COCHITUATE, WAYLAND, AND WESTON

Vol. 10, No. 6. DECEMBER 8, 1955 10c a copy, $2.00 per year

Ray Harris Is New Member of Wayland Finance Committee

RAY W. HARRIS

WAYLAND — Newest member of the Wayland Finance Committee is Ray W. Harris of Pequot Road, in the Happy Hollow section, who was appointed by the Selectmen as of Dec. 1 for a two-year term, replacing Donald B. Willard, whose term expired.

Mr. Harris was born in Nebraska and grew up on a ranch. He served in the combat engineers and in the infantry in World War II and was wounded in Germany. He was discharged from Madigan Convalescent Hospital in the state of Washington in 1945.

Later, he was graduated from the University of Illinois as a bachelor of science in chemistry, with highest honors. After that, he obtained a master's degree in chemical engineering at M. I. T. At present he is working with Dewey and Almy as a group leader in process engineering.

He was married in 1947 to Hildegarde Herold. They have two children, Jeff, 6, and Kit, 4.

Reappointed to the Committee was Frank A. Larson of Fuller Road, Cochituate.

Friendly Society To Present New Musical

WESTON—A new musical, "All Kidding Aside", will be presented by the Friendly Society of Weston at Town Hall in Weston during two weekends next spring, April 27 and 28, and May 4 and 5, it has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Whittemore, of Weston, who are serving as General Co-chairmen of the production.

Author of the play is Mrs. Guy Garland, with music by Mrs. Owen C. Howe, Jr., and lyrics by Mrs. John H. Durant and Mrs. Guy Garland. William O. Partridge of Belmont will direct the show, with William F. Frank serving as musical director, and Russell Petersen as choreographer.

Frank W. Hatch and Mrs. Allen T. Wheeler will provide special music for the production.

First rehearsals will be held in January in the First Parish Church, Weston. Principals will rehearse on Jan. 8, singers on Jan. 9, and dancers on Jan. 12. A dress rehearsal will be held on April 26, the day before the first performance.

Ronald H. Wood of Bent Avenue, Cochituate, shot a 263-pound deer near Square Lake, Maine, on the Oct. 12 weekend. It was one of the largest taken in that region this season.

First Family Square Dance of Women's Community League

WESTON—High on the list of exciting holiday events in Weston is the first family square dance of this season's series, to be held from 8 to 11 p. m. on Friday, Dec. 16, in the gymnasium of the Country School. The dance is sponsored by the Women's Community League and the proceeds go to the scholarship fund.

Everybody has to come in sneakers, to protect the gym floor.

Children from the fifth grade up, with parents and friends, are invited, and everybody is welcome. Charlie Baldwin will be the caller.

Mrs. John Chipman Gray is chairman of the Square Dance Committee.

Doorway Contest By Garden Club

WAYLAND — A Christmas Doorway Contest will be sponsored by the Wayland Garden Club for residents of Wayland, who may enter by notifying Mrs. Francis Devlin of Lincoln Road, by Dec. 14. Judging will take place on Dec. 18, and Mrs. Devlin says:

"Prizes will be awarded on the basis of total effect of good design, to be executed by yourselves. We urge you all to enter."

Judges will be Mrs. Steed Fuller, Mrs. Azel Collins and Horace B. Gray. First prize will be a turkey donated by Collins Market; second, a basket of fruit and delicacies donated by Capps Supermarket, and third, a bottle of wine given by the Post Road Liquor Store.

Please send blanks to Mrs. Francis Devlin, Lincoln Road.

I wish to enter the Wayland Garden Club

Christmas Concert, Community Chorus

On Sunday afternoon, Dec. 11, at 4:30 in the Wayland High School, a performance of selections from Handel's "Messiah" will be given by the Community Chorus under the direction of Chester W. Williams. The Community Orchestra, Lucy Parker, concert mistress, will provide the musical accompaniment. Guest soloists will be selected students from the New England Conservatory of Music.

The 'Messiah" has for a long time been a favorite oratorio among music listeners, especially at Christmas time. Many will like to take this opportunity to renew their impressions of the work and young students of music, to enrich their musical knowledge. The concert is open to all those who would like to attend, free of admission.

The Chorus gave a request performance of the "Messiah" at St. Mark's School, Southboro, on Dec. 5 with Hazel O'Donnell, our accompanist, and a small ensemble.

Plans have already been made for our Spring Concert which should be interesting to those who sing as well as our audience. It will consist of a selection of short pieces by Vaughan Williams, Bela Bartok, some Brahms Waltzes and one longer work undecided upon as yet. From these works Mr. Williams will choose for the WCRB recordings, for their special broadcasts — Mari Dengler.

Trumpet Choir For Christmas Tableau

WAYLAND — A trumpet choir playing from the First Parish Church tower will provide the music for the Christmas tableau and Carol sing on the Church lawn at 5:45 p. m., Sunday, Dec. 18. It will be held indoors if the weather is bad. David Trageser is in charge. Everyone is invited.

Raytheon Opens Wayland Lab

Raytheon's Wayland Laboratory is officially open. Last week was open house week, and everyone who wanted had an exciting look. First there was a preview on Nov. 29 for local dignitaries, the military and the press. Then on Friday evening the laboratory's employees entertained their families. On Saturday afternoon the public in general and Wayland in particular trooped through the mammoth building to see the sights.

Especially impressive to local residents, who remembered the site as a pine-covered hill, were the vast parking area and the 225,000 square feet of floor space, representing five acres of laboratories, offices, drafting rooms and machine shops.

Approximately 1200 employees will be housed in the building composing the largest electronics engineering force in New England. The building which was started just a year ago cost $2,500,00. Contractors were Vappi and Company.

Luncheon at Weston

At a luncheon held at the Weston Golf Club following the preveiw, President Charles Francis Adams Jr. called attention to the fine relationship that had already grown up between the company and Town officials. He introduced Major General Raymond C. Maude, U.S. Air Force, commander of the Cambridge Research Center, who pointed out that the work done at the Wayland Laboratory was largely for the military. He said that modern weapons are dependent on electronic "gadgets," and the Armed Services rely on universities and industry for research and development in this field.

Dr. Guyford Stever, chief scientist for the U.S. Air Force, was introduced and apologized that so much of the laboratory's work was super-secret and had to be concealed under voluminous white sheeting.

Pigeon Hill Road Is The Street For Sliding

WESTON—A protected Winter sliding place for local children is provided on Pigeon Hill Road, from Hilltop Road to Conant Road, a distance of nearly 1000 feet. There are no houses along this stretch and the Highway Department takes pains not to plow or sand it.

Sliding hours, when there is snow, are from 2 to 6 p. m. on weekdays, 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. on Saturdays, and from 12:30 to 6 p. m. on Sundays.

School Site Committee Hikes 50 Miles, Works 500 Hours

WAYLAND—Since the Engelhardt report on the Town's school needs, the School Site Committee has met 18 times, walked 50 miles, viewed 24 different sites in good weather and bad, checked on water levels and negotiated with various owners of property, while its members have also tried to meet their other public and private obligations.

Service on this committee is positively unpaid.

As of Nov. 30, the Committee said it hoped to have a report ready to submit to a Special Town Meeting in the middle or latter part of January. However, as of Nov. 30, no such meeting had been called.

Some of the points the Committee makes:

Complete specifications of the sites must be made three weeks before a Town Meeting, to allow for printing and distribution of the warrant.

One to two weeks are required for the Town Engineer to verify or lay out bounds for a proposed site.

One to two weeks are required for the Board of Health to arrange percolation tests. These consist of digging holes in the ground and pouring in water. Broadly speaking, if the water doesn't sink into the ground, the place is too wet.

500 Hours

Four to eight weeks are required to hold meetings, to pore over topographic maps, the Town atlas, aerial photographs and assessors' lists, and to confer with owners or trustees of potential sites.

The Committee has spent 500 man-and-woman hours in meetings and in field trips.

The Committee will publish a brief report well in advance of any Town Meeting, so that everybody will know what is proposed and can ask questions.

As of Nov. 30, the Committee did not have specific recommendations to make public. Quotation:

"We can say that the whole Committee is taking a very long range point of view. In fact, the Site Committee might well be re-named the Long Range Committee, or Saturation Day Committee . . . We are as

Supt. of Schools Calvin Gross To Leave Weston

WESTON — Calvin E. Gross, Superintendent of Schools in Weston since 1951, has resigned to become head of the Niskayuna Central School District in the Mohawk Valley of New York State, he announces.

The end of his service in Weston is set for Feb. 1, 1956, but he says this date is flexible. He will stay until a new Superintendent is found, and then a week or so longer to show the new man the ropes.

He says the new job involves a larger district, with more responsibility. It now includes seven schools, and a new 750-pupil high school, on a 52-acre site, is being built in it.

Mr. Gross says he leaves Weston with regret.

"Weston has a terrific school system," he says. "And the reason is that the people want it that way, and are willing to spend the money and time to make it so. There is a wonderful staff of people here. I have enjoyed all of them, and the Town has been fair and generous with me."

Mr. and Mrs. Gross have one daughter, 2-year-old Georgette, known as Gigi.

Christmas Service On Monday, Dec. 19

WESTON—The Weston Protestant churches will combine to give a special Christmas devotional service on Monday, Dec. 19, at 3 p. m. in the First Parish Church Junior Chapel. The Women's Benevolent Alliance of the parish, hostesses,, extend a welcome to all in Weston and surrounding communities to attend.

The service will be conducted by Mrs. Ethel S. Anderson, Mrs. Frank Arioli, Mrs. Stanley Melby, Mrs. Harrison Ripley and Mrs. Lincoln Smith.

Mr. Reginald Cahill will be organist and choir director and Mrs. Joseph O'Donnell will sing, "No Candle Was There and No Fire", by Lehmann. In the choir will be Mrs. John Rudell, Mrs. Raymond Harrington, Mrs. Alfred Wypler Jr., Mrs. John B. Paine Jr., Mrs. Walter Johnson, Mrs. Lyman Hayes, Mrs. Walter Stockmayer, Mrs. Francis Whittemore, Mrs. Harold Belles, Mrs. Putnam Flint, Mrs. Ralph Child, Mrs. John Gourgas and Mrs. Raymond Coburn.

Among the ushers will be Mrs. Waldo Kelleigh, Mrs. Joseph Crowe, Mrs. Carl A. Rydell, Mrs. Walter Maron and Mrs. Warren Campbell.

The program will be followed by the Christmas tea, with Mrs. Alfred Thomas as hostess.

The annual mitten sale will be in charge of Mrs. McKinley Warren. Donations of wool or of knitted articles, especially socks and sweaters, will be gratefully received. They will go to help the work of the Unitarian Service Committee in Toulouse, France.

Mrs. Bruce To Be On Big Radio Hook-Up

Mrs. Rudolph Bruce, State President of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, and former president of the Wayland League, is going on the air nationally.

In November, at WBZ, a tape recording was made as part of a series to be used for nation-wide broadcasts, starting in December. This series, conducted by Miss Helen Parkhurst, is called "Growing Pains", and consists of interviews with teen-aged young people.

In the first part of this recording, six Watertown boys discussed their reactions to the draft. In the second portion of the program, Mrs. Bruce and Col. Paul Feeney of the Massachusetts Selective Service, together with Miss Parkhurst, considered the emotional impact and the validity of these reactions.

Mrs. Bruce says:

"Parents don't face up to the fact of military service. Too many parents are reluctant to bring up the subject, with the result that the boys have to carry the emotional burden of trying to plan a future without the guidance and support of their parents."

Edith Thayer of Main Street, Cochituate, for several years visitor for the Wayland Board of Public Welfare, has resigned, retired and gone to live in Florida.

Cleaner Swimming In Weston Next Spring

WESTON — Ingenious spray cooling and filtering equipment has been installed at the Memorial Swimming Pool and will be available next season, it has been announced.

This pool is mostly spring fed, but gets some of its water from the Town pipes. In hot weather, the water in the pool has become pretty warm and algae have started to breed or generate or whatever they do.

The new equipment sucks water from the shallow end of the pool, where it is warmest, puts it through a mechanical filter which cleans it, then blows it back into the pool as a spray at the deep end.

This operation, it is said, will cool the water and tend to prevent the accumulation of algae. Cost of the installation was around $6500.

Four Articles In Special Weston Town Meeting, Dec. 12

WESTON—Four articles will be in the warrant for the special Town Meeting scheduled for Monday, Dec. 12, at 8 p. m., in the Town House.

Article 1 will be to see whether the Town will vote a supplementary appropriation of $1675 for the School Department. The story is that it was found impossible, this year, to recruit new teachers wanted without adjusting the starting pay schedules.

Article 2 calls for an appropriation of $3500 for Dutch elm disease control. Specifically, it is proposed to survey elms on private land within 250 feet of public ways. Samples from suspected trees will be sent to the University of Massachusetts, and those found guilty will be destroyed. Private owners will be asked to pay 50 per cent of the cost of removal. This Article comes on account of recent inroads of the disease in the Town.

Article 3 calls for appropriating around $4500 to finish replacing Town pumping equipment at Nickerson Field, at a Town well. The sum of $8200, voted for this purpose at the March Town Meeting, is said to have proved insufficient.

Article 4 calls for acceptance of revisions of the building code.

John Leavitt Still Legion Ass'n Head

COCHITUATE—John W. Leavitt, first and only president of the Wayland-Cochituate Legion Building Association, Inc., was reelected again at the 18th annual meeting of the Association, held recently. This is the organization which holds title to the Legion building in Cochituate.

Richard H. Burchill was chosen treasurer and William McSweeney, secretary. Directors are Parker Groton, James Bolton Sr., Richard Burchill and George Stockbridge.

Wayland Building Permits

Pleasant Homes Realty, 42 Red Barn Road; Robert J. Curran, 15 Maguire Road; Patrick W. Shomphe, 12 and 14 Marshall Terrace, and Einar P. Robsham, 20 Sylvan Way.

WESTON—A pair of brown-tan-pink knitted gloves, found in front of the book stall, are in the Crier office awaiting a claimant. So's a child's blue sweater, found a month ago on the Post Road.

Wayland Growing, To Have Another Voting Precinct

WAYLAND—Wayland Selectmen and Town Clerk Leila Sears are in process of complying with a State law by which Wayland should have three precincts instead of two by next Town Meeting.

The law, says Miss Sears, is that the number of registered voters in a precinct shall not be more than 2000. Wayland now has more than 1700 in each precinct. However, there hasn't been a Presidential year since 1952, and it seems certain that the 1956 registration will be much greater than the present one.

There hasn't been a formal registration in Town since February. However, 200 or more new voters have trickled in since that time. With a formal registration period in January and February for Town Meeting, and many more to register for the November election of next year, it is believed the Town's total registration would go far above 2000 to each precinct.

What would replace the ancient two-precinct system in Town, it is said, is a three-precinct deal, each precinct having about 1300 voters.

The Selectmen say they don't want to change the present system any more than necessary. Thus, Precinct 1, Wayland Center and North Wayland, would remain somewhat as at present. So would Precinct 2, which is Cochituate.

The new Precinct, Precinct 3, would be in the North-and-South geographical middle of the Town. The Happy Hollow School would be the voting place. The bounds of this Precinct aren't yet completely drawn, but it is believed it would include a belt across Town from the Framingham line on Old Connecticut Path perhaps to Westway and the Weston line beyond Rice Road. It might include both the Riverview section and a good part of Woodridge, besides the Happy Hollow area.

Chairman John W. Leavitt of the Board of Selectmen says the Board doesn't want to disturb the voting habits of Wayland citizens. However, the law is specific and the deadline for the change is some time late this December.

The change involves an exact delineation of areas by streets, and this is what Miss Sears has been working on.

The two-precinct arrangement has existed for ages, since the time when Cochituate was a manufacturing center and Wayland a farming village. The change to three precincts, it was supposed, might prompt some changes in representation on Town boards and perhaps might cause some changes in the political complexion of the Town.

In an earlier day, new residents may have heard, the union between Wayland and Cochituate was sometimes more warm than willing. For one thing, the two villages were physically separated by several miles of woods. Since World War II, however, the woods have been cut into house lots and settled by newcomers who never heard of the ancient rivalry and didn't care.

In new Precinct 3, possibly, there would be a preponderance of voters new to Cochituate or Wayland in the past decade.

FOLEY — In Framingham, Oct. 23, Helen F. (Toohill), wife of John J. Foley of 65 Central Street, Saxonville, formerly of Corman's Lane, Cochituate. Requiem Mass in St. George's Church in Saxonville on Tuesday, Oct. 25. Interment in Lakeview Cemetery.

W. R. Hulbert Resigns As C. D. Director

WAYLAND — W. R. Hulbert, director of Wayland Civilian Defense through all the recent hurricanes and floods, submitted his resignation to Wayland Selectmen on Dec. 5, explaining:

"For some months now the press of my professional work has prevented my giving the conscientious and thorough attention to the duties of Civil Defense Director that I believe the post requires."

Mr. Hulbert asked thatt he resignation take effect Dec. 31.

Old Sudbury Road Will Be Smoother

WAYLAND—The section of Old Sudbury Road north of the railroad tracks, which has a new surface but seems rough, isn't going to stay rough, says Highway Surveyor Albert Potvin.

The old surface was scraped off and the road was widened. But the land along there is low, and it was considered best to let the new road settle for a year or so before the final surface was put on. So, the present surface is temporary, and the new one, to be put on next year, will be smooth.

Sylvania Places Cops At Busy Intersection

WESTON — At the request of the Town, Sylvania has stationed a traffic officer at the intersection of Lexington Street and North Avenue, night and morning, to handle the vehicles going to and from the Sylvania plant.

The officer is on duty from 7:30 to 8:30 a. m. and from 4:30 to 5:30 p. m. The traffic on Lexington Street had caused many complaints.

A Word to the Wives...

SANTA'S GUEST OF HONOR

It's almost Christmas — that happy season of the glad hand and the open door, when friends from near and far, and neighbors, take time out of the busy tempo of living to renew old friendships and extend warm-hearted greetings across a festive board. Yes, the holiday season is a time for entertaining —the very warp of the magical holiday fabric is hospitality.

Extending holiday hospitality to a number of guests at a time, even in a small home, need not create a problem. Particularly if you plan your furnishings to adapt readily from family to party giving. Many highly successful hostesses serve a crowd from a coffee table. This makes entertaining simple and easy, and guests comfortable.

The Provincial living room in the above sketch is on the small side, but, with careful planning it has been made capable of big-room performance. Much of the credit for this is due to the generous-sized, drop-leaf coffee table. When the leaves are raised the surface area is almost doubled. Note that while the coffee table is on the large side, it is in perfect scale and balance with the other furnishings.

Now's the time to make sure that your home is ready to say "Merry Christmas" to your holiday guests. Our friendly home counselors will be most happy to assist you with your decorating and furnishing plans to help you do this effectively. Come in today!

Allen Barker In Charity Concert

WESTON—Allen Barker, concert pianist of Wayland, gave a recital in the Country School auditorium on November 19 covering a wide range of classical and contemporary music.

Commencing with the Impromptu No. 1 of Faure, he followed it with Ravel's Gaspard de la Nuit, and the Pastorale and Toccata by Poulenc.

Mr. Barker had his best opportunity to show his brilliant technique in Beethoven's Thirty-two Variations on an Original Theme. The performance was thoroughly competent and confident and a pleasure to listen to.

Chopin's Troisieme Ballade and Two Etudes completed the program, which was well attended in spite of the storm.

The entire proceeds of the concert were donated to the Boston Nursery for Blind Babies building fund, of which Mrs. William W. Dunnell, Jr., of Wayland, is president. Mrs. C. Mifflin Frothingham, managed the concert.

Sponsors included:

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Brooks 2nd, Mr. and Mrs. M. Adolphus Cheek Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davenport, Mrs. Gordon Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Field, Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. C. Mifflin Frothingham, Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Gruener, Miss Muriel Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Hatch, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Keir.

Dr. and Mrs. John P. Monks, Mrs. Arthur H. Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Constantin A. Pertzoff, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Post, Mrs. Edmund Sears, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Whiteside, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence L. Winship, and Mr. and Mrs. John G. Wright.

Ushers were Miss Miriam Brooks, Miss Iris Ann Hubbard, Miss Cornelia Hurley, Miss Anne Knowles, Miss Susan Smith and Miss Frances Tyng.

Dual County League basketball begins early in January, after preliminary games in December for both Wayland and Weston. The senior stars of last year's championship Weston team have been graduated, and what team has this season's players remains to be seen.

Julius H. Mueller Jr., principal of Weston High, is president of the League again this year. He was its first president when it was formed, back in 1947. Robert J. Carini, Weston basketball coach, is the League's secretary-treasurer.

Wayland and Weston will meet first at Wayland, on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 24, and later on will wind up the season at Weston on Friday evening, Feb. 17, at Weston.

Samuel Strickland is the Wayland coach. In addition to the games shown on the schedule above, Wayland will play Maynard at Wayland, Dec. 14, and Ashland at Wayland on Dec. 16.

Weston Men's Club Guest Night, Dec. 14

WESTON—Boy Scout Troop 52 will be guests at the dinner meeting of the Weston Men's Club at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday, Dec. 14, in the High School cafeteria. Each member of the Club is asked to bring a guest, in addition to the Boy Scouts.

The speaker will be Mr. K. Thomas Call of the Liberty Mutual Fire Insurance Company, who will present, "Play for Your Life", a program of games tending to teach members of a family how to escape injury in case of fire.

Reservations must be made by Monday, Dec. 12, with L. F. Rafuse, or R. L. Helgeson.

The second meeting of the Club this season was held Nov. 9, with a program presented by the telephone company.

WESTON—Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Travis of Saddle Hill flew out to the Grand Canyon and the Pacific Coast at the end of November, and meant to be back Dec. 16. Their son, Robert F. Travis, and his wife, with their two sons, Nickie and Chris, are expected in Weston for Christmas, along with two married Travis daughters and their families, for a holiday gathering of 12.

Weston, Wayland Heart Fund Date

Door-to-door collections for the Heart Fund will be made on Sunday, Feb. 26, in both Weston and Wayland, it has been announced by Dr. Sylvester McGinn, president of the Greater Boston Chapter of the Massachusetts Heart Association.

Chairman of the Wayland committee is Mrs. Allan R. Finlay, member of the Woman's Club, a Brownie leader and a director of the State Garden Club Federation.

Weston chairman is Mrs. David R. Lutkins of 15 Hidden Road, a Girl Scout leader who helped in the 1954 Heart Fund campaign.

suming that . . . the citizens want to plan for the future of Wayland."

The Committee has had the advice of Roger P. Stokey, former Town Counsel; Frank Kilburn, present Town Counsel, and Edward J. Anderson, Superintendent of Schools.

The Committee

By vote of the Town, the Committee consists of one member each from the Selectmen, the Finance Committee, the Planning Board and the School Committee, with five others chosen by the first four. After the disagreements of last March, the entire Site Committee of that time resigned, and the one now operating is entirely new. Its members:

Chairman, Lewis W. Avard; Finance Committee, of White Road. Has lived in Wayland since 1946. One son in Cochituate School, one son in High School. Served on Happy Hollow Site Committee.

Thomas F. Linnehan, Selectman. Life long resident of Wayland. Lives on Millbrook Road. One son in High School. Has fuel oil business in Wayland and has long been active in Town affairs.

John B. Butler, School Committee, of Bow Road. Wayland resident for five years. One son in college. Retired.

L. W. Bertelsen, Planning Board, of Glezen Lane. Wayland resident five years. One pre-school son. Patent attorney in Boston.

Mrs. Richard A. Howard, Ridgefield Road. Wayland resident for 12 years. Two daughters in Cochituate School. Former president, Wayland League of Women Voters.

Benjamin Johnson of Cochituate Road. Resident nearly 30 years. Son and daughter, both through college. Owns and operates pharmacy in Cochituate.

Wallace F. Jones, Oak Street. Resident nine years. Three children in Happy Hollow, one pre-school child. Served on Regional School Committee and is vice president of Happy Hollow P. T. A. District sales manager for insurance company in Boston.

Bruce Kingsbury, Goodman Lane. Resident three years. Has three sons, two in Happy Hollow School. Appointed to fill vacancy on Planning Board. He's on the administrative staff of M. I. T.

Mrs. Eleanore Marbet, Concord Road. Resident four years. One daughter in High School, son in Center School, pre-school daughter.

New Products Born Here

Charles Francis Adams Jr., president, points out a TV link to Lieut. Gov. Sumner G. Whittier at press preview of laboratory. To the right stand Maj. Gen. Raymond C. Maude, U. S. A., Dr. Fritz Gross, manager, Wayland Laboratory, and D. R. Hull, vice-president and general manager of equipment operations.

Just what is that two-story laboratory with five acres of floor space for? That's a reasonable question Wayland people are asking these days. Raytheon gave the answer at its open house last Saturday afternoon.

First off, its function in the company was well illustrated by a flow chart which shows what happens when the customer sets in motion a request for a new product.

The lab's customers are usually the aviation or marine industries or the military. They tell Raytheon they want a new model of the Raytheon Pathfinder Radar No. 1500. This consists of two units, a radar scope and antenna. Everything from the birth of this request to the finished product happens right at the Wayland Laboratory.

Contracts are drawn up, engineering specifications are written, the electrical and mechanical aspects of the design are coordinated, and the product as a whole is designed. All this involves lawyers, librarians, technical writers, project leaders, engineers galore, product designers and draftsmen, model makers, machinists and assemblers.

Gradually the revised model of the Pathfinder emerges. Now it must be tested component by component. There are 600 parts in the scope. 400 in the antenna. It will also need environment tests—cold heat, damp and dryness. Finally the first few experimental prototype models are ready to turn over for trial. All this may take two years and may cost anywhere from $150,000 on up.

Radar detective devices are naturally the most conspicuous products worked on. Antennae litter the roof on which there is also located a penthouse. Here engineers constantly test the antenna's effectiveness. A ground based antenna which is now standard equipment for all NATO equipment whirls silently, while downstairs its findings are recorded on a radar scope. High tension lines along the railroad show up on the scope as tiny dots. The Woodridge hills look like fluffy clouds and the Sudbury river a dark abyss. Another type of radar developed here detects and tracks hurricanes as much as 300 miles away.

On another floor is a large laboratory devoted exclusively to communications. You are greeted at the door by a picture of yourself entering the door on a TV screen. A telephone terminal is displayed demonstrating how 23 telephone conversations are channeled into a video train of position modulated pulses. Microwave communications links used to relay television waves across the country are demonstrated.

In the Fathometer lab a 14-foot deep pool is used to test various sonar underwater detecting devices. (The Safety Engineer has hung up a life preserver and rope nearby, but no rowboat and oars have yet appeared.) One of these gadgets is currently being used to measure the silt accumulation on the bottom of the Cape Cod Canal.

These are just a few of the conspicuous developments the layman sees as he hurries through. But any of the many electronic products which Raytheon is currently producing may be engineered here as well. These would include such typical devices as altimeters, industrial ultrasonics, microwave diathermy, radar ranges and ovens, precipitators, servo mechanisms, transducers, and transistors.

Most flattering to Wayland people, perhaps, is that this important research center for the company should have been officially named after the Town, that is, "Wayland Laboratory".

Raytheon —

Selectman John W. Leavitt brought greetings from the Town and lauded the cooperation the company had given. He said he had checked with Homer MacDonald, Town building inspector, to see if he'd approved of the miles of complicated wiring in the building and Homer had OK'd it. The Selectmen, he said had received a lot of complaints from light sleepers on Bow Road about the lights being on all night, but the matter was being investigated. The Board of Assessors, he added, were going to be meeting with the Raytheon policy makers very soon, and he expected it to be a worthwhile occasion.

In conclusion, Lt. Governor Sumner G. Whittier brought the greetings of the Commonwealth for Governor Herter. President Adams, he said, was following the tradition of greatness established by his distinguished Massachusetts forbears, the Adams family. Raytheon, he said, employs 17,000 of the 110,000 people working today in electronics in the state. "The establishment of this lab is another step important to the future of the Commonwealth. It emphasizes that research is our richest resource."

Pre-View Side Lights

Kenneth C. Larkin of Concord Road took a prominent part in guiding guests through his department, where radar direction finders for rescue work are developed.

New Character To Represent Good Causes In Wayland?

WAYLAND—Having studied at length the map of Wayland, a public-spirited citizen has come up with an idea for a civic symbol.

He finally saw the shape of the Town as approximately that of a man with a comfortable bay window. He had a silhouette made, with a few alterations to improve the likeness, and we show it here along with the map which inspired it.

His idea is that "Mr. Wayland", or some such character as this by some other name, may become an unofficial Town personality, patron of good works, inspiration of good government and perhaps, one of these days, a famous trademark of the Town, to be seen all over.

He will accept amendments to the character's outline, hat and name, but he thinks there's an idea here for a civic personification to be for Wayland what Uncle Sam is for the United States.

Country Garden Club

WESTON—Neqt meeting of the Country Garden Club will be at the home of Mrs. Robert E. Marsh, 27 Partridge Hill Road, on Dec. 14. Members will gather at 10 a. m. and spend the day in "A Christmas Workshop". Mrs. Marsh will be the speaker and she will show how to make decorations for the coming holidays.

Modern Gadgets Will Work --- For Those Who Know the Mau Mau Oath

They give you the combination to unlock the letter box. Three times to the left, four to the right to B, then back to where you left the picnic basket with the sandwiches in it.

Will it open? Of course it won't. They don't tell you where to start. They don't tell you that at the very end you have to whack the frammis with the antersin, nor that you have to mutter the Mau Mau oath on the third turn.

Now the cussedness of inanimate objects is nothing new, but out in the country it shows up in naked ugliness.

Take the oil burner.

In the city, it quits. One then picks up the phone, calls a man, and in a little while everything is all right.

In the country, hah! The brook rises up, or the river washes in, and 4000 repair men can't fix the heater until the water recedes.

Incidentally, the Wayland High School teams don't have any such nickname as Eagles or Beavers or Bruins or Tigers or Bulldogs, and one of the boys, considering the liquid nature of Wayland, suggests the sports writers try Muskrats.

Or take the electric light.

When Thomas Edison quit this world, he left the electric light in good condition, in the cities. And he left people there a way out. When city lights quit, the family can go to a restaurant and the movies, and by the time they get home everything is alive again.

In the country, hah! again.

Eighty cords of oak and elm fall on the wires, they call out the auxiliary police, all the power saws and the National Guard, the Governor issues a disaster proclamation and everybody builds a fire in his backyard to boil his coffee. Everybody goes to bed at sundown for a week and by the time the lights come back on, they cause snow blindness.

And the can opener.

This kitchen utensil is not yet perfected, even though 100,000 inventors have worked on it. The best that can be said for it is that sometimes the better types will work, and that the invention of the band-aid has made it easy to stop hemorrhages from small lacerations.

In the country, the can opener is just as important as it is in the city, and maybe more so. To protect himself against starvation from natural disaster, the householder lays in a stock of canned food. Then the opener quits.

Speaking of cans, the worst trap ever built for man is the can with a key. The key is supposed to wrap around a little flap on the can and unroll a strip of softer metal, thus laying bare the can's contents inside a rim of jagged tin.

Well, the sardine can will open this way, provided one takes the pliers to turn the key, or has in his fingers the strength of a Japanese dentist. But on the big can the roll of metal falls off the key, the moment the roll is big enough to peel metal effectively, and then the combination is lost. The next thing to do is find a pair of forceps big enough to extract an elephant's tusk and tear the container apart by main strength.

This little survey barely scratches the subject. Take the balky power lawnmower, the un-assembled anything, the TV set with chronic heart trouble, the sticky desk drawer, the typewriter ribbon that reaches out and grabs one by the wrist, the recipe that doesn't tell one whether to cook it in a frying pan or a bucket . . . .

This part of the world was conquered by hardy people with such simple tools as the ax, the hammer, the one-shot gun and the three-legged milking stool. Just let 'em keep on making it complicated and one of these days people will rebel and give it back to the Indians. It isn't too late. — D. B. W.

Raytheon —

President Adams escorted Lt. Governor Whittier around the plant. He commenced a two-way conversation with Whittier on a walkie-talkie, which was amplified on a loudspeaker. When it came Whittier's turn to reply there were nothing but guttural noises. Exclaimed Whittier, "It makes a lot more sense than most political speeches I make."

* * *

A radar jamming device intrigued the Lt. Governor. "Well," quipped Adams, "You'll probably be interested in that gadget for your car to jam the police radar that tracks speeders!"

Clayton B. Freeman of 26 Skating Pond Road, Weston, has been pledged to Psi Upsilon fraternity at Dartmouth. Another pledge to this fraternity is Richard E. Fisher of 644 Washington Street, Hollis-ton.

Council of Churches Active in Weston

WESTON—Mr. Wayne Wetzel, president of the Weston Council of Churches, and Rev. Robert Huston of the Methodist Church, attended the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Council of Churches at Greenfield on Nov. 20 and 21.

Plans were being made for four Sunday meetings of the University of Life, all to be held at the Unitarian Church, in February. There will be a supper at each meeting and well known speakers will talk.

Next meeting of the Council is scheduled for Jan. 12, 1956, at the Unitarian Church. The last one was held Nov. 10 at the Methodist Church.

The Youth Council has been organized under the direction of Rev. Joseph O'Donnell and several meetings are planned. Plans are also being discussed for a Sunday School teachers training session in the Spring and a vacation school for children next Summer.

Robert Allen Mosher, Weston High '52, has recently been elected social chairman of Chapin House dormitory at Brown University. He is studying engineering and is a member of the Brown Glee Club, the Brown Chapel Choir and the Brown Engineering Society.

Stephen Hyland, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hyland, Plain Road, Wayland, was awarded a junior varsity letter in football at the annual fall sports award dinner held in Proctor Hall, Vermont Academy, Saxtons River, Vt.

Stevens - Lloyd

MR. AND MRS. CLAYTON C. STEVENS

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Donald Ewing and Rev. Guy Wayne in the Wayland Trinitarian Church at 7:30 o'clock, Sunday evening, Nov. 20, when marital vows were exchanged by Miss Carol E. Lloyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ashton Lloyd of Spring Hill Road, Wayland, and Clayton C. Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton A. Stevens of 56 Belvidere Road, Framingham.

Following the candlelight service a reception was held in the parish hall.

Net and lace were combined in the wedding gown of the bride. It had a square neckline, lace bodice and long pointed lace sleeves and a Chapel length train. Her fingertip veil was caught to a seed pearl crown and she carried stephanotic and ivy.

The maid of honor and sister of the bridegroom, Miss Brenda Stevens, was clad in full length turquoise nylon chiffon over taffeta with shirred net bodice and hoop skirt. Her headpiece was a matching pearl tiara and she carried a cascade of pink chrysanthemums.

Identical frocks of shrimp nylon chiffon over taffeta were chosen by the bridesmaids, Miss Shirley Robinson of Natick, Miss Marion Hall of Cochituate and Mrs. Roberta Schroeder of Framingham. They carried cascades of blue chrysanthemums.

For her daughters' wedding Mrs. Lloyd was attired in a champagne sheath dress of embroidered satin with turquoise hat and accessories and corsage of brown orchids. Mrs. Stevens was attired in a steel blue sheath dress embellished with cut steel beads. She had a black sequined hat and a corsage of yellow roses.

The best man was Robert Schroeder of Framingham and the ushers included Kenneth Jacobson of Natick, cousin of the bridegroom, Robert Tabor of Natick and Edward Cowell of Natick.

Later in the day the couple left on a wedding trip to New York. When they return they will be at home at 55 Eames Street, Framingham.

The bride is a graduate of Wayland High School and was employed by the Newton - Waltham Bank and Trust Co. in Weston. Her husband was graduated from Framingham High School and attended East Coast Aero Tech School at Bedford. He is a mechanic at Rokes Motors, Natick.

50 From Wayland Visit Nike Site

WAYLAND — Fifty persons from Wayland took the guided tour through the Nike installations at Lincoln and North Wayland on Nov. 12 and found it most interesting. In the morning of Nov. 12, it was said, 600 persons from Lincoln made the trip.

It was said that the Army will build a number of houses for personnel in Wayland before long.

Wayland Selectman Thomas F. Linnehan was among those present.

Nearly 250 Dine At Win-Lose-Draw

WESTON — Nearly 250 boys, girls, parents and friends attended the annual Win-Lose-Draw dinner in honor of Weston High School footbal land field hockey players at the High School gymnasium on the evening of Dec. 1. The affair is sponsored by the Boosters Club and the Rotary Club. Harry Ferries of the former organization acted as master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Dorothy A. Mula, coach of the girls' field hockey team, presented certificates to 42 girls of the varsity and JV. Both teams were undefeated this season. In turn, the girls gave Mrs. Mula a big waffle iron and some silver.

Coach George Harris of the football team gave certificates to the football players. While the team didn't have as much success as Weston teams usually do, he said, the boys had plenty of spirit and never tried harder than they did in losing to Wayland in the snowstorm. "If we keep the same kind of spirit," he said, "we'll be up there again in a year or two." portable radio.

Others introduced from the head table were Superintendent of Schools Calvin E. Gross, Principal Julius H. Mueller Jr., Coach Robert J. Carini, Dean John S. Proctor and Austin S. Hale. The latter, described as the team's "mascot", received an especially hearty round of applause.

Speaker of the evening was Joe Zabilski, former Boston College football star who is now football and basketball coach at Northeastern. He told funny football stories.

The dinner was held on a Thursday night and the party broke up at 8:30 so the students could do their home-work, it was said.

Methodist Church Smorgasbord Supper

WESTON — The Woman's Society of the Weston Methodist Church, North Avenue at Conant Road, will serve a smorgasbord supper from 5 to 7 p. m. Friday, Dec. 9. The supper will be in keeping with the theme of the annual fair, the "Friendly Flags Bazaar" held on Dec. 1, and proceeds will benefit the building fund pledge made by the Woman's Society toward the expansion of the Methodist Church's facilities.

Those planning the supper are Mrs. Reginald Cahill, Mrs. Gilbert Garland, Mrs. Vincent Hoagland, Mrs. Ralph Bolton, Mrs. Harold Ogilvie, Mrs. Stephen Bissett, Mrs. Harold Merry, Mrs. Charles Law, Mrs. Ray Martin, Mrs. Ashley Farrar, Mrs. Robert Huston, Mrs. Don Lambert, Mrs. Roland Bumpus, Mrs. Warren Sinclair, Mrs. John Schwartz, Mrs. E. B. Durfee, Mrs. Melvin Rines. In charge of the tickets are: Mrs. Wayne Wetzel, Mrs. Asa Foster and Mrs. Roy MacArthur.

Mothers' March In Weston Polio Drive

January is March of Dimes month in Weston.

More important than ever before this year because of the polio epidemic which raged through Middlesex County, depleting March of Dimes finances, the polio drive will include a mailing of contribution envelopes to every Weston home and will conclude with the third annual Mothers' March Tuesday, January 31, between 7 and 8 p.m.

The Mothers' March is conducted annually by Weston Post 214, American Legion, and represents a "clean up" to the January-long fund campaign. The Mothers' March is based on the principal of voluntary giving, and during the 7 to 8 p. m. March period, Legionnaires are instructed to contact only those houses where a front porch light is turned on as an invitation to call.

Fifty per cent of all funds collected by the March of Dimes remain right in Middlesex County, and while Weston was fortunate in coming untouched through the polio epidemic, our neighboring towns had a far more difficult time with their battle. Every bit of possible financial help is needed.

Mrs. Dexter B. Hill, 556 Wellesley Street, is Weston Polio Chairman. If desired, polio donations may be sent direct to her.

WESTON HIGH NOTES

All seventh grade students of the Latin American geography classes took a recent field trip to the Weston Observatory Seismographic Station. Father Donahue, known to many of the students for his talks on the Arctic regions, was host and lecturer. Of special interest to students were the seismographs, both old and new, and the records showing quakes, including the one in the region of Chile which the class was studying.

Transportation for the trip was furnished by Mrs. Alfred R. Wypler, Jr., seventh grade mother, and by mothers of other seventh grade students. Miss Barbara Stiles, Teacher of seventh grade geography, organized the trip and accompanied the group.

The second in the series of Darling Vocational Programs was held on Tuesday, Nov. 15, during the first period in the morning. These programs dealt with the following careers: Occupational Thearapy and Physical Education; Building Trades, and Teaching. Six such programs will be held throughout the year in cooperation with Northeastern University. All members of the senior, junior and sophomore classes are invited to attend.

Mr. Julius E. Mueller, Principal, Miss Helen B. Green, Mr. Robert J. Carini and Mr. Paul R. Humez, attended a meeting of the Neighborhood Principal's Club at the Framingham High School on Wednesday, Nov. 16. The panel program was devoted to a discussion of mathematics in the high school curriculum, and panel participants were mathematics teachers from Marlboro, Concord, Framingham and Natick. Chairman was Mr. Jackson Adkins of Exeter Academy.

Each year the club has devoted its attention to one subject in the curriculum, previous years having dealt with English, social studies, industrial arts and science.

The Speech Arts class of Weston High School, under the direction of Mr. John Zorn, Chairman of the English Department, has been devoting some periods to the presentation of a mock trial. The purpose of the trial is to provide an opportunity for impromptu speaking for all of the members of the class.

In this trial the judge was Thomas Healey; the clerk of the court, Sally Armstrong; sergeant at arms, Glen Russett; the defendant, Nanci Mailman; the defending attorney, Richard Cahill; the prosecuting attorney, Peter Rayner assisted by Kerme Styron.

Foreman of the jury was Nicole Maitre; witnesses were: Sue Wilson, Anna Melone, Nancy Wilkes, Catherine Nardelli, Peggy Curtin, Page Proctor, Richard Rudell, Mary Jane Graves, June Olsen, Theresa Young, Kathy Bourinot and Carol Raynor.

Book Week, Nov. 13 to Nov. 19, was observed at the high school by a display of books in the large case in the front lobby. Book Week, which began some years ago as an effort to promote the use and the sale of children's books, has now become an annual event that is even more educational than promotional in spirit and has widened its field to include adult books as well as children's literature. The school library, which has a good, up-to-date and varied collection of books, put on display many of its most recently acquired titles.

* * *

We always like to introduce our new high school teachers with a little more personal detail than the straight listing of academic backgrounds. This year we have nine new members, and expect from time to time to give some introduction to each of them.

Miss Anne B. Hoerner, who teaches ninth and tenth grade English, scarcely needs to be introduced. She was working at the Harvard School of Education last year, and spent a good part of her time practice teaching at Weston. However, most may not know that she is interested in art as well as in literature and writing, and that she served as cartoonist for her college paper at Smith. Miss Hoerner was on the Dean's List during her four years at Smith and received the Furness Prize for the Shakespearean Essay in 1954, the year she was graduated.

At Cambridge last year she was elected to Pi Lambda Theta, the women's honorary educational fraternity. Miss Hoerner comes to us from Dayton, Ohio, where she went to high school. After finishing Smith she took her A.M.T. (Master of Arts in Teaching) from Radcliffe.

Now Route 30 Has A Dead Man's Curve

WAYLAND — The new Dead Man's Curve in Wayland is on Route 30, right at the Natick line, where there were three bad accidents in a single rainy evening recently.

The road used to be so crooked along here that nobody went very fast. To get Route 30 out of the path of the toll road, however, the old highway was obliterated and a new straight stretch blasted out of rock.

Motorists headed West, unaware of what's ahead of them hit the piece of fine, new, smooth highway, and tend to step on it. But after a few hundred feet the straight road ends and there's a sharp curve to the right, at the Wayland line.

Motorists who have gone straight ahead instead of making the curve safely have knocked down many of the cement posts on the South side of the highway.

The old Dead Man's Curve, on Route 20, has been rebuilt, and doesn't cause any more trouble.

Christmas Sing By Wayland Scouts

Wayland's Scouts will hold a Christmas Carol sing on the steps of the Wayland Library at 7:30 the evening of Thursday, Dec. 22. Singing will be led by Caleb Roehrig, accompanied by Norman Alstad on the trumpet.

Refreshments will be furnished by the Friends of the Wayland Library, served by the senior Girl Scouts.

The Town Christmas Tree, given by the Kiwanis, will be decorated by Boy Scouts and lighted during the singing. Cub Scouts will present, to representatives of the Kiwanis, Christmas baskets which will be distributed to local families recommended by the Welfare Department.

Families and friends of Wayland Scouts are all invited to come.

Sixth Graders Name Club For Austin Hale, The Champion Letter Writer Of Two Towns

MR. HALE sits in "Hale Haven", surrounded by pictures of local boys with whom he has corresponded in peace and war.

By CAROL FOSTER

WESTON—In the sixth grade class taught by Mrs. John F. McGann of Wayland there's a Citizenship Club, formed each year as a help towards the understanding of civics.

This year, on their own initiative, the Club members said, "Let's name it the Austin Hale Club", and they did.

"In the 10 years since the Citizenship Club was started," says Mrs. McGann, "this is the first time it has been named after a local living citizen."

List of 350

Here was a spontaneous tribute, not the first one, to Austin S. Hale of 19 Jones Road, versifier, champion letter writer, correspondent with old and young Weston boys in war and peace and leading rooter for Weston athletic teams.

Mr. Hale began writing to Weston service men, and many from Wayland, too, in 1941. During World War II he sent out a mimeographed home-news letter, called "Here and There to Show We Care." More recently, he has called his weekly letter, "Ties with Hale Haven". This Fall he started sending Volume 14.

Mr. Hale has had ties with Weston since 1892, when he came to live with his sister, Mrs. Everett Schwartz, on Highland Street. Later he used to bicycle out from Waltham to teach Sunday school at the Baptist Church. He has lived in Weston since 1924.

Although he went to work for the telehone company in 1899, installing many of the original phones in this area, retiring after 38 years, Mr. Hale has never believed that a phone call takes the place of a personal message.

Mr. Hale enlisted in World War I in the Signal Corps because he "knew so many boys who had to go." While at Camp Devens, he wrote to the families of boys in his company, asking them to send him letters which he saved to distribute daily as the company travelled on their troopship overseas.

After they arrived, his commanding officer deputized Mr. Hale to take charge of all incoming mail. He asked Mr. Hale to write the families of boys who didn't get mail, urging them to write, because "he knew its morale value."

In 1941, while Mr. Hale was corresponding with some 40 boys in Weston, Robert Warren suggested that he mimeograph a letter which could be sent to more servicemen in this area. At first, Mr. Hale says, he didn't like the idea, but Mr. Warren made it so easy for him he tried it, first sending the letter to 60 servicemen. Eventually Mr. Hale's list grew to 350 each week.

Birthday Poem

During this time, he got replies from about 35 servicemen a week. Out of these replies he filled a column three times a week in the Waltham News-Tribune: "Austin Hale's Service Letters", which "boosted circulation".

"Hold the phone", says Mr. Hale, as he goes into another room of "Hale Haven". "I want to show you one of my ditties. Usually write them at 3 or 4 a.m. I have 700 names in my birthday book."

I Remember

Y OU, for a long while, have meant much to me,
O ften in my thoughts, YOU, I even now can see,
U ntil, YOU, as of old, seem to be right here;
R emembering YOU is bound to bring me cheer.
B ut though circumstances keep YOU away,
I 'll always have room for YOU any day.
R ight now YOU are very close to my heart,
T hough YOU and I are many miles apart.
H ere I send YOU "Best Wishes" for your birthday,
D edicated to YOU, who happened to come my way,
A nd hoping YOU will ever be my friend,
Y es, may YOU be with me in "Life Without End"

"One on the Square"

Mr. Hale often follows his signature with a small sign, the numeral I inside a square box.

"It's an idea I thought up around 1921," he says. "I had a pin made and gave it to a boy I liked. Later I revived the idea. One on the square means square by God, square with country, square with home and square with self."

Mr. Hale gave away several "one on the square" pins to boys he knew who were going overseas. "Some of the boys used to sign a square after their names, too," he says, "or say 'I'm still on the square.' One time a censor cut a neat square right out of a fellow's letter. He didn't fool me."

Mr. Hale not only taught Sunday School but has taken a keen interest in the Weston schools' athletics. He got to know many boys in Weston.. During his vacations from 1930 to 1942 he would invite a few boys to go camping with him. He has pictures of all these trips, to the White Mountains, Nova Scotia, the Adirondacks, Niagara Falls and so on. Various boys have stayed with him at his house.

"Anyway, the latch string is always out."

In his "Here and There" letters, Mr. Hale broached the idea of a reunion victory dinner for local boys when they got home from the service at the end of the war.

"Mess line will form in order of acceptance", he said. Response was so enthusiastic that finally there were three dinners. Anyone could go to all three, which grew in size as more men returned home.

The Weston Friendly Society turned over the proceeds of its play, more than $1000, for the victory dinners. At the final one in June, 1946, 400 attended. "There were six high chairs occupied too, get the idea?" says Mr. Hale.

Beach Wagon

After dinner, "they were just about to start the hot air, when a policeman came in saying some people were trying to steal my car." Wondering why the local constabulary would come and tell him instead of stopping the thieves, Mr. Hale went out to find his car.

There he found a brand new beach wagon with a large sign, "Here and There To Show WE Care", given to Mr. Hale by the servicemen who had received his letters during the war.

After the war, Mr. Hale was asked by the Selectmen of Weston to write a section in the Town Report about the Weston men who had been killed. Later this was reprinted in booklet form.

Mr. Hale has kept in close touch with Weston's football teams, and usually has a hand in any football celebrations at the end of the season. One year he had menus printed up in the shape of a football. When opened up, the names of the players were in formation on the menu as in a football play, with the opposing "team" labeled according to the eats for the dinner. Sometimes before a big game Mr. Hale has written one of his ditties for the occasion:

— Others —

J ust do your best.
U nless others are better than the rest.
S uccess is bound to come to you,
T hat all through life, you'll find true.

D on't quit, if others seem to get ahead,
O r give up till you're dead.

Y ou have won many honors in the past,
O bserve true sportsmanship, till the last.
U nless you have nothing to forget,
R emember, being a victor, you'll regret.

B etter than the game to have won,
E lating the spirits of everyone,
S hould be playing Life's game SQUARE,
T hat others will see you care.

In his "Ties with Hale Haven" letter of Nov. 19, Mr. Hale writes, "Coach Salvati of the Wayland High invited me to the Pep Rally, being held for their football team on Friday, the day before the game with Weston. They didn't have to ask which team I'd be rooting for, they knew. Just imagine, if you can, in former years, Weston's mascot being so honored."

"Don't I have a lot of fun?" asks Mr. Hale.

Wayland Teachers Go In For Art Study

WAYLAND—Wayland teachers, playing the role of pupils, meet each Tuesday afternoon at Mrs. Eva Gately's room in Happy Hollow School for an art workshop. One week they finger painted. Another they worked with tempera paints, and they are learning how to teach lettering to the children.

Mrs. Mildred Kingsbury, teacher of the teachers, is art supervisor in the grades. She is assisted in this teaching project by Dorothy Paradis, Edith Kelly, Susan Leitzett and Judy Pratt of the fifth grade. So far, 17 teachers have participated, and 10 are taking the course for credit.

CommunityChurch Has New Bible

The Community Methodist Church dedicated a new Bible for the lectern in the Sanctuary at its Thanksgiving Sunday service of morning worship. The beautiful maroon, revised standard translation of the Bible was a gift of the Senior Youth Fellowship.

The president of this organization is Robert Keefe and the counselors are the Rev. and Mrs. Pat Albright of West Virginia. Pat and Betty Lou are living in Boston, where Pat is in his third year at the School of Theology.

Interest and enthusiasm in youth meetings are the highest in a number of years. Church School class attendance is from 15 to 18 and the evening fellowship meetings, average 30. The group made an interesting and enjoyable trip to New York last Spring and are looking forward to a trip to Washington next Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Ela of Wayland, whose horse won a prize at the national horse show at Harrisburg recently, were praised on TV by Arthur Godfrey, who also had some horses entered in the show.

Betterments Completed

COCHITUATE — Betterment jobs on both Valley View Road and Peck Avenue, voted at the March Town Meeting, have been completed, the Highway Department reports. Next on the list of betterment works is the so-called Wheelock development, including Spring Hill Road, Lee Road and others.

Requests have also been made to the Wayland Selectmen for betterment work on 930 feet of Leary Street, in Cochituate, and about 400 feet of Rich Valley Road, in Wayland.

Mrs. Stanley N. Marshall, 1955 Christmas Seal sale chairman for Wayland, knows the story of how Christmas seals got started. It happened on Friday the 13th in 1907, when a newspaper column in the Philadelphia North American told about Emily Bissell of Wilmington, Delaware, a social worker who was trying to raise $300 to fight tuberculosis, by selling some seals she had designed herself.

The columnist, Leigh Mitchell Hodges, did such a job that $3,000 was raised the first year. Since then, the proceeds have gone up and up.

S.M.A.R.C. Gives Aid To Retarded Children

Residents of Wayland and Weston are being asked, by mail, for contributions to the South Middlesex Association for Retarded Children, Inc., which has headquarters in Natick.

The organization has members in 19 Towns in this area, including Weston. It runs a nursery class and a speech class, and its services are free.

Mrs. Donald H. Guild of 29 Curtis Road, Natick, public relations chairman for the organization, says it is just the one for a parent to call if he has a child who seems to need help in this direction.

The Association meets on the first Monday of every month at the Natick Federal Savings Bank, 47 Main Street, Natick, at 8 p. m., and visitors are welcome. The speaker scheduled for Dec. 5 was Dr. M. Virginia Biggy, director of elementary instruction in the Concord School Department, whose topic was, "The Integration of a Trainable Class into the Public School System."

The Association's address is 1 Wheeler Lane, Natick, OL 3-1089.

Waltham Hospital Hostesses Meet

WALTHAM — About 30 members of the Waltham Hospital Associates interested in the work of the volunteer hostesses met in the Nurses Home on Tuesday, Nov. 28, with Mrs. William T. Van Huysen, president, presiding.

She introduced Mrs. Nathaniel Brackett Jr., chairman of the Volunteer Hostess Committee, who distributed blanks, general instruction sheets, applications and copies of the volunteer pledge.

The group toured the hospital with Mrs. Brackett and Mrs. Van Huysen as guides, and inspected the recently completed laboratory and rest rooms. After the tour coffee was served in the Nurses Home by Mrs. Oscar Falling Sr.

Mr. Walter Amesbury, administrator of the hospital, told the group he appreciated the work done by the Associates and wished them success in their newest venture.

Miss Lucy Church, director of Nursing Service, explained the duties of the Volunteer Hostesses. They must be reliable and punctual, she said, and their work should be of help and comfort to patients and their families.

Volunteer Hostesses present were Mrs. Brackett, Mrs. Louis B. Carr, Mrs. Laurence Crane, Mrs. Oscar Falling Jr., Mrs. Howard Greenward, Mrs. Richard Hall, Mrs. Irad B. Hardy, Mrs. Walter Hays, Mrs. Frederick Kneisel and Mrs. Elton C. Macfarlane, of Waltham.

Mrs. Dudley Bell, Mrs. William Crawford and Mrs. David Reid of Weston.

Mrs. David A. Bernard, Mrs. Lee R. Covington, Mrs. Burton R. Clay, Mrs. E. Brayton Durfee, Mrs. Paul D. Rowan and Mrs. F. Joseph Scharon of Wayland.

Officers of the Associates present were Mrs. Van Huysen of Weston, Mrs. John J. Larkin of Waltham, and Mrs. Daniel Viles of Weston. Directors present were Mrs. S. Maxwell Beal, Mrs. Falling Sr., and Mrs. Winton P. Simmons of Waltham; Mrs. Leonard H. Dowse of Weston and Mrs. John H. Baldwin of Wayland.

N-W Bank Holds Anniversary Tea

Officers and directors of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company gave a tea on Nov. 21, from 4 to 6 p. m., at the Weston branch office, 458 Boston Post Road. Several hundred prominent residents of the Wayland and Weston area attended.

The tea was given in order to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the Bank in Weston. It also provided the first opportunity for George L. White to meet the Bank's customers and friends in this area since becoming president.

In connection with the celebration, Mr. White said:

"All of us at the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company are extremely grateful to the residents and business concerns in this area for their active and loyal support during the last ten years. It is due to their patronage and friendship that these last ten years have been so outstandingly successful!"

Members of the Bank's Women's Advisory Committee poured.

"Deep Freeze Frolic" By Cochituate P.T.A.

Unless there is an unexpected heat wave on Jan. 21, it will probably be suitable weather for the "Deep Freeze Frolic" to be held that evening at the Cochituate School Auditorium by the parents and teachers of the Cochituate P.T.A. Anyone else who would like to dance that night is cordially invited to join the parents and teachers, and to mark the date now on the new 1956 calendar.

County Extension Open House, Nov. 28

CONCORD — Sixty Extension leaders and representatives of the Legislature, press and radio were present Nov. 28 at an open house for the Middlesex County Extension Service, 19 Everett Street.

The meeting opened with an open house for the general public in the afternoon, when persons from the County visited the service to learn more about programs offered in agriculture, home-making and 4-H Club work.

Joseph T. Brown, Director of the County office, introduced the staff members to guests and public.

Prints At deCordova

John Russell Clift returns this month to the deCordova Museum for the third exhibition of his prints. Scenes of Yarmouthport and Taunton, produced for Ford Times, are portrayed in a majority of his colorful and geometric prints. The rest comprise an unusual series on the Tidelands Oil area off the Gulf Coast of Louisiana. This group has been purchased and published by the Standard Oil Company in the September issue of their magazine, The Lamp.

After graduating from the Boston Museum School in 1952, John Clift was given a fellowship to travel and paint in Mexico. The series of silk-screen prints of Mexican people and life which came out of that year were exhibited in 1953 at the deCordova. Since then, Clift has free-lanced writing articles and illustrating books and magazines with his lively prints. Besides print-making, he also paints and draws, and currently is teaching drawing at the Museum School.

"Musical Hayride" Cast Rehearses Every Week

WESTON—The Children's Theater Workshop is busy every Thursday getting ready for their production in January in the Country School Auditorium. It is entitled "A Musical Hayride" and is to be given on Jan. 27 and 28.

Those participating are Joan Alcaide, Heather Antell, Nancy Ayers, Louise Bayles, Barbara Blake, Berkeley and Carter Bottjer, Stephen Brooke, Susie Bryant, Nancy Clark, Billy Cusumano, John Cavies, Helen DeRusha, Andrea Enos, Diane Ewer, Monte Forte, Ellen FitzGerald, Joanne Gardella, David Greenlie, Ricka Hayes, Linda Howe, Stephen Jurley, Kate Lingley, Linda Mills, Shirley Mills, Heather Mitchell, Kimball McMullin, Lee Nicolls, Robin Peakes, Phame Perkins, Paula Perkins, Beverly Richardson, Janet Rushforth, Geoffrey Sawyer, Penny Sears, Everett Shekleton, Sandra Stoffel, Kathy Stevens, Carol Toner, Michele Tornabene, Linda Townsend, Leslie Townsend, Louis Ulm, James and Susan Vanderlaan, Daniel and Deborah Viles and Betsy Wigginton.

It is directed by Mercedes Bassett and Marjorie Gimber.

Early Skating At The Old Mill Pond

WAYLAND—"There's skating," the cry rang out early Wednesday, the day before Thanksgiving, and it was one of the earliest starts in years. The Mill Pond is fortunately located in a low area, surrounded by a protective ridge, and the Winter sun hasn't much chance to warm the pond before ice forms. By noon that day the skating fans were whirling all over the frozen surface, and that night, the bright floodlights lit up some furious hockey games.

Last year, a group of interested people formed the Mill Pond Skating Improvement Association, with the purpose of bettering conditions for the Winter sport. They requested that skaters donate $2.00 to the Association, and with the money collected last year, a water meter has been installed so that the pond can be easily flooded and hockey-worn surfaces smoothed over again. The ice was kept free of snow by a hard-working jeep last season, and the surrounding ridges and woods have been beautifully cleared of underbrush.

This year the drive for your $2.00 is on again. George Shepard at his gas station, or Mrs. Allan Finlay of Lincoln Road, will gratefully welcome donations. There are three projects this year waiting to consume the $2.00 bills.

The first, under way now, is the bulldozing of a parking lot above the Mill Pond on Plain Road. This should relieve congestion considerably and please those skaters who frown on walking.

Then, there are to be some safety signs made, and a red flag will be rigged at the dam to be used as a warning when the ice is unsafe. Perhaps the most popular project will be the reconstruction of the shelter where frozen feet can be thawed, and more important, where snow removal equipment can be kept in a small locked closet. So please send your $2.00 to the Association as soon as possible, so that these worthwhile plans can get started for the benefit of all. — Sonia Spalding.

Wayland League Talks About Public Issues

The legislative units of the Wayland League of Women Voters were held in November, under the chairmanship of Mrs. A. S. MacMillan. All items on the State Program for 1956-1958 were discussed: four-year term for governor; improved methods for treatment of juvenile offenders; the Continuing Responsibilities; with liveliest interest shown in the areas concerned with increased state aid to education, and individual liberties. General opinion favored sales tax rather than increased income tax. Mrs. Kemp Reade reported on the Wayland School Committee as the Local Item for the month.

Is the two-year term our governor serves, sufficient to carry out an effective administrative policy? What are the advantages and disadvantages of a longer term? Mrs. Richard Howard, State Item Three Chairman, will lead us in a discussion of this subject, as well as that of the Short Ballot, in our December units.

The School Site Committee and the School Building Committee are the two subjects of discussion on the Local Item agenda for December. These are very timely topics, of great interest to all of us. Come to the December units to find out all about them. Hostesses for these units will be: Dec. 14, morning, Mrs. James T. Burgess, Pequot Road; evening, Mrs. Harold E. Proctor, Goodman Lane; Dec. 15, morning, Mrs. Donald K. Tarbell, State Road East; evening, Mrs. Harold H. Woolard, Pinebrook Road.

The December Board meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Leslie Flood on Rich Valley Road. — Priscilla Lane.

Dwight Perodeau and David Carroll of the Cochituate School arranged an exhibit of art work done in the three Wayland elementary schools, shown last month in the window of the bank in Cochituate. The media included cut paper, crayon, clay modelling, yarn designs and finger painting.

Dr. Stahl Arranged Natick Field Trip

WAYLAND—Dr. William Stahl of Wayland arranged the November trip to the Quartermaster Depot in Natick for Wayland High School students. He divided the pupils into three groups, with a chemistry specialist in charge of each, and scientists in various fields explained what they saw. X-ray diffraction and the electron microscope seemed to interest the students most. The purpose of the tour was to show the instruments used in determining the basic principles of chemistry.

Stecher - Barkan

Miss Barbara Barkan and Dr. Bernard Stecher were married in the Beacon House, Brookline, on Nov. 23.

Miss Barkan is the daughter of Nathan B. Barkan of Brighton, and a teacher at the Brown School, Natick.

Dr. Stecher is the son of Mrs. Bessie Stecher of Boston. He has an office in Cochituate for the practice of optometry.

The couple plan to live in Cochituate or nearby after a honeymoon in upstate New York.

New Telephone Numbers and Central Office Name in Waltham and Weston

As part of the coming plan for nationwide customer dialing, every telephone exchange eventually must have one or more special names, called "Central Office names", associated with its telephone numbers.

Waltham and Weston now have dial telephone service. That means that all telephone customers in those localities now have new numbers and a new Central Office name.

Waltham-Weston now have TWINBROOK as a new Central Office name

Before making telephone calls, please obtain the new numbers from "Information". Wayland customers calling Waltham and Weston numbers frequently may obtain a directory containing the new numbers from the Natick Telephone Business Office.

How To Telephone Between Exchanges

From WAYLAND to WALTHAM and WESTON
Dial T and W followed by five figures of the new number.

From WALTHAM and WESTON to WAYLAND
Dial E and L followed by five figures of the Wayland number.

From Coin Telephones

When calling from coin telephones, please refer to instruction card at telephone.

Suasco Sees End of Floods, Engineers Will Go To Work

FRAMINGHAM—State Rep. Anthony M. Colonna, head of Suasco, gave a pretty definite promise on the night of Dec. 5 that the Sudbury River will be tamed and that floods in Wayland and other Towns of the valley will be prevented in the future.

Suasco is the organization formed in April, 1954, even before Diane, of people in the Sudbury, Assabet and Concord valleys. Phil Farina is a Wayland leader and Harry Rice is a Sudbury leader. Mr. Colonna is head of the group.

The grand project is to subdue the rivers once and for all, and the means is primarily, a Federal law enacted only last year. Under this law, Uncle Sam will put up matching funds, along with the State, the Cities and Towns, private citizens and industries, for projects to prevent floods. Benefits of reclamation and recreation are incidental.

Definitely Yes

With Mr. Colonna and other leaders at the press conference in the Hotel Kendall were Arthur D. Beaumont, a Federal man whose title is State Conservationist for the United States Department of

Official: Wayland 7359 Weston 6257

Official figures on the Massachusetts State Census of 1955, finally revealed, show that as of Jan. 1 Wayland had a population of 7,359 and Weston had 6257. This makes a total for the two Towns of 13,616, which is probably, thanks to steady growth through the year, now right around 14,000.

Fixing Center Lights Would Ease Raytheon Traffic Jam

WAYLAND—The Department of Public Works has been asked to permit manual operation of the traffic lights in Wayland Center, says Chief Ernest H. Damon, in order to improve a twice-a-day situation which is bothering Raytheon employees even more than Townspeople.

At present, says the Chief, the DPW is taking a traffic count at the intersection, and after that the Department will have to go through its regular routine. When a ruling would come through he didn't know.

At the same time, Raytheon, through Ernest F. Leathem of Weston, assistant to Charles Francis Adams, president of Raytheon, has offered to provide a covered traffic control box for a police officer at Wayland Center, and this offer has been accepted by the Wayland Selectmen. Its installation waits only on permission to change the lights.

At present the lights work on a timed cycle. Only so many vehicles can pass during one green cycle. If the cycle could be expedited by giving more green light to the road having the heavier traffic, in this case Route 20, things could be better.

Mr. Leathem says the laboratory opens at 8 and closes at 5 p.m. Heaviest Post Road traffic through Wayland Center is between 7:40 a. m. and 8:05. This Westbound rush of about 800 Raytheon automobiles comes at the same time as the school bus traffic and the regular commuter dash for Boston.

Center Is Busy

Nowadays, Wayland Center is a busy place, just before 8 a. m.

At night, the homeward rush from Raytheon comes from 5:05 p. m. till 5:22 or 5:23. At this time, on account of the traffic light in the Center, the line of automobiles backs clear up to the Raytheon gate.

Four Raytheon traffic officers get the Raytheon vehicles in and out of the laboratory parking lot, incidentally stopping East and West traffic on Route 20 at the gate and looking out for trains. At the Center, Wayland police are in charge.

Were the traffic light cycle changed, Mr. Leathem thinks, the 20-minute periods it now takes to get the traffic through the Center might be cut to 11 or 12 minutes.

Non-Committal Reply

"For every complaint about the traffic I've heard from Townspeople," says Mr. Leathem, "I've had 100 from Raytheon people. They don't like to have to arrive early for work to get ahead of the rush, and they don't like to be held up on their way home."

Raytheon has received a reply from the Public Works Department to the letter it wrote, supplementing one sent by the Town of Wayland, asking for construction of the by-pass around the Center. But the reply was noncommittal.

Mr. Leathem says Raytheon is interested in doing all it can to help the Town, in this traffic situation, and also in supporting the Town's efforts to have the by-pass built.

Selectmen Sign For Forest Land

WESTON—A purchase and sale agreement between Weston Selectmen and the Trustees under the will of the late Charles J. Paine has been signed as a step in the acquisition by the Town for a Town Forest of 147.16 acres of land bounded roughly by Highland Street, Wellesley Street and South Avenue.

The price announced was $51,500.

Acquisition of this land for this purpose was authorized at the March Town Meeting. Negotiations for additional forest land on the North side of Town, in the Jericho section, are still proceeding.

Mr. Irwin Honored For Scout Work

COCHITUATE — The Mohawk District of the local Boy Scout council honored William Irwin, retiring district chairman, at a dinner held at Sudbury Town Hall on Dec. 11. Approximately 60 men active in scouting were present, more than 20 of whom were from Cochituate and Wayland.

Mr. Irwin was cited for going far beyond the responsibilities of his office, helping other district officers with their work and acting as trouble shooter for the organization. During his last year in office, the number of troops in Mohawk District increased from 20 to 25. Mr. Irwin was also active in the Cochituate scouting movement during his tenure as district chairman, pinch hitting as scoutmaster and acting as advisor to the explorers and cubs.

Following the dinner, he was presented with a set of golf clubs.

Arthur Jenner, council chairman, and Howard A. Soloman, council executive, paid tribute to the fine job done by Mr. Irwin and the many active scouters of Mohawk District. Mr. Irwin will now be an advisor to the executive council.

Weston Appropriates $9,615 And Adopts Building Code

WESTON—The Town of Weston appropriated a total of $9,615 from available funds under three Articles and also adopted a revised building code at a quiet Special Town Meeting held on the evening of Dec. 12. Only a few more than 100 voters turned out, including several women who sat knitting, and only one "No" was heard.

The motion to adopt the building code, a 32-page document, was made by Mr. Douglas Mercer. But before discussion he had to go through the booklet and amend away a number of typographical errors. Then there were a number of questions, because the code is more or less complicated and confusing to laymen, but by 10 p. m. the original motion was put and carried unanimously.

Vokes Players Elect Win Naylor At Lively Meeting

WAYLAND — The Vokes Players held their annual meeting on Saturday evening, Dec. 10. Program co-chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Fessenden Morse served cocktails and supper to 140 attending members, assisted by Mrs. William Hodgkinson, Mrs. Carl Kearsley, Mrs. Ruth Steed Fuller and Mrs. George Bottjer.

George Vinsonhaler, the retiring president, opened the meeting with reports and jokes. As is customary at annual meetings of Vokes, there was a great deal of heckling of officers as they made their reports.

The success of this year's productions — "My Three Angels"; "One on the Town", the original musical by Francis W. Hatch, which played nine nights to capacity audiences; and "Remains

Referring to a section about hot air registers, where there seemed to be an ambiguity, John G. Brooks rose and said, "May I inquire whether there is any distinction between hot air and warm air?"

Maurice L. Upham, chairman of the committee, answered him:

"The difference between hot and warm air is due to the temperature. That's about all."

Both question and answer drew laughter, and the section was straightened out.

No Wire Rules

Another argument was over the last section, which read simply, "Electrical wiring and equipment shall conform with the applicable laws."

Some thought the Town should specify rules for wiring. However, Mr. Mercer finally explained that

Welcome Wagon Pays Special Occasion Visit To Nicole

Mrs. Allen E. Reed and Nicole Maitre, with the basket of gifts.

WESTON—Mrs. Allen E. Reed of the Weston Welcome Wagon paid a "special occasion" visit to Nicole Maitre, the girl from Rombas, recently, at the home of Mrs. Richard Robinson, and brought her greetings from President Eisenhower, Governor Herter and the Weston Selectmen, besides a basket of gifts from Welcome Wagon sponsors in Town.

Among the firms sending greetings to Nicole were the Newton Waltham Bank, the Village Book Stall, Coombs Motor Co. of Watertown, Central Tailoring Co., Woodland Dairy, Weston Pharmacy, Riggs Flower Shop, Red Coach Farm Market, Weston Market, LeBaron Hardware of Auburndale, Howard Russell Insurance of Waltham, Weston Studio, B. L. Ogilvie & Sons, Avigdor Rug Center of Brookline and the Town Crier.

Nicole was pleased.

Pasting 64,000 Stamps?

A Wayland resident buying antifreeze at Shopper's World service station was given a slip to fill out by the attendant. To his query, "What's this?", the attendant elaborated: "You save trading Stamps? Well, fill this out for our weekly drawing. Winner gets 64,000 stamps."

If you've missed any familiar faces lately, they may be home frantically licking 64,000 stamps into their stamp books.

Evi From Vienna Is A Booked-Up Baby Sitter

WAYLAND—Christmas packages have been tantalizing Evi Maria Krummel, of Vienna, Austria, who will spend her first American Christmas this year in Wayland. She is spending this year as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Ekkehard L. Kriedl of Bennett Road, and she is a junior at the Wayland High School.

EVI MARIA KRUMMEL

In Vienna, Evi says, its the custom for presents to be exchanged on Christmas Eve, and hidden until then.

"It's mean to be allowed to look at the presents wrapped, and not in them," she said, the other day, looking at the bright packages around the Kriedl's living room. "Also we don't talk so much about Santa Claus. We have Santa Claus, yes, but he comes Dec. 6. Children put shoes in front of the door and Santa leaves them candy or a small present. When we are little we are told the Christ Child comes through the window, and brings the Christmas tree and presents. Christmas is more celebrated as Christ's birthday."

Evi is also looking forward to turkey on Christmas. She had some once in Austria when her family "had a big package from America with turkey." They all liked it and found it different from any other game or poultry they'd had before. But she says she will miss having real candles on the Christmas tree as she does at home.

Heat Was Better

Dr. Kriedl and Evi's father, Dr. Wilfried Krummel, were schoolmates in Vienna before Dr. Krummel studied medicine, becoming an orthopedist. Dr. Kriedl is a chemist with Arthur D. Little Co. in Cambridge. The Kriedls saw the Krummels a few years ago on a trip abroad and Mrs. Kriedl liked Evi "even when she was 11".

Later, on a skiing trip, Mrs. Kriedl got the idea of inviting Evi to come visit them, and two years later broached the idea: the Krummels would come over, leave Evi, and the Kreidls would go abroad the next year, and return Evi to her parents.

Evi and her parents arrived here on Aug. 3, and Dr. and Mrs. Krummel stayed a few weeks before returning to Austria.

"The heat was better here," says Evi, "I nearly died." During this rude introduction to Massachusetts summer, Evi soon discovered she could buy chocolate ice cream by the half gallon, which might last her two days. Eventually she had enough ice cream for the first time in her life.

That "everybody has a car, and is going with the car someplace" was astonishing to Evi. In Austria there are many fewer cars, and no school buses. People either walk, bicycle, or get about by public transportation. Evi is used to walking to school. The distance here is similar to the distance from home to school in Vienna, taking about 10 minutes.

"I love to walk, it's so beautiful", she says.

Our High School is comparable to the "Gymnasium" in Austria, which is an eight-year course taking pupils to University level. The Gymnasium is not a public school. The other alternative is the semi-public schools, which take the pupils through age 14, and are state supported although parents must pay a nominal tuition.

Gets A's

At Evi's Gymnasium, the schedule was a set one of 12 subjects, which all pupils had to study. Evi likes being able to choose some of her courses here. She has some classes with sophomores and some with seniors, although most with with juniors.

She'd had English for five years, and was able to get along well on arrival, and feels she only has to work a little harder than her classmates because of the change of language. Her last report card included all A's except for American History, in which she was unfamiliar with people and terms referred to.

This is the first time Evi has gone to school with boys and she thinks it's "very good". Co-educational schools are unusual in Vienna and girls don't start dating as early as they do here.

"Most girls don't meet boys until they go to dancing school", Evi says, "and don't begin dating when they are 16 or 17."

Evi did not have to wait for dancing school to know boys, though, because she has an older brother and met his friends. Evi is 15, and had begun going to dancing school. Had she been in Vienna she would have waltzed at the re-opening of the Vienna Opera. This apparently does not make her wistful as she is having a good time here. But she says she hasn't yet met any good waltzers in America.

"I like very much that there is no school on Saturday", says Evi, who was used to school all day Saturdays. Lest school in Austria sound too grim, she says that from about age 12 level on up classes go with their teachers for a week in the mountains to ski every year. Everyone has skiing lessons and a wonderful time. During the Winter months it's acceptable to wear ski pants to school. "It's not very cold here", she says.

Things Are Funny

During the war the Krummels were better off than most because while Dr. Krummel was drafted as an Army Doctor, the rest of the

Bills Presented For Stone Bridge And Rt. 20 By-Pass

By REP. JAMES DeNORMANDIE

The new legislative session begins Jan. 4, and I look forward to it. During my first year, I inevitably spent a lot of time getting acquainted not only with fellow members of the House and Senate but with the many men and women responsible for day to day state administration.

This getting to know the many people with whom a legislator deals is probably the most important single job in a new member's first term. I am impressed with the great amount of conscientious effort that is quietly put into state government. Don't misunderstand me. There are exasperating frustrations and situations that have to be overcome with patience and determination but in spite of these the work is fascinating and rewarding.

My special interests are education and conservation. This is natural, perhaps, as both are primary interests in our district: good education for our children and the preservation of open recreation areas for future generations to enjoy as thoroughly as we enjoy those set aside by our predecessors.

Dec. 7 was the final day for filing bills to be considered by the 1956 session of the General Court. I have been pleased to file several constructive bills which not only will help our towns but should if passed be of general benefit to the Commonwealth.

On behalf of the Wayland and Framingham Historical Societies, the Wayside Inn Chapter of the D.A.R., and interested individual citizens, I filed a bill authorizing the Commonwealth to relocate the new Stone Bridge over the Sudbury River in such a manner as to preserve the original, historic pre- Revolutionary bridge, to restore it, and to construct a flood way to eliminate backing up of water by the bridge in time of highwater.

If passed, this act will eliminate flood conditions caused by the ancient, narrow arches and relocate the street on a much safer location. I earnestly hope that the very real problems this old structure presents the Riverview neighborhood can be solved satisfactorily and at the same time preserve an unique example of colonial engineering that contributed its part in driving the British from Boston in 1776. If we fail to get state assistance, the old bridge will be removed and the new bridge located on the present site.

On behalf of the Wayland Selectmen, a bill has been filed asking the Massachusetts Department of Public Works to construct the long needed Wayland Center Bypass including a grade separation where it intersects Routes 126 and 27. While this improvement has been talked about in the past the opening of the new Raytheon plant makes it a real community need.

Toll Road Open! But As Detour Only

WAYLAND — Local adventurers who crave the excitement of being the first to use the toll road without paying a toll have recently had a chance to do so after hours.

Driving East along Old Connecticut Path from Framingham towards Wayland, a strangely conceived detour leads the unwary motorist through an area congested with dozens of parked bulldozers and earthmovers. He then emerges on the new super highway which at this stage is about 10 lanes wide.

Persevering along this vast expanse of level dirt, he soon crosses Lake Cochituate on a new causeway, passes under the new Route 30 overpass, and there he is on Commonwealth Road West.

On behalf of Charles Eliot, well known city planner, William Roger Greeley, vice president of the Trustees of Public Reservations, and others, I filed a bill to definitely establish the Bay Circuit Plan of 1937 as a basis for future reservation development and to authorize the Department of Natural Resources to acquire land within the 100-mile belt encircling Greater Boston extending from Ipswich on the North through the Concord and Sudbury River Valleys to Duxbury on the South. This act would set up the machinery for establishing the Bay Circuit Reservations but would depend on further authorization of funds to make it a reality.

The bill I introduced last year to study the possibilities of a Reservation the Cat Rock-Hobbs Brook basin area of Weston, Waltham and Lincoln was passed but due to the length of the session the Committee on Conservation, to which it was referred, has not had time to report. Therefore in order to take advantage of the opportunity that exists here I have introduced a new bill to assure full consideration of the importance to our towns and to Greater Boston of saving this area for permanent open space.

Finally, and of very real importance to parents of boys and girls in college, I have filed a bill to make our state income tax law consistent with federal law as far as dependents over 18 years of age attending college are concerned. At present no dependent exemptions are allowed in Massachusetts for persons over 18. As we well know there is no more expensive period in our children's education than these college years, yet Massachusetts law refuses any credit after 18. This bill, if passed, will correct this very real hardship and injustice and allow these exemptions as long as the person involved is attending college and is indeed dependent.

I believe these bills have real merit and will have my support. Of course comment is always helpful and welcome.

WAYLAND HIGH NOTES

Carols And Ice Cream At H. H. PTA Meeting

WAYLAND—On the night of Dec. 6 the Happy Hollow School Auditorium was filled to overflowing as parents, children and teachers gathered for the second PTA meeting of the season.

The gleaming classrooms and corridors, still retaining the scent of newness, were gaily decorated in the holiday motif by the delightful, uninhibited doodles and drawings of the youngsters.

PTA President Paul Maxwell of Davelin Road opened the business meeting. Mrs. Mary Shea, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting after which Mrs. Louise Davis gave the treasurer's report.

President Maxwell announced that various courses had been arranged for the benefit of Happy Hollow PTA members. Those interested in interior decorating were to contact Mrs. Muriel Langley of Cole Road—her husband, Larry Langley, regarding golf lessons—and Mr. Daniel A. Frumerin at the school for lessons in oil painting.

The PTA banner of honor, which goes each meeting to the teacher whose class enjoys the highest turnout of parents percentagewise, now hangs proudly in Mrs. Finn's 2nd grade classroom. For two months it had been in the possession of Mrs. Ann Hartig, who won it at the Oct. 4 meeting. The competition for the flag is keen and the children are mighty proud, both of their parents and the banner, whenever they gain possession of it.

The program for the evening was turned over to Principal Frumerin, whose easy-going style made him a capable emcee. He introduced the student band, directed by Mr. Lester S. MacArthur, which proceeded to entertain the gathering with a selection of Christmas carols. Later, the band played again and the audience joined in by singing a few carols.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of three stories by Mrs. Finn's talented husband, Mr. Jerry Finn. His unique delivery and excellent selection of stories resulted in a memorable performance.

The children rocked the rafters with roars of approval when Mr. Frumerin announced the cafeteria wanted the children to get in line first for their ice cream. This, obviously, was a very clever maneuver, calculated to prevent the hungry parents from devouring all the ice cream themselves.

The next PTA meeting will be Feb. 7, when a talk on children's aptitudes and aptitude tests will be featured. — Daniel H. Rossborough Jr.

Associates Buy 56 Pairs of Drapes

WALTHAM — Directors of the Waltham Hospital Associates met at the Nurses' Home on Dec. 5 and voted to spend $700 to purchase 56 pairs of drapes and have them hung in hospital windows. When these drapes are up, the Associates will have hung drapes in every room for patients in the Hospital.

The Associates also voted to spend $350 for a new light weight gift cart, to be used in carrying papers and small articles around to the patients for sale. Volunteer Associates push the cart around the Hospital twice a day, as a convenience for those who want to buy cigarettes, snacks or notions.

Mrs. Joseph Murray reported that there are now 732 associate members, five more since November.

It was announced that the date of the open meeting panel discussion has been changed to Tuesday, Jan. 31, in the Nurses' Home, Hope Avenue, Waltham, at 1:30 p.m.

Present at the meeting were Mrs. William T. Van Huysen of Weston, Mrs. John J. Larkin of Waltham, Mrs. Atherton Spalding and Mrs. Daniel Viles of Weston, Mrs. John Baldwin of Wayland, Mrs. S. Maxwell Beal and Mrs. Samuel Cohn of Waltham, Mrs. Oscar Falling of Waltham, Mrs. Leonard H. Dowse of Weston, Mrs. Newell Goldberg of Newton, and Mrs. Robert B. Grady, Mrs. Robert A. Grimes, Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Russell Wentworth, Mrs. Benjamin Wolk and Mrs. Winton P. Simmons of Waltham.

The Associates held a tea in the Nurses' Home on the afternoon of Dec. 15, for Hospital personnel. Mrs. Robert B. Grady was chairman.

Nursery Class For Hard of Hearing

WAYLAND — The Parmenter Health Center announces it will sponsor a nursery class for hard-of-hearing pre-school children in Wayland.

Mrs. Mildred L. Reynolds, a speech and hearing therapist who was formerly with the Nursery for the Hard of Hearing in Waltham, will be in charge of the classes. The nursery will be conducted twice a week on Mondays and Wednesdays between 2:30 and 4 p. m.

Presently there are two pre-school children in Wayland with a hearing loss. Three other children with a speech handicap will also attend the nursery school.

Children who have not developed speech by the age of three may be brought to the Parmenter Health Center, on appointment so that advice may be offered to the parents.

Hard of hearing children who start training between the ages of three and four learn to communicate and can often attend public schools in their own community.

Will the residents of Wayland help? If you have an old round dining room table, bookcases, a child's rocking chair, toys or children's records and you are willing to donate them to the nursery school, please call the Parmenter Health Center, OL 3-5111. — Miss Roberta Jacobs, Director.

"Kitchen Canaries" Win Fame As Singing Housewives

WESTON—When an Associated Press photographer, three years ago, was assigned to make some pictures of "those canaries in Weston", he thought they might be birds, but what he found was a group of women chirping away in the basement of the home of Mrs. Owen C. Howe Jr. at 11 Summer Street.

This singing group, now commencing its fourth season, is composed of married girls who take time out from dishes and mops to sing. Although it's all in a spirit of fun, they have two hours of serious rehearsing every Thursday morning.

The number of "Canaries" is limited to 16, all of whom must be residents of Weston. Members are chosen for congeniality and love for singing.

Mrs. Howe, originator and professional director of the "Kitchen Canaries", says she finds it most challenging, to work with so many different types of voices and musical backgrounds.

It was Mrs. Walter Raleigh of 22 Byron Road who named this group. With the assistance of a few other "Canaries", Mrs. Raleigh also designed the costumes of yellow dress and yellow apron, accented with a black canary.

The Canaries' repertoire includes folk songs, old favorites, show tunes and some original music. They make all their own arrangements.

The Canaries have sung at many different functions and at many places, from the Weston schools to the Statler ballroom in Boston to Fitchburg City Hall. They have sung for churches and state hospitals, at Community Fund headquarters and community rallies, at Rotary meetings, at Weston Town Hall, at the Wellesley Junior High Auditorium, at the New England Governors' Conference and the Cambridge Chamber of Commerce, and on WBZ-TV.

Concerts are limited to two a month, because the Canaries, among them, have more than three dozen children.

Present members are Mrs. John Buzzard, Mrs. John Durant, Mrs. Harrison Faulkner, Mrs. John O'Brien, Mrs. Robert Whittemore, Mrs. Gerald W. Blakeley, Mrs. Guy Garland, Mrs. Henry Wheeler, Mrs. John Underhill, Mrs. Anthony Morse, Jr., Mrs. Harry Crawford, Jr., Mrs. Walter Raleigh, Mrs. C. F. Gimber, Mrs. Howard Rogers, Mrs. John Byrne and Mrs. Stephen Mallett.

Dr. Caul Speaks On Flavor at Chicago

WAYLAND—Dr. Jean F. Caul of 38 Lake Shore Drive, a senior research chemist at the flavor laboratory of Arthur D. Little in Cambridge, spoke on "Flavor's New Look" at a meeting of the Institute of Food Technologists in Chicago on Dec. 12.

Dr. Caul has worked extensively in the field of flavor and odor analysis, and has also had experience in nutrition and food analysis. She participated in founding the ADL Flavor Laboratory and in development of the flavor profile method, said to be the newest technique of flavor and odor analysis.

No New Precinct In Wayland, After All

WAYLAND—In spite of what was reported in the Town Crier a couple of weeks ago, it appears that there will not be a new voting precinct in Wayland in the near future, after all.

On closer inspection of the law, it was discovered that the rule about the maximum number of voters permissible in a precinct covers only cities, not towns.

Wayland citizens, it is indicated, may stick with their accustomed voting places for some time to come.

Notes From the Diary Of G. S. Troop 14

So far, Troop No. 14 has had four meetings. At the first meeting, we broke into two patrols and elected officers. The patrol leaders are Martha Seley and Marian Bova and the treasurers are Nancy Smith and Judy Lyford. Troop scribe is Harriet Colby.

At another meeting we decided what we would like to do during the year. Some of the things we plan to do are: go skating; go on an overnight; go on hikes and work on a cyclist badge.

We had one cook-out, the meal being pocket stew. We also discussed where we would go caroling at Christmas and what we would do for a service project this year.

* * *

NOTE: Troop No. 14 is in need of a bicycle expert to help as consultant to the girls who wish to earn a cyclist badge. Two qualifications are necessary: first, a knowledge of the working parts of the bicycle; second, a desire to share that knowledge. Please call Mrs. Anthony Bova at ELmwood 8-4826, if you would help. Extra operators will be on duty to handle the calls.

Community Chorus Gives "Messiah"

The Community Chorus, composed of singers from Weston, Wayland and Sudbury, performed Handel's "Messiah" Dec. 11.

Through the years the chorus' "Messiahs" have gotten better and better, and this year was no exception. Chester W. Williams, director, has trained his singers to bring out the real punch in Handel's mighty choruses and yet observe the many nuances the music calls for. The parts are more assured, and are massive when they should be.

Mr. Williams always produces some good soloists. This year Aletha Doolittle gave a moving interpretation of the famous aria, "I know that my Redeemer Liveth," which she sang with real feeling and beauty. Edward Munro and William Flavin performed competently the difficult tenor and bass parts, while Anne Rothgeb's contralto voice proved a little on the light side for the large auditorium.

The orchestra, which is assembled for the occasion by Concert-mistress Lucy D. Parker, filled the bill admirably, except for a few rather tentative passages. The younger members of the audience, who were many, were disappointed in the absence of the exciting brass and timpani parts. — H.G.P.

The standard skating place in Weston is a pond of several acres on the grounds of Weston College, which the general public is allowed to use. No life guards are on hand, however, and it's up to everybody to be careful.

Sunday Afternoon, Dead Spot Of Week, Is Country Problem

In this season of Viking darkness, when the sun sinks over the nearby trees at 2:30 p. m., the question of what to do on Sunday afternoon remains one of the countryside's unsolved problems. Nor does it seem likely that any Act of Congress or vote of Town Meeting can do anything about this matter of private enterprise, or private sleepiness.

There is the Sunday afternoon walk. That's still possible. Some do walk, even though it's old fashioned. But it's harder than riding, on account of dogs, house lots and other people in automobiles.

In the morning there is the extra two hours of sleep, the leisurely breakfast, the glance through the Sunday papers. For many, there is the trip to church.

Then comes dinner, possibly preceded by an appetizer consisting of an olive surrounded by corrosive liquids. After dinner, women have no problem. They can wash dishes.

But after dishes life comes to a dead stop.

Some can sleep, on couch, sofa, chair, bed or floor, but that's dull.

Some can read.

Not many like the old time automobile ride. Motorists from the city take the automobile ride. They come out Route 30 and the Post Road and fill them up. No resident of the suburbs can get on the road without having his front number plate knocked off.

The civic minded can attend the committee meeting. This is worthy. It postpones the committee member's nap from 3 p. m. until 6 p. m., causing him to wake up at 9 p. m. instead of 4:30, thus ruining his night's sleep.

Sunday afternoon would be a fine time to play whist, except that whist went out of fashion while Sunday card playing was still frowned upon.

On Sunday one might sit around and think about his ancestors, who had it even worse on Sunday afternoons in these parts.

About 4 p. m. one might go to the kitchen and get a small snack, except that that way fatness lies.

There isn't even any work to do out of doors. The grass is frozen, the garden is congealed, the unraked leaves are frozen down. What should have been done in October hasn't been done in December, and one can only hope the snow will soon cover it all up.

Skating is for the young, not for those with two-way ankles.

One can sit around and worry about what he has to face at 9 a. m. on Monday.

It's odd, but a heavy Sunday dinner in the stomach tends to haul down the eyelids. This closing of the eyes sort of precludes such intellectual occupations as chess, stamp sorting and staying awake.

One can sit around and crab about the Government.

"Now, if I were Ike . . . ." It's easy to think these thoughts. On the other hand, if I were Ike I'd have Dr. Paul White at my elbow and I couldn't do anything, except take a blue pill every two hours and maybe practise putting on the rug.

Here is a problem which has vexed the New England countryside ever since the Puritans gave up double-session church on Sunday. It's not to be settled by law, television or lighter dinners. It involves the whole business of leisure, the five-day week, child care, reading habits, physical culture, civics and domestic relations.

Out in this realm of the station wagon, the ranch type house, comfortable dungarees for mothers, easy 50-year mortgage payments and packaged hot dogs, somebody should be able to think up what to do on Sunday afternoon in winter. After all, culture in ancient Athens sprang from thinner soil than this. — D. B. W.

Heart Fund People In Wayland, Weston

Richard F. Lincoln of the Weston branch of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company will serve as Weston treasurer for the 1956 Heart Fund campaign, it has been announced by Mrs. David R. Lutkins of 15 Hidden Road, Weston general chairman.

In Wayland, Mrs. Allan R. Finlay is general chairman. Mrs. Louis B. Jones of Winthrop Terrace is treasurer and Mrs. C. William Cheney of Glezen Lane is advance gifts chairman. Mrs. Finlay will also serve as Heart Sunday chairman.

"Horatio Hornblower", Movie, on Dec. 27

"Horatio Hornblower," starring Gregory Peck and Virginia Mayo, will be the feature film shown at the Country School auditorium on Tuesday, Dec. 27.

The show is being sponsored by the Weston Boosters Club, and all proceeds from this affair will go to the David A. Perry Memorial Scholarship Fund, which has been established for the purpose of awarding scholarships to deserving Weston High School graduates.

The picture will be shown at 10:30 A.M., 2:00 P.M. and 7:30 P.M. Admission will be 40 cents for the morning show and 50 cents for the afternoon and evening performances.

Sponsors of this showing suggest that this is a most worthy cause, and that this film might occupy a few hours of the vacation for children.

Pack 51 Presents American Exhibits

WESTON — One of the best meetings of the season was enjoyed on Friday, Dec. 2 by the Cub Scouts of Pack 51, Weston. Skits, games and exhibits developed around the theme, "America the Beautiful", featured novel presentations of historic events and dates of patriotic interest. This was an outstanding get-together for the Cubs.

All Dens participated actively in the evening's affairs and the job of selecting winners in the various competitions was a tough one for the judges.

During the judging Den 15 gave an original exhibit of drawings by the Cubs depicting famous dates in American history from the Wright Brothers to Korea; the boys of Den 22 told of their trip to Concord and Lexington and of seeing the statue of Paul Revere; Den 19's presentation was built around safety in sports and showed the beginning of various sports in New England; a series of beautiful color slides of scenes from America the beautiful was the subject of Den 2's entry.

Den Awards were made as follows: Inspection - Den 2 and Den 9; Attendance - Den 15; Exhibits - Den 19; Awards - Den 6; Best skit - Den 15.

Among the many hard working Cubs receiving individual awards were Paul Gardent and Oliver Manice.

* * *

WESTON—Despite an unusually heavy downpour Friday, Nov. 4, there was a large and enthusiastic turn-out for the second meeting of the season for Pack 51 of the Cub Scouts. The theme of the meeting—Cub Bee-keeping—was highlighted by several very interesting exhibits relative to this interesting subject; an award for originality was made to Cub Den 22 for their fine work.

Another feature of the meeting was a vigorous "shoe relay" race —ever try to find your left shoe in a pile of 50 others? Den awards were: Inspections — Dens 9 and 12; Attendance—Dens 9, 12 and 15; Exhibit—Den 22; Award of Awards went to Den 9.

Den 2 entertained their fellow cubs with a loud and spirited rendition of "I've Been Working on the Railroad". Kenny French and David MacLeod of Den 12 were awarded Lion Badges. Den 12 enjoyed a very interesting visit to the home of Mrs. Whittemore on Warren Place to see her unusual exhibit of bells on Tuesday. Den 6 is hard at work qualifying a number of the boys for the Bobcat award at the next meeting.

The following boys of Den 9 received the Bob-cat award: Donald Pollock, Summer Williams, Stephen Bromfield, Clough Toppan, Norman Toppan, Robert Reider and Tony Laugner.

Den 15 applauded new Bobcats: Johnny Ayers, Dexter Perry, Jay Kronenburg, Ollie Manice and Harry Thomas. Two Bobcats for Den 19—Stephen Mallett and Teddy Briggin. During the last month Den 19 enjoyed a demonstration of the use of a Scout Camping Pack by Den Chief Dick Wigginson, and a talk on bees by Mrs. Stewart Woodworth, Jr.

The boys of Den 22 had a fine outing recently at Whitman, Massachusetts. The Den paid a visit to the apiary of Mr. W. P. Reece. Mr. Reece fascinated his listeners with a conducted tour from "hive to honey". His gift to the Cubs of several bottles of honey produced at his apiary will serve as great momentos of this fine trip.

McKinley H. Warren of 3 Plain Road, Weston, consulting manager for the Boston agency of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company, says 21,000 Massachusetts policyholders will share the company's 1956 dividend increase.

The regular meeting of St. Ann's Holy Name Society was held Thursday evening, Dec. 15, in St. Ann's Hall. Mr. Daniel Finn, Assistant to the Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, was the guest speaker. His topic "Indecent Literature" was very timely, revealing and educational, as this year all Holy Name Societies in the Archdiocese are working on this theme in their respective parishes.

On Sunday, Dec. 18, Fr. Carty was again host to the children of the Sunday School at their annual Christmas party, immediately following the 9:00 Mass. A Christmas tableau was presented by the children under the supervision of the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur, who staff the Sunday School. Candy and gifts were distributed.

The regular meeting of St. Ann's Guild will be held Tuesday, Jan. 2, at 8:00 p.m. The meeting will start with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the upper church. The history of St. Ann's Church will be presented by Mrs. Everett T. Ballou, whose mother was one of the original members who took an active part in the building of the church more than 50 years ago. A coffee hour will follow.

Midnight Mass will be celebrated by Fr. Carty on Christmas Eve. The Jubilee Mass of the Sacred Heart by W. J. Marsh will be sung. Carol singing by the choir from 11:45 to midnight.

PROGRAM

Credo—W. J. Marsh—choir
Offertory—O Magnum Mysterium J. A. Corman. Duet by Mrs. John Manning and Miss Eileen Breese.
Carol—With Glory Lit the Midnight Air Revealed, by Dielman. Sung by choir.
A Capella — Sleep Holy Babe — German carol. Lo How a Rose E'er Blooming—German carol. Holiest Night — German carol. In a Manger—Polish carol. Sung by choir.

Program concludes with traditional Christmas carols. Choir Director and organist, Mrs. John Butler.

Weston Has $6500 For Parking Lot

WESTON—The Hown of Weston appropriated $6500 for land for a municipal parking lot back in 1950, it was recalled the other day, and hasn't spent it yet.

The idea at the time was to buy two or three acres of low land behind the stores in the Center and have two exits, one near the Fire Station and one near the Postoffice.

Because the land was low, a professor of soil mechanics was engaged to check on it. His report was that it was soupy, and that it would not be economically feasible to try to use it for the purpose specified.

So the project was referred back to the Planning Board, and there it still is. And the $6500 is still appropriated.

WESTON HIGH NOTES

Three Weston senior girls who took the preliminary screening test for the National Merit Scholarship Program all passed this hurdle successfully. They are Marian Larkin, Judith Wetzel and Judith Anderson. They are now three of about 4000 semi-finalists in the country who will take the scholastic aptitude test of the College Entrance Examination Board on Jan. 14, 1956, as Merit Scholars.

Scholarship winners will be selected by a board of experts from among the students with the highest scores on this second examination. Qualities of character as well as school performance will weigh in the final choice.

This is the first year of operation of this multi-million dollar scholarship program, set up by corporations and other organiztions for the purpose of assisting gifted students to the higher education they should have. Scholarship winners will be assured of four years of financial assistance in accordance with their needs, and there will be no restrictions upon their selection of colleges or of courses. The number of scholarships to be offered for the academic year of 1956-57 has been increased from 200 to 350 by additional donations to the original fund.

Three girls in the Stenography II class recently qualified for Gregg awards when they successfully completed an official dictation-transcription test with scores ranging from 95 to 99 percent accuracy. The following girls passed the test, which was dictated at sixty words per minute for five minutes and transcribed within a specified time limit: Sandra Akers, Donna Cuigini and Patricia Cusamano.

There was lively goings-on at the school recently with campaign speeches over the P.A. system, election posters all over the walls, and students rushing to register for voting on Friday, Dec. 2. The occasion was the election of our school representative to Student Government Day to be held at the State House in Boston on Friday, March 9. In past years Weston students have served in various capacities, including those of Senator and Governor.

Just as Student Government Day is intended to give boys and girls a close-up view of the running of our state government, so the process of electing the representative is designed to give all the students experience with nomination and voting procedures. Those desiring to compete had to take out nomination papers and obtain the required number of signatures. They spent two days campaigning. All other students went through the process of registration before voting.

Five candidates took out papers. Walter Chisholm received the greatest number of votes, and will be our representative next Spring.

The first quarter of the academic year came to a close on Nov. 18, and report cards were distributed on Tuesday the 29th. This year more than 30 per cent of all students from grades 7 to 12 achieved the distinction of getting on the honor roll in one of the three categories: highest honors, honors, or honorable mention. To get highest honors a student must have all A's in major subjects; for honors he must have at least two A's and two B's; for honorable mention he must have at least a B average in major subjects. However no one can get on any of these lists with a mark, even in a minor field, of less than C minus.

The percentage of students making the honor roll was 30.5, an overall gain of 2.4 percent over last year. Especially noticeable were the gains in grades 11 and 8. Last year the present junior class had 31 per cent of its students on the roll, this year 43.5 per cent made it. Of the present eighth grade class only 15.2 per cent made honors last year, and 31.5 per cent have achieved the distinction during this first marking period. Those receiving highest honors were Harry Crawford and Charles Phillips, juniors; Kim Cummings, Alison Hower, Joshua Lombard and Deborah Williams, sophomores; Arsine Avakian, Bruce Hamill and Ann Wolff, freshmen, and Armine Avakian, Betty Haywood and Esther Lombard, Grade 8.

The others:

Honors: Seniors: Judith Anderson, Marjorie Benedict, Owen Connolly, Patricia Cusumano, David Donaldson, Blake Foster, Marian Larkin, Lusanna Lawson, Judith Wetzel, Nancy Wilkes, Suzanne Wilson, and Peter Rayner.

Honorable Mention: Sandra Akers, Daniel Bump, Thomas Healey, Robert Howell, Craig Jameson, Thomas Malamud, Nancy Nichols, Barbara Rushford, and Richard Cahill.

Juniors: Honors: Sally Armstrong, Walery Chodsky, Eleanor Farrar, Stuart Harnish, Alan McClennen, Blythe Page, Meredith Stebbins, and Frances Tyng.

Sophomores: Honors: Sandra Cunningham, Henry Field, Bernard Foote, James Gambrill, Vincent Hoagland, Henry Lehne, Nina Marchetti, and Carl Rydell.

Honorable Mention: Anita Barclay, Joanna Bartlett, Marla Buerger, Peter Fowler, Thomas Graham, Jane Gross, Barbara Haywood. Philip Mueller, Lynten Raynor, Joan Rogers, Judith Sherman, Deborah Toppan, and Judith Nilan.

Freshman: Honors: Susan Bump, Thomas Kelly, Margaret Koester, and James Tebo.

Grade 8: Honors: Karen Beamish, Frederik Crawford, Louise Dailey, John Gray, Jr., James Hall, Charles Janeway, Jr., and John Brooks.

Honorable Mention: Nancy Albrecht, Richard Ayers, Susan Bassett, Janice Cetrone, Alex Corman, Beverly Eaton, Gretchen Goodall, Meribeth Hanson, Joan Harding, Samuel Hawkes, Deborah Lynch, John Mahoney, Priscilla McFarlin, Richard Newbert, Elizabeth Parsons, Lewis Pillsbury, Lars Rydell, Jonathan Speare, Wayne Wetzel, and Richard Wigginton.

Grade 7: Honors: Julie Doebler, Susan Koester, Gail Mosher, Erika Saunders, Kenneth Terkelsen, and Linda Townsend.

Honorable Mention: John Akers, Janet Albrecht, Donna Brown, Richard Cutter, Nancy Garland, Stuart Gauld, Edward Gray, Peter Grey, Judith Helgeson, Anne Jones, David Kellogg, Marie Larsen, Charles Lehne, Rosamond Lombard, Karin Mueller, Virginia Olney, Stephen Richardson, Karen Schuerhoff, Keppler Stone, Joanne Symmes, Susan Thomas, Paula Toner, James Tyng, and Jane Wypler.

Wayland Selectmen Ask State To Fix Curve on Route 30

WAYLAND—The Wayland Selectmen, by Frank S. Tarr, clerk, have written a letter to John A. Volpe, Massachusetts Commissioner of Public Works, calling attention to the new Dead Man's Curve on Route 30 near the Weston line and asking that something be done about it.

The letter:

"Several months ago the Massachusetts Department of Public Works reconstructed a section of Route 30 located in Natick and crossing into the Town of Wayland at Frost Street. This area has become a definite death trap and will be a constant expense to the Town of Wayland through policing and constant replacement of guard rails and markers.

"The Town of Wayland is also confronted with a drainage problem caused by surface and spring water that is constantly flowing down this newly constructed road and into and across Route 30 at the Natick-Wayland line.

"It is imperative that you realize the extremely dangerous condition that presently confronts the motoring public. We would appreciate your cooperation in having this curve modified and the drainage corrected."

Between Wayland and Weston, where this new strip of road runs, is an odd corner of Natick, something more than a quarter of a mile long. This little section of Route 30 in Natick does not connect with any other Natick highway and in the past snow removal on it has often been indifferent.

Chamberlins Have Twins

WAYLAND—Twins were born to Dr. and Mrs. Harold Chamberlin of Old Sudbury Road, on Dec. 10 at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Harold Eliot Chamberlin weighed six pounds and four ounces, and Cynthia Maud Chamberlin weighed six pounds and five ounces on arrival. The Chamberlins were told about a month ago to expect twins. Dr. Chamberlin's father is a twin.

Weston High Presents "Ladies In Retirement"

Students at the Weston High School, under the direction of Mr. John W. Zorn, Chairman of the English Department, put on an excellent performance of "Ladies in Retirement" on Thursday and Friday evenings, Dec. 8 and 9, at the Country School auditorium.

This play, by the British writers Edward Percy and Reginald Denham, is more of a psychological than a mystery drama. It involves the murder of Miss Leonora Fiske, an elderly retired actress of dubious reputation, by her faithful friend and housekeeper, Miss Emily Creed. Miss Emily is the guardian and sole support of two "unbalanced" sisters whose odd behavior makes them unwanted guests in the home of Miss Leonora. To prevent her helpless sisters from being ejected Miss Emily commits the murder and lives on the checks that come regularly to her late employer.

The major part of the play reveals the trapping of Emily, not just by the authorities and a no-good nephew, but by her own conscience.

Joanna Bartlett played the difficult lead role of Emily with admirable poise and restrained revelation of the psychological tensions that are the motivation of the play. Her two sisters, Louisa and Emily, were played by Judith Wetzel and Judith Wilkinson, the former sly and soft-spoken, the other ugly and screeching. Their fine characterizations lent variety as well as humor to the performance.

The gay and exhuberant Leonora was faithfully portrayed by Suzanna Wilson, the saucy little maid was saucily done by Sandra Cunningham and Martin Pollock gave an amusingly realistic rendition of the ne'er-do-well nephew Albert. Three minor roles, those of Bates the coachman and two detectives were well played by Richard Cahill, Craig Jameson and Robert Murray.

The scenery, authentic and effective, was produced in the school shop under the direction of Mr. Aimo Teittinen, the lighting under Mr. Malcolm Oliver. Costumes, some of which were loaned by Mrs. Allan T. Wheeler, were equally effective and true to the late 19th century period.

An alumni homecoming party will be given by the senior class on Saturday, Dec. 17, beginning at 8 o'clock in the High School gymnasium. All alumni are cordially invited to attend, and special invitations have been sent out to members of classes 1952 through 1955. General chairmen for the occasion are David Donaldson and Blake Foster.

There will be a special Christmas assembly at the High School on Friday morning, Dec. 23, at 11:30 a. m. in the gymnasium. Selections of Christmas music will be played by the orchestra, the band, the choir, the chorus and the Sulizanna Trio, under the direction of Mr. Wendell Phillips. Especially featured will be an arrangement of Tchaikowsky's Nutcracker Suite, played by the orchestra, and two numbers sung by the choir: "'Twas the Night Before Christmas", and the cantata, "Song of Christmas" by Roy Ringwald. This cantata has been recorded by the school choral group, and recordings may be bought at the school (price $2.50).

The annual Alumni vs. Varsity basketball game will be played in the High School gymnasium on Wednesday, Dec. 28, at 7:30 p. m. This is always an exciting event with past stars competing against the current best players in the school. Last year the alumni won by one point, and this loss for the varsity was the only loss sustained by the school team during the entire season.

Mr. John Proctor, Dean, Mr. Robert Carini, and Mr. George Harris attended a meeting of the Massachusetts Coaches' Association at M.I.T. on Saturday, Dec. 9. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss rules and regulations pertaining to all sports played by school students.

Toll Road Takes Another 57 Acres

WESTON—The Toll Road Authority has taken its second bite out of Weston this time an area of 56.7 acres bounded by Route 128, South Avenue, Park Road and Riverside Road, including 13 or 14 houses.

In its first taking, the Authority acquired 136 acres on which were 11 houses. Town valuation lost in this taking was estimated at $180,000, and in this second taking at an additional $160,000. Thus the Town loses nearly 193 acres, two dozen houses and $340,000 of valuation.

Owners affected by the second taking are Dr. Nancy L. R. Bucher, Mrs. Marion P. Lane, the Metropolitan District Commission, Agnes Blake Fitzgerald, Charles B. Jr. and Dorothy W. Cutter, Mrs. Marjorie Whitaker, Stewart F. and Evalyn D. Grinnell.

Harry G. and Lillian R. Brockington, J. Philip and Ellenor C. Lane, Frederick de Russett Strong and Elsie deWolf Strong, Benjamin S. Blake and Edward C., Sarah A. and Mary E. Dooley.

As the road is now laid out, there is an access to it from Commonwealth Avenue in Newton, but no exit from it to Commonwealth. The spur of the toll road leading to Nickerson Field (and thence nobody knows where) is still marked on the map in broken lines.

Cubs of Pack 51 Awarded Badges

WAYLAND — Pack 51 of the Wayland Cub Scouts held its monthly Pack meeting Nov. 17 at 7:00 at the High School gym.

Receiving awards were Brian Sibley and Clark Perry, wolf badges; Donald Cassidy, Lion badge and gold arrow in Den 4. Michael Whelan, silver arrow; David Charnock, gold arrow, and Marty Benjamin, silver arrow in Den 3.

Two dens put on skits portraying "America the Beautiful", the theme for the month. Besides the singing of "America the Beautiful" the boys and their fathers engaged in a game called hit the basket. The cubs won.

The meeting was concluded by Scoutmaster Will S. Brown's announcement that Den 3 won the attendance award for the second straight month. The Den was then entitled to keep the attendance flag. It was suggested that cubs of the other dens get out the vote for the next pack meeting, Thursday, Jan. 9, 1956.

Weston Selectmen Are Perambulating

WESTON— Weston Selectmen, this year, are engaged in the ancient New England rite known as perambulating the boundaries, and they're really doing it. They've already inspected the Waltham, Lincoln and Natick lines, and they're getting ready to cover the long Wayland line.

To be sure, they've been using some substitutes, as permitted. Selectman Edward M. Dickson has gone out twice, with Fire Chief Maurice L. Upham and Town Engineer as substitutes, and Selectman William R. Dewey has gone once with the same substitutes.

The important thing, it is said, is to make sure that stone bounds are still in place. The perambulators drive where they can, but where necessary they go on foot through woods and brush. The law calls for this perambulation once every five years, and for Weston this is the year.

In the Nov. 24 issue the address of Dr. Leon Herman's new office was given as 39 Central Street, Natick. More accurately, it should have been 29 EAST Central Street, Natick.

Suasco —

Agriculture, and his Deputy, Dr. Benjamin Isgur. Both make their headquarters at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Seven or eight men have already looked over the valley, they said. After the first of the year, they said, they hope to have from four to eight work parties, of at least three men each, making the detailed studies on which the job would be based.

Mr. Colonna said he planned to introduce into the Massachusetts Legislature, next day, a bill calling for the appropriation of money to match Uncle Sam's contribution.

Wayland people have heard so much about flood prevention, with nothing done about it, that they have tended to become a little skeptical about possible improvements.

Mr. Colonna was given the question, "Is the job really going to be done this time?"

"I would say definitely yes," he said. "I think this will work out. I think the Association can guarantee that it will be done.'

Channel Dredging

One of the things they have done, they said, is interview the owners of the mill at North Billerica, where the nine-foot dam holds back the river water. The owners, they said, were reasonable. They don't care whether the ledge at the Fordway is blown up, but they are concerned about the 1,000,000 gallons of water a day which they need. They were told that part of the plan calls for a steady, controlled flow of water, and that the retention areas planned should provide a guaranteed flow. They said there would be another meeting with the mill people.

They couldn't say just what effect the project would have on the Wayland marshes. They thought the silt would be dredged from the river and the channel widened. They thought there would still be marshes, but that the next higher level of land along the river should be drier.

The experts begged off from giving exact details. They couldn't say whether there would be a dam in Wayland. They said they had retention areas — ponds created by dams — in mind, but they didn't want to say where they were. They did say that no good land now in use would go under water.

The plan embraces 35 cities and Towns, from the junction of the Concord with the Merrimack at Lowell all the way back to the sources of the Sudbury and the Assabet. The idea seems to be to attack one tributary watershed at a time. Thus, some brook in Westboro might be flood-proofed as one complete element of the bigger job.

Need Easements

The Suasco area includes 243,000 acres. The limit on such projects under the Federal law is 250,000 acres. They said this is a "precedent job", one of the first and one of the biggest under the law.

A point they made particularly is that the project calls for cooperation by landowners along the river. Suasco has easement forms to be filled out, to permit engineers and workmen to reach the river and perhaps to permit dredged material to be piled on the river banks. No money is provided to pay for these temporary easements. However, it was said that these easements are temporary, that flood prevention will enhance the value of the lands and that Uncle Sam will reckon the easements as having substantial value when he comes to figure out matching funds.

They said that failure of one of the 35 cities and towns to join in the project would not nix it. They said it might turn out that the flood prevention project would be like Chapter 90 work on roads. Moreover, there is no Federal or State domination in this deal. Suasco, the organization of local residents, makes the decisions on what's to be done, after getting expert advice.

One of the projects is to have the flow of the rivers controlled by a single responsible agency. At present, it appears, the arrangement for opening or closing dams is a loose one.

The experts said there are no great physical obstacles in the way of the project. The technical side, they said, is the simplest. The most immediate problem is to get the easements.

How long the whole job would take they couldn't say, nor how much it would cost. It might take five years, and the law says the cost can't be more than one year's flood damage. Work might begin next June.

The sensational thing about it is that Suasco officials really think they'll do the job. For more than three centuries the Sudbury River has been soaking Wayland at intervals, getting worse in recent years. Now they promise to fix it, once and for all, and if they make good the benefits to Wayland will be great.

Grannis, Jr., treasurer; L. William Bertelson, membership; Daniel E. Kennedy Jr., building; Willard Dik (with Mrs. Dik, co-historian); Edward K. White, play committee; Mrs. Francis H. Stites, make-up; Mrs. Maurice Williams, wardrobe; Rudolph Bruce, publicity; Mrs. William Hodgkinson, tickets; and Frederick Perry and John Sibley, stewards.

Elected officers for 1956 are: President Winford Naylor, Eastern Airlines pilot who has been in several plays; Vice-president Mrs. Daniel E. Kennedy Jr., who has both directed and played many leading roles; Secretary Mrs. William Hodgkinson, who has acted and has recently taken charge of tickets; Treasurer Arthur E. Grannis, who has held this position in Vokes for several years and who has helped construct scenery for nearly every play. Members-at-large William L. Bertelson and Mrs. Ralph Field continue their terms, and Philip Bassett of Weston replaces Alfred C. Whiting, whose term has expired.

Entertainment followed with several original songs sung by Francis W. Hatch, who also read a poem in tribute to Mr. Vinsonhaler. A series of tableaux on the history of plumbing was put on by the program committee.

Beacon Hill By-Lines

By Rep. Robert Ayers

Your daily newspaper arranges for complete news coverage of what happens at the State House. It cannot, except on its editorial page, tell you the story behind what happens, and the "why" of it. Even the editorial page is dedicated to trying to mould opinion on a given issue, rather than to trying to explain the background.

The purpose of this column, therefore, is to inform you, in the months ahead, as to why certain things happen, and even to anticipate the direction which certain forces interested in legislation will take even before final decisions are made.

On Wednesday, Jan. 4, 1956, the Greatest Show on Earth (or at least in Massachusetts), opens in Boston, when the State Legislature, more formally called the General Court, convenes for its annual session on Beacon Hill.

Thanks to our right of free petition, which means that any crackpot can get any kind of a bill filed, we will face a record number of bills, more than 4000 before the session ends. They range from the ridiculous to the sublime. They run the gamut from a bill which would prohibit the manufacture of food containers to be used in refrigerators which cannot open easily (the containers, not the refrigerators) to a proposal that the state provide 25,000,000 dollars more in aid to education by payments to cities and towns.

To understand the situation fully you must constantly keep in mind that we have a Republican Governor, Christian A. Herter; a Republican Senate (by only two votes, sometimes unrecognizable); and a Democratic House of Representatives, by 16 votes. That's roughly the equivalent of producing a stage show with Bob Hope as the star and Milton Berle and Jack Carson as co-stars vying for top billing, with Martha Raye, Arthur Godfrey, and Rin-Tin-Tin on the second level trying to crowd out the stars.

Remember, too, that next year, only two weeks away, is an election year, when every one wants to look good—to be the friend of the people—to give them something which costs them nothing. No one has yet figured out how to do this, but nobody in public life ever gives up trying.

Many public officials on Beacon Hill, led by Speaker of the House Michael Skerry, freely predict a short session, in contrast to the one this year which ran until Sept. 17, a view which is NOT shared by this writer.

Many and varied reasons are given for this opinion; the salary of the members is the same whether they sit for one month or 10 months; it will be an election year with state party conventions in June and national conventions in August; the "boys" will want to get through to go home and campaign for their own re-election.

A realistic view of the financial problems which face the next session of the Legislature will alone indicate the futility of this reasoning. This writer predicts a long, frustrating, and hopelessly deadlocked session extending almost to Christmas, although nobody hopes he is wrong more than he does himself.

Because receipts from corporation income taxes are substantially below estimates which were used this year, the state will probably end its fiscal year next June 30 with a deficit. Increased costs of everything, the staffing of such new facilities as mental health hospitals, the increased cost of servicing the State debt, and other unavoidable expenditures for State government will require new money beyond existing sources of revenue.

If Governor Herter should recommend new taxes, an opposition House of Representatives would not approve them. If he should recommend curtailment of existing governmental services to reach a level which existing revenue could support, the House would not approve that either. Which horn of the dilemma should he choose to pierce himself with? Tbis issue alone could hang up the session for many months.

We can determine a better sense of direction when the Governor delivers his annual message to the Legislature Jan. 5, and even more clearly when he delivers his annual budget message some three weeks later.

Stay with this semi-monthly program. You can't follow the play without the names and numbers of all the players.

Wayland Trolley Had a Hard Time Going Uphill – No Juice

WAYLAND—"From Stagecoach to Railroad in our Country Town" was the theme of the October meeting of the Historical Society and a number of speakers contributed information about coaches, trolleys and trains of the 1880's.

Mrs. Newton Harris told about the stage coach line.

The local line went from Weston to Wayland to Sudbury, by way of Old Sudbury Road, because the Post Road over the river hadn't been built.

Miss Hope Hubbard said the passengers were sometimes packed in too closely for comfort. Those inclined to become ill from the motion were advised to sit just behind the driver, where the jouncing wasn't so bad. One of the "Rules of the Coach" was, "Do not spit on the leeward side of the coach." The driver, who sat outside, would wear long red stockings, boots, fur coat and cap and a red sash around his waist.

Mr. Alvin Neal said horse car tracks from Natick to Cochituate were laid in 1884, and in 1890 three of the cars were electrified. There was an argument over fares for the expensive new electric cars, so for two weeks horses drew the cars to the Natick line. The horses were put into a stable which stood where George Stockbridge's filling station now stands, and electricity took the passengers to Natick. Then the company gave in and the nickel fare was restored.

The Wayland Selectmen who stood firm in this crisis were Thomas Frost, Ed Marsters and Lou Flanders.

The trolley line was extended in 1896 to a terminal outside Wayland Town Hall. Mr. Neal was the operator of the one-man car. At High School graduation five or six cars would come from Cochituate to the Center to carry the crowd.

Going over was easy, because it was mostly downhill. Going back, uphill, was different. Only one car at a time could make the hills, because there wasn't enough juice.

The ice storm of November, 1921, made a shambles of the trolley wires and the line had to be abandoned. Mr. Neal drove the last trolley and also the first bus, which replaced the trolley.

Mr. Charles Cole told about the railroad. The first trains went through in 1882, but the line was not successful and was abandoned for a year. In 1884 service was resumed.

Mr. Cole, station agent in Weston and then agent in Wayland for 21 years, said there were 18 trains daily through Wayland, besides freight trains. Mr. Frank Pousland was Wayland station agent for 28 years, and he was kept busy.

Wayland had a freight siding, a freight house, a round house, a turn table and a water tank. The station agent had to keep an eye on all these and in addition, sell tickets, operate the telegraph, check freight and keep the stoves going in cold weather. The first shipment of freight to Wayland by train was a 200-pound barrel of flour for A. Cutting. The charge was 25 cents.

Henry W. Patterson told his recollection of children commuting to school by train, under the watchful eyes of the train crews. He remembered commuters arriving at the station by carriage, and he had a bright memory of one pedestrian who used to walk down the road to the station every morning drinking his coffee, with his wife following him to take home the cup and saucer. This was life 45 years ago.

Mr. Cole showed many old railroad pictures, some of them loaned by Miss Mabel Damon. Mrs. Herbert Wentzell loaned pictures of horses and carriages, and Mrs. J. O. Post, who presided, showed some old toys, loaned by Mr. Frank Ball from his collection.

Knowlcroft Parents Meet

COCHITUATE — Thirty - five Knowlcroft Nursery School parents met at the school on Dec. 2 to hear Dr. Marvin B. Krims of the Judge Baker Guidance Clinic, who presented a sound film, "Preface to a Life", and answered questions. Desserts made by children of the nursery and kindergarten classes were served.

Cochituate Section Gets New Cub Pack

COCHITUATE — Due to the rapid growth of cub scout Pack 1, Cochituate, a new Pack was formed and held its first meeting at the Happy Hollow School on Monday, Dec. 19.

This new cub group, Pack 55, will serve all boys from Main Street up West Plain Street, all streets off West Plain, Old Connecticut Path, Dudley Pond area, Stonebridge Road and Maiden Lane area.

The Pack committee includes Eldon Fox, chairman; Charles DeMartini and Douglas Porrell, committeemen; Jack Arnold, cubmaster; Kenneth Tibbetts and George Harris, assistant cubmasters.

Den mothers include Mrs. Winnefred Fox, Mrs. Ruth Harris, Mrs. Clare Large, Mrs. Dorothy Livingston, Mrs. Mina Tibbetts and Mrs. Helen Woods.

Regular meetings will be held on the last Monday of each month.

Robert M. Morgan of Wayland was one of the speakers at the Citizen's seminar held at Boston College early this month.

MORE COMFORT — LESS WORK

Just about now a great many of us are tossing New Year's resolutions around in our minds. We believe that a good resolution, like charity, should begin at home. Are you spending more time in home upkeep than you think you should? More than is necessary? If you are, then resolve right now to find out the reason why. Perhaps you're not capitalizing on all the advantages that modern science and industry offer you. Or you may be overlooking some of the labor-saving possibilities today's new room plans provide.

You'll save time and energy with the new mar-proof table tops that look and feel like burnished, hand-rubbed wood, yet are tough as steel. The new upholstery covers — plastics and synthetics—are not only split-tear- and burn-resistant, they are as colorful as rainbows, rich in texture interest, and soft as fine leather.

These factors have been combined in the family dining room sketched above to make it attractive, comfortable and easy to keep clean. One wall has been papered in a black-and-white design that dramatizes the ebony-finished furniture. Cerulean blue plastic chair seats add a bright color accent above a soft beige cotton carpet that is luxuriously deep-piled, mothproof and scrubbable.

Here's our New Year's resolution: to continue to bring you the finest in home furnishings. Every piece chosen especially to add year-in-year-out comfort and beauty to your home — at prices that make every purchase a truly good value. Best wishes for a Happy New Year.

Mrs. Wheeler Wins Acting Honor

PHYLLIS C. WHEELER

WESTON — Phyllis C. Wheeler of Boston Post Road was named "best supporting actress" of the 1955 season at Deertrees Theatre, Harrison, Maine, at a theatrical dinner held recently at Hampshire House, Boston.

The award was for a portrayal of "Elvira" in "Blithe Spirit", performed last August. The dinner was sponsored by the Boothbay Playhouse Inc., under the management of Sherwood Keith. Boothbay corporation also runs Deertrees.

Mrs. Wheeler is well known locally for her roles with the Hovey Players of Waltham, the Friendly Society of Weston and the Auburndale Club of Auburndale. It was the Auburndale Club which put on "Blithe Spirit" at Deertrees last Summer.

Raytheon Gets Big Contract

WAYLAND — An additional contract for $7,796,500 for research and development work in the field of guided missile control systems has been awarded to Raytheon Manufacturing Company by the Boston Ordnance District, local procurement agency of the Army Ordnance Corps, it was announced on Dec. 5,

The award represents a supplement to a 1953 contract and is to pay for continuation of work begun in March of that year. The extension will carry through September 1956, and brings the total value of the contract to about $17,000,000 so far.

The Wayland laboratory, the company says, is New England's largest industrial electronics engineering laboratory, and is the center of Raytheon's equipment engineering activities.

Weston Appropriates

the State rules cover wiring, and that the Town can't make any rules. Then the question arose, "What applicable laws?"

This was finally settled by a woman, who suggested, "Why not say 'applicable State laws'?" It was so voted.

Some of those present spoke rather bitterly of "two by fours" which actually turn out to measure closer to 1 5 8 by 2 5 8. That brought up the question of "nominal sizes" and "what two by four means in the trade" and "the subject of shrinking two by fours". The conclusion seemed to be that if the code said "two by four inches", that was what it meant.

Then Mr. Brooks moved that "warm air" be changed to "hot air", and it was so voted.

Members of the Committee To Study Revision of Building By-Law, who brought in the new code, were Maurice L. Upham, chairman; Hector J. Osmond, Marjorie N. Pierce, Walter H. Farrell and Douglas Mercer. One reason for the need of a new code was that building practices and materials have changed greatly in the past 30 years.

$35,000 For Trees

Under the first Article, Selectman William R. Dewey Jr. moved that the Town appropriate $3500 to protect elm trees from the disease. He said it was estimated there were 2700 elms on Town ways and 7000 to 8000 on private land. He said 33 dead trees had been removed from public ways and it was estimated there were from 150 to 175 dead elms on private property.

The idea, he said, was to protect the public trees by destroying all infected elms on private property within 250 feet of the highway. He said it would cost about $50 to remove each tree. He said the owner would get an estimate of the cost of tree removel and the Town also would, and the lower price would be taken. Then the Town would pay half the bill for the private owner.

There was a question as to whether any outside experts had been consulted. John L. Duffy, moth superintendent, said he had been in the tree business for many years, was familiar with the Dutch Elm disease and considered himself an expert.

When the motion was put, there was only one audible "No".

Under Article 2, Dr. Theodore B. Bayles moved to appropriate $1675 for increased school teacher salaries this year. He said that last May Weston had 16 Fall vacancies, and seven teachers had declined Weston offers because they could get better jobs elsewhere.

At that time, he said, the beginning pay for women in Weston was $2900, less than in most other communities surveyed. So, he said, they raised the starting pay $300 and the maximum $200, with other raises in between. Total cost of the increases was to have been $4250, he said, but thanks to other economies the $1675 would cover it and the School Department would spend less this year than asked for in its budget.

Carried unanimously.

Meeting "Dissolved"

Under Article 3, Water Commissioner Carl E. Anderson moved to appropriate $4440 to complete a pumping equipment job at the Nickerson Field well.

Somebody wanted to know whether residents who don't have Town water were to be charged for this. Mr. Anderson replied that two of the three Water Commissioners do not have Town water.

Asked whether the Water Department pays for itself, he replied:

"It's a money making department. It's no burden to the taxpayers."

The question was raised whether the toll road in the vicinity of the well would affect the water table. He said it would not. "The geologists tell us the water comes from miles away. It's water in the ancient bed of the Merrimack River. Maybe it comes from New Hampshire."

The motion was carried unanimously.

At the close of the evening's business, Moderator Francis G. Goodale called for "a motion to dissolve", and the meeting was dissolved.

Even Fences Covered In Building Code

WESTON—At the Special Weston Town Meeting, Walter H. Farrell of the building code committee conceded that the code was not "bullet proof", that more definitions could be added with much more work by the committee.

Somebody then wanted to know whether the code was comprehensive enough to cover all kinds of buildings, and Douglas Mercer gave this reassurance:

"Everything is covered, including flagpole, fences and bandstands."

Wayland League

WAYLAND—The recommendation of four-year term for Governor has passed the 1953-54 State Legislature and must be accepted again by the 1955-56 Legislature to go on referendum for the voters.

General acceptance of this bill at the December units is reported by Mrs. Richard Howard and her committee, with the condition that the bill become effective in an off-Presidential election year. It was also generally felt that there should be some limitation on a Governor's terms of office and agreed that the biennial election of legislative officials would show the degree of the electorate's satisfaction with the Governor and act as a check. A shorter State-wide ballot seemed a desirable feature.

This month's local item was an interview with the School Site Committee and School Building Committee. Mrs. Bruce Kingsbury states that there is very substantial feeling in favor of the long-range program as stated in the (Engelhardt Report on purchasing school sites now, while available.

Hostesses for December units were Mrs. James Burgess, Mrs. Harold Proctor, Mrs. Donald Tarbell and Mrs. Douglas Surgenor.

Letters to the EDITOR

To the Editor:

This is our first Christmas at the Happy Hollow School. Little hands have been very, very busy decorating the school for the Yuletide. The hall windows are colorful stained glass and Mrs. Hall's first grade has made gay cutouts for their big picture window.

There is the "first grade choir" on one of the big bulletin boards. Mrs. Shohl's class have completed a Nativity mural in cutpaper and chalk. The five showcases depict various Christmas displays.

ALL the bulletin boards are most atttractive. The teachers and children have all worked to make the school so warm and cheerful. Do visit our school. We will keep our decorations up just for you until Jan. 6.

Cordially,
Mildred Kingsbury
Art Supervisor.

Girl Scouts Elect

At a recent meeting of the Wayland Neighborhood, Girl Scouts of America, the annual election of officers was held. The following will take office in January, for the year 1956:

Chairman, Mrs. James Sullivan; secretary, Mrs. Lyman Seley, and consultants, Mrs. Anthony Bova, Mrs. Donald Tarbell and Mrs. Francis Newton.

A permanent committee of three was formed to lay the foundation for a town-wide service project to be undertaken each year by all Wayland Girl Scouts. Mrs. Carl Kearsley was hostess.

WESTON — A new bank, the Haymarket Co-operative, was recently opened in downtown Boston by Albert M. Taber of 87 Sunset Road, Weston. Mr. Taber is a member of the Town Forest Committee, deputy administrator of civil defense, director of the Weston Taxpayers' Association and a member of the Auxiliary Fire Department.

Evi From Vienna —

family went to their country place, a beautiful mountain chalet, in Mauterndorf, a little village "too small for the map" near Salzburg. There in the mountains they were able to get food, especially eggs and milk, which was unobtainable in cities.

Evi saw her father "little for five years. Then he came home on Dec. 17 at the end of the war. I wrote it down. He was our Christmas present."

Evi laughs when she speaks of how "funny" people are here about how they look. "Everyone is on a diet, curling their hair, putting things on their faces. In Austria we dont work so . . . I think it is because everywhere here there are big signs 'take this and get thin' and so on."

Evi, who is built along Audrey Hepburn lines, finds this another amusing American phenomenon, along with nylon clothes (which are too expensive in Austria to be generally available), T.V. dinners, frozen and canned food, cars, Christmas wrapping paper and baby sitting.

"It is unusual for people to have part time work while in school in Austria", she says. Also household help is generally more available. While she has been here Evi has very much enjoyed baby sitting. She has a sister four years younger than herself, and says:

"I've always had children around me. I like them." Friends of her family would often bring their children to visit so that Evi felt at ease "sitting" for children from ages one month to seven years. (Ed. note: She is booked up with steady employers.)

In July Mrs. Kriedl and Evi will head for the Italian Riviera where Dr. Kriedl will join them for his vacation. Then they will return Evi.

"Now I'd like to invite Evi's brother and sister to come over too", says Mrs. Kriedl. And Evi says, "I'll have to get used to living with them again."

6th Grade Writes A Poem For Mr. Hale

WESTON — Austin Sherman Hale was guest of honor at Mrs. John McGann's sixth grade at the Country School, Weston, on Dec. 9, when a meeting of their Good Citizenship Club was held. The club has been named for Mr. Hale this year. Mr. Hale presented each child with a printed "ditty", and spoke to the class of the influence of his mother, whose maiden name was Sherman, on his life. Then the class presented Mr. Hale with a scroll, which they had illuminated in gold.

Mr. Hale's verse:

"Honor thy father and mother", all are told to do.
Others one would honor, is strictly up to YOU
Now YOU have conveyed this great honor on me.
Only I would share it with our mothers, YOU see.
Really all that I am is due to that one of mine,
Same as credit for all YOU are, that one of thine.

May YOU to her, all your life be loyal and true,
Improving each day, as she would have YOU do.
Never fail her as long as YOU live.
Endeavoring to honor the life, YOU, she did give.

On the scroll presented to Mr. Hale is the following verse:

AUSTIN SHERMAN HALE

There never was a finer man
Always willing to lend a hand
He comforts our boys all o'er the world
Honoring our flag whe'er unfurled.
For all the good deeds he does every day,
We'd like to honor him in some special way.
Weston is as proud as it can be
To have such a noble man as he.
To live up to his name will be quite a fight
But we'll try with all our might,
And hope that we will never fail
To keep the ideals of Austin Sherman Hale.

Miss Mary Lee Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kenneth Bennett of 118 Conant Road, was among the singers with the Wellesley College Choir at the annual Christmas vesper concert.

Cochituate Scouts Have Winter Campfire Trip

COCHITUATE—The Cochituate Boy Scout Troop was divided into two groups for the Winter camping trip to Camp Resolute, Bolton, because of limited space available there.

The first group went to Resolute on Dec. 3 and 4, under the leadership of Ray Giles, scoutmaster. He was assisted by "Pop" Fullick, Peter Baker and Jack Arnold. Twelve scouts and two explorers made the trip. The theme was winter scouting.

The second group went on Dec. 17 and 18 under the leadership of William Irwin.

* * *

Boy Scout Troop No. 1, Cochituate, has appointed a committee to supervise the organization of another troop by September, 1956. There are now 61 boys in the Cochituate troop.

The committee includes Peter Baker, chairman; Elmer Bigwood, "Pop" Fullick, Meyer Landsberg, and Harvey Newton. They will work with the schools to estimate the number of boys eligible for Scouts, and expect that there will be three troops within five years.

* * *

The new Troop No. 1 committee organization includes Elmer Bigwood, chairman; W. D. Valentine, advancement; William Irwin and Peter Baker, camping; Meyer Landsberg, program; William Irwin, secretary; "Pop" Fullick, treasurer; Albert Lizotte, health and safety; Ernst Beutner, public relations; "Pop" Fullick and Arthur Dusseault, equipment, and Frank Hartin, transportation.

Ned Field Becomes 6th Eagle Scout In Weston

NED FIELD

WESTON—Edward O. Field, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Olsen Field of 38 Hill Top Road, received his citation as an Eagle Scout at a Court of Honor at Norumbega Council held at Weston Town House Dec. 10. Two hundred attended the ceremony.

The citation was written by Harry Crawford, Scoutmaster of Troop 51, of which Ned Field was a member, and was read by Marston H. Boden, District Commissioner of the Council, which includes all the Scouts in Weston, Newton and Wellesley.

Aides at the Court were four other Eagle Scouts of Weston—Richard Boden, Jay Crowe, Harry Crawford 3d and John Wyman. Weston's sixth Eagle Scout, Edward A. Watters, was out of Town.

Ned Field, 16 years old, went to Weston elementary schools and to Weston High for two years. Last September he entered Deerfield Academy. Until he went away to school, he was active in Troop 51.

Auxiliaries Out For Halloween Duty On Long Week-end

WAYLAND—Dozens of Auxiliary Police were on duty in the Town over the Halloween week-end, Civil Defense Director W. R. Hulbert reports, with extra two-way radio cars.

In the course of their activities they rounded up a teen-ager who had two concealed knives, spotted a prowler, broke up a fight and found hydrants opened on Sherman Bridge Road, Waltham Road and Lincoln Road.

The Auxiliaries, with helmets and clubs, were called out by Police Chief Ernest H. Damon.

Arthur W. Holmes, Sr., Chief of Communications of the Office of Civil Defense, and his assistants built antenna mounts for the two new Police Department Pak-Fones (acquired through the Office of Civil Defense) so that this two-way radio equipment could be used in the private automobiles of the regular police officers, thus giving the Town two additional radio cars on the Police Department frequency. This equipment worked well.

In addition, Mr. Holmes and his men provided suitable antenna mounts for the Gonset two-way portable radios of the Office of Civil Defense which operate on an assigned emergency amateur frequency in the two-meter band.

A main station was set up Saturday and Sunday nights upstairs in the Public Library to communicate with two cars thus equipped.

New Street Will Connect Woodridge With Rice Road

WAYLAND—An extension of Woodridge Road which will be a significant addition to the Town's highway system has been approved by the Planning Board, says Frederick G. Perry Jr., chairman of the Board.

Woodridge is the big development east of Cochituate Road, and Woodridge Road is a main street in it. At present Woodridge Road ends at Country Corners, where a new street is being cut through the woods towards the south. The proposed extension of Woodridge Road will carry it half a mile or so further to the east to connect with Rice Road, south of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Whiteside.

Rice Road, most of which has only a gravel surface, runs north and south between Old Connecticut Path, at Mainstone, and Route 30, for two or three miles. At present it has only a few houses on it and practically no side roads. The extension of Woodridge Road will make parts of it much more easily accessible.

At the sime time, says Mr. Perry, a continuation of the road southward from Country Corners seems likely before long to connect with Loker Street in Cochituate, thus making another through traffic way possible.

The several hundred acres of Woodridge were cut from the old Shaw Estate. Most of the land is in woods, except where roads and houses have been built recently.

The new extension will have a 50-foot right of way.

Business Zone Plans To Be Sent To All

WAYLAND — Chairman Frederick G. Perry Jr. of the Planning Board says that a new comprehensive plan providing for 14 or 15 acres of additional business area in the Town is being studied, and that it's hoped to have a printed report on it sent to everybody before the end of January. Articles to cover the changes are being prepared for the March Town meeting.

Because of the growth of the Town, says Mr. Perry, it has become apparent that existing zoned areas for service-type businesses are inadequate. The changes proposed would provide more room for stores and small shops of various kinds, not for factories.

In recent years, the zoning emphasis has been on protecting residential areas. But now, the Board feels, the situation has changed, and it has been consulting with local business men as to the best way to improve things.

Exact information as to the location of the proposed new zones is not yet ready for publication.

Only 5 Candidates In Wayland, So Far

WAYLAND—Nomination papers for five candidates were being signed at Town Hall recently. The list:

Norman G. Fair, for reelection. Board of Health, three years.

Theodore H. Harrington, Town Treasurer, for reelection, one year.

George F. Bowers Jr., for reelection. Town Planning Board, five-year term.

Leila Sears, Town Clerk, for reelection, one year.

Bruce F. Kingsbury, now serving on the Planning Board by appointment, for two years of an unexpired four-year term.

Wayland March Of Dimes Gets Started

WAYLAND — The Wayland March of Dimes campaign got under way early in January with a mailing of dime cards and contribution envelopes all over Town.

David C. Stewart of 15 Rice Spring Lane is Town chairman. William S. Lewis of Pequot Road is treasurer and will accept contributions. Arthur Schofield of Old Connecticut Path is in charge of coin boxes in business establishments.

Wayland had two deaths and many polio cases in the 1955 epidemic.

For the first time, there will be a Mothers' March in Wayland this year, to wind up the campaign. On Sunday afternoon, Jan. 31, volunteers will call at houses which have door lights on, indicating contributions waiting within. Those willing to assist in this project may call Mrs. Davd Stewart, EL 8-2128 or Mrs. Allen Benjamin, EL 8-2562.

Veterans' Housing Project Shows Profit All Around

WESTON—Six Weston veterans are in process of acquiring homes built for them with the help of the Town, a deal which, it is reported, has been profitable for all concerned. This is the official report on it:

The Veterans' Housing Board of the Town of Weston has announced that necessary steps are being taken to transfer ownership of the Town's Veterans' Housing Project, built in accordance with chapter 372 of the Acts of 1946, from the Town to the individual veterans.

The plan which resulted in the building of the houses was devised by a special committee headed by Earl H. Eacker and adopted by the Town Meeting in 1948. The plan called for a cooperative enterprise between the Town and each participating veteran under which he contributed a lot of land and deeded it to the Town, and the Town built a house on it and leased the premises to him for five years with an option to purchase at the end of that time, the object being to afford him a home which he could consider his own at a comparatively low carrying charge during the five years period of the Town's participation in the plan.

The houses were built under the plan in 1950 and then leased to the veterans. Each veteran lessee has taken up his option to purchase.

The houses were built for a cost of slightly over $10,000 each by the present board under the chairmanship of Richard P. Holland, who was succeeded as chairman by Leonard H. Dowse. The present chairman, Robert J. Wilkes, is arranging the details of the sale of the houses.

The purchase price to each veteran is in accordance with the original plan, being the actual cost of the house to the Town. Under the option the veteran receives a credit against this price for the amount by which the rent paid by him exceeds his share of the operating costs including insurance, interest on money borrowed, administrative expenses and repairs. Maintenance directly chargeable to a particular unit has been charged to it and all other costs have been proportionately divided. The average balance which the veteran will now pay is $8,117.

It is gratifying to see how excellently the cooperative spirit of this enterprise has succeeded—the Town has had no financial loss, and the veterans have maintained the houses in excellent condition and now come into possession of very fine homes at low carrying cost.

The houses, designed by Donaldson R. McMullin, are of Cape Cod type with two bedrooms on the first floor and when built allowed unfinished space on the second floor sufficient for two additional bedrooms and a bathroom. In several instances, the veteran occupants have already finished the second floor.

Except for a rather serious drainage problem which had to be corrected at a cost of $542. operating expenses paid by the Town as landlord have averaged only $42. per year per house. This extremely low figure indicates the success of the cooperative feature of the Weston Plan. Much maintenance obviously was undertaken by the veterans themselves because of their proprietary interest in the house.

Nose Counting Begins In Both Towns

The annual counting of adult noses began in both Towns right after New Year's Day, with results not due to be published for several months.

In Weston, the job is being done by the police. People are asked to give accurate information about their names, ages, residences, occupations and dogs or livestock on the premises. It is also important that names be given of such persons as service men or college students, not living at home but still maintaining legal residence in the home town. For service men, such listing may help to establish their right to veterans' benefits.

It is also said to be important to specify if the voting address is somewhere other than in the home town.

Those who may be missed by the police in Weston by Feb. 3 are asked to call the Town Hall and give the information. Ages will not be published, in either Town.

In Wayland, says Town Clerk Leila Sears, 12 special census takers, identified by green badges bearing the Town seal, are doing the work. Miss Sears says the project would be speeded if people would realize that the census takers are doing a job, and that they are instructed to keep information confidential. "What is your age?" is still a sticky question.

Caucus, Weston Institution, Tentatively Set For Feb. 1

WESTON—Wednesday, Feb. 1, has been set as the tentative date for the non-partisan Citizens Caucus, the traditional meeting at which candidates for Town office are nominated.

This arrangement is different from that in Wayland, where all candidates run on nomination papers.

The caucus, sometimes attended by as many as 300 citizens, meets well before Town Meeting time. First order of business is electing a permanent chairman, and Mr. Arthur Coburn has held this position for a number of years—and a permanent secretary.

Then nominations for Town offices are received from the floor, with seconding speeches. The job of the caucus is to present a slate of one candidate for each office on the ballot. The candidate named by the caucus has a right to have the fact recorded on the ballot, beside his name.

If there are two or more candidates for a position, the choice is decided by informal, but secret, ballot. The candidate who loses out in the caucus may then file nomination papers, if he wishes, before 5 p. m. on the following Monday, and thus get his name on the ballot anyway. In the past, it is said, it has often happened that the non-caucus candidate running on nomination papers has won.

In some cases, they say, the caucus serves as an agency to draft candidates for jobs which involve lots of work and no glory.

Robert Groton Hurt At Wayside Inn Fire

SUDBURY— Eighteen Wayland firefighters, with two trucks, came to help fight the fire in the Wayside Inn, and Robert Groton received an injured leg from a thrashing hose. He was treated at Leonard Morse Hospital and later had his leg x-rayed, but the injury turned out to be a painful strain and not a fracture.

Wayland Fire Chief Clifton Haynes says the Wayland men fought the blaze from outside the building. The firefighters inside the building were Framingham men at first, and later Sudbury men.

Wayland men went out at 2:45 a. m. and were back home again at 8 a. m.

Visiting Nurse Service

Visiting nurse services, at nominal cost or for free, are operated in both Weston and Wayland.

Headquarters for the Wayland service is the Parmenter Health Center, OL 3-5111 or OL 3-5171, which anyone may call between 9:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

For a general nursing visit, the fee is $1.25; office visit, $1.; demonstration bath of newborn, $1.50, and care to mother and baby, $1.75. But anyone, regardless of income or lack of it, may have the service. Those who can pay do so.

The Weston Visiting Nurse Association may be reached at the Country School, TW 3-6500. The regular fee, for those who can afford to pay, is $2 a visit. Visits for others are free or part paid, so that nobody need be without the service.

Two Nigerian Letter Writers Want Pen Pals in Weston

WESTON—Lateef Babs Giwa and Miss Modupe Dallass, both of Lagos, Nigeria, British West Africa, have written to ask for correspondence with pen pals in Weston.

The letter, sent airmail, was dated at Lagos on Dec. 12, and arrived in Weston Dec. 19, bearing a sixpenny stamp. It was addressed to "The Editor, Weston Daily Times, Weston, Mass., U.S.A.", as plainly as could be.

To be sure, there is no "Weston Times" in Weston, and local residents can't seem to remember that there ever was, at least in the last half century or so.

The letter was delivered to The Crier, and considering its subject

Beacon Hill By-Lines

By Rep. Robert Ayers

Yesterday, Governor Herter opened the 1956 session of the Massachusetts Legislature by delivering, for the fourth time, his annual message to a joint convention of the House and Senate. Great significance always attaches to the recommendations made by a governor to the Legislature, and often just as great significance attaches to what he does not recommend.

It was expected that he would renew those requests he made last year, which a divided Legislature would not agree to adopt. He again urged a continuance of the accelerated highway program, this time requesting a $200,000,000 bond issue with an one-cent increase in the gasoline tax to pay for it.

Once again he asked for the establishment of a Massachusetts Port Authority to combine airports, tunnels, port facilities, and the Mystic Bridge under one independent and self-sustaining agency.

He renewed recommendations for increased unemployment benefits and establishment of a Debt and Fund Advisory Board for careful planning of the State's borrowing and investing.

The address, delivered before a crowded House Chamber, under the glare of hot television lights, was not noteworthy for any startling new recommendations, as was the case during his first two years as Governor. Reasons for this will be discussed later.

Probably the most newsworthy feature of the speech was the Governor's announcement of the position Massachusetts has been quietly assuming in the field of atomic energy and his recommendation that we adopt the Atomic Energy Licensing Act as proposed by the Federal Atomic Energy Commission.

It was startling to learn that Massachusetts will soon have, built entirely at private expense, a Materials Testing Reactor to permit commercial testing of materials to be used in the production of atomic fuel; and that the Massachusetts Department of Commerce is working on the promotion of an atomic fuel fabrication and re-processing plant. These will both be 'firsts' for Massachusetts in the whole country.

There are several reasons why there were no earth-shaking proposals in the message and why certain important matters were not discussed at all.

In the first place it is acknowledged that Governor Herter, in his three years as Chief Executive, has already managed to get through the legislature almost all of the major parts of his program.

His first inaugural message in 1953 contained a whole string of reorganizational proposals, and his second message did likewise. Inasmuch as he has accomplished about 90 percent of what he set out to do, there isn't much left of a startling nature.

Then too, the Governor's long experience in legislative affairs makes him realize that it is fruitless, particularly in an election year, to recommend great changes which might reflect on a previous administration, when a divided Legislature will almost certainly defeat the proposals.

Among the matters the Governor might have discussed, but didn't, is that of education, which for the first time was not even mentioned. This was no oversight on his part. He is fully aware of the plight of cities and towns which face constantly rising costs for education with no additional sources of revenue except to increase their real estate taxes, already almost confiscatory in many places.

He knows that more money should be forthcoming from the State to ease this burden, but he also knows that the State at the present time does not have enough revenues to look forward to paying all of its own bills. Therefore, to make any constructive recommendations in this field he would have to recommend the appropriation of millions of dollars which the State doesn't have, and without any assurance that the Legislature, (again, remember that it's an election year) would vote the taxes to support it. This he will not do unless he sees the money to pay for it.

Three weeks from now he must submit his annual budget. Those proposals which he might have made in his annual message which call for substantial expenditure will probably be covered in that message, as well as the methods of financing which he suggests. The Constitution requires that he submit a budget which is in balance. If this can be done in 1956 it will be a real accomplishment.

Next time we'll attempt a discussion of how this may be brought about.

Dr. Fenn Called To First Parish

REV. DAN HUNTINGTON FENN

WAYLAND — Rev. Dan Huntington Fenn, formerly director of the Department of the Ministry of the American Unitarian Association, has accepted a call to be the minister of the First Parish in Wayland. Dr. Fenn, who will assume his new duties in February, was once minister of the First Church in Chestnut Hill and is now minister of the Unitarian Church in Tucson, Arizona.

Dr. Fenn's association with the Unitarian Church has been a long and distinguished one. His father was the late Rev. William Wallace Fenn, dean of the Harvard Divinity School, where Dr. Fenn himself received his degree in Theology in 1922.

Ordained the same year, Dr. Fenn served his first ministry at Augusta, Maine, which was followed by service with the First Unitarian Church in Taunton. In 1931 he became minister of the First Church in Chestnut Hill, following which he was head of the Department of the Ministry for the A.U.A. in Boston.

Five Years in Tucson

In 1950 he resigned this post to become minister of the Tucson church which was only two years old. During his five years there this church was built into a strong organization, and a new church building erected and dedicated.

Dr. Fenn has served as chaplain of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, has been a director of the Marriage Study Association, a director of the Foreign Policy Association, and a member of the Brookline School Committee.

He has always been active in denominational affairs. He was president of the Religious Arts Guild, director of the Sunday School Union, a delegate to the International Conference of Religious Liberals at Copenhagen, and an exchange minister to England.

An honorary doctorate was bestowed upon him by the Starr King School for the Ministry in California in 1952.

His literary contributions include articles in the Christian Register on the "Junior Church," "Theological Method of Jesus," "Moral and Spiritual Preparation for Marriage," and a book of sermonettes, "Short Sermons for Children."

Dr. and Mrs. Fenn have three children: Dan H. Fenn Jr., now assistant editor of the Harvard Business Review, Mrs. William Farrell, of Newton, and John W. Fenn, an undergraduate at Harvard College.

Dr. Caul of Wayland Is a Flavor Expert

By CAROL FOSTER

"Flavor is what we perceive when anything is taken into the mouth . . . and flavor blending is an art which the housewife tries to achieve," says Dr. Jean F. Caul.

Dr. Caul is a student of flavor. It's her job, as a senior chemist at the Flavor Laboratory of Arthur D. Little Company in Cambridge. She has been working at it for a dozen years.

This analysis of flavor, she says, is a comparatively new thing. This laboratory is headed by Loren B. Sjostrom. The study was begun as a result of increased possibilities for food preservation and the great growth of the food distribution business.

Involves Odor

"This is a wonderful field", says Dr. Caul, "because everyone is interested in it, and has an opinion about it. . . . A company comes to A.D.L., saying, 'we have a problem.' It may be a chemical condition, often it is a problem of odor."

Because flavor and odor are so closely allied, the flavor lab has found itself almost equally involved with odors. Analysis of new shoes, electrical appliances, air conditioning systems and gasoline have also been a part of Dr. Caul's work.

To determine what is at fault with flavor or odor, the 40 members of the laboratory work in "panels" consisting of from 4 to 10 persons who study the product involved, "educating each other through discussion". A "flavor profile" results which measures as accurately as possible these qualities. "None of us was trained for taste work", says Dr. Caul, "and anyone with normal sensory equipment could become a member of a taste panel, with interest and training."

People at the flavor lab have been variously trained, as biologists, pharmacists, home economists or chemists. Their specialized training comes into play as they work on how to solve the problems.

Peanut Butter

Dr. Caul, who received her Doctorate in Chemistry from Ohio State, went to Cornell not long ago to learn a method of measuring the effect of certain substances on teeth. Some things etch teeth and others leave a coating on them. This is as unpleasant as the old peanut butter was on the roof of the mouth.

When Dr. Caul first went to work at A.D.L., she spent two years on the peanut butter problem—its consistency, tendency to separate, and to coat the mouth. In this case, she says she regrets she can't take credit for the present state of peanut butter. It was her initiation into her present work. Coffee was another which "was fascinating".

Working on peanut butter killed her taste for it for a long while, but she has continued to enjoy coffee.

"Once, when my Mother was visiting, I brought home some wonderful coffee we'd developed at the lab. We had a coffee pot with a cloth filter. It was getting dingy looking and Mother washed it, using a bleach. After that the coffee tasted terrible until we discovered the trouble. In some parts of the country people have trouble making good coffee because of their local water.

"Water, of course, is an important element in all beverages. That's why the best bourbon will come from one part of the country and the best rye another. Some beer manufacturers have artesian wells, others use city water. If beer tastes bitter, with a metallic taste like iron pipe, for instance, this can be overcome."

The Home Touch

Dr. Caul travels quite a bit, seeing people at companies which consult the flavor lab, which handles about 20 cases at a time. During 10 days recently she went to New York twice, to Cleveland and Chicago. At Chicago she spoke for ladies' night at the meeting of the Institute of Food Technologists.

"Although we have a good quality of prepared foods, they need a home touch. Foods which are nationally distributed are mildly seasoned for the national market. We don't like Chile as hot as people do who live near Mexico. Uniformity is part of quality control, and blended flavors are worked for, as in French cooking (a masterpiece of blending) where the taste of the whole is bigger than the single items which went to produce it.

"Although taste is the same for most people, there are differences in degree or preference. Physiology books say children have more taste buds than adults but more important is the change in preferences." These are comparable with those in sight or hearing.

"When I first became interested in classical music," Dr. Caul says, "I liked Wagner, then Brahms. Now I listen to Beethoven for happiness, and Bach when I feel intellectual. Flavor is like that."

Smoking has little influence on taste, unless right after using some strong tobacco, Dr. Caul believes.

Sugar in Potatoes?

There are two sides to flavor: subjective (preference) and analytical. The latter involves sweet, sour, salty or bitter tastes, feeling sensations of temperature or consistency, plus other subtle reactions.

"Everything else is odor, which affects taste through the back nose passage. Through the flavor profile, the flavor lab has been able to make findings of taste panels 'reproduceable and reliable.' By measuring flavor you can effect the direction you want flavor to go. or develop a new product to effect the taste you want. . . . Anything in the way of food is chemically complex. We still don't know its chemical composition, so to date the most exact taste definitions are through flavor 'notes' in the profile."

One of Dr. Caul's cases had to do with a "meat tenderizer" company, which has consulted the flavor lab since 1945. It was the job of the lab to determine what it would do to food. It's a glutinate product derived from sugar beets after the sugar is taken out.

After studying the effect of it on more than 60 kinds of food materials, Dr. Caul and her associates could tell how it would "increase the amplitude" of flavor. Like salt or sugar it should "blend, not dominate". Salt is the best all around blending agent, although Dr. Caul feels sugar has more possibilities in this respect than most people realize, and suggests that a small amount of sugar added to potatoes or tomato soup, for instance, will bring out their flavor.

A Leather Spray

Another aspect of Dr. Caul's field is to train people to be flavor or odor panelists for various companies. A large oil company now has panels in each plant which test the odors of their products as one means of maintaining quality.

Cigarette companies also use this method, and Dr. Caul says "cigarettes are one of the toughest things to analyze." She should know, as she deals with a "library" of 6,000 materials of all sorts which are sources of flavor or odor.

Wayland Skater Gives Some Tips For Beginners

Dunbar Holmes of Wayland, who has trained two of the outstanding younger skaters to be seen on the Mill Pond, has some advice to pass along to people who are starting their children off on skates. He was center of the Harvard hockey team for three years, and before that captained the Belmont Hill School team.

The Holmes boys, ages nearly 3 to 6, may be identified by football helmets, which are standard skating equipment in the Holmes family. Although Graham, the youngest, has skated a little, Mr. Holmes feels that 4 is really the right age to start skating.

His rules:

1. Skates must fit; no bigger than shoe size. (Skate sizes run a little larger.)
2. Don't hold child up, as it prevents balance. Teach child to lean forward, and fall on hands. Helmets are good safeguards. If a child can't stand up at all in the beginning have him push a chair around on the ice.
3. There is no harm in using double runners, but single runner skates are better. Buy skates with wide low blades for beginners.
4. Don't use extra socks unless skates are too big—makes feet cold.
5. To warm feet, kneel on the ground (an old Canadian trick).
6. Weak ankles are misunderstood. Ankles should not be straight but must bend to skate. Tired ankles are usually not from weak ankles, but lacing skates too tight. Lace skates tightly up to ankle, and not too tight above. It's a good idea to use two different laces, to separate the two tensions.
7. Skate from hips, not just from knees.

Dr. Caul —

Dr. Caul usually can't be specific about the things she is working on, as it would give rise to rumors and suspicions about the company or its products. Sometimes the trouble comes from ink on a package permeating the contents with its smell and affecting its taste. Some fabrics have odor when they shouldn't. Flour, for instance, must be packaged so that it can "breathe" or it will smell musty though perfectly good.

This feeling about smells has led to a host of perfumed deodorants "so we won't have B.O. of the house." There are now such things, she says, as a leather spray which will make bookstores or luggage shops smell nostalgically of leather.

Second-hand car dealers, Dr. Caul has heard, are using a new spray to make that old jalopy smell like a 1956 Thunderbird.

"Doesn't it get confusing," asks Dr. Caul, "when you clean the house and instead of smelling clean, it smells like grape pop?"

Was Tennis Player

Dr. Caul and Mrs. Helen Landon, who had shared apartments in Cambridge, bought their present house four and a half years ago. They are on the edge of Dudley Pond, with a good view of it. and both enjoy the pleasures and problems of fixing up the house.

Mrs. Landon and Dr. Caul are doing over their house a room at a time, mostly themselves, with some professional carpentry help. Dr. Caul has a shop in the cellar, along with a sump pump, made necessary by the high water level of Dudley Pond, a subject which has interested her for some time, and has been one of the Town situations in which she has taken a part. She is a member of the League of Women Voters, and has been appointed a member of the Town Report Committee.

Dr. Caul came originally from Cleveland, and received her A.B. from Lake Erie College before going to Ohio State for her doctorate in chemistry. She planned to specialize in food chemistry as a logical field for a woman. She was on the tennis team at college and says. now that she has grass to cut, she plays badminton instead.

"I love living here. This is the first time I've lived in a house and now I'm doing something I've always wanted to."

Doorway Prize Won By Mrs. Vinsonhaler

THE WINNER

WAYLAND—Mrs. George Vinsonhaler of State Road East won the first prize in the Wayland Garden Club doorway contest, with an over-the-doorway 18th Century print effect. She received a turkey from Collins Market.

An unscheduled winner was Miss Joanna Duggan of Bow Road, a sophomore in Wayland High, who received an honorable mention which hadn't been planned. The judges liked her snow man arrangement and gave her a token award besides the honorable mention.

Mrs. Alonzo Knights of Draper Road took second prize, a basket of fruit from Capps Market. Mrs. Allan Perkins of Pelham Island Road took third prize, a bottle of wine from Post Road Liquors. Mrs. Knights' arrangement featured a drum against green boughs, and Mrs. Perkins' showed a Christmas tree made of green boughs.

The committee included Mrs. Francis Devlin of Lincoln Road, chairman, and Mrs. Pierre Dumaine, Miss Therese Todd and Mrs. E. P. Blanchard Jr. Mrs. Devlin says there were 30 entries, that the committee appreciates their efforts, that the committee thanks the judges, and that the committee hopes there will be many more entries next year.

Judges were Mr. Horace Gray, Mrs. Steed Fuller and Mrs. Azel Collins.

Community League To Have Movies Jan. 9

A top-notch photographer, Mildred Capron, will bring movies and stories of our beautiful West to the Weston Town House on Jan. 9 at 3:00 p. m. Children accompanied by their parents will be admitted. This will be the fourth program of the Women's Community League of Weston.

Mrs. John H. Durant is Program Chairman of the day. Ushers will be Mrs. F. William Aseltine and Mrs. Alfred R. Crampton. Hostesses from the Board of Directors include Mrs. Alfred Ewer and Mrs. William A. Robb, Jr.

Following the program tea will be served by Mrs. Calvin E. Gross, Tea Chairman, and her committee: Mrs. William H. Kidd, Mrs. Laymon N. Miller, Mrs. Joseph J. Ryan, Mrs. Roy I. MacArthur, Mrs. David H. Reid, Mrs. Harry T. Van Huysen, Mrs. Alfred R. Wypler, Jr., Mrs. Carleton W. Richardson, Mrs. David Blaney, Mrs. Charles A. Janeway, Mrs. Dexter B. Hill, Mrs. Martin Gern, Mrs. John N. Fisher and Mrs. Campbell L. Searle.

Mrs. Wayne D. Wetzel, Chairman of Hospitality for The Community League, and Mrs. Joseph M. Langr, her Vice-Chairman, will also be there to assist.

Flower arrangements for the tea tables and the upper hall will be created by Mrs. Richard P. Holland, assisted by Mrs. Herbert Evans and Mrs. Eben Wallace.

COCHITUATE — The Planning Board has approved a plan for a development including about 26 houses in Dudley Acres, west of Main Street near Dudley Pond. This land used to be known as the Ringer lots.

X-Ray Clinics To Be Held Semi-Monthly

WAYLAND — The Planning Committee for the Wayland Area Chest X-ray Screening Clinic met recently to discuss the possibility of sponsoring semi-monthly clinics instead of the scheduled monthly clinics to accommodate the numerous requests for chest X-rays.

Plans are now in progress for two clinics in January. These will be held at the Parmenter Health Center on Thursday evening, Jan. 12; and Tuesday evening, Jan. 24, from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m.

Adult residents of Ashland, Framingham, Holliston, Hopkinton, Natick, Sherborn, Wayland and Weston may make appointments by calling their local Board of Health nurse, or the Parmenter Health Center, OLympic 3-5111.

The clinic, which is sponsored by the Parmenter Health Center, local Boards of Health, local Tuberculosis Committees and the Middlesex Health Association, is financed in great part by the annual Christmas Seal Sale. The possibility of continuous semi-monthly clinics is dependent on the proceeds from the 1955 Christmas Seal Sale which was in progress through December.

Members of the Planning Committee are James Burke, M.R., Chairman, Wayland; Mrs. Christina Fairbanks, R.N., Hopkinton; Miss Mary Hunter, R.N., Natick; Miss Margaret Keady, R.N., Weston; Charlotte Stewart, M.R., Wayland; Mrs. Mildred Scotland, Ashland; Mrs. Eugene Gaston, Framingham; Miss Roberta Jacobs, Director of the Parmenter Health Center and Mr. David Moxon, Executive Director of the Middlesex Health Association.

To say Happy Hollow section is almost enough to make this property saleable but we must add custom built — high on a knoll — sizable living room — full dining room — kitchen — lavatory — 4 bedrooms and tiled bath all neat as a pin. A Colonial less than 1 year old nestled among beautiful shade trees. Owner transferred.

Multiple Listing Bureau Methods Hailed As Greatest Advance in Real Estate Industry

YOUR HOME IS YOUR CASTLE . . . . and for most people the purchase or sale of a home is just about the most important transaction they'll ever experience. So important is it that it deserves the finest, most professional services available. THE MULTIPLE LISTING BUREAU (MLB) OFFERS THAT SECURITY.

WHAT IS MLB . . . . ? Simply defined, it's an organization composed of leading REALTOR concerns that have joined together for the purpose of rendering faster, more efficient service to homeowners and homebuyers. Top professional service is our goal. Massachusetts is one of the few states where a license to sell Real Estate is not required. As a result, many so-called Real Estate people are unskilled, inexperienced, misinformed, and incapable of rendering accurate, professional service. MLB assures the highest degree of professional standards as their qualifications for membership are very rigid. ALL MLB MEMBERS MUST BE REALTORS, and only those persons who have been accepted by the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REAL ESTATE BOARDS may apply. ALL MLB members must also be credited members of THE BOSTON REAL ESTATE BOARD . . . . . This is your guarantee of ethical, proficient, and highly skilled service.

Cooperation and the combined efforts of ALL MLB offices results in better service to homesellers. Under the MLB system, all "exclusive" listings are channelled through our central agency. It is no longer necessary to "list your home" with every broker in the telephone directory. Information concerning your home is given to ONLY ONE MEMBER who informs the MLB central agency. This agency in turn distributes a complete listing form to all personnel. A professional photographer takes a picture of your home and copies of this photo are distributed to the combined staffs of all MLB offices. Your property is thus brought to the attention of almost ONE HUNDRED Realtor representatives, and is seen by a vast number of prospective home buyers throughout a wide area. This system has resulted in the sale of more than FIVE HUNDRED Homes in this area, comprising a total of nearly SIX MILLION DOLLARS. MLB SELLS NINE OUT OF EVERY TEN HOMES LISTED.

Buying a Home.....?

M.L.B. Promises More Value. Larger Selection Better Service

MLB offers the serious homeseeker tremendous savings in time and money. By visiting any ONE of the MLB offices listed below, you will be offered a tremendous selection of homes located throughout a vast area. MLB member offices have in their files a vast, ever-changing inventory of "pre-appraised" home values. Every style and price range is represented together with a "professional" photograph to assist you in your selection. Because of the tremendous volume of homes financed by MLB, its members are able to offer the MOST LIBERAL TERMS AVAILABLE ANYWHERE. No question about it — if you're planning to buy a home, your best bet is MLB — More value, Larger selection, Better service.

MLB System Is Spreading Thru-out New England

MLB has received the praise of the Boston Real Estate Board. Similar organizations have been formed in Quincy, Lexington, Concord and Bedford. The R. E. Board is now actively organizing a super multiple listing system to serve the more populated in-town areas. Ray Hofford, Board Vice President, halls MLB as being the "greatest method for merchandising the sale of residential property yet conceived".

MLB Grows to Become New England's Largest R. E. Sales Ass'n

MLB recently celebrated its first year anniversary. In this short time its sales have exceeded 6 Million Dollars representing more than 500 homes. MLB is positive proof of the fact that organized cooperation by a team of skilled REALTORS results in faster, more efficient service to homebuyers and sellers. Buying or selling — MLB is best for you.

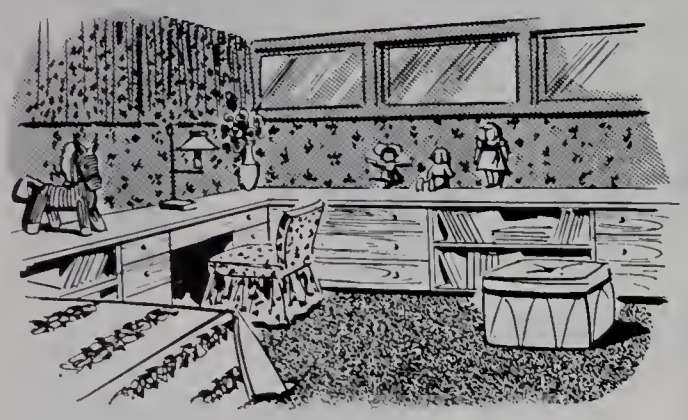
A Word to the Wives...

By HAL BURKE



THANK YOU NOTE TO SANTA

Dear Santa Claus:

Mary and I just love the dolls and books and toys you left us for Christmas, but most of all we love the way you fixed our room and put all the new furniture in it. When we woke up Christmas morning, it was like we were in a different place with everything all changed around. Those nice new bookcases and the writing desk and the cabinets with doors on them look so pretty—especially the way you made them go all the way around the corner of the room. You can see by the picture above that we have lots more room on the floor to play in now. Mother says that's the reason you fixed it that way. That, and to teach us to be neat and put our toys and clothes away when we're not using them.

Daddy says that you're an awfully smart fellow—that you know that all children have a need for a full and happy home life, and Christmas gifts that help them have that are the best gift of all.

We love you, Santa, and thank you with all our hearts.

Jane and Mary.

Because it's so practical and versatile, unit furniture is a favorite for children's rooms. But don't wait until another holiday comes—buy the pieces as you need them, and add new units as the children grow. Bookcases and cabinets offer many space-saving arrangements.

Woodworking Class At Weston High

WESTON — The Recreation Commission of Weston is offering a woodworking class at the Weston High School shop on Jan. 17 at 7:30 to 9:30, to continue every Tuesday evening for 10 weeks. An instructor will be there to help students with their own woodworking projects.

The class is limited to 10 members. Reservations may be made by calling John Proctor at TW 3-3271. The fee is $10, payable in advance.

Wayland Carolers Braved the Cold

WAYLAND—Wintry blasts on the night of Dec. 23 failed to dampen the spirits of 150 hardy souls, including babes in arms, who attended the annual Christmas Carol Sing held at the Library in Wayland.

Everyone first gathered in the vestibule where they waited until all arrived at which time they dashed outside to sing several carols, led by Marvin Fichter, assisted by Norman Alstad on the trumpet. At one point the leaders retired to the library to thaw out frozen trumpet valves and plan a shorter program due to the cold weather.

While this was going on, Will Brown was presenting boxes and baskets prepared by the dens of both Packs 1 and 51 to Lawrence Cook, who accepted the gifts on behalf of the Wayland Kiwanis Club. He announced that the gifts would be distributed under the guidance of the Wayland Welfare Department to needy Wayland residents.

Following the further singing of carols, closing with Silent Night, all carolers retired to the basement of the Library, where the Senior Girl Scouts under the leadership of Mrs. Frances Newton furnished all with hot cocoa and doughnuts which were prepared and furnished by the Girl Scouts with the aid of funds donated by the Friends of the Library. All agreed that this gave the finishing touches to a fine though chilly evening.

Army Will Help On Stone Bridge Cost

WAYLAND — Selectman John W. Leavitt reports that the Army will not install a Bailey bridge at the site of the old Stone Bridge, as had been expected, but that the Army Corps of Engineers will pay part of the cost of the new bridge.

Rep. James DeNormandie has filed a bill in the Legislature providing for reconstruction of the bridge in such a way as to include a recreation area.

Edward F. Thorburn Is New Kiwanis Head

WAYLAND—Edward F. Thorburn has been installed as 1956 president of the Kiwanis Club of Wayland, along with George V. Deverell and Fern A. Taylor, vice presidents; Joseph G. Hallenbrook, secretary; Walter A. Cheslak, treasurer, and John Simoni, Paul C. Hooper, Oliver L. Riggs, John W. Handrahan, Anthony F. Bova, Harry L. Aunes and Otto E. Wallace, directors.

Roy Silvers, Lieutenant Governor of District 5, presided at the installation.

Crystal Ball Says They'll Find Knotholes in Town Forest

In this crystal ball season, let us all get into the act and make some predictions, as follows:

In Weston's brand new Town forest they'll find some knotholes.

In reply to Wayland requests for a by-pass, the Department of Public Works will return replies containing the words frammis and upcart and foddish.

Somebody around here will acquire some Ford stock and charge people admission to look at it.

Wayland will have loud Town Meetings. Weston's will be mouse quiet.

The younger set will think up some new words to go with crud, goof, hack and yea! Tall!

The lights will fail at frequent but irregular intervals. It will be just the luck of the male residents to have this happen when all the girls are out.

Raytheon traffic will wear ruts four inches deep in the State Road.

Mink Coats

A local real estate man will lose the sale of a ranch type house because the customer is allergic to horses.

Some Wayland woman will be caught wearing a dress before noon, but the standard morning costume will continue to be paint-spattered dungarees, beat-up sweaters and 1942-model shoes. The Morgan Memorial truck will come out here and go back empty.

Weston women will wear Bermuda shorts until next Christmas, under mink coats.

For the drinking classes, social life will feature glasses.

Double sessions will begin in Wayland schools and the parents of about 600 kids will get yea! sick of it. Children attending afternoon sessions next Fall will have carrots added to their diet for night vision, so they can see to get home.

The boom in power lawn mowers will continue, until nobody can sleep past 7 a. m. on Sunday morning.

The 4:50 p. m. train from the North Station, which got lost one night in the Christmas rush, may turn up somewhere, possibly in Mr. McGinnis's other suit.

The beach at Lake Cochituate will be opened and closed 17 times next summer, thus setting a new record. In August, a Boston gangster will be assassinated in Wayland, and the killer will make his getaway in a Jaguar.

Will See Bird

Both Weston and Wayland will go Republican in November. (This one comes out without the use of playing cards, tea leaves or the ouija board.)

Wayland and Weston will play football in a snowstorm, and this time the spectators will know enough to bring thermos jugs of tea as well as blankets.

Scores of 16-year-olds will get driving licenses and scare the daylights out of parents, police and passing pheasants.

Speaking of pheasants, some bird watcher will report seeing a grebing widowsmite, a sad bird which is notable for having a black nose and circles under its eyes. The female, that is. The male has a red nose and pouches under its eyes. Field marks, 197.

Hurricane Betsy will drop 20 inches of rain and they'll be moving electronics out of Raytheon in ferry boats. — D.B.W.

Modern Blind

One of Raytheon's antenna houses had a new tenant shortly after it was put into commission. The small house is located several hundred feet from the laboratory. It has a large picture window, a door and a small conventional window in the rear overlooking the Sudbury marshes.

One morning the door was found jimmied open and the back window knocked out. The floor was littered with cartridge shells. An ingenious hunter had been using it for a duck blind!

WAYLAND HIGH NOTES

Mr. Jean Mayer, Professor at the School of Public Health, Harvard University, was the guest speaker at an assembly program held Dec. 16, 1955. Mr. Mayer spoke on the subject: "The Muscular State of the Union". The assembly later took the form of a Meet-the-Press session when students of 8S asked questions of Mr. Mayer. An open question period followed this session.

* * *

The first issue of the Chatterbox was distributed to the students on Dec. 22, free of charge. Subscription rate for the school year has been established at 50c.

* * *

The Student Council is planning a paper drive on Jan. 14. Members of the Council urgently request the townspeople to save their papers for this drive. Flyers, with more detailed information, will be sent home by the students.

* * *

The girls' intra-murals have been going in full swing at the Happy Hollow School. Rooms 3 and 12 played a very exciting game with Room 3, winning 17-16.

Teams:

Room 3—Agnes Smith, Patricia Wilkinson, Jeanne Howland, Dorothy Thompson, Carolyn Thorne, Gloria Parker and Beverly Holmes.

* * *

A very successful "Winter Wonderland" dance, jointly sponsored by the Junior and Senior classes, was held on Dec. 17, 1955, in the Gym. Music was furnished by the Catalinas of Natick.

* * *

* * *

The Student Council, in many ambitious undertakings, has shown great interest in the affairs of the school. Another project of the group is the selling of candy, in the Seminar Room, at the close of school each day. Proceeds from this sale will be used for various projects as well as giving an advertisement to the yearbook. Officers of the Student Council for the 1955-56 school year are—President, Judith Simoni; Vice President, Jeanne Houghton, and Secretary-Treasurer, Carolyn LeDrew.

The Christmas Assembly Program, under the direction of Miss Zullo, was held on Dec. 23. The program was as follows:

1. Here Comes Santa. Senior High School Mixed Chorus and Orchestra.
2. Arrival of Santa Claus (portrayed by Paul Keating).
3. Gathering Holly for the Christmas Wreath. Senior Chorus.
4. Paw Get Out the Glue Pot. Trio; George Richardson, Paul Fichter and Robert Parker.
5. Christmas Celebration: Junior High Chorus.
6. Christmas Back Home. Soloist; Eileen Bresse.
7. Cowboy Lost. Soloist, James Brown.
8. Pine Tree Song. Trio of elementary school children, Alfred Gledhill, Dale Ferguson and Diane Stevens.
9. Merry Christmas. Entire Senior Mixed Chorus.
10. Cathedral Bells. Entire Company.

Accompanist was Janet Archer. Mr. Lester MacArthur directed the orchestra. Miss Zullo supervised the singing and Mrs. Jones the art.

Mrs. Seronde, Herter's Daughter, At deCordova

Adele Herter Seronde, daughter of Governor Herter, is currently holding her first one-man exhibition in the main gallery of the deCordova Museum. In this series of oils she has treated landscapes, sea, islands, woods in a cubist manner, using broken patterns of soft color and form to create the movement and atmosphere of her scenes. In other paintings, she has abstracted natural forms and shapes in nature.

Although a newcomer to the exhibition world, Mrs. Seronde has been painting all her life. She graduated from Bennington College in 1945 and that year also studied with Karl Knaths for a short period. Later her teachers included Karl Zerbe in 1947 and Hans Hoffman in 1950. Her exhibition at the deCordova will be on view through Jan. 18.

In the upper galleries, P. Hoffman and Hans Krieks will present a combined painting and furniture show, extending through Jan. 25. The contemporary furniture of Hans Krieks, manager of Rapson's Inc., and paintings by P. Hoffman will be exhibited side by side in this show, installed and designed by the two artists working in collaboration.

Garden Group Will Hear Talk on Herbs

WESTON—Mrs. St. John Bruce of Plymouth will appear in Pilgrim costume and speak on "The Historical Significance, Culture and Cookery of Herbs" at the next meeting of the Garden Interests Group of the Women's Community League at 2:30 p. m. Jan. 23, at the home of Mrs. George N. Chamberlain Jr., Orchard Avenue.

A tea hour will follow. Guest fee, 50 cents.

Community Chorus Wants Singers

From all the members of the Community Chorus to each and everyone, Happy New Year! How about beginning 1956 by joining us in rehearsals for The Spring Concert? First rehearsal Monday, Jan. 9, Wayland High School. It will be a varied program, and at each rehearsal we will probably find ourselves singing something different. All those who wish to sing in the Concert will be required to attend a majority of the rehearsals.

The works are all new to the Chorus except perhaps the Liebeslieder Waltzes. The Vaughan Williams Folk Songs and the Bartok arrangement of Slovak Folk Songs will be short, and the longer work on the program will be "The Americana" of Randall Thompson.

The Christmas Concert was enjoyed by the many who attended. The auditorium was attractively decorated in Christmas greens by Tom Osborne, who is the concert manager. Red roses worn on the white blouses of the women, and red music covers, completed the combination of Christmas colors. After the concert, refreshments were served to the members of the Chorus. the orchestra and their guests.

Congratulations to Vicky Osborne and Patty Tiech for the overwhelming success of the publication and sale of the Chorus Cookbook, "Sing for Your Supper." A few books are left, and anyone interested in acquiring one may contact either Vicky in Weston or Patty in Sudbury.

See you all at rehearsals.

— Mari Dengler.

Leary Street Folks Want Betterments

WAYLAND—Residents of Leary Street, Cochituate, who want their street improved under the Betterment Act, had a hearing before the Selectmen on Dec. 19. Highway Surveyor Albert Potvin says the street is about 950 feet long and is bordered by 15 houses and one vacant lot.

The project would involve improving drainage, substituting a six-inch water main for the present two-inch pipe, putting in two hydrants and putting on a road surface. To be accepted, the project would have to be voted in the regular course of business at Town Meeting.

First Dial Phone Call in Weston

When the Waltham telephone system was changed over, on Dec. 4, 1955, the first dial call was made by Mayor Henry A. Turner of Waltham to William R. Dewey Jr., chairman of the Weston Board of Selectmen. In the photo taken at Weston Town House, left to right, are Police Chief J. Sumner Viles of Weston, Selectman Edward M. Dickson, Selectman Dewey, Kenneth Loftus of the telephone company, Town Accountant J. Ward Carter and Fire Chief Maurice L. Upham.

The 1955 Christmas Seal Sale of the Middlesex Health Association began Nov. 16. Sixteen per cent of the proceeds of the sale are allocated to the National Tuberculosis Association and the Massachusetts TB and Health League, and the remaining 86 per cent will be used within the area served by the Middlesex Association.

Several score Weston residents still get their water from their own wells, although most are either on the Town water system or on a private system which serves the south end of Town. So far as Town officials know, practically nobody in Wayland depends on a private well.

Junior Choir In St. Peter's Pageant

WESTON—The Junior Choir of St. Peter's Church sang for the pageant presented at the family services on Sunday, Dec. 18. Those who sang were: Berkeley Bottjer, Carter Bottjer, Joan Oppenheim, Hannele Baker, Anne Bartel, Deborah Viles, Betsy Wigginton, Gail Kennedy, Susan Dammin, Kitty Ann Flint, Heather Mitchell, Marcia Sandford, Jane Turner, Barbara Quackenbos, Marjorie Heinrich, Sandra Owens, Darleen DeNapoli, Leslie Townsend and Gary DeNapoli.

Richard W. Field, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Field of Concord Road, Wayland, received his letter in Lightning football at Governor Dummer Academy. Edward L. Johnsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Johnsen of 12 Fox Meadow Lane, Wayland, was co-captain of the pony football team at Governor Dummer and is a member of the rifle club.

The Wayland Highway Department wants an addition to its garage beside the Cochituate dump to house its constantly increasing equipment. As the miles of Town road lengthen, the amount of needed equipment increases, and the Department wants to keep the machinery under cover.

Wayland Highway Notes

With the advent of the cold weather of late December, says Highway Surveyor Albert Potvin, most of the Highway Department work came to an end, except for general maintenance. The crews were fixing equipment, cleaning catch basins, checking gravel pits and getting snow fighting equipment ready.

* * *

Winter Street, Cochituate, had its new drain all installed. Putting a surface on the street, however, would have to wait for Spring.

* * *

The new section of Old Sudbury Road, recently reconstructed, was also due to get a new surface in the Spring.

* * *

Betterment work on Peck Avenue and Valley View Road, Cochituate, was about completed. Spring Hill Road, Wayland, still needed another surface treatment, and the betterment work on the rest of the so-called Wheelock Development was scheduled for Summer of 1956.

WAYLAND—The plan of Philip Pagliazzo of Waltham for a development of about 30 houses off Stone Bridge Road, near Old Connecticut Path, has been approved by the Planning Board.

Bell Haven Choir Gives 1st Concert

WESTON—A new musical organization known as The Bell Haven Choir has been formed here, and gave its first concert on Dec. 13 for the Women's Guild of the First Baptist Church. The bell ringers in the choir have been using bells from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Whittemore, but have ordered more and expect to have them in the Spring.

Mrs. Harold Belles of Wayland is director and arranger. The other bell ringers are Mrs. Ralph Jamieson, Mrs. Nathan Place, Mrs. Whittier Calkins, Mrs. Joseph O'Donnell, Mrs. Norman Stockelburg and Mrs. Francis Whittemore.

Thanks to the generosity of the Weston Committee for the United Nations, seven students instead of two will have the opportunity to visit the United Nations in New York in January. These students will be selected from the present freshman, sophomore and junior classes on the basis of excellence of a 50-word essay giving the reasons for wishing to make the trip as representatives of their respective classes.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH, WESTON

Joseph E. O'Donnell, Jr., Minister,
87 Boston Post Road

How does the government's change of policy with regard to Indian Americans involve us as Christians? What do we owe to these original Americans in our American way of life? Should they be kept indefinitely on reservations?

These questions and many others will be discussed in the School of Missions to be held at the First Baptist Church of Weston on four Sunday evenings, beginning Jan. 8, at 7 p. m. The first speaker, no stranger to the people of Weston, will be the Rev. F. F. Peterson, D.D., former pastor, presently pastor of the Wampanoag Tribe at South Plymouth, Massachusetts.

The Sunday evening school will include Juniors, Junior High and Senior High Baptist Youth Fellowship groups, and adults. Mrs. Rudolph Helgeson Jr. will teach the Juniors; the young people will conduct their own meetings; and Miss Elinor Johnson and Mr. Joseph L. Crowe Jr., will be the adult leaders.

Jan. 15, the adults will consider, "Indian Lore and Culture," led by Miss Elinor Johnson. Jan. 22, all of the groups will view "Song of the Shining Mountain," a 16 mm. sound film on the Crow Indians of Montana, and be led in a discussion period by the pastor. Jan. 29, the adults will consider "Our Indian American Contemporaries," led by Mr. Joseph L. Crowe Sr.

A School of Missions for primary children will be conducted on Saturday mornings in January from 10 - 11 a. m. The leaders of this group are Mrs. Maurice Upham and Mrs. Roy Dickson.

The public is invited to this school. Come and bring the whole family.

Mrs. Nevin Kather will read the devotions and tea will be served after the meeting by the Naomi Circle.

On Friday evening, Dec. 16, the Men's Club held their annual Christmas Party for children. A group of Cub Scouts from West Roxbury presented a skit. The children and parents alike were fascinated by a magician who kept everyone guessing. To cap the evening Santa Claus arrived to sing carols and give each child a bag of candy.

The children had their Church School Christmas program and party on Dec. 18, at 4:00 p. m. for nursery through 2nd grade and at 7:00 p. m. for grades 3 through high school. A tableau, "The Coming of Christ In Living Pictures," was directed by Mrs. Roger Herrick. Forty children participated in eight scenes and a special choir. Narration was done by Martha Seley. After the program the children met in the Church School rooms to receive refreshments and their Christmas gift from the church.

On Christmas Eve at 7:30 p. m. the Pilgrim Fellowship participated in a special Vesper Service. Afterwards they went carolling to sing for shut-ins, and then ended the evening at Christine Smith's for refreshments.

FIRST PARISH CHURCH, WAYLAND

At the First Parish Church the Christmas season was ushered in with the Sunday School party for the children of Boston's Norfolk House, on Dec. 7. Arrangements for it were planned by Mrs. John B. Gregory, superintendent, and Mrs. A. R. Gierasch. The children of each group made Christmas presents for their opposite numbers, and Santa appeared to distribute them. Santa appeared again at a party for the pre-school children on Dec. 17. Widdiss and Margaret Flanagan, members of the Church School staff, planned the games, lunch and Santa's appearance.

Special Christmas music was provided at several of the services leading up to the Family Service on Christmas day. The Junior Choir, who have been directed by Mrs. Malcolm White, with the assistance of Mrs. Raymond Zayotti, sang anthems at both the service on Christmas and the service on Dec. 18. The Senior Choir also provided anthems at these services.

Tradition was particularly drawn upon for the candlelight service held outdoors on Sunday, Dec. 18. The carol music of a brass quartet could be heard over the Town green from the belfry of the First Parish Church, just as it has for several centuries in some villages in Germany and is done in a few communities in the United States today.

The brass choir consisted of Norman Alstad and Richard Best, cornets; Arthur Sargent of Framingham and William Moyer, trombones. They played many of the familiar carols for several hundred persons gathered on the church lawn.

The lighted tableau scenes were presented by members of the Sunday School, with the following cast: Mary, Leslie Foster; Joseph, Richard Turner; Wise Men, Eric Jones, Donald Widdiss and Mark Widdiss. Angels were Theo Parker, Martha Lewis, Sheila Foster, Judy Pratt, Elsie Schneider, Deborah Brackett, Lynn Parker and Terry Jones. Shepherds were Keith Kingsbury, Tommy Chamberlin and Jeff Bernard. Candles were distributed by members of the Junior High Church School class, with their fathers.

On Christmas Eve the candlelight service in the church was led by Mr. Frederick Walther of Wayland, who was formerly a minister in the Unitarian Church. His readings from the Gospel and other Christmas selections, were alternated with music by Mrs. Malcolm White, soloist, and Mrs. Walter B. Parker, violin.

After this service, a caroling group, again accompanied by brass instruments, sang throughout the Town, especially for some of those unable to go out at Christmas time due to illness.

Stanley Rodgers Ordained

WESTON — On Saturday, Dec. 24, at 10 in the morning, the Reverend Stanley Forrest Rodgers was ordained as priest in the Episcopal Church by the Right Reverend Anson P. Stokes, D.D., at St. Elizabeth's in Sudbury. Reverend Rodgers has been assisting Dr. Chauncey at St. Peter's Church in Weston.

Christmas Concert At Baptist Church

WESTON — The First Baptist Church of Weston held a Christmas concert on Sunday, Dec. 18. Jeannette Rayner was director with Mrs. Thelma Calkins as organist and Mr. Donald Bernstein as trumpeter.

Second Sunday of the month, Holy Communion Sunday for members of Holy Name Society.

Third Sunday of the month, Holy Communion Sunday for children of the Sunday School followed by Communion Breakfast.

Christian Doctrine Classes every Monday evening 7:30 p.m.

Sunday School classes will resume of Jan. 8, 1956.

The children of the parish and Sisters of Notre Dame are to be congratulated on the fine presentation of the Christmas Tableaux held last Sunday at the Children's Christmas party.

Fr. Carty would like to thank all those who took time out from a busy Christmas season to call on him with their favorable comments on the inspiring outdoor Creche which was erected on St. Ann's lawn this season, particularly the people passing through on the State Road and the many truck drivers who stopped to pay their respects to the "Prince of Peace".

Regular meeting of the Holy Name Society will be held Thursday evening, Jan. 19, in St. Ann's Hall. The meeting will start with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the upper church at 8:00 p. m. sharp. Following a short business meeting an "Evening of Entertainment" will be presented. All men of the parish and young men of high school age are cordially invited. A coffee hour will follow.

Knowing a good thing when you see it, sometimes calls for a thorough knowledge of what makes a good thing — good. This is particularly true of real estate. Knowing good things in our field is not guess work or prophesy: it is the end result of careful, conscientious attention to all factors involved.

Basketball Teams Start Seasons

The Wayland basketball team, with four victories in a row, got off to a flying start before the Christmas vacation, and coach Samuel Strickland and the boys were looking forward to a successful season.

Weston also won its first game, beating Maynard, 57 to 34. Then Weston lost to its Alumni, 67 to 39. Playing on the Alumni team, however, were many of the members of the 1954 team which was undefeated and won the Class D championship. Weston coach is Robert J. Carini.

Wayland scores:
Wayland 72, Maynard 40.
Wayland 87, Ashland 42.
Wayland 82, Hopkinton 54.
Wayland 61, Alumni 35.

The first Wayland-Weston game is scheduled for Jan. 24, at Wayland, and the second for Feb. 17, at Weston.

Wayland Girl Scouts Start New Project

WAYLAND — The initial step in a plan of making Christmas time a time of giving service to the community was undertaken this year by the Wayland Girl Scouts.

A group of girls from Wayland's Senior Troop prepared and served refreshments for the annual caroling program at the library, during Christmas week.

Among the Intermediate troops, girls at the eighth grade level devoted many hours to making gifts for the people in a local nursing home. Just before Christmas, the entire troop visited the home. They distributed the gifts, sang carols and entertained with musical selections. The fifth grade level made a series of wall murals for the patients at the Bedford Veterans' Hospital.

Most of the Brownie troops plan to do service projects later in the year. One troop, however, decorated a Christmas tree, with hand-made creations; it is standing in the library for all to enjoy.

Mrs. John Simoni, of Timber Lane, flew out to the West Coast last month to attend the Girl Scout convention, held this year in San Francisco. She reported the event educational and inspiring, and came back as full of enthusiasm for scouting as ever. Mrs. Simoni is currently president of the Natick Council.

Lectures For League At M.I.T., Jan. 25

WAYLAND — Now that you've swept up the last spruce needle and a comfortable tarnish has set in on the family silver, you can still save that New Year's resolution — you know, the one about "I am going to do something really worthwhile!!"

Well, the Massachusetts League of Women Voters is here to the rescue. They are sponsoring four outstanding lecturers at the International School to be held at the fabulous Kresge Auditorium at M. I. T. on Wednesday, Jan. 25, from 10:30 to 4:00. The subject will be "Forces Affecting World Peace", viewed from four different angles: the role of the United Nations, resurgent nationalism with emphasis on Africa, atoms for peace, and what price German unity.

These lectures are open to the public and anyone interested in attending may call Mrs. Philip Lane for transportation and a guarantee of one resolution well-kept.

Adding to this international flavor, we are featuring trade in the January units on the 17th and 18th. Ruth Zayotti and her committee will reveal that there is more to importing and exporting than meets the eye. — Priscilla Lane.

Richardson, Parker Elected Football Co-Captains

George Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Richardson of 96 Old Connecticut Path, Cochituate, Wayland's six foot three, 190 pound regular center this fall, was chosen by his mates as the line leader.

Bob Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Parker of 52 Main Street, Cochituate, will be the backfield leader. The pair succeed quarterback Fred Tassinari and tackle Ralph Marotte.

Wayland, with an outstanding record over the past two years, will have several returning starters for the 1956 season. In addition to football, Richardson is the center on the basketball team, and is a baseball regular. Parker is a member of the basketball squad.

Wilhelm-Sanderson

WAYLAND — Mr. and Mrs. F. Harlan Wilhelm of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carole Joy, to Robert A. Sanderson, son of Prof. Albert E. Sanderson and Mrs. Sanderson of Cochituate Road, Wayland.

Miss Wilhelm was graduated from Bethlehem High School and Rhode Island School of Design. She is employed as an industrial designer by a brush company at Florence, Mass.

Mr. Sanderson is a graduate of Wayland High School and Wentworth Institute and served with the U. S. Army in Korea. He is a senior, majoring in machine design, at Rhode Island School of Design.

The Whittemores' Collection Includes Moscow Bell Replica

Mr. and Mrs. C. Francis Whittemore, with part of their fine collection of bells. (Photo by Stuart Harnish.)

By CAROL FOSTER

A souvenir bell labeled Washington, D.C. is numbered 1 in the bell collection of Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Whittemore, of "Bell Haven", Warren Place, Weston. This started their collection, which now amounts to 815 catalogued bells from all over the world.

Six years ago the Whittemores were on their way to Florida on their annual vacation, which they take around the time of their wedding anniversary on Nov. 15. Mrs. Whittemore has always enjoyed looking into gift and antique shops while traveling. Mr. Whittemore did not. While waiting for his wife to finish looking around a shop in Washington, he bought her a little souvenir bell for this anniversary, their 25th, and suggested they "pick up a bell" at each place they went.

Have Weston School Bell

From this beginning has grown an absorbing mutual hobby. Now both Whittemores comb shops together looking for rare or unusual bells. Some bells they have bought through advertisements, catalogues, Hobby Magazine, or through other members of the American Bell Association. Some have been given to them. Calvin Gross gave them an old Weston school bell. On top of their garage is mounted a locomotive bell given them by F. C. (Buck) Dumaine.

In their "bell room" they have a large bell from the Normandie, a large trolley car gong, and ranged on shelves or hanging around the walls are school bells, china bells, glass bells, hotel call bells, mission bells, wind bells, horse bells, cow bells, elephant bells, buffalo bells, mailbox bells, Chinese gongs, commemorative bells, souvenir bells (one from Bermuda in the shape of a lily), and one of Mrs.

Board of Appeals Holds Hearing On Weston Inn

WESTON—A public hearing before the Board of Appeals was scheduled for Jan. 16 on the petition of James W. and Janeth Pearce of Center Harbor, New Hampshire, for the right to use the Weston Inn, 35 North Avenue, as specialized convalescent home.

The Weston Inn, no longer operated as such, has 29 rooms and 14 baths. It is located in an area zoned for one-family residences.

Decision later.

D.P.W. Promises To Mark the New Dead Man's Curve

WAYLAND—Chairman John W. Leavitt of the Wayland Board of Selectmen says the Massachusetts Department of Public Works has replied to the Town's protest against the new Dead Man's Curve on Route 30 by promising to put up big safety signs and markers at the spot.

The Department also offers to provide plans for rebuilding a section of highway there, so that the Town can fix it some time as a Chapter 90 job.

Call For Help

When the Wayside Inn burned down, three days before Christmas, 35 employes lost their jobs. One is a man in his sixties, father of a family, a dishwasher. One is a woman with seven children, another dishwasher. There are waitresses, a bartender, housemaids, a kitchen man and two hostesses.

All live in nearby Towns and all are first rate people. They'll take any jobs which will keep them self supporting.

Church people in Sudbury are helping. Anybody who knows of work for any of them may call Miss Sylvia Throckmorton, secretary of the Council of Churches in Sudbury, or Rev. William Hurley, pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Church in Sudbury. Miss Throckmorton is at HIlltop 3-2160, Fr. Hurley at HIlltop 3-2647.

Schofield Farm Recommended As Wayland School Site

Committee Also Spots Four Elementary School Sites

WAYLAND—The Arthur I. Schofield farm on Old Connecticut Path, including house, barns, 77½ acres of usable land and 16 acres of meadow, will be recommended to the Town as the site for a new Senior High School, says Lewis W. Avard, chairman of the School Site Committee.

The Committee will also recommend at a Special Town Meeting to be held, it is believed, Feb. 15, that four other sites be acquired for elementary schools. In all, the Committee will recommend the acquisition of something like 180 acres for future school use.

Special Meeting Agenda

WAYLAND—The long awaited Special Town Meeting, at which many important issues are to come up, was scheduled to be called by the Board of Selectmen for Feb. 15, says Chairman John W. Leavitt.

The issues:

The proposed Town Office Building.

The proposed purchase of five new school sites.

The proposed construction of one new school.

A proposed increase from three to five members in the School Committee.

Approval of three subdivisions and acceptance of streets, at no cost to the Town.

Payment of School Department bills — unforeseen expenditures.

Perhaps, a proposal to have a committee appointed to study the needs of the Police and Fire Departments.

Town Hall Is Old

The time table called for both the School Site Committee and the Town Office Building Committee to have their reports in the hands of the Selectmen at their Jan. 16 meeting. At that time, the Selectmen intended, says Mr. Leavitt, to call the Special Town Meeting for Feb. 15.

Something about the various pieces of business:

The Town will be asked to build a new Town office building, without an auditorium, on the piece of Town land in the Center bounded by State Road East, Cochituate Road and Millbrook Road, just across the State Road from the First Parish Church.

The present Town Hall is 80 years old and out of repair. It is considered a fire hazard and it lacks room for the expanded ac-

Porch Lights To Be Signals In Polio Drive

March of Dimes campaigns are being carried on in both Towns this month, to culminate in Town-wide collections.

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 31, between 7 and 8, Weston American Legion members will canvass the Town for contributions, stopping at all houses where porch lights are on. During January, envelopes containing contributions may be returned to Mrs. Dexter B. Hill, 556 Wellesley Street.

In Wayland, the Mothers' March will begin at 5 p. m. on Sunday, Jan. 29, and volunteers will call at houses where porch lights are on. Treasurer of the campaign is William S. Lewis of Pequot Road. Volunteers willing to help in the collection may call Mrs. B. Allen Benjamin, EL 8-2079, or Mrs. David C. Stewart, EL 8-2128. Mr. Stewart is chairman.

John R. McEnroy Is Running For Selectman

WAYLAND—John R. McEnroy of 80 Cottage Street, Cochituate, long active in Town politics, announces that he is a candidate for Selectman. His nomination papers were being circulated.

John W. Leavitt Retires As Wayland Selectman

WAYLAND—John W. Leavitt, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, a body of which he has been a member for the past 26 years, has decided not to run for reelection. On Jan. 6 he sent out a letter to friends and associates, in which he said:

Dear Fellow Townsmen:

In the 26 years since I was first elected Selectman, there have been a lot of changes in the Town. Probably the greatest change of all is the rapid growth of the Town during the last few years. This has naturally greatly increased the amount of time that it has been necessary for me to devote to Town affairs on top of the demands of my regular business.

I have recently been advised to "take it easier" and so, since the demands of my regular business will continue, I have decided that I should not be a candidate for reelection as Selectman. I am sending this letter to a number of you with whom I have worked in Town affairs so that you may know of my decision in advance.

Sincerely,
John W. Leavitt

Mr. Ganson Says He Won't Run Again

WESTON—Charles M. Ganson, Selectman for the past six years, says he will not be a candidate for reelection. The pressure of private business is too much. Before becoming a Selectman, he was on the Finance Committee for 10 years or more.

Watering Trough Fire Calls Out Weston Firemen

WESTON—This Town had a fire in a watering trough on New Year's Day, but the Fire Department says it didn't amount to much. There was a still alarm at 9:30 p. m. on Jan. 1 for a fire in the old fashioned trough in front of the Jones House.

Some young men, it appears, had put paint cans and kerosene in the venerable receptacle and touched them off. No damage reported.

Another odd fire was in an archery target, one of those bullseye jobs filled with straw, on Dec. 27. They say it burned down.

No Book Tells What To Look For At The Old Town Dump

In frugal old New England days, they say, the slogan was, "Use it up, wear it out, make it do."

To this the modern person replies, "What, with a $1 bottle of wine?"

And this brings us directly to the Weston dump, which is in some ways an even sportier proposition than the Wayland dumps, which are no mean dumps themselves.

In the first place, the Weston dump is hidden. Takes a map drawn by an old muskrat trapper to show where it is. It's down by the railroad tracks, beside the swamp, across a brook by a narrow bridge with no guard rails, hard by mysterious sheds and a set of concrete obelisks. At last, naturally, it comes down to a place where the unsightly end products of a society of mink, martinis and marshmallows get thrown into a hollow which otherwise would feature only commonplace grass and trees.

To be sure, Nature in the raw doesn't provide as much outdoor exercise for the Fire Department as a heap of combustible cartons, hiding exploding bottles.

This dump, like others, raises questions of social significance.

Big Questions

Paths of glory lead but to the grave? What about the curtains, stuffed furniture and wedding reception leftovers which wind up on the trash heap, mildewed relics of nobler days?

What about privacy? Many a citizen puts old letters, cancelled checks and old grocery lists in the wastebasket, then empties everything at the dump, thinking all is over. All is like the dickens over. Anybody who likes to prowl the dump has only to pick up the papers and pretty soon get a fair idea of what somebody's private business has been. Moral: Burn private papers at home.

What about a sense of proportion? Is it reasonable to use a $3000 automobile to carry to the junk yard a load of stuff worth minus 30 cents?

What about bargain hunting? In Wayland, of course, the dump slogan is, "Leave something and take something away," on the theory that the other fellow's rubbish looks better than some of one's own first string equipment. But if it's all right to hunt for bargains which cost money, why isn't it all right to prowl the dump looking for goodies which cost nothing?

And should any social stigma be directed against those who practise trash picking? Why isn't a dumpcomber as romantic a character as the beachcomber of the South Seas, without whom literature would be poorer and many a South Sea belle would be an old maid?

No Manual?

And why isn't there a municipal booklet to tell residents what nuggets may be in the dump? What's the market for empty bottles of $1 wine, anyway? What price gallon jugs? When is a playpen too far gone to be repaired? Can tin cans be reclaimed? What's the stuff the dumpage connoisseur looks for? How does anybody find out these things? Through years of experience, or just by snatching an hour or two at church time each Sunday and practising do-it-yourself research?

A nice thing about collecting stamps on the dump, as suggested above, is that one can also get to read the letters. And in a comparatively small town, maybe know both the senders and the receivers.

An incinerator wouldn't be nearly as exciting as these graveyards of inanimate objects. Not, of course, that the dump lacks animal life. — D. B. W.

Mother, Is It Wrong To Come Home From The Dump Loaded?

Whether taking stuff away from a dump is larceny or merely something to keep quiet about, like bad judgment, has not been settled by the courts.

The accompanying photograph, however, taken by the Crier's crime photographer, always on the spot, shows how anybody feels when he tries it.

The symbolism:

The tricycle signifies he feels childish. The sack expresses the human instinct to make away with everything in sight. The Brink's-job-type mask shows a guilt complex. The big boots prove it's cold and that the ground is carpeted with broken glass. The seven-year-old hat is borrowed from somebody who wore it to the dump and wore it away again. The tricycle also indicates the urge to get away quickly, and because it is low slung, it also suggests the rider's great desire to be invisible.

Letters to the EDITOR

To the Editor:

I was delighted to obtain a copy of your very fine fortnightly. As a fellow publisher I was especially pleased to note the very nice quality of paper which you use and would appreciate learning the name of its manufacturer.

We print several trade publications and the paper you are using may solve paper problems for some of our publishers.

Also, if you would be so kind, I would like to know the circulation of The Town Crier and your open advertising rate. You might have provided the spark for a similar publication here in California.

Whittemores —

Whittemore's pet varieties, bells with cupids. Her favoritc is a silver bell with a cupid handle.

This fall Mrs. Whittemore organized a bell ringing group to play thcir set of English hand bells. These are White Chapel bells, cast by the same foundry which cast Big Ben, and are world renowned for their tone. The eight members of the Weston Bell Ringers gave a concert just before Christmas, using music arranged by Mrs. Harold Belles, of Wayland. There are now 12 bells in the set, which are kept in flannel bags in a chest, and are handled by their leather handles only. Oxidation or corrosion of the metal caused by handling, then polishing, would eventually affect the tone of the bells, Mrs. Whittemore explains.

Famous Replicas

The Whittemores have ordered 14 morc White Chapel Hand Bells so that they can play more interesting music with more chords and in more keys. Although the group for which Mrs. Belles has been arranging is full, they want to start more groups of bell ringers when the new bells come. Because of the high quality and demand for the White Chapel Bells, Mrs. Whittemore said there is a two-year waiting list for orders.

Mrs. Whittemore is a member of the American Guild of Hand Bell Ringers. Of these the most well known group around here is the one on Beacon Hill led by Mrs. Arthur Shurcliff. Mrs. Edna Comric of thc Paul Revere Bell Ringers in Bedford is another who is "mothering us along", says Mrs. Whittcmore.

"You can take each phase of bells and write a story on it", says Mr. Whittemore, getting down a Russian replica of the Great Bell of Moscow, which weighed 193 tons, and had a circumference of 66 feet. It was cracked so could not be raised and rung. A spccial base was made for it, and the bell turned into a shrine. Forty persons can stand inside it.

"Our most historic bell, perhaps, is this replica of the Columbian Liberty Bell", continues Mr. Whittemore. "It was made for the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893."

The Whittemore's replica is made from left over metal uscd in the original bell. Commissioned by the D.A.R., this replica of the Liberty Bell was cast from metals contributed by 200,000 persons all over the world: pennies from school children, silver spoons, thimbles, historic pieces such as a copper kettle which had belonged to Jefferson, a surveyor's chain of Washington's, Jefferson Davis' house keys, Simon Bolivar's watch chain, and two bullets fired during the Civil War which supposedly met in mid air forming a "U" for union.

After the exposition the bell was going to be sent around the country on tour, but when the exposition closed no one could find the bell. It weighed 6½ tons and was six feet high. It hasn't been found yet!

Bells and Churches

When the Whittemores began their collection they had never heard of a bell collection and had been collecting two years before they were told about the American Bell Association. The Association has 700 members, publishes a monthly magazine, "The Bell Tower", and has an annual convention. This year it will be in Kansas City.

"Most members of the American Bell Association are active in church", Mr. Whittemore says. "The two seem to go along together." The Whittemores are members of the Baptist Church and both sing in the choir. They have long enjoyed music. Mrs. Whittemore plays the piano as well as handbells, and Mr. Whittemore sings with the Metropolitan Singers in Boston, a group of 70 men who give an annual concert in Jordan Hall for the benefit of a children's institution.

Both C. Francis and Gladys (Dolly) Whittemore have always lived around herc. They had the same first grade teacher in Weston, though Mr. Whittemore was a couple of classes ahead. This teacher, Miss Emily Adams, also taught both sons in the first grade and a daughter-in-law.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden Whittemore and their son, also live on Warren Place. Alden works with the Ogilvie brothers, who are Mrs. Whittemore's brothers. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whittemore and their son and daughter live in Framingham. Mrs. Whittemore says the three grandchildren all especially love one of their hotel call bells, which they ring when they come to the house, and are very careful of their grandparents' collection. When they come to their grandparents they enjoy the music box door bells, on the doors, and the ship's clock.

Glass Bells

Mr. Whittemore is with Richard H. Byrd Manufacturing Company which makes glass and sapphire instrument bearings for indicating instruments used on airplanes or in compasses. He is a member of the Weston Men's Club. Both Whittemores belong to the Waltham Grange.

Mrs. Whittemore is a member of the Weston Community League, the American Legion Auxiliary, and the Community Chorus. She has given a few talks on bells for local groups, adding, "We have an awful lot to learn yet about bells."

"Take these glass bells," says Mr. Whittemore. "This 'cut velvet' (a large glass bell in a soft rose color with a velvety texture) we got at a show in Boston last year. The dealer told us that one time some glass bells on a shelf were all broken because someone opened the door on a cold day. The draft cracked all of them."

"Bell hobbyists travel everywhere", the Whittemores agree, and their interest adds to the enjoyment of any trip. "We meet interesting people."

Originally they picked up any souvenir or gift shop bells, but their tastes have now tended toward antique bells or bells of local or historic value. Occasionally they'll get a modern bell, such as the Steuben air twist handle bell they bought when they visited the Corning Glass Company. They have a bell from the old Smith Tavern in Weston, Mrs. Whittemore's first bid at an auction, and small bells re-cast from old church bells, which are sold to raise money for churches. Their oldest of this type is dated 1900, and their newest is a result of Hurricane Carol. These resemble a bell made for an Elizabeth II Coronation souvenir.

Chinese Gong

The Whittemores' most recent acquisitions include a Chinese bronze bell dating from 1200 and an Italian silver inkwell with a bell cover dating back to 1670. They hope to acquire a Chinese tub gong, having seen one which will vibrate for five minutes.

Now the Whittemores enjoy anything to do with bells. Mrs. Whittemore has some bell jewelry and has hooked a rug with a Liberty Bell design. They also use bells for candle and plant holders. The Whittemores find bells have had a variety of uses, beginning with religious ones and varying from telephones and fire engine bells to those used to drive spirits away, summon slaves, serve as presents for many occasions, drink toasts from, and just to look at or play with.

"We hope people will come and see our bells", they say, "we'd love to have them."

Hospital Gifts Sent By the Auxiliary

The American Legion Auxiliary No. 133, with President Suzanne Leavitt presiding, held its regular monthly meeting Dec. 19.

Sally Potvin, director of rehabilitation, reported $18.75 in donations given to the V.A. Hospital in West Roxbury. Anna Sanborn, auxiliary chairman of gifts for the Christmas Gift Shop, reported gifts valued at $90 given to Bedford Hospital.

E. Winifred Richardson, chairman of coupons, would appreciate any coupons being sent to her or to any auxiliary member as we still need more to fill our quota. This is a very worthwhile project as last year this department gave 11 scholarships.

A donation was given by our unit to the Children's Hospital. A Christmas party followed the meeting with exchange of gifts and collation provided by members having birthdays in December: Mrs. Dorothy Gelinas, Mrs. Blanche Burke, Mrs. Mildred Groton and Mrs. Sally Potvin.

A Pan-American program was planned for our January 16 meeting. Miss Betty Krulee was the speaker. — E. Winifred Richardson.

Registration For Town Meeting

WAYLAND—Leila Sears, Wayland Town Clerk, says that citizens of the Town may register for the Special Town Meeting of Feb. 15 up to 20 days before, which would be around Jan. 26. The requirement is one year's residence in Massachusetts and six months' residence in the Town of Wayland. And the applicant must bring a birth certificate or something equally convincing.

For the regular Town Meeting of March 5, Miss Sears says, there will be a session of the Registrars of Voters in the Cochituate Library on Feb. 14. But up to that date, any new resident of Town who can meet the time qualification may register at the Town Hall in the Clerk's office.

Weston PTA Sees Film From France

WESTON—"Passion for Life", a French movie which the New York Times has called "sensitive, provocative and beautifully done", was scheduled to be shown at the Weston P. T. A. meeting in the Country School Auditorium on Jan. 18. Refreshments were served afterwards.

The film, made available by the Massachusetts Association for Mental Health, Inc., tells the story of a village school teacher who manages to instill in his pupils a passion for learning which finally spreads to the whole community.

Pete Bogren Is New Colby Hockey Star

COCHITUATE—Pete Bogren of West Plain Street, son of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Bogren, helped Colby College celebrate the opening of its new hockey rink by playing goalie and shutting out Bowdoin the entire 55 minutes he played. Colby won, 4 to 1.

Pete, now a senior, had played only a little varsity hockey before this year, but Bangor and Waterville papers carried feature stories about his brilliant performance when he stepped in against Bowdoin.

C. W. Kearsley Can Give Advice On Military Service

Young men with Reserve obligations, or prior service are invited to become members of the 42nd Transportation Motor Transport Command, Army Reserve unit, which meets each Tuesday night at the Boston Army Base, South Boston. It is the largest unit in New England dealing directly with Motor Truck Transportation, and is sponsored by the Massachusetts Motor Truck Association.

A recent Act of Congress has made it possible for young men between the ages of 17 and 18½ years to fulfill their military service duty by serving only six months actively—including Military Schools—then only one evening drill each week.

Major Carl W. Kearsley of Concord Road, Wayland, is an officer in the above unit and will gladly answer any and all questions young men may have relative to their military obligations. Major Kearsley can be reached at ELmwood 8-4583.

Recreation Course Opens At Concord

CONCORD—A Recreation Leaders' Workshop, sponsored by the Middlesex County Extension Service, will be held at the Extension Service Office, 19 Everett Street, Concord, on Jan. 19 and 26 and Feb. 2 and 9, under the leadership of Miss H. Ruth McIntire, Extension specialist in recreation, University of Massachusetts.

The workshop, it is explained, is for anybody in the County who's a leader in any group, such as Grange, 4-H, Scouts, church or young people's organization, which uses recreation in its program.

In the workshop will be games, informal singing, skits, pantomimes and party planning.

Those interested should communicate with Ethel W. Veenendaal, 19 Everett Street, Concord.

And the Extension Service would like this definition known:

"The function of an Extension Service may be simply stated as the extension of the services of a school or college to all of the people who have need of them. These services are research and education, both basic and applied. Subject matter comes from the college departments; methods, techniques and tools from the executive officers."

Among items approved for the 1956 budget by the Official Board of the Weston Methodist Church was provision for the resettlement of a refugee family. Under the direction of the Missions Commission, Dr. "Pete" Goodall, chairman, the church will underwrite American transportation costs for a family and assume responsibility prior to their coming for employment and housing. The family will come into the country under a special quota authorized by Congress.

Further details will be made public as the red tape involved is raveled. "Even at this stage," says Rev. Robert Hutton, "it promises to be one of the most exciting and creative things we've done."

The newly formed Men's Fellowship of the Weston Methodist Church will hold its first meeting of the new year on Thursday evening, Jan. 26. A dinner meeting at the church is being planned by Roy MacArthur and able assistants.

A highlight of the evening will be a talk on sports by a member who is a coach and professor at Suffolk University and Harvard. There will also be illustrative films.

The Building Committee of the Weston Methodist Church met on Tuesday, Jan. 10, with the architect who is drawing up plans for the projected development of the church. A financial effort was made more than a year ago, with $34,000 pledged. Since June, the Committee, Charles Law, chairman, has been working on plans for a total church structure which would be a complete unit utilizing the features of their property.

Only that portion which can be soundly financed is projected for early construction. When the details of the plans have been worked out with the architect to the satisfaction of the committee, a series of congregational "questions and discussion" periods is planned before the plans go before the congregational meeting for approval.

The church, which now conducts two duplicate morning worship services each Sunday and has half of the Sunday School sessions at 9:30 and the other half at 11, expects to build primarily for expansion of useable educational space.

Serving the congregation of the Weston Methodist Chuch at the 9:30 a. m. worship services since last October has been the junior choir, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Cahill. The choir, which rehearses every Wednesday evening, includes: Everett Shekleton, John Davies, Donna Laffin, Linda Mills, Karen Goodall, Debbie Armstrong, Martha Rafuse, Susan Otto, Gretchen Goodall, Janet Law, Carol Besse, Susan Marsh, Cherrie Loesel, Nancy Law, Peggy Marsh, Beth Brown, Donald Moodie, Donna Brown, Leslie Rudell, Warren French, Ronnie Butcher, Roy MacArthur and Rachel Moodie.

His Excellency, the Archbishop of Boston, announces the Ordination to the Sacred Priesthood of the Rev. James L. Publicover, Thursday, Feb. 2, 1956.

The newly ordained priest will celebrate his First Solemn Mass on Sunday, Feb. 5 at St. Ann's Church, Wayland, at 11 a. m.

Fr. Publicover is the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harold A. Publicover of North Road, Sudbury, and has the distinction of being the first newly ordained priest to celebrate his first solemn Mass in St. Ann's.

Committees are now being formed for the annual St. Patrick's Day Party. All members of the parish interested in making this party a success please contact Mr. Joseph Kelley, President of St. Ann's Holy Name Society, Plain Road, Weston, or phone TW 3-6414.

Stereoscopic Map Of River Valley Planned By Suasco

WAYLAND — Interesting flood control news is expected soon, says Philip P. Farina, Wayland chairman of Suasco, and in the meantime surveying of the river valley goes on, with something new, a "stereoscopic survey", being planned.

The stereoscopic survey, it is explained, is done from an airplane, with a three-eyed gadget which gives a picture showing contours. The old fashioned airplane picture showed the land flat. The stereoscopic device, they say, was developed during the war, as an aid to bombing.

Thus the surveyors will be provided with an exact map, showing all the water lines, hills and hollows.

This method has not been used in the North before, it is said, but it has been used experimentally in the South with great success.

Meanwhile, says Mr. Farina, one of the needs is for more members, because the whole deal is based largely on the participation of private citizens. Two new local committees will be formed soon, one to help figure out exactly what was the flood damage in Wayland last year and the other to study local drainage problems and talk them over with the Federal engineers.

Mr. Farina, now local chairman, has become chairman of membership and finance for all of Suasco, and Wayland will have to have a new chairman. But those interested in the work of Suasco may call Mr. Farina at EL 8-4853.

He also says Suasco will send a speaker to explain the flood control project to any group which is interested.

Cochituate Scouts Had Christmas Party

Cochituate Boy Scouts had a Christmas Party at the Cochituate School on Dec. 21. Michael Lansberg was in charge of the program. Mr. Lansberg told a Christmas story which was followed by carol singing.

Buster Messem, assistant scoutmaster, played Santa Claus and gave presents to all the boys. He also presented the troop wtih a complete set of merit badge pamphlets. Refreshments were served to approximately 50 boys.

ROCKING-CHAIR RALLY

One of the reasons for the increasing popularity of platform rockers is their adaptability. They combine graciously with provincial and traditional furnishings, and are at home in almost any type room . . . bedroom, den and living room. And, they are unsurpassed for comfort.

Contemporary designers have simplified the lines of some of the old favorites. Others have been cut down in size and scale to meet the space limitations of our new smaller homes. There are also many authentic reproductions available, true copies that faithfully follow the lines and proportions of the originals. Interesting upholstery fabrics in a variety of patterns give them eye-appeal which contributes immeasurably to the room's decorative success.

In a platform rocker, as with any chair, comfort is dependent upon the angle of repose, height of seat from floor and depth of seat.

A pair of platform rockers have been used in the room illustrated above to balance the sofa and form a fireside conversation group. The room's color scheme was inspired by cotton print on chairs, dark green walls and rose-colored sofa. Carpet in warm honey-beige matches background of the print. Black and gold Boston rocker adds homey touch.

If you are assembling your fireside group, and would like some advice on just what new pieces to combine with those you already have, come in and let one of our trained decorators advise you. We are always happy to assist you in any way that we can.

tivities of the Town's officials and employes. The idea has been to put up an office building big enough for a Town of 15,000 inhabitants, a size believed proper to meet Wayland's maximum needs. The cost is expected to be somewhere around $200,000, of which $40,000 has already been appropriated.

The school sites are explained elsewhere in this Crier.

The Article calling for increasing the size of the School Committee from three members to five comes as the result of a petition circulated some time ago by Mrs. Norman J. Alstad, signed by more than 200 citizens.

The new school is proposed because the Town's School buildings are full now, and there will be an overflow in September.

The sub-divisions are Lakefield, the Gray Nuns property and Melody Lane. All these involve streets to be accepted, at no cost to the Town.

Natick Won't Play

The school bills. The December cold caused an increase in heating bills, increased night use of buildings ran up the light bill, there were repairs and flood damage, more books and supplies were needed by more pupils.

In addition, says Mr. Leavitt, the School Building Committee submitted an Article for the Regular Town Meeting, set for the first Monday in March, calling for the building of two schools.

This one, says Mr. Leavitt, the Selectmen had to reject because the last day for putting in articles for the annual meeting was Dec. 15. However, because of the urgency of the school situation, he says the Selectmen will call a Special Town Meeting for the same night as the regular meeting, to take up the two new school buildings. How this will be arranged, he says, will be left up to the Moderator.

The Town Office Building Committee held a meeting on the evening of Jan. 12 and directed the architect to edvertise for bids for construction and landscaping. The bids are to be returned by Feb. 8.

Walter B. Parker of Old Connecticut Path, Wayland, has been appointed director of research for the container division of Dewey and Almy.

A resolution introduced by Rep. James DeNormandie of Lincoln asking for the restoration of the Wayside Inn was immediately passed by the Massachusetts House and sent to the Senate.

WAYLAND — Mrs. Willard B. Dik, president of the Wayland Historical Society, sent a telegram to Detroit on behalf of the Society's 65 members, asking that the Wayside Inn be rebuilt.

Cochituate PTA Dance, Jan. 21

COCHITUATE — A benefit dance, "The Deep Freeze Frolics", for the Cochituate PTA is scheduled for Jan. 21 at the Cochituate School. There will be dancing from 8:30 to 12 with music by Lee Coleman's orchestra. Admission is $1.00 per person. There will be door prizes and "special events."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert MacKnight are in charge, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. William Southworth, tickets; Mrs. Fern Taylor and Mrs. Charles Demartini, refreshments; Mrs. Cecil Chislett, ways and means, and Mr. Alton Avery, publicity.

Elmer Kane will be in charge of decorations. Mrs. Richard A. Howard will help with refreshments and Mrs. James Arnold with soft drinks.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Southworth, OL 3-8942, or Mrs. MacKnight, OL 3-2470.

University Of Life Series Opens Feb. 5

WESTON—The Weston Council of Churches presents the sixth annual University of Life series during the month of February. The series opens at the First Parish Church at 6:30 p. m. Feb. 5.

Miss Antonia H. Froendt of the World Council of Churches will be the opening speaker. Her topic will be "Does Christianity have the Answers to the World Problems?" Miss Froendt comes to Weston well experienced as a speaker and discussion leader. Her 13 trips abroad on business for the World Council in the past few years as well as her constant work and acquaintance with the problems of the world Christian community qualify her for her presentation.

The women of the First Parish Church will be the hostesses and provide refreshments during the fellowship period from 6:30 to 7. Dr. E. F. Chauncey will lead the worship service, assisted by the ministers of the cooperating churches.

Speakers for the succeeding sessions are: Feb. 12, Rt. Rev. Anson P. Stokes, Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese of Massachusetts of the Episcopal Church; Feb. 19, Rev. Roy M. Pearson, Dean of Andover Newton Theological School; and Feb. 26, Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, Director of the Chinese Philanthropic Service Bureau of Boston.

School Sites —

No figures on cost were available. The Committee was guided in its negotiations with property owners by an Appraisal Committee consisting of five Wayland real estate men. At last reports, negotiations were continuing. In most cases, the question was, "How much?"

The Committee thought it would probably not have a site for a Junior High School to recommend —but thought it possibly might. The school program, as generally understood, calls for the present Junior-Senior High building to become a Junior High School when the new Senior High School is built. A second Junior High School is believed to be some years in the future.

Elementary School Sites

Here are the four elementary school sites to be recommended:

Loker Street, for the Southeast corner of Town. About 14½ acres, approximately the same area as that of the Happy Hollow School site. Along with a recommendation for this site goes a recommendation for acquisition of a right of way to provide a strect connection with the Country Corners district.

Claypit Hill Road, for the Center. This is approximately the same site, of about 26 acres, which was turned down last year. However, changes have been made. The entrance would be several hundred feet Northwest of the twin entrances proposed before, and it is hoped that the proposition, in several ways, will be more attractive than it was before.

Orchard Lane. This is a tract of rolling fields at the South end of Orchard Lane, of 13½ acres. The former Site Committee examined this many months ago and found it desirable, although it was on a dead end street. Now, it is said, there is a prospect of a new development nearby, which would provide access to Concord Road.

Sherman Bridge Road, 40 acres. This land is on the South side of the road, about opposite a site nominated by the former Site Committee. Of the 40 acres, 20 are on the front and are usable. The back 20 are "meadow", or swamp, with no assessed value.

Met Christmas Eve

The Site Committee has met every weekend except one since Oct. 1, and has averaged one meeting a week during the week. It even met on Christmas Eve.

It studied the Town maps and walked for miles over possible sites. Some sites it had to dismiss at once. But, says Mr. Avard, "Every site that had possibilities, we've been to."

The Committee was guided by the report of Dr. Nicholas L. Engelhardt, the "outside expert" employed by the Town to make a survey of school needs.

Except for the Schofield site proposed for the High School, the sites recommended are pretty close to the locations advised by Dr. Engelhardt. In some cases the arrangement of property lines made it impractical to settle on the exact sites suggested.

As recommended, the elementary school sites would cover the Town's area North to South, like rungs on a ladder, with Sherman Bridge Road on top, then Orchard Lane, then Claypit Hill Road, then Loker Street. Cochituate School would remain in service, as would Happy Hollow. The Engelhardt report recommends that the Center School be abandoned as a school and perhaps be put to some other use.

The Schofield Farm

Dr. Engelhardt recommended Sandy Burr golf course, on Cochituate Road, as the site for the Senior High School. However, the Committee found rock ledges on its upper levels, and that the greater part of the course is on lower land. The element of cost was also considered.

Land across the street from Sandy Burr was examined. Here again it was found that much of the land was low, and that any area taken would be right up against the by-pass highway, if and when it is built. Cost was a feature here, too.

The Committee also examined the Charles Wheelock farm on Old Connecticut Path. But for school purposes, it liked the Schofield farm best.

Dr. Engelhardt recommended 50 acres as minimum size for a senior high school. The Schofield farm covers more than 90 acres, extending from Old Connecticut Path, adjoining the Weston Aqueduct, back to the Sudbury River.

Behind the house is a ridge from which gravel has been taken during the past few years. The Site Committee pictures this ridge, smoothed off, as the spot for the actual building. Below the ridge, to the North, are acres and acres of level fields which have been under cultivation for many years. There is room for all the playing fields which could be needed, and there is enough rich soil on the premises to cover all the landscaping needs.

Unpaid and Unanimous

The reason for recommending the taking of the whole farm was that it has a comparatively narrow frontage on Old Connecticut Path, and that there is no public access to the back land. Taking a 50-acre bite would end the usefulness of the place as a dairy farm, and the remaining land would be awkwardly located.

Chairman Avard says there was no disagreement among members of the Committee. It was unpaid. He says the only aim of the group was to d the best job possible for the Town, and he says the recommendations of the Committee are made unanimously.

The Appraisal Committee of local real estate men, the jury which considered prices of land, included James T. Trefrey, Robert T. Robinson, Edward A. Veno, Robert F. Sennett and Willis B. Ryder.

Also consulted were Allan R. Finlay, School Building Committee; Assessors George C. Lewis, William S. Lewis and B. Allen Benjamin; Frederick G. Perry Jr. of the Planning Board; Robert M. Morgan, Finance Committee; Frank Kilburn, Town Counsel, and Thomas F. Linnehan, Selectman.

The Wayland Board of Health, says Mr. Avard, has approved all the sites recommended.

Wayland High PTA To Meet Feb. 6

WAYLAND—The Wayland Junior-Senior High School PTA will meet at the High School on Monday, Feb. 6. Parents will have a chance to serve as students participating in some of the classroom activities. Notices will be sent to members before the meeting.

Next Free X-Rays At Center, Jan. 24

WAYLAND—Appointments may still be made for a free chest x-ray at the screening clinic to be held at the Parmenter Health Center on Jan. 24, from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m. Residents of Wayland, Weston and other nearby towns may make appointments by calling the Center, OL 3-5111, or local Board of Health nurses.

First January clinic was held Jan. 12.

These clinics are sponsored by local Boards of Health, local Tuberculosis Associations, the Parmenter Health Center and the Middlesex Health Association. They are financed in great part by annual Christmas Seal sale.

Probable date for Weston's annual Town Meeting this year is said to be March 19.

Mrs. DiMora From Palermo Will Visit Wayland L.W.V.

WAYLAND—Due to arrive in Wayland on Feb. 3 is Mrs. Carla Di Mora of Palermo, Italy, an Italian national who is cultural affairs assistant with the United States Information Center at Palermo.

She is being sent to the United States by the State Department to get some ideas on League of Women Voters community participation and action, and the Wayland League is one of a few she has been assigned to visit.

Mrs. Di Mora's interest is said to be in education and cultural affairs. Mrs. L. William Bertelsen, president of the Wayland League, says plans for entertaining her and showing her around haven't been worked out yet. Presumably she will stay at somebody's home.

No League board meeting is scheduled for the time of Mrs. Di Mora's visit, but she will be introduced to Board members and a committee meeting will be held.

Mrs. Di Mora's biography says she was born in San Stefano, Agrigento, Dec. 29, 1920. She has a degree in modern letters from the University of Messina and she studied English literature for a year at the University of Naples. Her job is to handle the details, partly as a translator, of keeping the U. S. agency informed on cultural and educational affairs.

She is scheduled to stay in Wayland until Feb. 7.

Maud P. Bullard

WAYLAND—Mrs. Maud Parker Bullard, widow of Arthur Bennett Bullard, died Jan. 1 at her home on Glezen Lane after a long illness. She had been a resident of Wayland 50 years, coming to Wayland with her husband from Cambridge to live in what had previously been the Bullard summer home.

Mrs. Bullard was born in Fairfield, Conn., and was the daughter of the late General and Mrs. Ely S. Parker. Gen. Parker was a Seneca Indian Chief, head of the Iroquois Six Nations. During the Civil War he was on the staff of General Grant, and he served as Grant's military secretary during his Presidency.

Funeral services were held at 2:30, Jan. 4, at Mrs. Bullard's home. Rev. Miles Hanson Jr., minister of the First Parish Church, Weston, officiated.

Mrs. Bullard leaves three children, Willard Parker Bullard, Ann Bullard and Mrs. Norman M. Perry.

Wellesley Man Wins First Scholarship

William D. Carmichael

(Fay photo.)

WESTON—On behalf of the Directors of the Weston Country Evening Concert Series, Mrs. Albert B. Hunt, President, announces the award of the first Concert Series scholarship to William D. Carmichael of Wellesley for study at the New England Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Carmichael, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Carmichael of 16 Howe Street, Wellesley, is studying clarinet at the Conservatory and is a member of the Conservatory Orchestra. A graduate of Wellesley High School in 1950, he was Concertmaster of the Wellesley High School Band from the time he entered the eighth grade, and was also Concertmaster of the All New England Band in 1949. Thereafter he served for four years in the Navy, entering the Conservatory last fall.

Established in 1951, the Weston Country Evening Concert Series presents a series of three concerts each season in Weston Country School auditorium. Last June it was voted to use a part of the proceeds of the Weston Country Evening Concert Series to establish a scholarship at the New England Conservatory to aid a talented student of music who came from Weston or one of the communities around Weston. Mr. Carmichael is the first recipient of the Award.

The Concert Series opened its fifth season Jan. 13 with a concert of chamber music by the Budapest String Quartet, assisted by Mieczyslaw Horszowski, pianist.

SUDBURY — The Kiwanis Club of Sudbury, meeting on Jan. 7, adopted a resolution asking that the Wayside Inn be rebuilt, and sent the resolution to Dearborn, Mich. Leslie G. Hall, president of the club, signed the message.

Heart Fund Group Ready For Campaign

COCHITUATE — All members of the Cochituate Committee for the Heart Fund have been enlisted, according to Mrs. John B. Donner, chairman. Tuesday, Jan. 31 — Lord's Day League banquet and Annual Meeting at 6:30 in the Dorothy Quincy Suite of the John Hancock Building. Reservations should be given to Mr. Gutekunst at once. Finance Commission meeting at 8 at the church.

* * *

News of the church—Under the direction of the Commission on Membership and Evangelism, the Church is participating in the World Wide Church Attendance Movement from New Year's to Easter. Attendance at morning worship in December averaged 265, not counting Christmas worshippers totalling 380. The goal is 300 each Sunday.

* * *

Lovely new light oak chancel furniture and communion rail arrived just in time for Christmas worship and worship in the new year. The pulpit and altar are gifts in memory of Mrs. Nellie Hammond and Mrs. Frances Bent. The chimes amplified from the belfry for the community during the Christmas season were a memorial to Mrs. Lyman Brown, provided in lieu of funeral flowers.

All who would like to help financially to establish a permanent amplification system in the church so the chimes can be played weekly and daily in special seasons are asked to contact Mr. Ernest Schleicher, Mr. Cecil Chislett or Mr. Gutekunst.

Methodist Men, an organization open to all men of the community, had an enthusiastic turnout of 48 to hear Arctic explorer Sir Hubert Wilkins in the December meeting. The January meeting featured the Rev. Oscar Guinn, a missionary in China 1½ years after the Communist invasion. His subject was "The Christian Answer to Communism."

William A. Waldron of Wayland is a candidate for re-election to the School Committee.

Wayland Students Take Science Tests

WAYLAND — Four Wayland High School students took Science Talent Search examinations for Westinghouse scholarships at the school on Dec. 22, under the supervision of Mrs. S. David Bailey. Leaders in the preliminary examinations get trips to Washington next Spring to take the finals. Ultimate winners get scholarships, of which the best provides $700 for each of four years.

Each contestant submitted a 1000-word report on "My Scientific Project". The list:

Mary Jane Fabisak, "The Stability of Food Colors to Ionizing Radiation."

Donald Graves, "To Construct and Test an Inexpensive Food Warmer Using Only Solar Energy for the Source of Heat."

Allan Lynch, "Some Applications of Irradiation."

Agnes Houston, "Identification of Textile Fibers."

Wayland League To Poll Members On School Program

WAYLAND—When the warrant for the Special Town Meeting is issued, says Mrs. L. William Bertelsen, President of the Wayland League of Women Voters, all of the 178 members of the League will be polled by telephone as to their opinions on the overall merits of the long range school site program.

If there is substantial agreement among the members in favor of the program, says Mrs. Bertelsen, League leaders will speak in favor, and League members will run a campaign to get as many voters as possible to attend the meeting.

The League will not take a position on the merits of any particular site. Its position always is, however, that there should be adequate schools.

At the December unit meetings, it is reported, there was wide agreement among members that there should be a long range school program, following in general the recommendations in the Engelhardt Report.

B. H. Dickson To Tell About Old Canal, Feb. 2

WAYLAND—Brenton H. Dickson of Weston will be the speaker at the Feb. 2 meeting of the Wayland Historical Society, and his subject will be the Middlesex Canal, which used to run between Lowell and Boston.

The Middlesex Canal ran from just north of the Pawtucket dam, in Lowell, to somewhere in Charlestown. Its first date was around 1794, and it represented the notion of the times, that transportation in the new United States was to be by water. Soon, however, came the railroads, and the canals were wiped out, as common carriers, after a brief time.

Committee To Ask For Town Report With Pictures

WAYLAND—The Town Report Committee, named following the Town Meeting of last March, will recommend to the Annual Town Meeting in March that the Town Report, hitherto a somewhat uninspired volume, should be made snappier and more interesting, with pictures, even, and graphs and diagrams.

On the Committee are Norman E. Taylor, Town Accountant; Robert M. Morgan, Finance Committee; Thomas F. Linnehan, Selectman; and Town Clerk Leila Sears and Dr. Jean F. Caul, members at large.

In the past, it is said, Town Reports have been delivered to every home in Town, or have been supposed to be delivered. Some, however, have landed under the lilac bushes and others in the Town dump.

The Committee proposes a change in the Town by-laws, by which the warrant for Town Meeting would be delivered to each house, but not the Report. People would be told the Report was available if they wanted it. Another change requested would permit a certain amount of editing, to avoid the inclusion of repetitious material.

Winter in the Suburbs

Picture above was made just before dark, after the snowstorm of Jan. 17. The doctors' building, where there was a fire on the 20th, is at the right, out of sight. First building visible on the right is the Post office, and beyond that are stores. The camera was pointed towards Boston. (Photo by Stuart Harnish.)

Fire In Doctors' Building Causes Loss And Excitement

WESTON—Heavy damage was done to the central and upper portion of the doctors' building at 506 Boston Post Road on the night of Jan. 20 by a fire said by Chief Maurice L. Upham to be the worst in Town in a couple of years. Spontaneous combustion was given as the cause.

The fire upset the plans of a couple who meant to move into the upstairs apartment in the building.

Lieut. Peter Bishop, of the Signal Corps, stationed at Fort Devens, was scheduled to be married the day after the fire to a girl from Portland, Me. The couple had some furniture in the apartment, but there was no person in it when the fire started, says the Chief.

The furniture was stacked and covered by the firefighters, and received no damage. First thing next morning a truck came and took the furniture away.

The building is owned by John W. and Lucy D. Boyd. Its original part dates from the 1700's, says Mr. Boyd, and it is a Town landmark. It was modernized in 1949, and the East wing is occupied by Town physicians. On the Western side is the dentist's office of Dr. L. Charles Christopher. In the basement, in the rear, are the Kien Chung gift shop and the office of The Town Crier. Neither of the latter was damaged.

Doctors who have offices in the building are Carlos L. Hudson, Thomas C. Peebles, David H. Reid, Robert M. True, Warren T. Vaughan and W. T. Van Huysen. Dr. Reid was the only one who had to move from his office.

Complicating the firefighters' task was the fact that the hydrant across the street, right in front of Bernice Caffrey's, had apparently been recently bumped and jammed by an automobile so it couldn't be used. (It is going to be moved back out of the way.)

Chief Upham says the department hooked on to the next nearest hydrant, down the street, but did not find it necessary to squirt hose water. The fire was put out by 1700 gallons of water, pumped as high pressure fog by Engines 3 and 4.

18 Call Men

The fire seemed to have started in a closet on the second floor.

The Fire Department's official report set damage at $25,000. However, Chief Upham says, that was a first estimate. A survey of the premises was made later.

The alarm came in by telephone and by Box 261 at 8:18 p. m. The all-out was sounded at 12:22 a. m. Capt. F. Wyman Johnson and Lieut. John Compton responded, with 18 call men and five auxiliaries. Ladder 1 and Engines 1, 2, 3 and 4 responded, with the Chief's car.

Vokes To Present "Mrs. McThing" With Star Cast

Winford Naylor, President of Vokes Theater, announces that the second and third weekends of March the Vokes Players of Wayland will present their second play of the current season, "Mrs. McThing", a Broadway hit which starred Helen Hayes.

The Vokes Players have their own star-studded cast in this play, which is directed by the well-known and highly successful director, Mercedes "Chic" Bassett of Weston.

The leading role is to be taken by Louise Kennedy, star of past plays of note such as "Bell, Book and Candle;" "The Corn is Green" and "Glass Menagerie". The entire cast has been in many productions. Taking part in this play are Carol Stites, Bonnie Grey, Cynthia Naylor, Peter Naylor, Nancy Tanger, Shirley Lewis, Dana Walston, Fran Fisher, Rudolph Bruce, Bob Paine, Parm Hill, Ed White, Jack Hyland, Helen Walther, Beverly White, Heidi Grey, Peter Salvucci, Peggy Bruce and Mary Salvucci.

Production is in the capable hands of Blackie Grannis and Dan Kennedy, and stage sets will be expertly done by talented Twinkie Luce. Prompter will be Mary Kilpatrick. Bill Hodgkinson is the business manager and publicity is being handled by Virginia Hyland.

Poem About Snow

Anonymous poem, inspired by local January weather:

Snow has beauty for those in the north,
For the central wheat lands it is worth.
For those in the south the snow is novel
And I'd like it myself if I couldn't shovel.

Weston Building Tops $3,000,000 For Year 1955

WESTON—Building permits for 125 new house at a total estimated cost of $2,369,315 were issued in Weston in 1955, says Building Inspector Maurice L. Upham. In all there were 208 permits for various kinds of buildings and additions.

The total valuation for new building was $3,057,210. This included, however, a nominal figure of $500,000 for a new dormitory at Regis College, which actually will cost much more but won't be taxable anyway.

In 1954, permits were issued for 124 new houses.

Heart Fund Campaign

The Massachusetts Heart Fund campaign of 1956 began Jan. 31, with the lighting of a torch on Boston Common and a kickoff luncheon in the Sheraton-Plaza. Weston and Wayland committees are collecting.

West Newton Bank To Have Wayland Branch

WAYLAND—The Commissioner of Banks has authorized the West Newton Savings Bank to establish a branch office in Wayland Center, the bank announces.

The bank plans to occupy the property at 19 Pelham Island Road, after the building has been renovated and remodelled to provide suitable facilities.

Jackson Turner of Nob Hill Road will be manager of the Wayland office, and it is expected that other members of the staff will also be recruited from the Town.

Wayland 81, Weston 78

Wayland High basketball team ran its winning streak to 10 for this season by beating Weston Jan. 17 in a fast, free scoring game in the Wayland gym.

Wayland led by 16 points in the third quarter, but an exciting surge by Weston towards the end of the final period was cutting the gap rapidly when the final buzzer sounded.

Fred Tassinari of Wayland had 33 points and Bill Healey of Weston 32.

The result left Wayland on top in the Dual County League, and put Weston's record at 5 wins and 3 losses.

In the preliminary game, Wayland and Weston JV's wound up in a 31-31 tie. In a two-minute overtime period, Wayland scored two foul shots, and the game ended 33 to 31.

WAYLAND—Lieut. and Mrs. Keith McClain of Shaw Air Force Base, South Carolina, announce the birth of a daughter, Susan Elizabeth McClain, born, Dec. 19. Mrs. McClain was formerly Margery Morgan, daughter of the late Charles T. Morgan and Mrs. Morgan. She attended Weston High School.

Archie Cox, P. F. Laughlin, Also To Run For Selectman

WAYLAND—Archibald Cox of Glezen Lane has announced his candidacy for the position on the Board of Selectmen left vacant by the retirement of John W. Leavitt, and it appeared that there would be a three-man contest for the office all the way to the finish.

Third man is P. Francis Laughlin of Pineridge Road, running for Town office for the first time. He is a native of Wayland and a graduate of Wayland High School in 1947. He is 27 years old and is employed at the A & P in Framingham. For a time he studied electronics at Wentworth Institute, and later he was a salesman, traveling over a good part of the United States.

John R. McEnroy, first to announce his candidacy, has long been active in Town politics. Also a native of the Town, he was graduated from Wayland High in 1931. He served five years on the Town Finance Committee and has run twice unsuccessfully for Selectman. He is a salesman for the American Safety Razor Corporation.

Mr. Cox, a professor at Harvard Law School, has lived in Wayland since 1945. He has served on the Zoning Board of Appeals, was an Assessor for three years and is now chairman of the Town Personnel Board. He is president of the Wayland United Nations Association and was formerly head of the Wayland Chapter of the Red Cross.

Outside of Wayland, he is known as an authority on labor relations. During World War II he was an associate solicitor in the United States Department of Labor, and he served in the office of the Solicitor-General of the Justice Department. In 1952 he was appointed chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board, a position from which he resigned to return to the Law School.

In Massachusetts, he has been consulted on labor matters by former Gov. Bradford and by Gov. Herter. He is co-author of the Cox-Phillips anti-injunction law.

Mark A. Marbet of 270 Concord Road also took out papers for Selectman, but at last accounts thought he would not be a candidate. Rumor had it that Frank Carter was also going to run, but he said definitely that he was not.

Archibald Cox

Several Not Up For Re-election

WESTON—A number of present Town office holders, it is reported at the Town House, will not run for reelection this year. The list:

Charles M. Ganson, Selectman; Gerald W. Blakeley Jr., Assessor; Mary C. Nichols and Frances V. Marshall, School Committee; Marjory Blaney, Library Trustee; Walter W. Weld, Park Commissioner, and Merton E. Williams, Commissioner of Trust Funds.

Stone Bridge Hearing, State House, Feb. 9

BOSTON—Rep. James DeNormandie says that a public hearing of his bill to have old Stone Bridge saved as an historical and recreational site will be held at the State House at 10:30 a. m. Thursday, Feb. 9, before the Harbors and Public Works Committee. He says it would help if proponents of the bill would appear.

Dr. Brackett of Westbrook, Me., To Succeed Mr. Gross

WESTON — Anthony G. L. Brackett, superintendent of schools for Westbrook and Gorham, Me., will be the new superintendent in Weston, succeeding Calvin E. Gross, it was announced by Henry J. Burn, chairman of the Weston School Committee. He will take over his new duties on March 1.

Mr. Gross, who has been in Weston since 1951, has accepted a superintendency in the Mohawk Valley of New York State.

Dr. Brackett is a native of Westbrook. He was graduated from Westbrook High School and from Middlebury College. He received his master's degree and a doctor's degree in education at Harvard.

He has done some teaching, but has been an administator at Westbrook and Gorham since 1947. He is 46 years old, and he and Mrs. Brackett have three children, girls of 16 and 15 and a boy of 10. They began looking for a house in Weston.

WAYLAND—A 1955 robin who forgot to go South with the mob has been spending the Winter near a house on Old Connecticut Path. He seemed to have good color, and he survived the snowstorm of Jan. 17.

"Let's Have More Fights"

J. S. Stone, Wayland Leader, Wants More Zip In Meetings

By CAROL FOSTER

"It's true democratic spirit to have as big a fight as you want in Town Meeting, but be friends afterwards", says J. Sidney Stone, who has at various times held posts of Selectman, Assessor, Town Counsel (for 25 years), been a member of the Finance Committee, and Representative in the General Court. Most recently he has been a member of the Board of Public Welfare and a Trustee of the Town Trust Funds, and this year he is retiring after 30 years as a Trustee of the Wayland Library.

"It seems to me that there has grown up in the last 10 or 15 years a feeling that people shouldn't oppose the powers that be. It should be that people feel free to speak their piece, even though they may not express themselves well. They have a right to be considered fairly. I remember one of the last meetings we had in the old Town Hall. There was a terrible row, and it seemed to be considered heinous to oppose the powers that be, growing into a kind of social ostracism. People should feel they have a right to oppose. Then, if you get licked, that should be the end of it.

"I'm a strong believer in the importance of properly choosing local candidates. In the long run this means that people as a whole are properly represented. It is an unfortunate tendency of the times —laziness about taking part in local government."

42 Years In Town

Mr. Stone, who has lived on Lincoln Road, Wayland, for 42 years, is one of a group of public spirited men who have given time and money for the Town. The land on which Wayland proposes to build a new Town Hall was acquired several years ago and given to the Town through the foresight of these men, among them Mr. Stone.

"Edmund Sears was the moving spirit behind the group", says Mr. Stone, which also includes Gerald Henderson, Ned Greene and Francis Shaw.

When Mr. and Mrs. Stone decided to get out of the city and live in the country, in 1914, they looked around and found "an old cow farm" which they liked. Mr. Stone has traced the deed on the house back to 1775, and Mrs. Stone thinks is much older, because of its architectural characteristics. Their house appears on the 1776 map of Wayland as belonging to one Benjamin Adams, whose offspring built nearby houses along Lincoln Road. Stone's Bridge was named for one of Mr. Stone's ancestors.

When the old Pequot, or Wayland Inn was torn down, after the acquisition of the property for future Town Hall use, Mr. Stone took some panelling from it to incorporate into a wing of his house, which he and Mrs. Stone had added to accomodate their daughters, now Mrs. Stacy Holmes of Chestnut Hill, and Mrs. A. Pelham Stevens of Walpole.

When Mr. Stone first arrived in Wayland, the total Town appropriation was "around $50,000". Last year the recommended budget was $942,328.13. As a "watchdog of the Town finances", Mr. Stone believes that "the Town has been kidding itself in recent years in buying things on tick without putting down a fair proportion of the total cost."

J. SIDNEY STONE

Mr. Stone and Hugh Colliton were the original organizers of the Wayland Community Fund. Previously, Mr. Colliton had been in charge of charity dances held annually at Ten Acres. Mr. Stone was the instigator in enlarging these Town affairs, which distributed profits to local charities, to the present Community Chest set up. Mr. Stone was the first chairman of the Community Chest in Wayland, with Mr. Colliton and Edmund Sears heading the first drives.

In Vokes Players

Mr. Colliton says: "Sidney Stone is a man of constructive criticism and original thought. He thinks of the Town, rather than himself, and he has hewed to a line of extreme honesty. He is a true individualist at a time when we usually have egoists or publicity seekers instead."

Mrs. Dorothy Coburn Stone was a member of the Wayland School Committee for 18 years. She founded the District Nurse Association and kept it going until it had proved its worth and the Town took it over. She originally lured Mrs. Mary McNeil, our present district nurse, to Wayland. Both Mr. and Mrs. Stone have in the past been active in the Vokes Players, Mrs. Stone directing, and Mr. Stone "playing minor parts". Mrs. Stone wrote a play, "The Cakebread Mill", the plot of which was based on old Town records, and the play was produced by the Vokes. There actually had been a family here named Cakebread, who owned a mill. Mrs. Stone has been an active member of the Wayside Garden Club. During World War II she served as a "grey lady" at Camp Devens. Mr. Stone is a member of the Wayland Historical Society.

Mr. Stone, whose field is taxation, along wtih trusts and general law practice, has for many years taken at least one law course a year at Northeastern to "keep up to date". He reads considerably, and has read the entire Eliot's Five Foot Shelf.

"People who can inject personality into the Town Meeting are a great help", says Howard Russell, Town Moderator. "It's true that our Town Meetings have become more impersonal, because so many people in the Town don't know each other. The friendly nudges one person could give another, through the Moderator, don't usually occur any more. Mr. Stone acts on the Town Meeting like a light at a crossing — he makes people stop and listen."

"I have a little pickish streak", admits Mr. Stone, who once told Mr. Russell that a Town Meeting went too smoothly. "If this happens again, I'll blow the lid off myself."

Forest & Trail Is Incorporated

WESTON—The Weston Forest and Trail Association, recently incorporated, held its first annual meeting at the Jones House on Jan. 25, when the charter was read, objectives were discussed and officers were elected.

The report to members, signed by Mrs. Frank M. Lewis, president, says:

"We start the New Year on a most encouraging and happy note; Weston now has a Town Forest with two locations.

"A purchase and sale agreement with respect to 147.16 acres in the neighborhood of Highland Street has been signed by the Selectmen and the Trustees under the will of the late Charles J. Paine.

"In addition, certain members of the Paine family have made a most generous gift of a parcel of frontage land on Highland Street which commands the unique view towards Nobscot and the West.

"No less generous, Miss Marion Farnsworth of Exmoor Farms has made a gift of land north of the Boston and Maine Railroad, which will provide the nucleus for a Town Forest area stretching towards Concord Road and Merriam Street. This gift alone will eventually total some 40 acres.

"As of this date (Jan. 7), our Treasury contains $28.95, balance from contributions made last year. However, this amount is already allocated for our incorporation and other expenses. Special contributions, therefore, are now earnestly solicited. One of our particular objectives is to establish a Trail System that will embrace the Town. We believe that this can be done at the present time in such a way that it will not interfere with future real estate development, nor itself be vulnerable to such development . . . . We already have one pledge for $1,000."

Regular dues are $3 a year, 50 cents for students.

Incorporators are Thomas D. Cabot, Roger E. Ela, William A. Elliston, Miss Florence E. Freeman, Stanley G. French, Francis G. Goodale, Victor C. Harnish, Mrs. Glenn N. Lempereur, Mrs. Frank M. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Paine Jr. and Harrison S. Ripley.

Warning

Mr. Donald H. Guild of Natick, president of the South Middlesex Association for Retarded Children, Inc., says that the Association's fund raising campaign has been completed successfully, and he gives this warning:

"No member of our organization, which is the only organization authorized by the State to solicit funds for retarded children, is engaged in fund raising activities at the present time.

"If any . . . are approached by solicitors purporting to appeal on behalf of retarded children, we suggest that they request credentials from the solicitor and that they make inquiry to this organization before making a donation."

Mr. Guild also thanks those who contributed to the fund for the 140,000 mentally retarded children in Massachusetts.

Cochituate Has New Citizens

COCHITUATE—New Citizens of Cochituate, in two ways, are Mr. and Mrs. James Henderson of 16 Maguire Road and their son, Jimmie, an 8th grade student in Miss Sanderson's class at Wayland Junior High School.

James and Jean Henderson, who formerly lived in Montreal and Granby, Quebec, Canada, took the oath of allegiance and were sworn in as American citizens on Jan. 9 in the United States District Court, Boston, before Judge Sweeney.

They live in a new six-room ranch type house which Mr. Henderson built single handed last year. Son Jimmie becomes a citizen by derivation.

Frank Hatch M.C. At Scouts Dinner

COCHITUATE — Francis W. Hatch, honorary vice-president of Algonquin Council, Boy Scouts of America, was toastmaster at the 35th annual meeting held at Framingham, on Jan. 18.

The dinner was attended by more than 200 scouters, about 30 of whom were from Wayland and Cochituate. The Council has grown to about 4500 boys and 1400 adult workers.

W. D. Valentine, of Cochituate, was one of four men to receive the Silver Beaver, highest award for scouters. Mr. Valentine joined the scouting movement with his son in 1917 and has been active ever since. Among the holders of the Silver Beaver who were present at the meeting were George Fullick and Ronald Woods of Cochituate and Francis Hatch of Wayland.

Atty. George F. McGrath of Cambridge was guest speaker. Atty. McGrath's subject was the factors important in delinquency which he listed in the following order: Affection for mother, affection of father, supervision of mother, discipline of father and cohesiveness of family unit.

Weston L.W.V. To Have Town Preview

WESTON—"A Look Into The Future For Weston" will be provided all those who attend the round table discussion in the lower Weston Town Hall on Tuesday, Feb. 14, at 8 p. m.

Weston's League of Women Voters is sponsoring this "Town Affairs Night", at which six Town officers representing as many Town services will discuss plans for the future in their departments. Glenn N. Lempereur, member of the Planning Board, will serve as moderator.

Other participants will be, William R. Dewey, Jr., Selectman; Karl Adams, Recreation Commission member; Maurice L. Upham, Chief of the Fire Department and Building Inspector; Edward Langenbach, member of the Finance Committee, and Dr. Theodore Bayles, member of the School Committee.

Expected discussion will center on needs for straightening and widening of streets, additional water facilities and enlargement of the school system. The Land Use Survey which the Planning Board has recently received from professional sources will be explained and the availability of Town funds for future needs will be outlined.

Coffee and sandwiches will be served following the Round Table. Miss Florence Freeman, League Vice President, is in charge of the meeting, with Mrs. Hector Osmond serving as co-chairman. Everyone is invited to come and learn more about Weston's future.

Weston's Fire Loss $1.29 Per Capita

WESTON—Fire damage in Weston in 1955 totaled $9,041.71, says Chief Maurice L. Upham. This figures out to a per capita fire loss for the year of $1.29, more or less, depending on the exact population. In any case, it's low, comparatively.

Mr. Blakeley To Speak At Men's Club, Feb. 8

The Weston Men's Club will present Mr. Gerald W. Blakeley Jr., Vice President of Cabot, Cabot and Forbes, at its next meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 8, at 7 p. m. at the High School Cafeteria. Mr. Blakeley is a resident of Weston, a fine speaker, and very active in attracting industry to settle and build new plants in the Greater Boston area. His talk is entitled "How the Sales Tax Will Lure Industry into Massachusetts." Following the talk there will be a question period.

At the January meeting was heard a talk by a member of Alcoholics Anonymous. The speaker gave a history of his organization from its inception to the present, followed by his own case history, telling what AA had done for him after he had been an alcoholic for 33 years.

The Club's Annual Ladies Night will be held on Wednesday, March 14. The details of this meeting will be announced in February.

A cordial invitation is extended to all men of Weston to attend our meetings on the second Wednesday of each month at 7 p. m. at the High School Cafeteria with dinner followed by speakers and entertainment.

It is, of course, necessary to notify our caterer prior to the meeting as to the number of meals we require, so we ask that all members and friends who wish to attend please notify either Lea Rafuse at TW 3-5186 or Rudy Helgeson at TW 4-3975 by the Monday preceding the meeting at the latest.

39 WARREN AVENUE, WESTON BLUE TRUCK DELIVERIES SINCE JULY 8, 1919 AMPLE PARKING

Beacon Hill By-Lines

By Rep. Robert Ayers

Governor Herter recently submitted to the Legislature his proposed budget for operating the state government for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1956 and ending June 30, 1957. In it he disclosed that requirements for the coming year will exceed estimated revenues by about $20 million and he recommended, a bit sadly, that this sum be made up by eliminating the provision of the state income tax law which permits Massachusetts taxpayers to deduct from their taxable income the amounts paid the previous year to Uncle Sam in Federal income taxes.

In 1789, Benjamin Franklin, who could get a smile out of the most unpleasant circumstances, said, "In this world nothing is certain but death and taxes." Since his time medical science has so lengthened the average human life expectancy that taxes are rapidly coming into a class by themselves as the only certain thing in this world.

The Governor made it plain that he did not think this would cure all our ills. He outlined his constitutional responsibility for submitting a state budget which was in balance. He explained that most of the increases were required for debt service, or for state reimbursements to cities and towns required by law. He pointed out that only 3 million represented increased cost of state services, occasioned by opening new institutional facilities, notably mental hospital buildings.

What business man has not said to himself, and more loudly to his neighbors, "If those Politicians (note the capital P) would only run the government with the same efficiency I have to use in my business we'd all be better off and taxes would come down"? Every public official wishes he could do just that.

Then why can't he? Let's ignore the fact that the businessman doesn't have to hire some one just because he can barely pass an examination, is a veteran, and therefore goes ahead of all non-veterans regardless of their grades. Let's also ignore the fact that the businessman doesn't have to provide free pensions for disabilities after 10 years service, or free pensions without disability after 30 years service, as our veterans' preference laws provide. Let's assume all things to be equal in the labor market.

So you manufacture mousetraps? Your costs of labor, wood, and wire go up. What do you do? You raise the price of your mousetraps to cover your cost and a fair profit. If you can't sell your product at a profit, or at least break even, you go out of business.

Consider the State. It hires men to work with wood and wire, too. They work on maintaining in good repair all of our various state buildings, hospitals, schools, etc. When the businessman's cost of labor goes up, so does the state's, because the worker still wants to work where he can get the best pay and working conditions. The state pays more, too, for its materials.

But it can neither increase the cost of its product (since it deals mainly with services, not products), nor can it (as many wish it could) go out of business.

The only way the gap is filled is by more taxes, dreadful to say.

This is no help to municipal officials who are clamoring for more and more state aid, especially to help education. The Governor might have tried to be a hero and offer all the local benefits asked for, but he was sensible enough to know that a divided Legislature would not vote the taxes needed, especially in an election year, and he chose to recommend something that might pass rather than run the risk that the state might well be out of business at the end of this fiscal year, if an opposition House of Representatives refused to give him a budget bill!

Costume Dance At D.P.I.A., Feb. 11

COCHITUATE—The D. P. I. A. held its regular monthly meeting on Jan. 15. Following the business meeting, slides were show by Eldon Fox and refreshments were served.

Feb. 4 is the date set for a box social at the clubhouse commencing at 6 P. M. All members are cordially invited to attend.

A costume dance for children, ages 8 to 12 years, will be held at the clubhouse from 6:45 to 9 P. M., Saturday, Feb. 11.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 5.

Wayland LWV Units Hear About Trade

WAYLAND—Hostesses for the Jan. 17 and 18 L.W.V. unit meetings were Mrs. David Stewart, Mrs. Frank Bentley and Mrs. Luther Davis.

General Agreements on Tariffs and Trade and its proposed supplemental arm, Organization of Trade Cooperation, were ably explained by Ruth Zayotti and her International Trade Committee. Both measures are logical outgrowths of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act which was renewed last June until 1958, favoring and implementing trade expansion.

WAYLAND—Mrs. James Sullivan of Orchard Lane is one of three Girl Scout leaders who have been asked to address the American Camping Association at their New England convention at the Statler in Boston on Feb. 3. She will speak on the "Americana Theme in Camping." Mrs. Sullivan is head of the Girl Scouts in Wayland.

Weston People Turn Out For Reception To Nicole Maitre

WESTON—More than 200 persons attended a pretty reception at the Jones House on the evening of Jan. 16 in honor of Nicole Maitre, the Rombas girl now studying at Weston High School. The exercises were recorded and the tape is to be sent to the College de Rombas, the school Nicole attended in France, with commentaries by Mr. George B. Foote.

Nicole, center, is greeting Jonathan Gates, a Junior at Weston High. On her right is George B. Foote, chairman of the Rombas committee. On the right is Mme. Cerisoles, shaking hands with Marion Larkin, Weston High School Senior. (Photo by Stuart Harnish.)

Among the guests were M. Francois Charles-Roux, Consul General de France, and Madame Charles-Roux, and M. Rene Cerisoles, Deputy General, and Madame Cerisoles.

Weston representatives were Mr. George B. Foote, Mr. Wm. R. Dewey Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Bonner, Mr. Julius H. Mueller and Mr. Henry M. Fiske.

Mr. Dewey gave greetings from the Town of Weston to the guests and to the mayor, municipalty and people of Rombas. Mr. Foote sent greetings to the Rombas committee and its president, M. Jean Babin, and spoke about the affiliation. Mr. Mueller of the High School sent greetings to the principal, M. Jean Auffret, the faculty and the pupils of College de Rombas.

Pupils of Weston High School, with Mrs. Theresa M. Zamprogno directing, sang French folk songs.

Nicole herself spoke in French to friends in Rombas, her family and the College, and in English to Weston friends.

M. Charles-Roux spoke in both French and English also, emphasizing Franco-American friendship.

In the course of the evening, Mr. Fiske read a statement to "set the record right regarding the origin of the Weston-Rombas Affiliation, which frequently has wrongly been attributed to Mr. Fiske."

The statement came from Mr. Charles K. Cummings Jr., director of guidance at Weston High School. Addressed to Mr. Fiske, it said:

"At your request, I have recounted the story of how Affiliation came to Weston. As you know, it was Louis Schwab who first told the story and gave us the idea. Then the students of the High School responded to the opportunity with the wonderful spirit of which these younger citizens are at their best capable. The result was one of the achievements which makes work with young people so exciting, and that achievement seems to be entirely worth the effort, and fruitful of better understanding and friendliness."

It began in the early Spring of 1949, the statement continues:

"As faculty representative of the School's Student Council, I brought the matter to them. They were quickly interested, and the Summer of 1949 saw a group of these pupils working with Dr. Schwab and me to plan the presentation of the idea to people of the Town.

"Winslow Cobb was chairman of the student committee, consisting of John Dowd, Peter Green, Helen Johnson, Robert Mosher, Betsy Nichols and Donald Wyman Jr. . .

"In November, 1949, a meeting of some 400 people gathered in Weston High School, and after considerable explanation and discussion . . . . Mr. J. Robert Ayers moved and the meeting unanimously voted a resolution that Weston should at its next Town Meeting (March, 1950) affiliate with the Town of Rombas in the Moselle, France. . . .

"The Town Meeting of March, 1950, voted without dissent in favor of Affiliation. . . . .

"From that point on, Mr. Fiske, as the Chairman of the Weston Committee, appointed by the Moderator, carried on. (Until June, 1953, when he retired from the Committee.)"

Wayland Woman's Club, Feb. 7, 3 p.m.

WAYLAND—Miss Bertha Hughes, director of the educational department of H. P. Hood & Sons, will speak on "After 35 Then What?" at the meeting of the Wayland Women's Club in the First Parish Church vestry on Feb. 7 at 3 p. m. There will be a social hour at 2:30.

Tea will be served by Mrs. E. Brayton Durfee and Mrs. Richard J. Rice, who will be assisted by Mrs. Allan R. Finlay, Mrs. Arthur C. K. Hallock, Mrs. Gerald Henderson, Mrs. Donald Ide, Mrs. Willis F. Johnson, Mrs. Nevin Kather, Mrs. Wado Kelleigh, Mrs. Robert W. Kenyon, Mrs. Walter Lanigan.

Dr. Corey Up For Board of Health Against N. G. Fair

WAYLAND—A new candidate for the Board of Health in Wayland is Dr. David R. Corey of Winter Street, Cochituate, who will be running against Norman G. Fair, a candidate for reelection. Dr. Corey served 3½ years in World War II as a Major in the Army Medical Corps. He came to Wayland in 1946. He has done post-graduate medical study and is a member of many professional and social organizations. Mr. and Mrs. Corey have an 8-year-old son who is attending the Wayland schools.

A Word to the Wives...

By HAL BURKE

KEYED TO TODAY

These busy days — you efficient home planners have introduced your own new theme: Make it practical as well as beautiful. Modern designers and craftsmen have responded to your need by producing furnishings that are elegant, colorful and durable . . . that make a point of practicality; that are especially designed for the way we live today.

A chrome-and-plastic table and chair set provided the starting point for decorating the lovely dining room sketched above. Cloud-grey walls make the room appear to be larger than it really is, and are an effective background for the leaf-green plastic chair covering and gleaming Micalite table top. Heavy cotton net draperies are the exact shade of the wall —produce an uninterrupted background effect.

Simplicity — the room's keynote — is reflected in the sleek polished surfaces of the bleached mahogany storage chest, and the modern adaptation of the hutch. Green broadloom floor covering preserves color unity.

The space-saving table is really a gate-leg. The oval-end drop leaves extend it to ample family and guest size. Micalite top is stain and burn resistant.

Here is a typically modern dining room — beautiful, dutiful and easy to care for.

We're proud of our reputation for dependability and fair dealing, and we intend to do everything we can to maintain it. To that end we will continue to bring you tasteful styling, excellent workmanship, high quality at prices that are fair and right. Come in today!

Sammy White To Speak To Weston Little Leaguers

WESTON—Weston's Little League baseball players will be treated to an outstanding evening of entertainment at the Weston Town Hall on Friday night, Feb. 10. Sammy White, the great catcher of the Boston Red Sox, will be the featured speaker on the program, and all the children present will have a chance to meet and speak with the American League star.

Trophies will be presented to the members of the "Brooklyn Dodgers" team, champions of the 1955 Weston Little League play-offs, and following these awards, movies of the '55 World Series between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees, plus the new film about the Boston Red Sox, will be shown.

This will be a free family entertainment program, presented to foster further interest among the parents and children in the Weston Little League, and the invitation to attend is open to everyone in Weston.

Two teams of the 1956 Little League have already obtained sponsors, with Massachusetts Broken Stone Company and the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company backing them, and sponsors for the other four teams are being sought now.

The members of the '55 Dodgers championship team who will receive trophies are:

Forbes McMullin, Peter Gray, Reed Langenbach, Sam Hawks, Robert Trowbridge, Steven Drowne, Steven Huston, Richard Forte, Chick Russell, Warren French, Warren Vaughn, William Gibson, David MacLeod, John Lord, George McNeil and Douglas Mercer.

Chinese Prints at New Gallery

NEWTON—Original signed prints by Zao Wou-ki, famous Chinese artist who is now in Paris, will be on display through Feb. 11 at the Charles Harris Gallery, 1221 Washington Street, West Newton. Mr. Harris, formerly of Boston, recently opened the Newton gallery.

Mr. Harris offers original picture frames and prints and fine reproductions.

WAYLAND—Paul Finley of Stonebridge Road, went into the Air Force on Jan. 15. A going away party was held for him, with Mary Bullock in charge of arrangements and "greenback" gift, on Jan. 14.

WESTON—Town Treasurer and Collector Helen E. Cutting received a painful knee injury on Jan. 23 when she slipped and fell on the ice while taking some Town mail to the Postoffice.

Community League Musical Program

WESTON—"Rare Songs and Ballads" is the title of the program to be presented on Monday, Feb. 6, at 3 P. M. at the Weston Town House. The Women's Community League of Weston will present Nemone Balfour, a native of Scotland, who studied and appeared both in Europe and in England before coming to this country. She will recreate ballads characteristic of various nationalities, accompanied by her flute and Celtic harp.

Program chairman of the day is Mrs. Charles Y. Chittick, Jr. Tea chairman, Mrs. Asa B. Foster, gave a morning coffee at her home on Jan. 24th to make plans with her committee for the tea which is to follow the program. Her committee includes Mrs. Carl G. Bergstedt, Mrs. Stephen Bissett, Mrs. William C. Brown, Mrs. Ashley A. Farrar, Mrs. J. Ernest Gwilliam, Mrs. Thomas J. Kelly, Mrs. Peter Mansfield, Mrs. Walter M. Maron, Mrs. John E. McKenzie, Mrs. Horace P. Morton, Mrs. Leander F. Rafuse, Mrs. Warren Thornley and Mrs. Ford R. Waugh.

Pourers will be Mrs. John C. Gray, square dancing chairman for the League; Mrs. John H. Bishop and Mrs. Charles J. Paine, Co-treasurers of the Children's Exchange; and Mrs. Thomas A. Tilton, President of the Community League's Book Club.

Florist Change In Cochituate

After Feb. 1, 1956, Lawrence Ekdahl is acquiring the retail trade of the Nelson's Cochituate Greenhouses. This will be in conjunction with his wholesale business which has been established for 30 years. Mrs. Nelson will continue with Mr. Ekdahl as his designer of floral arrangements. A complete line of cut flowers, plants and annuals will be offered.

The Ekdahl Greenhouses are located at 101 West Plain Street, opposite the entrance to Fuller Road.

WAYLAND—Mrs. Carla Di Mora, who's coming from Palermo, Italy, to visit the Wayland League of Women Voters, will be entertained during her stay at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Lincoln, Glover Lane.

Mrs. William D. Manice, Jr., Community League board member, will be a hostess, as will Mrs. Charles G. Ball, membership chairman, and her vice-chairman, Mrs. Thomas T. Craven, Jr. Ushers are Mrs. Richard A. Dobbins and Mrs. James F. Eldon.

Mrs. Stanley G. French, assisted by Mrs. Whitney R. Nolte and Mrs. Eben Wallace, will be in charge of flower arrangements.

Francis E. Hanson

WAYLAND—Francis E. Hanson of Claypit Hill Road, central division traffic engineers for the telephone company, was fatally injured in an automobile accident at Belmont on the night of Jan. 24, as he was coming home from a meeting.

Funeral services were held Jan. 28 at the First Parish Church, Wayland, and burial was in the family lot at Northwood, N. H.

Mr. Hanson, 47, had been with the telephone company for 28 years. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Marjorie L. Hanson.

Registration Of Wayland Voters

WAYLAND—Final registration of new voters for the Annual Town Meeting and election will be held at the Cochituate Branch Library from 12 noon until 10 p. m. on Tuesday, Feb. 14, says Town Clerk Leila Sears.

Registration for the Special Town Meeting was held at Town Hall on January 26. Those not registered by Jan. 26 may not vote at the Special Town Meeting of Feb. 15.

If your pipes freeze, thaw them with hot water, never with a blow torch or burning paper. Too dangerous.

Students At Work At P.T.A., Feb. 6

WAYLAND—Parents will have a chance to watch students at work at the P. T. A. meeting at the High School at 7:30 p. m. on Feb. 6, Monday. Students will be in a mixed choral group, in chemistry and biology laboratories, in art and ceramics and in audio-visual demonstrations.

Coffee and cake will be provided by the Senior class, the proceeds to go to the class fund.

Miss Grannis Flies To Winter Olympics

WAYLAND—Miss Dorothy Grannis, daughter of Mrs. Arthur E. Grannis Jr. of Sudbury, of the Town Crier staff, left by plane on Jan. 23 for the Winter Olympics at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy. Afterwards, she means to accompany the U. S. figure skaters to Germany, and thence to go to France and England. She plans to be gone two months.

Miss Grannis was secretary to Dr. Rexford S. Souder, when the latter was Superintendent of Schools in Wayland, and she has also been secretary to L. Davenport Boyd in Weston.

Heart Fund Program At Health Center

COCHITUATE — The Cochituate Heart Fund plans an interesting program of films for Tuesday, Feb. 7, at 8 p. m., to which the public is cordially invited, according to Mrs. John B. Donner, Chairman. The meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Parmenter Health Center (at the corner of School and North Main Streets), and a discussion period will follow during which Dr. Ernest Damon, Jr., will be present to answer questions.

Feature film of the evening will be the prize-winning "Valiant Heart". This story, delightfully enacted by the residents of Wolfeboro, N.H., tells how the family and community of an 8-year-old victim of rheumatic fever rally to help him through a successful convalescence.

Completing the program will be "Take it Easy," describing how a housewife with heart trouble learns how to save time and effort in her household chores through improved efficiency, and "Pump Trouble," a short cartoon in color.

WESTON—The Women's Societies of all churches in Weston were asked by the American Red Cross to serve coffee to the patients at the West Roxbury Veterans Hospital during January. Each church took a separate Sunday and provided cookies for the patients' coffee trays.

"Capitol Five", Pete Hanson's New Band

WESTON—A new dance band is now available for local dances and parties. Organized about a year ago by Pete Hanson, this band has begun to make frequent appearances at social events around Weston. Their last engagement was playing for a party at the Weston Golf Club.

The musicians include Bill Sawyer on the trumpet, Tom Clarke on the alto sax, Geoff Wager playing the tenor sax and doubling on the clarinet. Paul Chadwick supplies a hot beat with his drums, and Pete Hanson, a student of Phil Saltman, plays the piano.

These local boys, all of whom are students at Weston High, were scheduled for an audition for a Providence T-V program.

WAYLAND—The Mothers' Association are having a meeting on Feb. 9, in the D. P. I. A. Building at 8 p. m. Roberta Jacobs, Parmenter Center Nurse, will speak on the Health Center. A question-answers and discussion period will follow. Refreshments served and public welcome.

WESTON—The Children's Exchange will re-open for business on Tuesday, Feb. 7, after the holiday recess, and will be open every Tuesday through May 29, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. in the Jones House.

A supply of good used clothing is for sale, as well as delicious home cooked food. The public is welcome.

COCHITUATE—D. P. I. A. Clothing Exchanges and Food Sales will be held the first Monday of each month from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M. Clothing is accepted on the same days and the clubhouse on Old Connecticut Path at Pine Ridge Road will be open at 9:30 A. M. Further information regarding the Exchange may be obtained by phoning OL 3-0479 or OL 3-7178.

Cub Pack 1 Puts On Pirate Skits

WAYLAND—Cub Scout Pack 1 had its meeting on Thursday, Jan. 26 at the High School gym. Pirate skits were put on by Dens 6 and 7. The following Cubs received awards: Wolf Badge, Donald Frye; Bear Badge, Keith Van Buskirk; Lion Badge, David Walston, Alden Harrington, John O'Keefe and Steven Dicks. Paul Hagensen received a gold arrow and 3 silver arrow points. Donald Frye received a gold and a silver arrow point. Robert Sampson received a silver arrow point.

Rev. Donald S. Ewing Gets Honorary D.D.

WAYLAND—The honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity was given to Rev. Donald S. Ewing, minister of the Trinitarian Congregational Church, by Portia Law School on Dec. 28. Dr. Margaret Hopkins Bauer, Dean, read the citation, which says:

"Former minister of the Greenfield - Francestown, New Hampshire, Federated Church, and now minister of the Trinitarian Congregational Church, Wayland, Massachusetts. Educated at Aurora College, Aurora, Illinois, at Northern Baptist Theological Seminary, Chicago, Illinois, and Boston University Graduate School.

"Your ministry in Francestown, as evidenced by the respect of the community and the love of your parishioners, was outstanding. In the short time you have spent at Wayland the Church has shown evidence of phenomenal growth.

"By your wise and thoughtful counseling of your members, your public service to the community which you served, and your dedication to your task, you richly deserve the recognition you are now to receive.

"By virtue of the power and authority in me vested by the Trustees of Portia Law School, I hereby confer upon you, honoris causa, the degree of Doctor of Divinity."

Sudbury CD Unit Says Thank You

WAYLAND—W. R. Hulbert, director of Civil Defense, has received a pleasant thank-you note from James L. Devoll, Sudbury C. D. Director, who wrote:

"I am informed that during the recent fire that destroyed the Wayside Inn, a telephone call from your organization for Civil Defense was received with an offer of assistance. On behalf of this organization and the Town of Sudbury, I wish to express our thanks for your offer and for any men who were sent to Sudbury.

"While it was necessary to activate our emergency feeding group and transportation division only during those early hours, it was nice to receive a message while at the scene that other CD units were ready to assist if needed, particularly when Sudbury's equipment and men were covered with several layers of ice and could not have responded to another fire in the Town should it have occurred.

"We certainly hope your Town will not be under emergency conditions. However, should they occur and we can be of any assistance, please call us."

6 School Sites, 213.5 Acres, To Be Proposed At Meeting

WAYLAND—Six school sites, not five, as reported in the last Crier, will be asked for at the Special Town Meeting on Feb. 15, according to the warrant, which was closed on Jan. 16.

The added site is what is known as the Melville Loker property in Cochituate. It includes 25 acres and is proposed as a site for the Town's second Junior High School, for some time in the future.

In all, the six school sites proposed include 213.5 acres. At previous reports, the School Site Committee, on account of various difficulties, didn't know whether it would include the Junior High School site in its list of recommendations.

The Finance Committee says it will name prices at the meeting. It also says land owners involved should be paid the full amount they might expect in the open market.

14 Articles

In all, there are 14 Articles in the warrant.

The first is for the proposed taking of 25.9 acres off Claypit Hill Road, the so-called Schick site, which was turned down a year ago.

Under this Article, the Finance Committee says that it would be better to buy all six sites in a package than to borrow for them separately. It also says that purchase of the land would be as good an investment for the Town as for a private citizen. Moreover, the Finance Committee points out that nearly half the money put into the school sites may be recovered from the Commonwealth under the School Building Assistance program.

Article 7 calls for appropriating $25,000 for plans for a new school. (Of 14 rooms, it is said.) This, the Finance Committee says, is proposed for the Schick site. With speedy action, it is said, this could be ready for occupancy in the Spring of 1957. A second elementary school, it says, on the Loker Street site in Cochituate, could be ready in September 1957.

Article 2 calls for acquisition of 15.4 acres of the Loker Street site, including 1000 feet of 50-foot right of way for a road to connect with Woodridge Road.

Article 3 is for 40.2 acres for an elementary school site at Sherman Bridge Road, near Oxbow Road.

Article 4 is for 13.5 acres for an elementary school site at the South end of Orchard Lane.

Office Building, Too

Article 5 calls for acquiring the Arthur I. Schofield farm, 93.5 acres, on Old Connecticut Path, for a Senior High School. The Finance Committee says it will make its recommendation at the meeting.

Article 6 calls for acquiring 25 acres of the Melville Loker property for a second Junior High School, at some time in the future. The Finance Committee says it will make its recommendations about this at the meeting, too.

Article 8 is on plans and specifications for the proposed new Town Office Building. The Town should go ahead with the project, says the Finance Committee, which says it will give its recommendations on financing the project at the meeting.

Article 9 is to appropriate $10,500 for some unpaid and unforseen bills of the School Department. The Finance Committee recommends passage of the Article.

Article 10 is for some Welfare Department bills for 1953. It appears the Welfare Department had tried to get some patients to pay hospital bills themselves, without success.

Article 11 calls for increasing the School Committee from three members to five. The Finance Committee says it seems like a good idea.

Article 12 is for accepting Melville Place, Pollock Road and other ways, off East Plain Street.

Article 13 is to accept Melody Lane and nearby streets, and Article 14 is to accept streets in Lakefield. No cost to the Town is involved in the last three Articles.

Background

For several years, until a year ago, a School Site Committee had been studying the Town's school needs. Last year it brought in a program calling for acquisition of an elementary school site on Plain Road, another at Rice Road and Commonwealth Road East and a third on Oxbow Road.

At one meeting the Plain Road site was turned down, for lack of a two-thirds vote.

The Site Committee then brought it in again, with the Claypit Hill Road site as an alternative. This time both were beaten, again with a majority in favor but not two-thirds, and the other two sites were not acted upon.

Then the Site Committee resigned. At the Annual Town Meeting of 1955, it was voted to hire Dr. Nicholas L. Engelhardt, an outside expert, to survey the Town's school needs. And after this meeting, a new School Site Committee was appointed.

Dr. Engelhardt's survey, reported in October, called for the ultimate purchase by the Town of 10 school sites, while land is still available. The present Site Committee says it has followed the Engelhardt recommendations as well as it could in recommending the current proposed sites.

Meanwhile, according to recent figures, there will be a big overflow of elementary school children in Wayland this September, and double sessions will be necessary.

WESTON—Girl Scouts will see a movie, Penguin Summer, at 8 p. m. in the Town House, Feb. 4.

Weston Zoning Board Of Appeals

A. J. Beiring of 17 Emmons Street, for a variance to build house and garage at 699 Wellesley Street on less than the required lot size. Granted.

Barbara B. Bradley of 185 Summer Street, to build an addition nearer to the lot line than specified. Granted.

Robert P. Bernard of 15 Laurel Road, to remove topsoil, loam and sod. He had 100 cubic yards of loam left over after his house was built and landscaped. Granted.

Otto Swanson of Corwood Drive, for a variance to build house and garage. Denied.

Emmet P. Foley of 6 Bellingham Street, Newton Highlands, to build a house on Concord Road on a lot of less than specified dimensions. The Board recommended that he buy some adjoining land.

Nancy W. Danforth of 500 Wellesley Street and John B. Paine Jr., trustee. Petitions of both to remove soil and gravel from land bordering the new toll road. The Danforth property is said to contain 74,000 yards of gravel and the Paine piece 3,350 yards. Topsoil will be replaced and the land replanted after the gravel taking. Granted.

Miss Roberta Jacobs, Director of the Parmenter Health Center in Wayland, is a member of the Case-finding Committee of the Middlesex Health Association. The organization is fighting tuberculosis.

Keep woodwork away from steampipes. The woood may eventually carbonize and catch fire, if there is not adequate space for ventilation.

NATICK—"Minifon", the world's smallest recorder, said to be a type used by the F. B. I., is one of the items in the stock of the New England Business Equipment office, recently opened on North Main Street, Natick, by three disabled veterans. The gadget is a little bigger than a cigarette package and is powered by a battery. It will record backyard gossip or fish stories. John Lowery is a manager of the shop.

A hundred fifty-seven millions of farm property went up in smoke in the United States in 1954.

Sylvania Manager, Electronics Expert, Lives In Weston

Col. O. G. Haywood

WESTON—First in his class at West Point in 1936 was Col. Oliver G. Haywood of 18 Columbine Road, now manager of the Waltham Laboratories of Sylvania on Route 128, who has recently been elected a Fellow, the highest grade possible, of the Operation Research Society of America.

Col. and Mrs. Haywood have four children in the Weston schools: Barbara Ann, 10th grade; Betty Jean, 8th grade; Richard W., 1st grade, and Robert C. Haywood, kindergarten. The Haywoods moved to Weston in April, 1955.

Col. Haywood has his degree from West Point, a Master of Arts degree from Harvard and a Ph.D. from M.I.T.

Col. Haywood's work involves solving, by mathematics, problems which used to be left to expert judgment, and confounding by electronics the aiming of missiles by enemy aircraft. He comes from Pelham, N. Y.

Art to be Discussed

WESTON—Whether you enjoy modern art or think you do not, you can find an explanation and interpretation of it at the Weston Town House on Monday, March 5, when the Women's Community League of Weston presents to members and their guests Frederick P. Walkey, first director of the Boston Arts Festival, and director of the deCordova Museum. Mr. Walkey, who believes "There is no mystery in modern art," will show colored slides.

Mrs. Paul N. Carmichael is program chairman of the day. Tea chairman Mrs. Robert J. Wilkes has a large committee to help her serve refreshments after the program. It includes Mrs. J. Robert Ayers, Mrs. L. B. Bishop, Mrs. Lawrence Cugini, Mrs. Robert S. Elliott, Mrs. E. Paul Floyd, Mrs. Clarence Forman, Mrs. Weston Howland Jr., Mrs. Herman Koester Jr., Mrs. Joseph Kelly, Mrs. E. P. Ripley, Mrs. L. Whitman Smith, Mrs. George W. Tomlinson and Mrs. Richard T. Wigginton.

Mrs. Edwin F. Weidig will usher and hostesses from the Board of Directors will be Mrs. Manson Benedict and Mrs. Donald J. Hurley.

Flowers will be arranged for the upper hall and the tea tables by Mrs. John W. Ayer, assisted by Mrs. Lawson T. Hill and Mrs. Ransom U. Rowe.

Pourers will be Mrs. Raymond G. Hastings, an auditor for the Community League; Mrs. Ralph M. Hower, vice chairman of the Community Service and Scholarship Committee; Mrs. Whitney R. Nolte, who has been active on floral decorations, and Mrs. William V. Schevill, a past president of the Communtiy League.

Schools of both Wayland and Weston closed Feb. 17 for the regular one-week vacation.

Troop 52 Wins Bronze Plaque And $25 Check At Scoutorama

WESTON—Troop 52 of Weston won the bronze plaque and the check for $25 at the 8th annual Scoutorama held at the Elementary School gymnasium on Feb. 11 as part of the local observance of Boy Scout Week.

In the competition in scouting skills were Troops 52, 51 and 53, all of Weston. Parents, friends and the general public attended.

Events for Cubs included a uniform race, tug of war and shoe race. Scout and Explorer events were compass relay, knot tying, making fire by flint and steel, making fire by friction, Morse signalling by flags and first aid. Troop exhibits were on display.

Troop 52 won a bronze plaque, to be held for one year. First troop to win it three years in a row gets permanent possession. The first plaque was retired by Troop 52 in 1951, and this was its second win of the plaque in the new series.

Troop 52 won in 1949, 1950 and 1951. Troop 53 won in 1952, then Troop 51 in 1953 and 1954. Troop 52 won last year and now this year.

The $25 check, for the promotion of camping, was given by Weston Post 214, American Legion.

Dr. Fenn Assumes Ministry March 11

WAYLAND—Dr. Dan Huntington Fenn, who has been called to be minister of the First Parish in Wayland will conduct his first service at the church on Sunday, March 11. A fellowship hour will follow the service.

Dr. Fenn, who has been minister of the Unitarian Church in Tucson, Arizona, for five years left Tucson with Mrs. Fenn on Feb. 28 to drive East. They will be the first minister and his wife to move in and reside in the parish's new parsonage on Cochituate Road abutting the church property. The house was formerly owned by William C. Stoddard.

Dr. Fenn was for many years director of the department of the ministry of the American Association and was minister of the First Church in Chestnut Hill.

Wayland Beats Sudbury To Become League Champs

WESTON — Wayland's basketball team became Dual County League champs on the night of Feb. 24 by beating Sudbury, 66 to 46, in the Weston High School gymnasium before a capacity crowd.

Frank Vana played brilliantly for Sudbury, but the whole Wayland team clicked perfectly.

Fred Tassinari and George Richardson of Wayland were named league all-stars, as was Vana.

Weston Town Meeting And Election, Mar. 19

WESTON — The Town election and Town Meeting will be held on Monday, March 19, it has been announced. The polls will open at 12 noon in the Town House, and the meeting will be held in the evening at the same place.

Richard H. Field, the Caucus candidate for Selectman, is opposed by John S. O'Brien, who took out nomination papers.

Polio Shots For All Up To Age 14 In Wayland

WAYLAND — The Board of Health announces that all Wayland school children up to the age of 14 will get free Salk polio vaccine shots, the first around April 1 and the second before July, in the schools.

Pre-school children will be given the same shots at the Parmenter Health Center. Letters will be sent to the parents of all school children. Parents of pre-school children may drop in the Center and get permission cards.

It is explained that parents must give written permission in every case, before the shots will be given. And the Center must know in advance how many shots will be needed, so that it can obtain them from the State.

Town doctors will administer the vaccine. Permission slips should be in by March 10, says the Board.

Weston

Parental consent slips for children eligible to receive free polio vaccine are now being distributed through the schools in Weston. The vaccine will come from two separate sources—one furnished by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis which must be used exclusively for a second innoculation of children who were given their first innoculation while in the first and second grades last May. This vaccine is not available for use by private physicians, and it appears that the only opportunity for these children to receive their second innoculation will be in the public clinics administered by the Board of Health. Any child who has, since last May, received a second innoculation from a private physician will not be eligible to receive another dose in this program. Parents or guardians must sign special consent slips for children eligible for this second innoculation. These slips should be signed and immediately returned to the school department. It is now planned to give the group of children mentioned above their second innoculation during the week of March 12.

At a later date, we are informed, vaccine purchased by Federal and State funds will become available. This will be used to give a first innoculation to infants who may have reached an age when innoculations are recommended, and all other children up to those who were fourteen years of age in October 1955. Parents who have infants and pre-school children may obtain application blanks from the public health nurse, or from the Town Clerk's office. These will also be distributed in the Town Reporter. Whether the parent chooses to have the child innoculated in the public clinic or by their private physician, the slips must be returned to the Board of Health, 324 Washington Street, Wellesley Hills, since the vaccine is available through the Board of Health only.

One Extra House

WAYLAND — Carol Davis of Glezen Lane, out counting noses for the Town for the preparation of the street list, came across a mystery house on Eden Road. It had no number and there was no record of it.

So she rang the doorbell. It turned out to be the house of William S. C. Henry, and it had just been moved from the foot of Haven Lane to Eden Road. It was the only one in Wayland displaced by the Toll Road.

Interesting New Business To Come Up At 2 Wayland Town Meetings, March 7

WAYLAND — Two Town Meetings, the Annual and a Special, are scheduled for the evening of March 7 at the High School Auditorium, with lots of business on the agenda.

The warrant for the Special Meeting, called for 9:30 p. m., has three articles. The first two call for building another elementary school, besides the one voted on on Feb. 15, and the third calls for naming a study committee to look into the work loads of elected Town officers, and report in March, 1957.

In the warrant for the Annual Meeting, called for 7:45 p. m., are 38 articles. These include, besides the budget and routine financial measures, some interesting new propositions. Some of the issues:

Proposed changes in the personnel rules, to give office and clerical workers a 35-hour week, to provide vacations up to four weeks for Town employees with 20 years of service, to provide sick leave and overtime compensation and to raise salaries by $100 a year and hourly wages by 5 cents.

A proposal to pay some money, in cooperation with the Turnpike Authority, to fix the main drain on Commonwealth Road West.

A proposal to have residents call for their Town Reports, in future, instead of having them sent out to everybody. (They say too many Town Reports have landed on the Town dump.)

A proposal to add three full-time police officers, and another to add another radio-equipped police cruiser.

A proposal to have a survey and estimate of the cost of raising Pelham Island Road from the State Road to a point the other side of the bridge over Sudbury River. This road has often been blocked by floods.

Proposals to complete betterment work on Springhill Road and nearby streets, and to have Leary Street in Cochituate fixed up under the Betterment Act, plus a proposal to fix 422 feet of Rich Valley Road.

A proposal that outside experts be hired to re-appraise all the real estate in Town.

And 11 articles calling for rezoning, to establish more business areas in Town. The subject matter of these articles was covered in a big booklet, complete with maps, sent to all voters.

No Unanimity On Bill for Cat Rock

WESTON—Nearly 300 Weston residents attended a public hearing in the Town House on the evening of Feb. 23 on a bill of Rep. James DeNormandie of Lincoln to have the Metropolitan District Commission acquire and operate the so called Cat Rock area, of several hundred acres, in Weston, Lincoln and Waltham.

Opinion seemed to be divided. Some said they were afraid the area would get to be like Waldon Pond on a Sunday afternoon in Summer. Some said the area could safely be left as it is. A few said there'd be more money in it if the land were left for private developers at some time.

Another view was that the Town of Weston might acquire the part of Cat Rock which is in Weston, and administer it without any outside assistance. This would be an area of about 50 acres, and it was said it might be purchased by the Town for around $12,000 to $15,000.

In opening the meeting, Rep. DeNormandie said that this area is one of great natural advantages, that it is unpopulated, and that he thought it should be acquired as an open space while that is still possible. Before long, he said, with the great growth of this part of the Commonwealth, no public open spaces will be left.

No Unanimity

Development would be slow, he said. Roads, picnic areas and bridle paths would be put in. There would be no bathing places.

As for the confusion at Walden Pond, Mr. DeNormandie said efforts are being made to have Route 126 relocated at that point. He said he hoped that the mistakes made at Walden would not be repeated, and that nothing of the sort would happen at Cat Rock.

Part of Cat Rock is so high, it was said, that Town water could not be pumped up to any houses which might be built above a certain level.

One resident said, "I can't see this as a playground for Boston and vicinity."

Another said that residents of the city were entitled to some outdoor space, too.

Rep. J. Robert Ayers of Weston said he thought the bill would never pass the Legislature unless there were substantial agreement on its merits in Waltham, Weston and Lincoln, and that he'd like to know opinion on it.

A speaker said that part of the area, right now, is not in very attractive shape.

No unanimity seemed to develop.

WESTON—Dr. Anthony G. L. Brackett, new Superintendent of Schools of Weston, was scheduled to take over from Calvin E. Gross on March 1.

Warren Valentine Carried The Cochituate Mail For 33 Years

WARREN VALENTINE (Photo by Stuart Harnish)

By Carol Foster

Mail was delivered in Cochituate and North Natick for 33 years by Warren Valentine, letter carrier here, who delivered his good news and bad mostly by foot, occasionally by horse team, and for awhile by motorcycle.

For 15 years from 1910 to 1925, he was also local correspondent for the Cochituate Enterprise, a section of the Natick Bulletin. "I was circulating at the time," he says, "so I could pick up items regularly. They were all ordinary occurrences."

For the past 19 years Mr. Valentine has been a Cemetery Commissioner.

"The first thing that impressed me was that the town had forgotten the cemeteries. The North Cemetery had only one area available for lots and Lakeview was full up. I began to agitate for more land."

Mr. Valentine, along with George (Pop) Fullick, has also worked to get Boy Scouts going in this area. When he wasn't carrying mail, he'd go around town to raise funds and interest in scouting.

Shoe Making

Since 1902, when Mr. Valentine first moved to Cochituate, he has seen the town go through a long "gradual change".

Cochituate used to be a shoe manufacturing town with the biggest plant near the intersection of routes 27 and 30 on Main Street. Mr. Valentine's father was one of many around here who was a home shoe manufacturer.

"This area was dotted with home shops, where people usually worked in teams of three. Parts of shoes would be made up in 24 to 60 pair cases to be taken home to be put together. Originally the factories here made cheap shoes designed for the slave trade. Hundreds of cases were sent to Louisville, Ky. The doom of the business was the invention of factory machines. These specialized machines ended the day of the small shoemaker.

Mr. Valentine and his brothers helped their father, and Mr. Valentine came to Cochituate from Natick at about the time when the last shoe company here was beginning to fight "a losing battle".

"The street railway was running and brought people in from Natick and Saxonville every day. It was a bustling place. Every house that could possibly hold a family was full. Many French Canadians had come here to live and work in the shoe factories. Wayland was then a quiet, agricultural part of Town.

Had a Side Car

After World War I, Mr. Valentine was treated to a war surplus motorcycle, with side car, for mail deliveries. Previous to that time he had been given an allowance for team hire as needed.

His motorcycle, he found, was "made for high speed straightaways and not for 'stepin fetchit' work. It kept getting out of order. One time I left the motor running. The chugging of the machine tipped it over, and after it tipped, it 'crawled' off about 50 feet into a meadow. I found it and rode it out. You know, those things would almost go up a wall if you wanted them to. The only fun I had out of that motorcycle was that at that time cars could only do 50 miles per hour, but motorcycles could do 60. I'd show them, now and then."

Mr. Valentine was born in 1870, grew up in Natick, and was graduated from Natick High School in 1889. He and his wife raised their four sons and two daughters in Cochituate. Now Mr. Valentine makes his home with his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. MacKeen, at 4 Commonwealth Road. The rest of the family are scattered from Mexico to New Jersey.

The first time Mr. Valentine ever heard of Boy Scouts was when his second son, Donald, came to him, asking if he could join a troop in Natick, led by Ferdinand Remele. After Donald had spent two years in Scouts he'd had "such a whale of a good time, I thought there must be something to Scouts." Mr. Valentine was "one of 20 or so who met at Clarence Williams' to see about a local troop. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Benedict (he was School Superintendent here for about 30 years) were in on it too."

For a time Mr. Valentine and Mr. Fullick were the only local sponsors of scouting. Now both Scouts and Cubs are going strong in Cochituate. There are now two Boy Scout Troops. Homer MacDonald, the first Scoutmaster, is now building inspector in Wayland.

One time Mr. Valentine and Mr. Fullick had to raise money to maintain the local Scout membership in the Algonquin Council. "One misty day we went out canvassing, and got only 25 cents. We'd agreed to see everyone in a certain district. The most valued contribution we got was from a widow who was greatly interested. She gave us 15 cents, and that amounted to more than $5.00 from someone else."

Cemetery Commissioner

Mr. Valentine has for a long time been concerned with the local traffic problem, and has tried to urge the town to buy some lots for parking purposes.

Nineteen years ago, when Mr. Valentine first became a Cemetery Commissioner, "No one knew what had gone on before. Early Town records were burned in the Sudbury Town Hall when Wayland was still a part of Sudbury. There were only fragmentary records."

During the past few years all available records have been assembled, and though there are still gaps, the cemeteries are now mapped and plotted on file cards, both by plot and by individuals. This year a large new area of North Cemetery will probably be opened, and in the future a new area in Lakeview Cemetery. Mr. Valentine says there are no outstandingly unusual grave stones in the cemeteries, but that some of the older ones in North Cemetery constitute some of the earliest records of the Town.

Mr. Valentine believes that since both Wayland and Cochituate have become "bedroom towns", the old ill feeling between the two parts of town is "largely done away with except for a few old timers."

Nature Course Begins In April

WESTON — A nature study course, sponsored by the Weston Forest and Trail Association, will be conducted here this Spring by Miss Frances Sherburne, educational director of the Massachusetts Audubon Society, to broaden and extend acquaintance with local woods and wildlife.

The course will include five sessions of two hours each, partly indoors and partly outdoors, to be held on Thursday mornings, April 5, 12, 19 and 26 and May 3. Enrolment will be limited. Fee is $4 for the course for Association members and $5 for non-members.

Further information will be supplied by Mrs. Francis G. Goodale, TW 3-4127.

"Musical Hayride", By Theatre Group

WESTON—"Musical Hayride", by the Children's Theater Workshop, was presented to a large crowd on Friday evening, Jan. 27, and a sell-out audience on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 28, in the Country School auditorium. The show was directed by Mercedes Bassett and Marjorie Gimber.

Debbie Viles drove the hay wagon on stage and the children climbed on board to sing "On Top of Old Smokey" and "She'll Be Coming 'Round the Mountain." There was singing and dancing and Stephen Brooks sang "Home on the Range." The whole performance was entertaining and delightful.

Ushers were Judy Nilan, Joanna Bartlett, Mithi Brooks, Jane Gross Brenda Rawding, Debbie Tappan, Lorna Seavey and Sandy Williams.

Lillian Begley and Miriam Hurley were chairmen of the play committee; Barbara Viles, ticket chairman; Honey Howe, properties; Betsy Wigginton, costumes; Don Hurley, Jr. lights; and Virginia Ayers and Debby Williams, music. On production were Sally Hartwell and Harold Johnson, Mead Hartwell, Daniel Viles, Winslow Sears, C. F. Gimber, Harold Lingley, Richard Wigginton and David Greenlie.

Carter Bottjer, Betty Fitzgerald and Betty Townsend did the makeup.

Weston People Active In Hospital Campaign

The half million dollar Waltham Hospital Campaign was "kicked off" Tuesday night at a dinner for 750 volunteer campaign workers at the Wal-Lex Rollerway in Waltham. At the dinner, workers received instructions and selected cards of those individuals they wished to contact during the campaign.

Among many Weston residents active in the campaign is Nathan I. Greene, campaign chairman. Working with Mrs. Charles O. Richardson, sectional chairman for Weston women in the campaign organization, are Mrs. Frederick C. Dumaine, Jr., Mrs. Victor C. Harnish and Mrs. William T. Van-Huysen. As majors these women are responsible for 15 teams of volunteer workers. These teams, of five volunteers each, are directed by the following captains: Mrs. David H. Reid, Mrs. Herbert Nelson, Mrs. R. S. Ellis, Mrs. Harold Adler, Mrs. Edward Mooers, Mrs. Henry Merrill, Mrs. Carl Hoar, Mrs. Edward Hubbard, Mrs. Shaw Smith, Mrs. Gordon Wheeler, Mrs. L. M. Sargent, Mrs. David Little, Mrs. David Coburn, Mrs. D. S. Thrall and Mrs. Erlund Field.

The campaign which continues until March 16, has as its goal the expansion and modernization of Waltham Hospital. Prominent in future plans of the hospital are the construction of new surgical, maternity, pediatric and outpatient facilities. Other improvements will be made in several of the older wards of the hospital.

Kiwanis Club Meetings

WAYLAND— Wayland Kiwanis met on Feb. 7 at the Red Coach Grill to hear Bill Eagleson, field scouting executive, speak on the wonderful things Scouts are doing and their contributions to society. Mr. Eagleson paid special tribute to "Pop" Fullick, who has been active in local scouting since its inception.

The speaker on Feb. 14 was Rev. William J. Carty of St. Ann's Parish. Father Carty spoke on the mysteries of the Mass as celebrated in the Roman Catholic Church. This subject was chosen in connection with Brotherhood Week. The Kiwanis expect to visit a Catholic church in a body some time during this year.

Dr. Bernard Stecher, local optometrist, was inducted as the second new member of 1956 by immediate past president, Clayton Morrill. One of the guests was local postmaster Thomas E. Hynes.

The speaker on Feb. 21 was Lieut. Campbell of South Lincoln, who is stationed at the guided missile post in Lincoln.

First Baptist Church Starts Organ Drive

The Organ Improvement Committee of the First Baptist Church of Weston, in response to a unanimous motion by the church at the annual meeting, Jan. 31, met Sunday afternoon, Feb. 19, to outline plans to raise sufficient funds to improve the church organ. Organ pipes will be purchased by children, young people and adults who share in this significant endeavor. The goal of $10,000, has already been partially achieved as a result of memorial gifts of $1500 and the expectancy of two legacies amounting to $1,250. Members of the Organ Improvement Committee are: Chairman, C. Francis Whittemore, Mrs. C. Francis Whittemore, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Russell, Miss Constance Burrage, Mrs. Erlon Merrill, Mrs. Rudolph Helgeson Jr., Mr. William Rinehart, Mr. Wallace Sawyer, Mr. Stephen Colpitts, Miss Jeannette Rayner, ex-officio, and the pastor, ex-officio.

Plan Sunday Matinee For "Mrs. McThing"

"A delectable, imaginative fable, with a moral for parents", is the theme of the play "Mrs. McThing" which will be presented by the Vokes Theatre Group for four evening performances on March 16, 17, 23 and 24, with a matinee on Sunday, March 18, at 3 o'clock. This is a special performance for children from 7 to 12 years of age, who will be admitted for half price. Adults may attend this matinee at the regular price.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Robert Paine EL 8-2435; Mrs. Francis Fisher, EL 8-2978; Mrs. Arthur Grannis, HI 3-2374, and the Weston Studio of Interior Decorating, TW 4-3240.

University Women Will Meet In Wayland March 7

WAYLAND—The newly formed West End suburban branch of the American Association of University Women will meet March 7, at 8 p. m., at the home of Mrs. David Bailey, Red Barn Road, Wayland. Mrs. Juan Montermoso, who is on a year's leave of absence from the United Nations, will speak on "The Philippines, Its Education and Culture".

Those interested in attending may call Mrs. A. H. Woodcock, EL 8-2217. College graduates are invited to join. This branch includes Wayland, Cochituate, Weston, Lincoln, Concord, Sudbury, Framingham, Natick and other communities west of Boston.

Garden Interest Club To Hear Talk On Bulbs

WESTON—The Garden Interest Group of the Community League will meet Monday, March 12, at 8 p. m. at the Jones House. A representative of De Gager & Sons will speak on "Spring Bulbs". Mrs. Harold T. Wilson will be chairman.

The Garden Interest Group is having a plant sale. The supplier is Arrowhead Gardens, R. N. Elwell, proprietor. Orders must be sent to Mrs. Thomas D. Dennehy, 122 Laurel Road, before March 26. Checks should be payable to Women's Community League of Weston. Plants are to be called for Friday, May 25, between 10 a. m. and 6 p. m. at "The Barn", 293 Boston Post Road.

For Planning Board

Bruce F. Kingsbury

Bruce F. Kingsbury of 7 Goodman Lane, candidate for Wayland Planning Board, has been serving as an appointed member. He was born in Worcester in 1922 and grew up in Shrewsbury, where he attended the public schools for 10 years.

He spent two years in Worcester Academy and Williston Academy and was graduated from M.I.T. as a bachelor of science in engineering. In World War II he was a Lieutenant, jg, for three years, in minesweeping service.

He taught mathematics and science at Milton Academy and Lowell Institute, spent two years in research at the M.I.T. Metallurgy department, spent a year with Sylvania and has been an administration officer at M.I.T. for the past 4½ years.

He was married to Rosalind Goodhue of Ipswich in 1944 and has three sons, two of whom are now in Wayland schools. He is interested in boating, athletics and handicrafts and is now building his own home, which he says is about three-fourths finished.

Streets, Schools and Other Growth Problems Aired at LWV Meeting

WESTON—Town Affairs Night brought a capacity audience to the open meeting of the League of Women Voters of Weston in the Lower Town Hall on Tuesday evening, Feb. 14.

Miss Florence Freeman, Vice President and Local Affairs Chairman, presided. She explained that this program represented a culmination of two months study in the League unit meetings, and that now a panel of experts would give their opinions and ideas as to the problems of the Town and their solutions.

Moderator of the panel was Glenn N. Lempereur, who represented the Planning Board. The other participants were Edward R. Langenbach of the Finance Committee; William R. Dewey Jr. from the Selectmen; Dr. Theodore B. Bayles from the School Committee; Maurice L. Upham, speaking for the Fire Department and concerned primarily with the health and safety of Weston residents; and Karl E. Adams speaking about recreations problems and facilities. Following the presentation, a long question period brought out additional aspects.

Like all towns and cities, Weston is likely to present in the next few years as well as in the long run a number of difficult problems of growth in school population, due to increased number of houses. Mr. Lempereur said that the Planning Board more than a year ago had hired Allen Benjamin from Wayland, expert on town planning, to make a survey, based upon which the prediction is that at the probable rate of 100 additional houses a year Weston's population may reach 19,000 in 35 years, with the conservative estimate at 14,500.

The panel members, representing their particular fields, brought out the need for gradual widening and straightening of roads. They admitted that the location of the shopping center presented difficulties in trying to enlarge it to meet new needs, because of a ledge on one side and a swamp on the other. Growth of the Town will require seven more classrooms by 1959 and 14 by 1961. Solution might be in terms of two small schools at opposite ends of the Town, or another large school.

The recreation program has grown rapidly and will be organized around the location of the schools. A new firehouse is needed on the south side, the part of the Town that may expand rapidly in the near future, and eventually there will be a need for a new police station.

Question as to financing these additional facilities brought out discussion of the present large Town debt and the advisability or not of bringing industry to Weston. As Mr. Lempereur stated, there is no easy solution, and careful long-range planning is essential in order to spread the costs over a period of years, as well as to maintain the character of Weston as a highly desirable residential area.

For School Committee

Charles W. Brennan
(Peter Besh)

Charles W. Brennan, 127 State Road East, is a candidate for the School Committee of the Town of Wayland.

Mr. Brennan has lived in Boston, or its suburbs, all his life, and has been a resident of Wayland for the past 10 years. He was educated at Boston Latin School, Boston College School of Business Administration and Boston College Law School. On graduating from Law School he was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar and more recently was admitted to practice in the United States District Court. As a practising attorney, he is a member of the Boston Bar Association and Massachusetts Bar Association, and is active in his Law School's Alumni Association.

For the past 22 years, Mr. Brennan has been employed by the New England Electric System in various financial capacities and is presently a tax attorney for this organization.

Mr. Brennan is married to the former Margaret Hayes of Wakefield, whose father, for many years, was a principal in the Wakefield school system.

The Brennans have two daughters: Ann, 7, who attends Happy Hollow School, and Carol, 18 months.

Planning Board

WAYLAND — The Wayland Planning Board, Frederick G. Perry Jr., chairman, circulated a 24-page booklet in Town to explain a number of articles to appear in the warrant for the regular Town Meeting of March 7, calling for an expansion of business zones.

Mr. Perry says the proposed changes would add seven acres of business room in Cochituate and nine acres in Wayland. He says the Board's feeling was that the Town was practically strangled for business space and that a larger area, suitably restricted, would be to the good.

A picture on the back page of the booklet shows a possible development of stores or light industries in the corn field between Pelham Island Road and State Road East. Mr. Perry says this picture represents only an idea. Nobody has appeared yet to seek such a place. The land is good for farming but low for building, and would need perhaps eight feet of fill to make it buildable. It has been under water in floods.

Mr. Perry says that adopting the proposed zoning changes wouldn't necessarily mean that businesses would move in at once. It would only mean that they could, and that residences could not be built in the designated areas. And anybody wanting to set up a business would have to make his own purchase arrangements with the present owners of the land.

New Candidate

(Peter Besh)

Joseph F. Laughlin of Pineridge Road is running for the Board of Public Welfare in Wayland against Carlisle D. Scotland, long prominent in Town, who is up for re-election. This is Mr. Laughlin's first try for public office.

Pack 51 Gets Badges

MADE FOR EACH OTHER

Small dining rooms and Maple drop-leaf tables! If you enjoy the old-fashioned charm of a Provincial dining room, you can achieve it authentically and effectively with Maple furnishings.

Gone are the prim, stiff dining rooms of yesterday that were just a place to eat . . . with a massive buffet and a huge table that practically filled the room. Our more casual living now demands that our dining rooms serve as rooms for day-long living, and the decoration and furnishings must be planned accordingly.

Color, first in importance, should be prompted by the predominating color in the adjoining rooms to give an effect of continuity. Bring this color in by painting a dado a few feet up the wall as shown in the sketch above. Wallpaper the upper section in a gay, colorful pattern, preferably a warm contrasting shade.

In this setting arrange a Maple Drop Leaf table to save space and leave traffic lanes free, and Maple Ladder Back or Captain's chairs. Deck a new, smaller version of Grandma's Maple Hutch with your precious old silver and hand-painted china, and you have a room to be happy in . . . for sewing, study and gracious dining.

Helping you plan a lovely, livable home is one of the most pleasurable things about our business. We are always happy to have you come in, browse around and make leisurely selections. We offer only the finest in home furnishings at prices that are right.

Wayland Buys 6 School Sites, Votes Town Office Building

WAYLAND—Voters at the Special Town Meeting of Feb. 15 shot the works.

They bought six school sites, totalling 213.8 acres, for $150,000.

They authorized a new Town Office Building to cost $315,000 and be the best and most modern thing of its kind in Massachusetts.

They voted $25,000 for plans for a 14-room elementary school on Claypit Hill Road, to be finished by Spring, 1957.

They voted to increase the number of School Committee members from three to five. They paid up Town bills and they accepted 10 new streets.

There were 14 Articles in the Warrant and all were approved, most of them unanimously.

Dr. Nicholas L. Engelhardt

Two standing votes were taken. One was on the question of buying the Orchard Lane elementary school site. The vote was 503 for, 17 against. On the question of buying the Schofield Farm, 93.5 acres, for a Senior High School site, there was some debate, but the vote was still the necessary two-thirds, 369 to 149.

John Marshall of the State School Building Assistance Commission said it was the only time, so far as he knew, that any Massachusetts Town ever bought six school sites at once. He said he thought all the sites chosen were good ones, and that he thought the Town had been wise to acquire them.

Mr. Marshall's opinion is important, because his Commission is the one which must approve the State aid for new Town school building. At Town meeting, it was said that Wayland may expect to get back approximately 50 per cent of the cost of each new school from the State.

Another piece of school news announced was that there will be a Special Town Meeting in connection with the regular Town Meeting of March 7, at which there will be a request for $25,000 more for plans and specifications for another elementary school to be built on the so-called Loker site in Cochituate. This school would be scheduled for occupancy by September, 1957.

The other schools, it was said, are not to be built immediately. The main idea, as put forward by Dr. Nicholas L. Engelhardt in his famous report, was to get hold of the land now while it's available, before it's all covered with houses. Dr. Engelhardt listed 10 sites altogether, and the Site Committee said it will continue its work and line up the remaining four.

Long Range Planning

Thus the foundation of the Town's School system seems to have been laid. Dr. Engelhardt set out to map a program to fill the needs of Wayland up to its maximum possible population, which, the Planning Board thinks, will be between 15,000 and 18,000. With the six new sites, the existing sites and any new ones which may be acquired, there will be ample room to build all the schools the Town should ever need.

And if something happens and the expected growth does not occur, it was pointed out, the Town still owns some good real estate.

The same long range planning was done in the case of the Town office building.

The idea was to get a modern building big enough to fill all the needs of a Town of 17,000. Presumably, therefore, this one will not have to be enlarged or replaced as Wayland grows.

Another revelation was that the Town is in pretty good financial shape, in spite of everything. Of the total cost of the office building, $45,000 was appropriated in 1954. From the Town's excess and deficiency fund (surplus) will come $200,000, and the remaining $70,000 will be raised by taxation this year. Thus there will be no borrowing whatever.

The tax rate, said Chairman Robert M. Morgan of the Finance Committee, will rise to just under $60. The school sites and the new schools will be paid for, it is proposed, by bond issues. Offsetting the new expenses, in a measure, will be the present annual increase of $1,000,000 in valuation, which keeps bringing in additional tax revenue.

One By Eminent Domain

The sites:

Claypit Hill Road, 25.9 acres, $16,500; Loker Street, 15.5 acres, $13,950; Orchard Lane, 13.7 acres, $13,750; Schofield Farm, Senior High School site, 93.5 acres, $60,000; Melville Loker property, Junior High School Site, 25 acres, $35,000, and Sturgis property, off Sherman Bridge Road, 40.2 acres, $10,800. Prices were agreed on with all the owners except one, and it was indicated that the Town will use the process of eminent domain in that case.

The Site Committee: Lewis W. Avard, chairman, and L. William Bertelsen, John B. Butler, Mrs. Richard A. Howard, B. W. Johnson Jr., Wallace F. Jones, Bruce F. Kingsbury, Thomas F. Linnehan and Mrs. Mark A. Marbet.

Members of the Town Office Building Committee are John W. Leavitt, chairman; Clifton Haynes, W. R. Hulbert, Richard H. Burchill, Robert M. Morgan, Frederick G. Perry Jr. and Herbert R. Fallgren.

Town Moderator Howard S. Russell presided.

Don't hang extension cords on nails or wrap them around pipes. Possible short circuits.

Shovel Out Your Mail Box, Asks Tom Hynes

WAYLAND — Postmaster Thomas E. Hynes put out this warning:

"It is the duty of patrons who want rural delivery to keep the approaches to boxes cleared after snowfalls. Otherwise, delivery of their mail will be temporarily discontinued and mail returned to the Postoffice.

"The carrier is not required to leave his car to deliver mail to boxes, nor is he required to wreck his car trying to reach the boxes."

This warning referred to the conditions after the eight-inch snow of Feb. 18.

Sammy White Speaks To L.L. Baseball Crowd

WESTON—Sammy White of the Red Sox appeared at the Little League Baseball sports night at Weston Town House on Feb. 10 and spoke to a capacity crowd. He talked about the Red Sox chances for 1956 and about the benefits of Little League baseball.

Trophies were presented to members of the Dodgers, winners of the of the 1955 league championship.

Frank Woods, LLB Commissioner, thanked the townspeople for their support and congratulated the players on their fine showing. He also commended Dodger manager Kim McMullin and coach Jack Lawrence, whose team won the title two years in a row.

Rummage Sale At 1st Parish Mar. 17

WAYLAND—A real old fashioned Spring rummage sale will be held at the First Parish Church in Wayland Center on Saturday, March 17. The hours are 10 a. m. to 2 p. m.

Clothing of all sorts from cradle to the grave, bric-a-brac, toys, household wares and books will be on sale at rock bottom prices.

Persons desiring to have clothes and rummage picked up may call Mrs. Charles Gaston Smith Jr. at EL 8-2039.

Uncle Dudley Praises Wayland School Vote

Wayland's action in voting to buy six school sites and to build a new Town Office building was applauded by Uncle Dudley of the Boston Globe in an editorial of Feb. 17, which said:

"Here was action imaginative, dramatic, far-seeing and practical. It is worth emphasizing because it must impress, and may help to guide, other suburban towns with growth problems."

The Christian Science Monitor also had a Page One story which treated the Wayland vote in complimentary fashion.

Lateef Writes Again —
He Picked Weston Because Mass. History Impresses Him

WESTON—Lateef B. Giwa of 4 Evans Street, Lagos, Nigeria, whose letter asking for pen pals in Weston was printed in the Jan. 5 Crier, says he picked Weston out of all towns in the United States to write to, because:

"I was eager for pen friends in United States of America. I consult one of my friends who gave me about four publishers' address to choose anyone I like. In doing so, I did not know which I should choose really, but I was very fortunate to remember what I had read in history about Massachusetts, which impressed me more than others . . . .

"I did not write to any other town than yours, but I would welcome letters outside the Town, even any part of the United States. . . .

"But you should not be surprised that anybody in Nigeria ever heard of Weston. For there are many American books in the Library which can be read about any part of America. I have read in a certain book in the Library about Boston . . . ."

As may be gathered, the Crier was the first to write to Mr. Giwa, partly from curiosity as to how the fame of Weston ever spread to Nigeria. It turns out that Lagos isn't so far away, after all. Only eight days, by air mail, and only 10 or 12 cents if the airmail folder is used.

And John Gunther, in one of his recent "Inside" books, reports that Nigeria is bigger than Germany, has 31,000,000 inhabitants and a lively independence movement.

The stamp on the second letter shows an African head, the neck in a high, close collar, and a tall headdress. The inscription underneath is "Ife Bronze", and underneath that, "Nigeria".

* * *

WAYLAND — A Country Box Supper Social is to be held in Fellowship Hall, March 2, at 8 p. m., sponsored by the Senior Pilgrim Fellowship. Each lady is to bring a box lunch for two. An award is to be given for the most unusual and attractively decorated box. A sample menu for a box might be sandwiches, potato salad, pickles, olives, fruit and cookies. Coffee will be served by the Pilgrim Fellowship.

An auctioneer will begin bidding on the boxes at $1.00 but only 10% of the bid need be paid. The gentleman buying the box gets to eat the lunch with the lady whose name must be inside the box.

Group games and community singing will follow the supper. Everyone is welcome to an informal evening of fun.

In the attic of the old Smith Tavern, now the Jones House, in Weston, used to be a secret room where certain members of the community would meet on Sunday mornings to play cards and drink rum, while the minister was preaching in the church right across the street. In spite of this iniquity, says the Town chronicle, in later life many of the gamblers "were overtaken with great worldly prosperity".

Weston Has a Reading Program From Kindergarten Through High School

Beginners Are Asked To Share Knowledge

The program for the kindergarten child has certain goals and objectives. He must adapt himself to the techniques of group behavior, of working and playing together. He is encouraged to share his knowledge with the group, whether it concerns animate or inanimate objects.

The child shares and builds a good speaking vocabulary through many first hand experiences, such as excursions to the woods; to the mail box to mail a letter; or to the fire station to see the equipment on a fire truck.

In this way the child builds many meaningful concepts. The printing on the mail box, the sounds in the woods, the sizes and shapes of the equipment on the fire truck all help develop the visual and auditory perception of the individual child.

He becomes skilled in seeing likenesses and differences in simple forms and objects. He sees his friend wearing red shoes similar to his own. In the group collections he soon learns to discriminate between sizes, shapes, color and texture. Experience and story charts give additional opportunity to identify words with objects in left to right sequence.

Nursery rhymes help the child become sensitive to rhyming words. He has the concentration of puzzles, the problems of block building. He learns to handle books and is encouraged to listen and retell many stories through dramatization and conversation. Thus, the kindergarten child learns to think and successfully meet the challenge of more formal reading experiences.

"There Is Truly No One Approach to Reading"

Reading is a development process. The first grade reading program calls for careful planning and organization. The readiness work which was started in the kindergarten continues according to the need of the individual. Just as some children walk earlier than others, some children are ready to read before others. The amount of reading readiness to fit the need of the individual child cannot be over emphasized.

Experience charts, the classroom newspaper and individual stories all help to cultivate a real interest in beginning reading. To meet individual rates of progress small groups are formed, and thus reading growth is facilitated.

There is truly no ONE approach to reading. Much of a child's early success in reading depends upon his ability to master an initial vocabulary of sight words. It is this ability to identify sight words that enables him to read his primer stories and meet with a feeling of success early.

During the first grade the child learns many ways of attacking new words, among which are how to unlock words phonetically, how to identify new words through meaning clues and how to use structural analysis; such as, adding "s, 's, ed or ing" to known words, and also identifying two known words making a compound word.

All these help to strengthen the concepts and understandings which lead to the two fundamental goals, reading for meaning and reading for enjoyment.

When Child Is Lost In Book, the Cause Is Won

When a child enters the intermediate grades, his cumulative record and informal tests help the teacher to place him in a reading group on the level where he will profit most. There may be a range of ability from third to ninth grade. This makes it necessary to have a flexible and varied program.

Work-study skills are developed, such as the use of alphabet, dictionary, index and table of contents. Children become acquainted with reference books of many types.

Skimming, thorough-type reading and outlining are taught in connection with social studies and science.

Speed of reading is important. An effort is made to check habits such as moving the lips, eye regressions, word by word reading and finger pointing.

Vocabulary building and phonics are a part of the program. Analyzing a new word in a paragraph and discovering the meaning through context are aids to comprehension and speed.

Above all, children must discover that reading is a pleasure, if it is to be a part of their recreation. Attractive books should be in evidence on many reading levels. The teacher may read a chapter to arouse interest.

The Weston Public Library has augmented the school books. Miss Mosher will select books on the child's reading level.

When a child is so interested in a book that he does not hear you call, the cause is won. A boy who used to dislike reading was heard encouraging a friend. "I never used to like reading, but the more you read the better it comes."

Some Find It Hard To Read—Cause Not Known

There are a number of children with normal or superior intelligence, with good backgrounds and excellent training, who find it extremely difficult to learn to read. The cause of a reading difficulty has not been established, and there is considerable disagreement among those who have studied the problem. Emotions, personality and language ability, or the handling of words in reading, writing and spelling are considered possible reasons.

Most cases of severe reading disability are recognized by the end of the first grade and remedial procedures are put into effect at the beginning of the second grade. Small group instruction is given daily for a one half hour period, the pupils remaining in their own classrooms during the rest of the day. The phonetic approach is emphasized.

Emotional factors often enter when failure is evident to the child as well as to the adult. Scholastic failure becomes a cause of anxiety and, when defeat sets in, learning is slowed to a snail's pace. Re-establishing confidence is a prime factor in remedial work.

There are various degrees of reading difficulty which may cause a student, as he proceeds into the higher elementary grades, to read below his capacity level. Improvement in reading skills such as comprehension, speed and word analysis are aided by remedial classes.

12-Year-Olds Practise Reading Every Day

A program aimed to increase reading skills and, equally important, reading enjoyment, among 12-year-olds of varying ability is a many-sided offering. If their present range of capacity varies from high second grade to easy fifth grade material, a wide variety of reading matter is needed. No single text is adequate. No single subject absorbs the interest of all. Little material written for beginning readers offers any incentive to children whose normal social interests are those of a junior high school student. Much stimulating material is needed combining high interest with lower level vocabulary.

A prime requisite for such a group is a friendly, unpressured atmosphere where each effort is measured only against past performances of the individual. All progress is good and warrants favorable notice by the group.

During a single day in a group of 17 girls and boys, each one will have practice in reading silently, reading aloud, writing a coherent sentence and spelling common words, and these activities will have meaning for him because they are set up within a framework of seventh grade subjects: arithmetic, science, geography and English.

Parents play a major part in encouraging the child who has found reading a difficult path. The public libraries can lend many books of desired reading level, for recreational reading should always be in material easy for the reader.

The so-called handicaps tend to disappear for the child as successful experiences follow a day by day use of books. The child who can lose himself for an hour in a good book has reserves that can never be taken away.

Teaching of Reading Is A Continuing Process

Before World War I practically everyone assumed that children entering high school needed no further instruction in reading. They had been taught the fundamentals, and that was that! Today all realize that no pupil starting in seventh grade is mature enough to acquire all the reading skills to meet his school and vocational needs. It is a continuing, virtually endless, learning process.

The responsibility for teaching reading in a departmentalized system of the High School rests upon all the teachers within the requirements of their subjects. In Weston each subject teacher is aware of the need for adequate instruction in comprehension of subject matter which is read as part of the requirements of the course, and provides extensive vocabulary drill.

All this must be considered as informal reading instruction. The English teacher, however, has a very special responsibility for teaching reading. He has the responsibility of developing the basic skills and training young people in the different types of reading. We call this development reading and not remedial.

Each child is taken at his own level and is given the necessary instruction and drill to enable him to better attain the skills of comprehension, rate of reading, vocabulary development and other specific aids to better reading.

Somewhere it has been said that if a woman has charm, she doesn't need anything else; and if she doesn't have it, nothing else matters. Likewise, if a student has learned the pleasure of reading, it will not be too difficult to teach him the art of getting experience and information from the printed page. Until, however, he has learned the pleasure of reading, he will learn very little of what we try to teach from books.

Developmental Reading Comes in High School

What Is Developmental Reading?

On any level of the educational program, an effective reading plan is essentially developmental in nature, i.e. it develops the student's powers or changes his attitudes toward himself and the world around him. At Weston High School, our philosophy concerning this tool subject is a two-fold one:

1. To teach each pupil to read for information and for pleasure.
2. To encourage and motivate him to develop his reading interests and abilities as far as we can.

For all practical purposes, developmental reading differs from remedial reading in the degree of pupil retardation. Clearly, remedial reading which calls for specialized knowledge and techniques is best left to people trained in this field. Recent studies reveal that even in English classes where pupils are comparable in terms of ability and vocational interest, reading abilities range from four to six grades. Therefore, it is necessary that all academic teachers recognize an individual student's weakness and strive within the limits of the subject to further his reading ability.

Signs of Inefficient Reading

Specifically, what common reading errors do our teachers try to detect and correct? On the basis of experience and research, the following reading deficiencies may be corrected through planned exercises in the English classroom:

Failure to comprehend meaning,
Wandering of attention,
Reading word by word,
Re-reading of words,
Lip-reading,
Laziness.

First, the teacher determines the individual reading errors of his pupils through observation and testing. Assuming he has spotted one or more of these weaknesses, what now? Motivation! Correct motivation pays rich dividends for the simple reason that no teacher can really teach until the pupil is ready to learn. Perhaps the most meaningful form of motivation is a class discussion on the practical values of effective reading. In college bound classes, we point out that college students are expected to know how to:

1. Skim through many source materials,
2. Read rapidly through chapters of various texts,
3. Study carefully the material in basic texts,
4. Analyze and correlate all the assigned reading material.

In general English groups, often the most difficult to motivate, we stress that accurate and rapid reading are considered of prime importance for success in such diversified agencies as:

Business schools,
Industrial schools,
Business firms,
Armed Forces.

After observation, testing and motivation, individual conferences are held and specific weaknesses revealed. One child may understand what he reads, but he reads 80 - 100 words per minute where he should be reading 250 - 300 words. Others may have vocabulary levels so low that they understand very little of what they read. Thus, each pupil is made aware of his own basic reading status. If the problem is one of severe retardation (two or more years below grade level) or one which stems from organic or psychological factors, our teachers report the matter to the chairman of the English department who in turn brings it to the attention of the guidance director.

Candidates For Town Office Polled By Wayland League

As a public service, the League of Women Voters of Wayland, a non-partisan organization, has asked each candidate for a contested office in the coming Town election to submit an answer to the following question: "For what reasons are you seeking election to the local office for which you are a candidate?"

Each candidate was requested by registered letter to limit his answer to 100 words and return it by Feb. 19. These answers, except for those candidates who did not reply, are printed below in the words of the candidates themselves. The League of Women Voters of Wayland hopes that the readers of The Crier will find this information helpful when voting in the Town Elections on March 5, 1956.

The Contests

SELECTMAN—3 YEARS

Archibald Cox
John R. McEnroy

BOARD OF PUBLIC WELFARE 3 YEARS

Carlisle D. Scotland, for re-election.
Joseph F. Laughlin

SCHOOL COMMITTEE—3 YEARS

William A. Waldron, for re-election.
Charles W. Brennan

BOARD OF HEALTH—3 YEARS

Norman G. Fair, for re-election
David R. Corey

PLANNING BOARD—2 YEARS

Bruce F. Kingsbury
Edward A. Veno

The Replies

Archibald Cox

I believe that every citizen has a duty to participate in community affairs according to his time, training and experience. My work as Professor of Law at Harvard leaves time for public affairs. My government experience includes service in the State, Labor and Justice Departments; and later as Chairman, Wage Stabilization Board. In Wayland I have been Assessor and member of the Zoning and Personnel Boards.

I have no political or business ties with any group. I am a candidate only because it seemed possible that my experience and legal training might be thought useful as Selectman.

* * *

Joseph F. Laughlin

I am a candidate for election to the office of Public Welfare because I have an intense desire to serve my community in a position for which I consider myself best qualified.

* * *

William A. Waldron

I seek re-election to the School Committee because:

1. Like the great majority, I desire to be a useful citizen.
2. Having had three years experience in the often complicated work of the School Committee, I believe I can be useful by continuing the job I have learned much about.
3. As a result of my background, training and concern as a parent, educational problems especially interest me.
4. I am anxious to give voters the chance they have not previously had to accept or reject me as a candidate for the office.
5. I enjoy the association and give-and-take of Town affairs.

* * *

Charles W. Brennan

I believe I have the necessary qualifications to properly represent my fellow townspeople on the School Committee. I have been engaged in the field of finance all of my adult life, and, combining financial training with legal training, I now function as a tax attorney for the organization employing me for 22 years.

Qualifications alone do not necessarily make for a good administrator, but the community is entitled to know its candidate! If elected your committeeman, I promise not to belabor you with qualifications; instead, I shall publicly account for my accomplishments as your representative.

* * *

Norman G. Fair

I am seeking re-election to the Board of Health because:

Through first-hand knowledge of the health needs of this community, gained through six years of active service on the Board, I believe I have made a definite contribution to the well-being of this Town by establishing and enforcing regulations controlling drainage and sewage, restaurant sanitation, regular sampling and analysis of milk and milk products, unfit housing, nuisances, etc.

I am willing and able to give the large amount of time demanded by the job, and am available for consultation and prompt action on problems as they arise.

* * *

David R. Corey

After years of consideration, I feel that now it is possible for me to make myself available for election to the Wayland Board of Health. I can and will, if elected, take all of the time necessary to see that my obligations as a member of the Board are fulfilled.

Qualifications: Practicing physician, Wayland, 9 years; Post Graduate Courses: B. U. School of Medicine, Harvard Public Health School, Columbia Medical School, Major, Medical Corps U.S.A.R.

Member of: American and Massachusetts Medical Associations, British Royal Society of Medicine, American and International Society of Anesthetists.

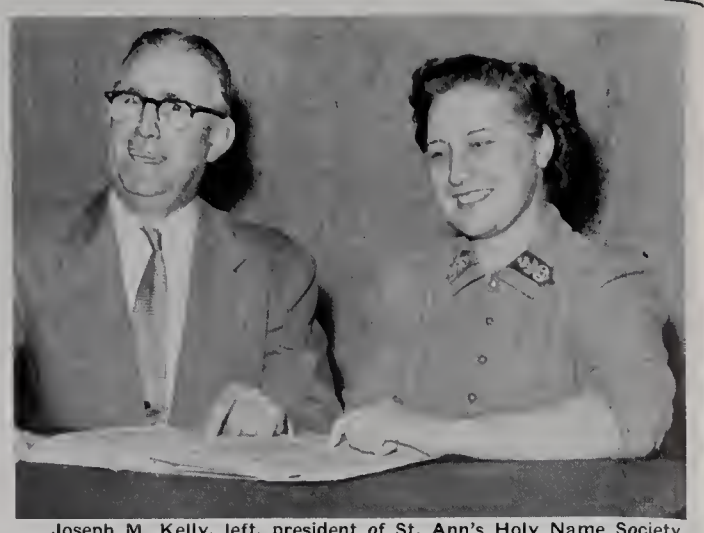
Bruce F. Kingsbury

A New England town, such as Wayland, exists and progresses only because its citizens are interested and willing to devote their time to its management. I am one of those citizens, honestly interested in the town. With my varied experience in teaching, research, industry, college administration, and my engineering education, I believe I am able to contribute objectively and intelligently to the welfare of Wayland. I have served my apprenticeship on the Planning Board and the Site Committee, and want to continue.



Joseph M. Kelly, left, president of St. Ann's Holy Name Society, and Mrs. Duane B. Haagensen, president of St. Ann's Guild, announce that the two organizations will be co-sponsors of a St. Patrick's Eve dinner dance at Robin Hood's Ten Acres on March 16.

Red Cross Drive, March 4 to 31

WAYLAND—The annual membership drive and fund campaign of the Wayland Chapter of the Red Cross will be held from March 4 to March 31, it was announced by Richard M. Potter, chairman of the committee.

Mr. Potter urged each resident of the Town to become a member of the Red Cross. He pointed to the fact that this is the 75th anniversary of the Red Cross and a 100 per cent Town membership would be the perfect anniversary present.

If each resident would donate $1 for a membership, he said, the Wayland chapter could continue in its many expanded programs, including the water safety and swimming instruction program during the summer months at Lake Cochituate.

Fund captains are Mrs. Howard Tewksbury, Willis B. Ryder, Mrs. Ernest M. Cherry, Mrs. John P. Hyland, Mrs. C. Fessendent Morse, Paul Moorehead, Mrs. Donald K. Tarbell, Mrs. Leslie Flood, Mrs. W. H. Bowden, Mrs. George Mayberry, Mrs. J. Dwight Morton, Mrs. Frank W. Lambert. Mrs. James D. Wells and Mrs. Richard Martin.

George Bogren and Mrs. Caroline Lewis are heading the campaign in Cochituate and they request that all volunteers for service report to them.

Three Full Licenses Granted In Wayland

WAYLAND — Full liquor licenses were granted to the Sir Loin Steak House, Lobster Haven and Ten Acres by the Board of Selectmen as of Jan. 1. The Steak House previously had a wine and beer license and the other two restaurants had club licenses. The Selectmen explain that the increase in the Town's population made the new licenses available, and that these restaurants applied for them.

Increased Teacher Salaries Up In Weston Town Meeting

WESTON— The annual town meeting in Weston is scheduled for Monday evening, March 19, at 8 p. m. in the upper hall of the Weston Town House. The 18 articles in the warrant call for a budget of approximately $1,041,000, an increase of $90,000 over last year.

The increased budget is a direct result of increased school salaries and school costs as well as a 4 per cent increase in the labor, fire and police departments. The School Committee found that most surrounding towns were upping their teacher salaries to meet the shortage of good teachers, and plans to make its proposal effective September, 1956.

Besides routine business, some of the issues to be settled by vote are:

A proposal for the appropriation of $19,700 for replacing the 1931 fire pumper.

A proposal to authorize alteration of the Boston Post Road in Weston Center to eliminate the narrow spot in front of the stores, and to appropriate money for the work. This is not included in the budget.

A proposal to provide for the acquisition of land off Highland Street called Paine's Hill for a future water reservoir or standpipe. There are no plans at present for repairing the old cement reservoir already there.

A proposal to authorize the Board of Health to make a new contract with the Town of Wellesley for services of a public health officer. Needham would share in this expense for the first time.

A proposal to discharge the Town Forest Committee and the Union Health District Committee, which have finished their work.

A proposal to take action respecting acquisition of land for a Town forest in the 40-acre area generally called Cat Rock. Rep. James DeNormandie of Lincoln has introduced a bill that would have the State buy the area which includes several hundred acres in Weston, Waltham and Lincoln. The question is whether the separate towns would prefer to purchase and administer their own property as they see fit, rather than have it become a State reserve like Walden Pond.

LWV Will Provide Rides On Election Day, Mar. 19

WESTON—The Weston League of Women Voters says it will have drivers listed at Town Hall to take voters to the polls on Election Day, March 19. Anyone needing a ride has only to call Town Hall, TW 3-7320. Polls are open from 12 noon until 7:45 p. m.

Expert Tells How To Run a Church Supper

WAYLAND—A lecture on how to plan a church supper was given on Feb. 28 at the Trinitarian Congregational Church by Miss May Foley, extension nutritionist of the University of Massachusetts. Twenty-two representatives of church groups attended.

"Figure the cost per serving," Miss Foley said.

A. C. ARMSTRONG TO RUN

WAYLAND—Addison C. Armstrong of Framingham has announced his candidacy for reelection as Republican State Committeeman from the Middlesex-Norfolk Senatorial District at the primary to be held April 24. Mr. Armstrong, of 30 Adams Road, Framingham, is a former Framingham Selectman.

Helpful Wife

COCHITUATE—They say a Cochituate woman, riding with her husband on a dark and stormy night this Winter, said to him:

"Why don't you let me drive? My eyes are so bad I can't see much of anything anyway, and those headlights don't bother me."

Arthur Leiby of Rotary Wins Service Citation

WESTON — Arthur R. Leiby, president of the Weston Rotary Club, was scheduled to receive a citation for leadership at the seventh annual district conference, held March 12 at The Meadows, Framingham.

The citation covered work in the five major avenues of Rotary: club service, vocational service, community service, international service and youth service.

Members and their wives attended. Guests from Weston included Mr. and Mrs. John W. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. G. Murray Burke, Mr. Herbert Crouch, Mr. Charles B. Cutter, Mr. and Mrs. F. Warren Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Edmunds, Mr. and Mrs. Burdette A. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Kahler, Mr. Arthur R. Leiby, Mr. and Mrs. Hector J. Osmond, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Precourt, Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Sawyer and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Snow.

Two Contests In Weston Election

WESTON—Two contests engage the attention of the voters of Weston at the Town election on March 19. Richard H. Field, the Caucus candidate for Selectman, is opposed by John S. O'Brien.

Three candidates vie for the two vacancies of the five-member Recreation Commission. Robert A. Townsend and J. Manton Bradley are Caucus candidates, and Kimball A. McMullin is running on nomination papers. The polls open at 12 noon in the Town House and close at 7:30 p. m.

The number of registered voters in February, 1956, was 3,140, as against 3,154 in February, 1955.

Edward B. Hubbard, who started to run on stickers, announced he was not a candidate for Selectman.

Wayland Girl Gets Tooth Care Idea

WAYLAND — The telephone rang in the Parmenter Health Center the other day, and nurse Louise McManus answered. On the line was a teen-age girl, and the conversation went about like this:

"Do you take charge of teeth?"

"We do."

"I'd like to make an appointment for my brother, who's in the third grade. Last night I looked at his teeth and they were awful."

It turned out the girl had lined up her five brothers and sisters and had made a personal inspection of their teeth. The appointments were made.

Miss Roberta Jacobs, director of the Center, says more than 1000 letters were sent home to parents of Wayland school children, about teeth examinations, and only 350 replies came back.

Conservation School To Be Opened In Lincoln

LINCOLN — The Louise Ayer Hatheway School of Conservation Education is to be opened at the Drumlin Farm Wildlife Sanctuary on Route 117 in Lincoln, the Audubon Society announces.

Emphasis will be on courses in biology and education providing ideas and material not offered elsewhere. The school will be for graduate students, not only from American universities but also from abroad.

Courses in field biology and proper use of natural resources will be offered in the evenings and on weekends for the benefit of adults in Lincoln and nearby towns. An Audubon natural history day camp will be held this Summer for boys and girls of the vicinity.

Boardman Bump of Weston is treasurer of the school and also treasurer of the Massachusetts Audubon Society.

Wheelock Alumnae Meet

An informal tea and get-together of Wheelock College Alumnae of Weston, Waltham, Wayland, Lincoln and Sudbury was held March 8 from 3 to 5 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Harold Alcaide, 4 Newton Street, Weston.

Guests of the local group were Dr. Frances Mayfarth, president of the College; Mrs. Howard Burge, dean; Mrs. Foster Cousens, executive secretary of the Alumnae Association; Mrs. Harry Kussmaul, Alumnae president, and Mrs. George Larsen, Association treasurer.

Mrs. Kussmaul and Miss Charlotte Perkins of Weston poured. Co-hostesses were Mrs. E. Paul Floyd and Mrs. Roland F. Gammons.

Community League Gives Tea For New Members

WESTON—A tea for all new members of the Women's Community League was given at the home of the President, Mrs. George N. Chamberlain Jr., Orchard Avenue, Wednesday, March 14, at 3:30.

Receiving with Mrs. Chamberlain were officers of the League: Mrs. Lewis W. Mustard III, Mrs. Charles E. Mead, Mrs. Vernon M. F. Tallman, Mrs. Robert E. Sullivan and Mrs. Arthur C. Murphy.

Mrs. Manson Benedict, Mrs. Dexter B. Hill, Mrs. Frank L. Hitchcock and Miss Marjorie Pierce, members of the Board of Directors, poured.

Ladies of the Membership Committee were hostesses for the tea. They included Mrs. Charles G. Ball, chairman; Mrs. Thomas T. Craven, vice-chairman; Mrs. Harold G. Adler, Mrs. F. William Aseltine Jr., Mrs. Alfred L. Backstrom, Mrs. Frank V. Best, Mrs. L. B. Bishop, Mrs. Gerald W. Blakeley Jr., Mrs. James C. Cook, Mrs. Alfred R. Crampton, Mrs Richard A. Dobbins, Mrs. James F. Eldon, Mrs. Richard B. Fowler, Mrs. George W. A. Hammond, Mrs. Joseph B. Hartwell, Mrs. Lawson T. Hill Jr., Mrs. J. Harvey McKenney, Mrs. Kimball A. McMullin, Mrs. Laymon N. Miller, Mrs. Everett A. Shekleton, Mrs. John H. Underhill Jr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Weidig.

Flowers for the tea were arranged by Mrs. Alfred L. Backstrom, Mrs. Richard B. Fowler and Mrs. Joseph B. Hartwell.

Heart Fund Collections Show Large Increases

Large numbers of volunteers went out for the Heart Fund collection on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 26, and the contributions in Wayland, Weston and Cochituate were all reported much larger than those of a year ago.

In Weston, where Mrs. David R. Lutkins was chairman, the Sunday collection was $3,017.42. Advance gifts of $1,040 brought the total up to $4,057.42.

Mrs. Allan R. Finlay, Wayland chairman, reported a Sunday collection of $1,141.15. Mrs. C. William Cheney, advance gifts chairman, reported additional contributions of $510.

Mrs. John B. Donner, Cochituate chairman, reported collections of $893.49. Benjamin W. Johnson III, mercantile chairman, reported an additional $70 from Cochituate business men, and Mrs. Rexford N. Moss, advanced gifts, turned in $39.

Thus the combined Cochituate and Wayland collection was $2,653.64, and the total Wayland-and-Weston contribution to the Fund was more than $6,700.

Both the Weston and Cochituate Branches of the Newton-Waltham Bank were opened on Sunday evening for the convenience of the collectors.

At Weston, where manager Richard F. Lincoln of the Bank has been treasurer of the Heart Fund collections for three years, coffee was served at a table decorated with red roses and white snapdragons. Mrs. Reginald W. Stevens contributed a cake. Miss Jean Cahill, Miss Edna Precourt and Mrs. Clayton Stevens of the Bank staff helped to tabulate the returns.

P. Russell Gordon, manager of the Cochituate branch, volunteered for tabulation work, as did Merton F. Gordon and Mrs. Arthur Acker, assistant teller, who doubled as hostess. Chief of Police Ernest H. Damon and patrolman Edward Burke stood by as protection.

Among those who served as Cochituate captains and committee chairmen:

Mrs. Harvey C. Newton, Mrs. George S. Brown, Mrs. John J. McCann, Mrs. Dana R. Thorpe, Mrs. Francis L. Fisher, Mrs. Elmer N. Peck, Mrs. Orville E. Bean, Mrs. Thomas Williams, George A. C. Keller Jr.

Benjamin W. Johnson III, John T. Tivnan Jr., George Lewis, Mrs. Rexford N. Moss, Mrs. Harold Berlind and Mrs. Angus Wilson.

New Civic Group Is Formed At Lakefield

WAYLAND — The Lakefield Civic Association held its fourth meeting on Feb. 24. Candidates for Selectman, John R. McEnroy and Archibald Cox, and candidates for School Committee, William A. Waldron and Charles W. Brennan, spoke and answered questions.

Membership in the Lakefield Association is limited to families who live in the Lakefield development, near Mansion Inn. Purposes of this civic association are civic and social, to get better acquainted with local government and Town officials. Officers are: Arthur J. McBay, president; Ernest White, vice-president; Mrs. Edward Lazarian, secretary, and Mrs. Howard McLeroy, treasurer.

Telephones Disappear, The Imp Giggles, Man Regrets

Once upon a time there was a fellow in a suburb around here whose wife was carrying on a 40-minute telephone call about League of Women Voters business and not getting supper on the table, and he said to himself, "I wish the telephone would disappear into thin air," and it happened there was an imp out of a sherry bottle hanging around who overheard, and the next thing he knew, the telephone had disappeared into thin air, not, however, taking the wife with it.

Gratified, the man said, "Well, that's that, it's Fourth of July come twice this year," and the imp just giggled.

Drank Up Coffee

Unlike the electric lights around here, the telephone didn't come back in four or five hours. The man got his supper, served with sour sauce and pickles on the ice cream, and that was the last thing that went even reasonably right before the deluge.

At 9 o'clock 17 members of the League of Women Voters arrived in the flesh and also in a school bus, to take up in person the question of who'd be on the committee. They stayed until 11:30 drinking up all the coffee in the house, and the man had to wash the dishes and he didn't have anything to drink next morning except milk and he doesn't like milk.

Next morning, too, all the wives in town went to the Postoffice for the mail, and there they fell into conversation. None of your sissy conversations, either, that can be broken off in 15 minutes and resumed at leisure after the parties get home. These were intense, last-chance talks, in which everything had to be remembered. Not a floor in town was swept before noon.

When the children got home from school their ma's put them right on their little bicycles with notes for the neighbors. One tot had to ride six miles and then wait 30 minutes while the woman thought up an answer to whether it's better to serve company on paper plates or on china and take a chance on germs. Poor child didn't get home for hours, because she ran into a bicycle traffic jam, caused by other kiddies on similar errands.

Went Visiting

The little ones became confused, too, because in this intimate suburb none of the married women had square names like Mrs. John Doe. Every woman was known by her first name, as Marge, or Dot or Spike or Proxy or Pat or Mike or Posy or Beth or Alice or Butch or Kitty or Eleanor Doe, and some of the first names doubled up, so the messengers were riding off in all directions and recipients of some of the notes didn't understand what they were about but they entered the spirit of the thing and answered anyway, and thus a number of new and beautiful friendships were formed.

That evening everybody went visting, first sending husbands out by automobile to scout for baby sitters, and of course some of the husbands chose to sit with the baby sitters, not being chumps and realizing they were no longer on the end of a wire leash, but many came back and then went visiting, and the worst of these visits was that some were invited to stay all night, because there was no telling when there'd be another chance for a nice long talk.

On the second day all the wives in town began to talk about buying new typewriters, so everybody could write notes more rapidly, and our original hero, who had seven children, all of whom knew English, multiplied $169.98 by nine in his head and got an answer which caused him to cry aloud, "Oh, I wish the telephone would reappear out of thin air!" and luckily the sherry bottle imp was still hanging around enjoying the fun but getting tired of so much company, so he threw a switch and telephones came back and people didn't exactly live happily ever after but they got back to troubles they were used to.

The moral of this is, don't trifle with the League of Women Voters.

. . . . . D. B. W.

Letters to the EDITOR

To the Editor:

It occurs to me that some of our old friends in Wayland and Weston might like to hear of us and our doings, just as we like to read about them and their doings in your splendid publication. So here goes. And let me say that I believe in the old adage,—"Life begins at sixty".

Our little home is perched on a hill in the country, five miles from the city. From our front windows we see an arm of the Pacific, and beyond that the mountains of Mexico. Mary Jessie, or "Jerry", is well and happy, having completely recovered from a serious operation which was made about a year ago.

Jack Jr. is married and has a fine, healthy and handsome son, John Adams Patterson III, and he (the father,—not the baby) is a pilot for the Central California Airline, carrying passengers between Los Angeles and Mexico. I taught him to fly when he was a cadet in the C.A.P. at Framingham, and now he occasionally gives lessons to the old man!

Andy is also married (no children yet) and is a medical student at the University of Southern California. He is also a lieutenant, U.S. Navy, Reserve, and served as an ensign in the late war. He literally saved his ship during action off the coast of Japan, at the risk of his own life, and was promoted for his heroism.

Michael is a sophomore at San Diego State College. He is Rushing Chairman for his fraternity, Sigma Chi, is color bearer in the R.O.T.C., he stands six feet one (mostly legs) and is quarter-mile track champion of his Conference.

Last, and least, the old man. I spend most of my time at the typewriter, with occasional efforts at wood-carving and painting. I have had a few short "pot boilers" published, and now have two historical (no,—I didn't say "too hysterical) novels nearly ready for the printer.

All in all, we are a very happy family,—though we do miss Wayland and Weston, and our old friends.

Most sincerely yours,
Jack Patterson

To the Editor:

The School Site Committee wishes to thank the "Town Crier" for the excellent manner in which it publicized the whole school site question throughout these past 18 months.

We are sure that your constant and faithful reporting contributed materially to arousing and maintaining the interest of the Town's people, which reached such a wondrous climax on February 15 at the Special Town Meeting.

We fully realize that the success of the program was a co-operative effort among many agencies and methods of communication. Regardless of the reasons one may assign for the success, it was clearly demonstrated that the citizens of Wayland learned the problems, saw the solution, and took appropriate action to a far greater degree than any other town.

Thanks again to the "Crier" for its contribution.

Sincerely,
Bruce F. Kingsbury

Weston's Caucus System Seems To Date From 1724

WESTON—Weston's custom of nominating Town officers at a caucus dates from 1724 in Boston, a Town with which Weston was closely connected in early days. Some of the story:

Weston, one of the oldest Towns in the Massachusetts Colony, should be proud of its history, "on account of the wisdom and discretion of the inhabitants in the management of its internal affairs."

Several times the State has commended the Town for the able administration of the Treasury department and for the careful work of the Assessors.

In 1637, at Town Meeting in Watertown, "the West Pine Meadows were allotted out to the townsmen, allowing one acre for each person and likewise for cattle. "These grazing meadows were along the river in the South and Southeastern part of what is now Weston. In 1638 it was ordered, "that the farm lands West of Stoney Brook shall be for a common for cattle, to the use of the Freemen of the Town (Watertown) and their heirs forever."

Farmers Precinct

Dissensions between the holders of allotments and the proprietors of the Farm Lands led in 1663 to re-surveying and plotting the region as the Farmers Precinct.

In 1694, the Farmers, to the number of 118, petitioned to be set off from Watertown, "because of the great distance of the Church and being obliged to go so far from home."

The Church was near the Cambridge line, a mile from the present Watertown Square; the old burying-ground can be seen near the cross-roads of Cambridge and Arlington Streets in Watertown.

As this appeal brought no decisions, the Farmers petitioned the General Court, and in 1698, the Precinct was granted permission "to build a church, to settle a minister and to appoint officers to transact and manage their affairs."

While the Farmers' Precinct now had a church of its own, supported a minister and was freed from church rates in Watertown, there were certain demands about highways and bridges, in which this westerly Parish was no longer interested.

In 1711/12 two petitions were drawn up, "praying that the Precinct be incorporated as a Town," and a committee of three, Capt. Francis Fullman, Lieut. Josiah Jones and Mr. Josiah Eastabroke, presented one to the Town of Watertown and one to the Great and General Court at Boston.

Paid For Bridge Upkeep

Watertown willingly granted that the Precinct should be a Township, with the proviso: "That the Farmers continue to pay a due share of the expense of maintaining the Great Bridge over the Charles River." This bridge is the one out of Watertown Square on the road to Newton; Weston paid its share until 1803.

On Jan. 1, 1712/13, the "Act of Incorporation of the Town of Weston" was passed by the legislature and signed by His Excellency Joseph Dudley, Esq., Governor.

Although the first volume of Town Record Books, 1713-1754, disappeared long ago, there seems no doubt that Town Meetings were held regularly during these 41 years, as scattered portions of Town Reports and documents relating to the choosing of Representatives to the General Court have been found among family papers.

John Adams Knew

The use of the Caucus preceding Town Meeting, by Weston voters, is probably an old custom. The method originated in Boston in 1724. In his Diary, under February, 1763, John Adams writes:

"This day learned that the Caucus Club meets in the garret of Tom Dawes, Adjutant of the Boston Regiment." And also, "the Town officers are chosen there before they are chosen in Town Meeting."

In several ways Boston and Weston, two colonial Towns, were brought into friendly relations: our ministers preached in Boston pulpits or opened sessions of the Legislature; Weston farmers and lawyers were Representatives and Clerks of Court, and important business men of Boston had been citizens of this country Town and held offices here. What would be more natural than for the two Towns to use the same customs in their governments? — E .F. R.

Local Women Attend Deanery Meeting At Wellesley, Feb. 20

WELLESLEY HILLS — Mrs. William F. Birmingham of Wayland, Mrs. Clement A. Dwyer of Cochituate and Mrs. John Lawless of Weston were among those who attended a luncheon meeting of the Parish Council Chairmen of Social Service from the Framingham Deanery Council of Catholic Women at the home of Mrs. Robert F. Leonard, 90 Seaward Road, on Feb. 20.

Mrs. Leonard, Deanery Chairman of Social Service, presided. She explained the procedure used by the Social Service Committee at St. Paul's, Wellesley.

Weston Square Dance At Country School, Mar. 16

WESTON—Calico skirts, blue jeans and sneakers will be high fashion on Friday evening, March 16, at another in a series of square dances sponsored by the Women's Community League of Weston for the benefit of their scholarship fund. This party will take place in the gymnasium of Weston's new Country School.

As before, Charlie Baldwin will be the caller, and promises fun for everyone. Fifth, sixth and seventh graders will dance from 7:30 until 9 and eighth through twelfth graders will join with the adults from 9 to 11:30 p. m. Fifth and sixth graders are urged to come alone or in groups, not with special partners. Mrs. John Chipman Gray is chairman of the Square Dance Committee.

New England Telephone & Telegraph reports it put $99,000,000 into new construction in 1955 and means to put in $110,000,000 worth in 1956.

Weston Garden Club To Hear Talk On March 22

WESTON—Miss Brenda Newton will speak on "Garden Walks and Terraces" at the March 22 meeting of the Weston Garden Club, to be held at the home of Mrs. Howard M. Forbes, 87 Church Street.

Coffee will be served at 10 a. m. Hostesses will be Mrs. Alfred Ewer and Mrs. Parker Harrison. Mrs. Merton Williams, president, will call the business meeting to order at 10:30 and Miss Newton will speak at 10:50.

During the past six years the Wayland Board of Health has supervised the removal of 49 dwellings declared unfit for habitation.

The late Calvin Coolidge, they say, used to commute between Boston and Northampton on the railroad line which runs through Wayland and Weston.

"Keeping Store" Teaches Kids Arithmetic And Values

3rd Graders Visit Bottling Plant

What trip does the milk take before we drink it in our cafeteria? The pupils in Mrs. Alice McIntosh's and Mrs. Selma Steinberg's Happy Hollow third grades know the answer to this question, because of their trip to the Scaltest bottling plant in Newton.

Upon arrival at the plant the children were divided into three groups, each with a guide who showed them the processes involved in pasteurizing and homogenizing milk and in making, waxing and filling the cardboard milk cartons and sterilizing the bottles. Everyone was impressed with the method employed in filling and capping the bottles.

Following the tours the three groups met for a question and answer period, during which time the children enjoyed chocolate milk.

Washington - Lincoln Day At Happy Hollow

The third grades of Mrs. Alice McIntosh and Mrs. Selma Steinberg presented a Washington-Lincoln program in the Happy Hollow auditorium Feb. 13.

Michael Mosher, Sethaly Johnson, Katy Driscoll and Donald Fye were the announcers and each narrated an important event in the life of the two men. As the narration was taking place an almost life size illustration of the event, drawn by the children in class before the program, was presented to the audience.

The program ended with an appropriate selection of patriotic songs, led by the third grades.

Happy Hollow Grades To Give "Peer Gynt"

Mrs. Eva Gately's fifth grade and Mrs. Florence Shohl's sixth grade at Happy Hollow School have embarked on a dramatic project to be presented in early April. The writing group, composed of Mary Souder, Frances Kelly, Karen Fisher, Kathy Zocchi, Eric Kather, Jacqueline Pelletier, Stephen Waitkunas, Judith Pratt and William Haus, are adapting Ibsen's "Peer Gynt", which will be given as a musical play using Grieg's original music, augmented by Norwegian folk music.

Mrs. Lucy Parker, instrumental music instructor, is aiding the student orchestra, while the song and dance portions are being supervised by Mrs. Pauline Radford, vocal music teacher, and Miss Marjorie Ball, physical education teacher.

Center School Council Sets Up Committees

A Rules Committee—To formulate rules of behavior to guide children on the way to and from school and while at school. Members of this committee are Susan Campbell and Janice Fredrickson, co-chairmen; James Hill, McEwan Perkins, Jacqueline Perkins, Noble Barker and Christopher Lincoln.

A Diet Committee—To dramatize, through an experimental approach, the children's need for a balanced diet and, in particular, proper lunches. Gerard Fox is chairman of this committee, made up of Arthur Waldron, Joan Morrell, Henri Mayer, Elizabeth Roehrig and Elizabeth Stokey.

A Newspaper Committee — To get out a periodical covering Center School activities and to give expression for the creative writing efforts of the children. Douglas Hall and Robert Paine are co-chairmen of this committee, which includes Sarah Gregory, Martha Sampson, Paul Scovill, Donald Cassidy, Marylin Lord, Eric Blomberg and Roger Osmond.

A History Committee—To use the resources of local historians in collecting items for use in school. Elizabeth Baldwin and Ann Kearsley are co-chairmen of this group, which includes Dale Ferguson, Ross Mayberry, Susan Cannistraro, Martin Benjamin, Diane Christensen, Will Brown, Lois Calzini, Julie Horvath, Thomas Martin, Paul Scanlon and George Poutasse.

6th Grade Attends The Stone's Bridge Hearing

(Photo by Joan Morrell)

Mrs. Mabel S. Draper, retired Wayland teacher and student of local history, shows Center School pupils Old Stone's Bridge, damaged in the floods, and explains why there's a movement to have it preserved.

Through the cooperation of James DeNormandie, Representative of the Wayland District, James Murphy's sixth grade boys and girls of the Center School were invited to attend the public hearing before the House Ways and Means Committee on Bill No. 2137 at the State House. This bill pertains to the restoration of Old Stone's Bridge of Wayland, Mass.

When the class arrived at Boston, they received a cordial welcome from several Wayland citizens. Mrs. Catherine Dik, Mrs. Bernice Lyford and Frank S. Tarr represented the Historical Society, the D.A.R. and the Town Selectmen.

The children heard the local Representative speak in favor of restoring the historic bridge. The only opposition was from the spokesmen of the State Department of Public Works, who said funds were not available for such a project. Frederick G. Perry Jr., chairman of the Wayland Planning Board, spoke in favor of the bill.

On their tour through the State House, the children visited the House of Representatives, where they saw paintings done by the Governor's father. After a visit to the Hall of Flags, they enjoyed their noon lunch. Following lunch, the group visited the Governor's chambers, where they had an opportunity to sit in the Governor's chair, see the Council room, and meet the Governor's secretary. The class then returned to the bus and sang songs on their way home to Wayland.

The trip stimulated the sixth graders to do research and make a study of the procedure followed by local Selectmen when introducing a bill. Thank-you letters were then sent to James DeNormandie for the invitation to be his guest at the hearing.

April Assembly Planned By H. H. Second Grades

The second grades of Mrs. Terri Finn and Mrs. Ann Hartig at Happy Hollow can be found in the auditorium rehearsing an assembly program for next month. Easter will be their theme and the pupils will use original "bunny" masks they are making especially for the program.

Following the recitation of the Twenty-Third Psalm and the Lord's Prayer, the remainder of the program will be led by Robert Goodhue, Leslie Fischer and Lloyd Osborn, pupils in the second grades.

Fourth Graders Enter Posters In Contest

Cheryl Gallagher, Richard Miller, Maureen Carroll, Cynthia Rossborough, Roger Carter, Betty Turner, Elaine Parker, Tommy Hall and Karen Zaniboni, all pupils in Miss Patricia Dalton's fourth grade at Happy Hollow, have entered the "Be Kind to Animals" poster contest sponsored by the American Humane Society.

The posters will be on display in the windows of Filene's and Jordan Marsh in Boston sometime during the month of March, and final awards will be announced during the week of May 6.

Imagination Helps In 1st Grade Plays

For part of their afternoon activities, Mrs. Priscilla Trieb's Cochituate School first graders have been acting out simple plays. One child who has a story in mind, counts out how many people he will need. He takes this group aside, tells them the story and "directs" their action. No actual lines are learned, but each child knows when he appears and what he is supposed to talk about.

When the play has been practiced several times, it is acted for the rest of the group. A few simple props or costume suggestions are used, such as an apron for "Mother" and a feather for an Indian, but imagination supplies most of the costuming.

The boys and girls work out variations of stories from their first grade readers or parts of other stories they know. Exploits of Davy Crockett are popular. They also like such old favorites as "The Three Bears."

This type of activity gives the children an opportunity to work together in small groups under as much pupil guidance as possible. They also gain experience in speaking informally before a group.

Store In Second Grade Teaches Value Of Money

The boys and girls of Mrs. Mary Reynolds' second grade have established their own grocery store in the class-room and voted to call it Our Country Store.

The children brought empty boxes and cartons and priced them according to what they thought the correct price should be. The class discussed the prices and decided that their store would soon go out of business, because many of the articles were much higher than those in other stores. A committee was organized to act as "shoppers" and compare their prices with those in the local grocery stores. As a result the goods are now priced in line with those in local stores.

The purpose of Our Country Store is to help the boys and girls learn the value of money and learn to make change. One child acts as shopkeeper and rings up the sales on a toy register while other children act as customers.

Third Grade Finds Out About Textile Fabrics

Recently Miss Justine Cavanaugh's third grade in the Cochituate School started a unit on clothing. This particular area offers a variety of activities and attempts to give each child an understanding of the importance of clothing in the world about him.

The class has studied various materials such as cotton, wool, silk, linen, rayon and nylon, with emphasis on the raw materials and the uses of the fabrics.

Art, spelling, English, writing, science and even arithmetic are involved in the study of clothing. The pupils have their own loom in the class room and each child has done some actual weaving. Materials have been introduced and stimulating discussions have resulted. Committees have been formed and projects have been initiated.

The children decided to make puppets from various kinds of materials. As a result of this interest they are now planning their own puppet show, designing a bulletin board illustrating the various materials, and some pupils are writing original stories and poems.

Grocery Store Hums In H. H. 1st Grade

Each morning the Happy Hollow Grocery Store located in Miss Katherine Barron's first grade bustles with activity.

The class has become familiar with brand names and prices and is learning arithmetic by making change. In their discussions they have formulated rules to help them become better citizens and more polite customers.

Do you have your shopping done for the week? The first grade offers excellent service and a price that is right.

Wayland Votes New School, Big Budget And Water Taxi

WAYLAND — Wayland voters passed a million-dollar budget, voted $600,000 for a 14-room elementary school on Claypit Hill Road and raced through much other business at regular and special Town Meetings held at the High School on March 7. More than 400 attended.

Although there were a few conflicts of opinion, in general there was great unanimity. Most of the articles in the long warrant went through without opposition.

Time Ran Out

At the end, time ran out and consideration of the last nine articles, all dealing with rezoning, was postponed until March 15.

Here's what they did:

They accepted a report calling for kindergartens in the school system, although the actual establishment will have to wait for new facilities and for appropriations.

They amended the wage and salary classification plan to provide improved hours, pay and working conditions for Town employees.

They adopted a budget of $1,086,909. This budget includes substantial pay increases for Wayland school teachers.

They voted to have four full time firemen on duty in the daytime, on weekdays. In recent months, it was explained, so many call firemen have been working out of Town there has been almost nobody to answer alarms. The Finance Committee recommended putting on two permanent men. Francis J. Hartin of the Fire Department offered an amendment to make it four, for $12,000 instead of $6,000.

Chairman Robert M. Morgan of the Finance Committee opposed the amendment. Newly elected Selectman John R. McEnroy favored it. By standing vote, 249 to 168, the amendment was passed.

They voted not to distribute copies of the Town Report to everybody, but to have them available for those willing to come and get them. They also voted to jack up the Town Report editorially, with graphs, pictures, colors, condensation and general improvement in readability.

This departure from tradition drew some criticism. Mr. Dominic Anzivino spoke of "a picture book". After an argument, however, it was settled that all pertinent material would continue to be printed.

They voted $8,000 to settle the main drain problem in Cochituate.

Special Town Meeting

At 9:37 the Annual Town Meeting was adjourned and the Special Town Meeting was called to order. This session voted $600,000 for the new Claypit Hill Road school and $25,000 for plans for another 14-room school off Loker Street. Allan R. Finlay, chairman of the Building Committee, said they hoped to have the first school ready by Spring of 1957, the second by September of 1957.

The Special meeting took about 20 minutes.

Back in the regular meeting at 10 o'clock, they voted a committee to study a way to raise Pelham Island Road out of the flood plain. After a statement of how Pelham Island, with 62 residents and 13 houses, is cut off by floods, the Town voted to provide fire protection and boat taxi service during high water.

How the fire protection and the boat service were to be arranged was to be studied.

They voted down a proposal to study the idea of having outside experts re-assess all the property in Town.

They adopted an enabling Article amending the zoning by-laws. Then they voted down, 86 for and 65 against (two-thirds needed), a proposition to rezone for business nine acres of cornfield between Pelham Island Road. It was represented that no specific development of the area is contemplated, and that it would be better to wait until a customer comes along.

At this point it was late and people were going home, so the meeting was adjourned for a week.

WAYLAND—A hearing on the proposed zoning changes was held by the Planning Board at the High School on Feb. 20. Attendance was 100.

Caucus Candidate Is Law School Professor

Richard H. Field

WESTON — Richard H. Field, Caucus candidate for Selectman at March 19 election, was born in Phillips, Me., May 29, 1903, attended the schools there, went to Phillips Exeter Academy for three years, graduated from Harvard cum laude in 1926 and was graduated from Harvard Law School magna cum laude in 1929.

After private practice of law in Boston, he entered Government service during World War II. For three years he was General Counsel for OPA in Washington. Since December, 1946, he has been a professor at Harvard Law School. He has also taught at the University of Texas Law School and at the Salzburg Seminar in American Studies at Salzburg, Austria.

For 23 years he has lived at 74 Sudbury Road, in one of the first so-called modernistic houses to be built around here. He has served six years on the Weston Finance Committee and has been chairman for the past two years.

Mr. Field was married to Caroline Crosby of Minneapolis in 1930. They have three children, a married daughter living in Concord, a daughter doing graduate work at Radcliffe and a son who, after attending Weston High School, is now a senior at Phillips Exeter.

Candidate O'Brien Was With the State Police

John S. O'Brien

WESTON — John S. O'Brien, running for Selectman on nomination papers, lives at 196 South Avenue. At present he is on leave of absence from the Eastern and Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines operating division, while he runs a four-bus school bus contract with the Weston School Department.

Mr. O'Brien, who is 39, was born in Concord. He was graduated from the Concord public schools and from the Greyhound Safety and Technical School at Cleveland. For a time he was with the Massachusetts State Police, and he was also associated with the Boston, Worcester and New York Street Railway.

He has lived in Weston 12 years, and he and Mrs. O'Brien have two sons. He says he has always been interested in the growth, development and management of the Town.

Oops!

By error, the Crier reported a special ticket price for children aged "3 to 12" at the coming Vokes presentation of "Mrs. McThing". It should have been "7 to 12". It isn't a matter of money. The Vokes management just thinks children under 7 might not be old enough to appreciate the show.

WESTON HIGH NOTES

Mr. Julius H. Mueller, principal, attended the 40th annual convention of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals in Chicago from Saturday, Feb. 25 to Wednesday, Feb. 29. The meeting of this group, which is a department of the National Education Association, drew principals from all over the country, and featured some well-known speakers, some challenging ideas, and excellent performances by music and dance groups from nearby high schools.

Notable among the first was the banquet speaker, William L. Shirer, author and comentator, who addressed the group on "The World Today". Leo Durocher, big league baseball figure, spoke at the General Session on Wednesday.

* * *

High school classes from grades 8 through 12 attended an assembly on Wednesday morning, Feb. 29, to hear four seniors report on their experiences at Boys' State and Girls' State and the United Nations. Owen Connolly, who attended Boys' State at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst, and Suzanna Wilson, who attended Girls' State at the Bridgewater State Teachers College, gave interesting and lively accounts of their week's close-up of governmental processes last June.

Anna Melone and David Donaldson, who visited the United Nations last October, gave enthusiastic accounts of their experiences.

The faculty, the administrative staff, and all of the working personnel of the school were present on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 8, to welcome and to meet individually our new Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Anthony G. L. Brackett, who assumed office March 1. A reception with refreshments was held in the cafeteria at 2:45. The group was addressed briefly by Mr. Robert Carini, President of the Teachers' Club, by Mrs. Edward W. Marshall of the School Committee, and by Dr. Brackett. A social hour followed, during which each staff member had the opportunity to meet Dr. Brackett personally.

Twenty-five students from grades 8 through 12 had the opportunity to visit the Sylvania Electric Products, Inc. on Thursday, Feb. 9. This was a carefully prepared visit, designed to acquaint potential engineers and scientists with the kind of work involved in electronics engineering and with the preparation needed to work in this field. The program included discussion of the work of the laboratories, a sound film and a demonstration of the principles of radar, and a tour of the plant labortories.

Students were welcomed by Dr. O. G. Haywood, Laboratories Manager, and were accompanied on the trip by Mr. Wallace W. Sawyer, Chairman of the Science Department.

The fourth of the series of vocational conferences at the High School, sponsored by Northeastern University, was held on Tuesday morning, Feb. 14. Dr. Arthur W. Leighton, Professor of Engineering at Tufts University, addressed students on the career of engineering. Mr. Frederick T. Bryan, Associate Professor of Marketing at Boston College, spoke to another group about careers in advertising, marketing and selling. Mr. Marchant Eldridge, Employment Manager of the New England Mutual Insurance Co. had as his topic the question, "Girls, what does business offer you?" All students in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades had the opportunity to attend one of these conferences.

Weston Students Win Science Prizes

WESTON—A special awards assembly was held in the gymnasium of the high school for grades 7 through 12 for the presentation of nationally recognized prizes in the fields of science and of industrial arts on Dec. 22.

A national second prize award was given to Peter Hanson by Mr. Whitman S. Browne, Jr., of the Ford Motor Co., which is the national sponsor of the Industrial Arts Awards. Peter was one of four local certificate winners who submitted their projects to the national contest in Dearborn, Michigan. He was given a check for $80. Other national contestants, who received participation pins, were Eleanor Tomlinson, Lars Rydell and Alice Hawkes, now a student at Concord Academy. Ford dealers from Watertown, Wayland and Waltham sent representatives.

A national contest winner in the field of science was Frederick Johnson, now preparing for the Naval Academy at the Bullis School in Silver Springs, Maryland. Frederick was three times a science fair winner on the local level, and twice on the state level. His project, "Carbide precipitation and intergranular corrosion of stainless steel", was the one that won for him the national prize, a check for $100. Carl Peter Rydell was also awarded a prize, this one on the area level. He was given a $25 bond for his work on a project "Star Hemispheres."

At the presentation ceremony Mr. Edward Hawkridge of the American Society of Metals spoke to the students about America's urgent need for trained scientists. Following that, Mr. William W. Sawyer, who is the Chairman of the Science Department at the Weston High School and also a representative of the National Science Teachers Association, made the presentations. This was the last of a number of such presentations that Mr. Sawyer has been making to students in this area. The contest was sponsored jointly by the American Society for Metals and the National Science Teachers Association.

Marjorie A. Benedict of the senior class is one of the semi-finalist candidates for a General Motors Scholarship for 1956. One hundred such scholarships will be awarded on the basis of high academic standing.

The eight students who, by writing competitive essays, won trips to the United Nations last Saturday, reported a highly successful experience, topped by the fun of a visit to Radio City Music Hall. They had an opportunity to sit in on a meeting of the Trusteeship Council where the proceedings were being translated and broadcast simultaneously in five different languages, and were taken on a conducted tour of the entire building. The group was accompanied by Mr. Julius Mueller, Principal, and by Mr. Charles Cummings, Head of Guidance and teacher of Modern Problems.

Winning essays were written by Stuart Harnish, Joseph Wager and Robert Walsh from grade 11; by Judith Sherman, Deborah Williams and John Wyman from grade 10; and by Thomas Kelley and John Reissner from grade 10. Four near-winners who qualified to go as alternates were Eleanor Farrar from grade 11, Eleanor Barbetti, and Philip Mueller from grade 10, and Marilyn Mooers from grade 9. Entries were judged on sincerity and on aptness of thought.

The Massachusetts Heart Association reports that science is really getting somewhere in the fight against heart disease. Many forms of the disease can now be checked or cured, it says.

REALTOR ... Weston
BY THE TOWN HOUSE
21 years of service to Wayland & Weston

TW 3-4500

Our years of experience dealing in Weston and Wayland properties qualifies us to act as your Real Estate Councillor and to give you the type of help you need when you purchase a home. We can serve you equally well in helping you solve your insurance problems.

Spring Flowers to Say Your Every Thought

Jonquils, tulips, snapdragons, iris, freesia — every one fresh and beautiful. Tell those you love how you feel — in sorrow or in joy — they'll remember you. Always a fine selection.

Fraser's FLOWERS

Rep. James DeNormandie

When Mr. James Murphy and Mrs. Reta Hubler brought the 6th grade of the Wayland Center School in to the State House for the hearing on the Stone Bridge, we had a truly effective example of a civics class at work. The class had previously visited the bridge, read about it and knew its history, and had come to see how the Legislature learns the facts before it decides the merits of the proposed bill.

The class heard the arguments in favor and the one argument against—that what we ask may be beyond the scope of the Hurricane Relief Act of 1955 and require funds from another source. These boys and girls now have a good picture of some of the steps necessary before a bill becomes law.

The Committee, too, enjoyed their visit, for they were an attentive and orderly group. No report has been given on the bill as yet.

It seems to me that if the towns of Wayland and Framingham provide the land takings that are necessary, it is just good common sense to locate the new bridge properly from the point of view of today's traffic needs. I feel that this is a more important traffic link than many realize. The bill also provides for an adequate floodway at the westerly end of the old bridge which will stop the flooding of Saxonville. It was gratifying to have all the splendid support that turned out at the hearing.

* * *

I feel strongly on another bill that was heard before the Committee on Education last week. It calls for freeing the Trustees of the University of Massachusetts from the narrow requirements and red tape of the Division of Personnel in choosing and promoting their staff.

No great University can function under the type of watch dog restrictions that now prevail. The new bill will allow the University trustees to pick the best man they can find to fill a certain position without referring back to the Division of Personnel, keeping always within the salary range and appropriations made by the Legislature.

Of course the handling of all University funds is subject to audit, but I feel it's only right that the Trustees have full responsibility to do their job and be held strictly accountable for the results.

* * *

The death penalty bill suspension bill brought out one of the most sincere and interesting discussions that has been heard in the Legislature this year. Basically it comes down to two points; whether the death penalty actually deters a criminal and whether we have the right as a moral and ethical people to take a life under any circumstance.

Naturally opinions were diverse but there was basic respect for the other's point of view which doesn't always prevail on ordinary bills. The bill was defeated, but the members on each side of the issue cut across to every conceivable line of background and party affiliation. I favored suspension on a trial basis for five years. It is an interesting fact that only this past week England abolished the death penalty.

By way of comment: It's good news to hear that the Ford Foundation plans to restore the Wayside Inn. Future generations as well as ourselves will always be grateful to them for their decision . . . . We'll miss Governor Herter's steady hand at the State House next year, but know that whatever Dame Fortune may have in store for him it will probably be in the service of his country where his extraordinary background and sympathetic understanding of people's problems will be used. Good luck to you, Governor!

In the Navy

John E. Sullivan

WAYLAND—The Navy reports that Airman Apprentice John E. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Sullivan of Fairfield Road, Cochituate, is now at the U.S. Naval Receiving Station, Norfolk, awaiting transfer to the U.S.S. Lake Champlain.

Elected Director

WESTON—Richard B. Lombard of Winsor Way has been elected a director of S. D. Warren Company of Boston, paper manufacturers. A native of Arlington, he was graduated in 1931 from Boston University, where he was an outstanding hockey star. He has been with the company since 1931.

Waltham Hospital Associates To Hold Fashion Show March 20

WALTHAM—A fashion show sponsored by the Waltham Hospital Associates will be held at the Hovey Memorial Auditorium at 8 p. m. March 20 for the benefit of patients at the Waltham Hospital.

Chairman of the committee is Mrs. Leonard H. Dowse of Weston, and other members are Mrs. William T. Van Huysen and Mrs. John J. Larkin, also of Weston.

Theme of the show will be "Spring and You". Hart models will show clothes for Easter, travel, dining out and gala occasions. Mrs. Mildred Albert, well known fashion authority, will be the commentator. Ralph Woodworth Jr. of Weston will provide organ music.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Atherton Spalding, Mrs. Daniel Viles and Mrs. W. Hart Nichols of Weston; Mrs. Charles F. Appel of Watertown, Mrs. John H. Baldwin of Wayland;

Mrs. S. Maxwell Beal, Mrs. Nathaniel P. Brackett Jr., Mrs. Samuel A. Cohn, Mrs. Oscar F. Falling, Mrs. Lawrence S. Flaherty and Mrs. Ira Flaschner, all of Waltham; Mrs. George B. Flint of Lincoln;

Mrs. Robert B. Grady, Mrs. Robert A. Grimes, Mrs. John J. Harrington. Mrs. Russell P. Wentworth, Mrs. Theodore A. Wester, Mrs. Benjamin Wolk and Mrs. W. P. Simmons, all of Waltham; and Mrs. Newell Goldberg of Newton.

Reservations may be obtained by calling any of the committee.

Adjustment Counselor For Weston Schools?

WESTON—Weston's League of Women Voters has been studying juvenile delinquency at its March unit meetings, with particular emphasis on the state probation system for juvenile offenders and whether or not it should be extended or improved.

On the local level, the possibility that Weston may engage a school adjustment counselor is also being discussed. Such a counselor would be paid out of state funds and would serve as an adviser to teachers and parents on problems involving poorly adjusted or emotionally disturbed children in the elementary schools.

The final March unit meeting will be Friday, March 16, at 10 a. m. at the home of Miss Muriel Haynes, 45 Hill Top Road.

A legislative tea was held by the Weston League on March 1, at the home of Mrs. Robert McCarter. Mrs. Hugh McKinstry, legislative chairman of the State Board, told how the League's legislative program is formed and described how a bill goes through the State Legislature.

Local experience seems to show that with snow tires the motorist with a level driveway doesn't need to do any shovelling unless the snowfall is very heavy.

Weston Men's Club Has Ladies' Night

WESTON—The annual ladies' night of the Weston Men's Club was scheduled to be held March 14 at Weston High School, with 150 to 200 present and the speaker, Frank Baker Jr., author, adventurer and naval officer, telling about a 16,000-mile trip from Boston to Rio de Janeiro in a sports car.

The previous Men's Club meeting was on Feb. 8, when Robert Ryan of Cabot, Cabot and Forbes talked about the industrial development along Route 128.

"My telephone is the biggest bargain I ever found"

Most of us are too busy to give the family telephone much thought. Yet when you count the tasks it does, and the comfort it brings as well as the protection it gives, you do realize its value to you and your family.

When you compare what your telephone does with how little it costs, doesn't it turn out to be a real bargain — every day of the year?

Candidates' Meeting Held By Weston LWV

WESTON—A candidates' meeting, sponsored by the Weston League of Women Voters, is being held at the Weston Town Hall on Thursday, March 15, at 8 p. m.

All candidates for Town offices have been invited to attend. Those candidates who are running for contested offices will speak. There will be a question period.

The meeting is designed to acquaint the Town further with all candidates before the Town election on Monday, March 19. Coffee will be served.

Weston PTA To Sponsor Kindergarten Meeting

WESTON — The Child Study Committee of the Weston PTA is sponsoring a meeting for all parents of children in the Weston Kindergarten at 8 p. m., on Tuesday, March 27. Miss Margaret Walker of the Framingham State Teachers College, formerly of Weston, will speak on "Reading Readiness."

Mrs. Burrill, Elementary Supervisor, Mrs. Ruth Spicer, kindergarten teacher, and Mrs. Lucy Tinker, first grade teacher, will be on hand. Coffee will precede the meeting. Notices announcing the meeting place will be sent home with the Kindergarten children during the week of March 19. If you fail to receive a notice or have other questions, contact Mrs. E. E. Stritter (TW 4-5729).

Wayland Kiwanis Hears About Nike In Lincoln

WAYLAND—Wayland Kiwanis met at the Red Coach Grill on Feb. 21 and heard Lieuts. Campbell and Fields talk on the local NIKE installation. They explained the workings of these guided missiles from the time they are uncrated up to the launching position ready for firing.

Speaker for the Feb. 28 meeting was William Fluhr of the Cutler Hammer Co., on automation. He defined automation as the mechanical control of any problem and discussed the many ways our lives are made easier by push button control.

A delegation headed by Fern Taylor attended a council meeting in Cambridge on Feb. 28. On Wednesday, Feb. 29, a delegation of local Kiwanians attended an inter-club meeting and reception for the New England Governor and enjoyed the fellowship of other Kiwanians from the 5th District.

Weston PTA Hears Teenage Panel

WESTON — The Weston PTA held its fourth meeting of the year on March 7 at 8 p. m. at the Country School. The program focused on a panel of 14 high school students, headed by Jerry Benedict and directed by Mr. Charles Cummings, their modern problems teacher, who discussed adolescence.

Dr. Richard Wareham, president, opened the meeting and introduced Mr. Anthony Brackett, new school superintendent, who spoke briefly on what he hopes to accomplish in Weston. Mr. Camillo Petri, secretary, announced the executive board's decision to use $150 for three prizes at commencement for those who excel in music, business and industrial arts. Dr. Arra S. Avakian, program chairman, spoke on the Weston Committee on Education.

The two-part program was introduced by Mr. Julius Mueller, High School principal, who emphasized the school's aim in having pupils themselves put on programs for their parents. The High School choir of 60 sang under the direction of Mr. Wendell B. Phillips, and the remainder of the program revolved about the panel which discussed such problems as how many restrictions parents should impose on teenagers and whether they have too much homework.

The final PTA meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, May 16, at 7:30 p.m., and will feature art exhibited by the fourth, fifth and sixth grades, as well as refreshments and the annual business meeting.

Sudbury Exchange To Hold Sale March 21

SUDBURY — The Sudbury Clothing Exchange, Town Hall, Sudbury Center, will conduct a clearance sale March 21, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. All items now on hand reduced 30 per cent. The Exchange is open on the third Wednesday of every month.

Bulletin Carries Piece About J. Ward Carter

WESTON—Ward Carter, Town Accountant, is the subject of an article entitled "Efficiency Comes to Suburbia" in the Winter issue of the Harvard Business School Bulletin. The article presents the predicament of fast-growing suburban areas faced with the need for new schools, taxes, roads and public services to keep up with population growth. The Town fathers of Weston decided to handle these problems by appointing Mr. Carter as a full-time professional executive secretary to the Board of Selectmen.

W. C. L. Plans Course In Sewing, With An Expert Instructor

WESTON—The Arts and Activities department of the Women's Community League is offering a course in sewing, with a professional instructor, to a class of eight persons, at $12 for eight lessons. The plan is to have one meeting a week, between 9:30 a. m. and 1 p. m.

Those interested may call Mrs. F. William Aseltine Jr., TW 3-4210.

Two Speakers Highlight World Outlook Month

WESTON — As part of the "World Outlook" month at the Weston Methodist Church, a group of the Woman's Society of Christian Service has been meeting every other Thursday to spend the morning in joint study and discussion. Dr. David Cox, director of research and strategy of the Massachusetts Council of Churches, will speak to their meeting of Monday, March 19, on the application of missionary principles "Where City and Country Meet".

The Couples' Club is looking forward to their speaker for March 27, a man who has had practical experience in the ministry in China and who was forced to leave by the new Communist government. Dr. Oscar Guinn has been in this area as minister of the Parkman Street Methodist Church in Dorchester.

Further developments are to come in the efforts of the church to sponsor a refugee from behind the Iron Curtain which is also being handled by the Missions Commission, Dr. Edwin B. Goodall, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Max Pelsue, Mrs. J. Sumner Viles, Mrs. Paul Redden, Mrs. Malcolm Currier, and the minister.

J. T. House Kindergarten Is Open To All In Town

WAYLAND—The Junior Town House Kindergarten wishes to make it clear that children from all sections of the Town, not merely Wayland Center, are welcome to enroll as pupils.

Letters are being sent out to residents whose presence in Town was shown by the January listing. For the benefit of those who have moved in since, this is the procedure:

Parents of children who will be 5 years old in September may enroll them by filing application with Mrs. Dunbar Holmes, Plain Road, kindergarten director. It makes no difference where they live, within the Town boundaries.

Capacity of the school is 60 pupils. The earlier the application, the better.

Time To Prune — But With Care And Skill

By the Garden Editor

Much can and should be done in March in caring for trees and shrubs.

It is time to prune grape vines, fruit-bearing trees, shrubs that blossom in late summer or fall, take out broken branches, tie up split crotches and straighten the shrubs and branches; in fact, repair the damage done by Old Man Winter's ice and snow.

Be sure you know just what you are doing when you prune. A great deal of good is done when you know how, but many gardens do not have the beautiful summer blossoms they should have because someone pruned off the buds early in the spring. Remember, most spring blossoming trees and shrubs have the flowering buds formed the previous year, so except for taking out broken branches, they should not be pruned until after they blossom.

March is the time to look carefully over all your shrubs and trees to detect any animal damage such as girdling and bark eating. Look for scale insects and aphids eggs on the twigs, check your evergreens for bark and leaf scale, and make plans for your season spraying. The dormant spray is the best insurance to help keep these pests down later in the season.

The garden is a great place to get rid of stored up Winter energy and is a real pleasure but the joy is greater if we work with knowledge of what we wish to do.

Among new residents of this area must be many who will be encountering the problems of gardening, lawn tending and shrub care for the first time. Those who have specific questions may write to The Crier, and the Garden Editor will try to answer.)

Town Meeting Sidelights

Guests at the meeting were John Connolly, attending his 65th annual Wayland Town Meeting, and Edward M. Dickson, Weston Selectmen, who came over to see how the neighbors do it.

* * *

Expressions of appreciation for the services to the Town of Mr. Connolly and Mr. John W. Leavitt, recently retired Selectman, were voted unanimously by the meeting.

* * *

The recreation committee announced that it is studying the idea of having a Town Forest in Wayland. (Weston has two.)

* * *

Frank Hartin said the Town is worse off for daytime fire protection than it was 30 or 40 years ago. Seems nobody works in Wayland any more.

Joining, but not in picture, were Mrs. John A. Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dyer, Mrs. Donald S. Ewing, Mrs. Wallace Milliken and Mrs. Valerie Starkey.

Wayland LWV Notes

Mrs. Charles Owen has been elected Voters' Service Chairman. Mrs. Frank Kilburn was in charge of refreshments at the candidates' meeting.

* * *

The subject for the March unit meetings will be "Freedom of Speech and Press", presented by Mrs. Leslie Flood. The local item of study, the Selectmen's functions, will be presented by Mrs. Bruce F. Kingsbury.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Norman Alstad, Tuesday, March 20, in the morning; Mrs. Harry Latowsky, March 20, in the evening; Mrs. Donald B. Willard, March 21, in the morning, and Mrs. W. L. Pritchard, March 21, in the evening.

Dr. Rutstein Will Be Wayland U.N. Speaker

WAYLAND—Dr. David D. Rutstein, professor of preventive medicine at Harvard Medical School, will speak on "Some International Aspects of Preventive Medicine" at the next meeting of the Wayland United Nations Association, to be held Friday evening, March 23, in the High School Library.

Dr. Rutstein has a TV program, "Facts in Medicine", seen locally every Thursday evening. Archibald Cox, president of the Wayland U. N. Association, will preside.

Wayland Student Show, "Capers", on March 22

WAYLAND—The Wayland Junior and Senior High Student Council is sponsoring a contest for students in selling tickets to the "Capers," a series of acts by teachers and students on Thursday evening, March 22, at 8 p. m.

Featured on the show will be the Wabaniers of Wellesley College and the Tufts Dixieland jazz band. The Wayland High School P. T. A. signed up these musicians, who are in great demand all over New England.

THE IMPORTANCE OF GOOD GROUPING

A well-planned furniture arrangement can make any room in your home serve you better. A good arrangement must stand four tests: (1) Does it make the most of tbe room's advantages size-wise and architecturally? (2) Does it produce the most comfort and convenience possible for those wbo are to occupy the room? (3) Do the pieces that are grouped togetber add to the function and beauty of each other? and (4) Does the arrangement make it possible for the room and its furnishings to fulfill the functions required and at the same time look attractive?

If the answer to all these questions is an emphatic "yes", you may rest assured that your arrangement is excellent.

Good arrangements don't just happen. They are always the result of careful, thoughtful planning.

Note how well the contemporary arrangement of chests and an end shelf unit has been adapted to the provincial setting in the room sketched above. Three three-drawer birch chests have been placed along the wall and finished off with the shelf unit. Other furnishings in the room are provincial in style . . . as are the stained pine walls and the hand-hooked rug. The arrangement puts the room in the mood of today.

Each room presents its own arrangement problems. Our trained decorators will be most happy to assist you with ideas and plans that will help you make the most of your rooms. So avail yourself of this professional advice. Anytime. We are always glad to see you.

The third Wayland team in history to get into the Tech Tournament made it to the final game, to lose to Bridgewater, 79 to 61.

A big crowd of Wayland people attended both the semi-final, which Wayland won, and the final, and there was no lack of vocal support.

After the final, the Wayland players were given silver bracelets and bronze pins, with emblems, for having participated in the tournament.

The Wayland season ended with 18 wins, 2 losses.

March 2

Sacred Heart's deliberate, possession type game slowed Wayland down to a walk and neither team could score much at first. The half-time score was 17 to 10 in Wayland's favor. Then the team began to click. Bradley led both teams with 19 points. The defense was good. 47 to 38 was the same score by which Sacred Heart beat Holliston in the first tournament game.

Old Taverns Weren't So Glamorous, Wayland Historical Society Hears

Taverns in the old stagecoach days around here weren't as glamorous as Christmas cards might lead one to suppose, members of the Wayland Historical Society were told by several speakers at a meeting in Wayland Library a few weeks ago.

In fact, said George G. Bogren, some of the complaints about taverns in old days were surprisingly like those made about drinking places today. There was too much noise, closing hours weren't observed and the sleeping accomodations weren't very good.

Pequot Inn

Until the railroad and the temperance movement came along, around 1830, there were many taverns in Wayland and Weston. One author says that almost every house in Weston, at one time or another, was a tavern. In Wayland there were more than a dozen. In both Towns, some burned down, some were destroyed on account of age and some still survive as private homes. The Smith Tavern, in Weston, now flourishes as the Jones House.

A famous tavern in Wayland, described by J. Sidncy Stone, was the Pequot Inn, which stood for 150 years or so directly across the State Road from the First Parish Church, fronting on Cochituate Road. It occupied a site acquired 30 years ago by public spirited citizens and given to the Town of Wayland to be the location for a new Town office building. The Town Office Building Committee is now working on plans for such a building, to be placed on this very site.

The Pequot Inn was famous not only as a resting place for travelers, but as a Summer resort. Not so long ago Wayland was considered country, and city people would come out to the Pequot to spend a couple of weeks rusticating.

In earliest days, before heat was put into the churches, it was required that taverns be provided near them, not far from them, as at present. After shivering through the morning sermon, the parishioners would adjourn at noon to the inn, to be warmed inside and out and fortified for the afternoon service. Some, presumably, also stopped in after the second service to pick up one or two for the road home. (The horse could drive.)

On the Main Road

Taverns in Weston and Wayland, it was explained, were particularly important in the 1600s and 1700s because the Post Road was the main route from Boston to New York and Philadelphia, as well as to Vermont and New Hampshire. It ran through what is now the shopping center of Weston and thence to the fork at Red Coach Grill. Old Connecticut Path, to the left, was the road to Connecticut and New York. Plain Road, sharp right, was the way to Wayland Center, Sudbury and points West.

Frank G. MacKenna said that one of the big Wayland taverns, operated around 1765 by Nathaniel Reeves, stood about where the Red Coach is now. The premises included a smithy, harness shop and even a grocery store. It was closed as a tavern in 1850, but some still living in Town can remember it. It burned in 1902 or 1903.

The Parmenter Tavern, oldest in Wayland, was built in 1653 or 1654, near the corner of Concord Road and Bow Road. This was finally demolished in 1818.

The Reeves Tavern, opened in 1783 on Old Connecticut Path, was operated for 30 years by Jacob Reeves, who was an important citizen in Town, holding many public offices. This house is now occupied as a private home by the Hubbards.

Happy Hollow

Another Wayland tavern still standing on Old Connecticut Path, a couple of miles West of the Reeves Tavern, is now the home of George Nolan. This one, said Mr. Bogren, was built in 1710 by Thomas Frink, brother-in-law of the noted Rev. Samuel Paris of Salem witchcraft fame. Paris lived in Wayland a number of years, after the Salem affair, and his grave is said to be in the North Cemetery. This tavern was operated by Hopestill Bent.

Indeed, said Mr. Bogren, tradition has it that on account of the Bent Tavern and another one a mile or so to the West, at the corner of Stone Bridge Road, this part of Town came to be known as Happy Hollow. (Some say Happy Hollow was a name applied to a section of Stone Bridge Road, on account of some easygoing establishments there, long since vanished.)

Until a few years ago, a section of Old Connecticut Path was still described in old deeds as Happy Hollow Road. In any case, the present Happy Hollow housing development isn't where the first Happy Hollow was, and isn't much like it. And the innocent children of the region now attend a school picturesquely named for a once frisky neighborhood.

The Spy

Also told was the story of the British spy who, early in April, 1775, was sent into this part of the world by Gen. Gage, from Boston. The spy, Sergt. John Howe, stopped at the Smith Tavern in Weston, where he was promptly spotted in spite of a disguise, and he later fled the Town to escape tar and feathers.

The story of Sergt. Howe is a long one. However, the gist of it is that he made his way back to Boston and reported that if the British should send 10,000 troops and a train of artillery to Worcester, not one man would get back alive. And the historians think this pessimistic report persuaded Gen. Gage he'd do better to send an expedition to Concord, which he did, and thus the Revolution started there instead of at some point along the Post Road or Old Connecticut Path.

Mrs. Willard B. Dik, President of the Society, presided.

10th Candidates' Night Held By Wayland LWV

WAYLAND—Wayland League of Women Voters held its 10th consecutive Candidate's Night at Happy Hollow School on Feb. 29, with between 200 and 300 voters present. Most of the candidates showed up and spoke briefly. Mrs. L. William Bertelsen, president of the Wayland League, presided.

Some of the statements:

By Howard S. Russell, Moderator, unopposed: "Prudence dictates that I should run quite a long time."

By Charles W. Brennan, candidate for School Committee: "I want Wayland's school system to be second to none."

By William S. Lewis, candidate for Assessor: "The ultimate valuation still is an opinion."

By Egon Weiss, candidate for Library Trustee: "I think the library system should be as good as the school system."

By Norman Fair, candidate for Board of Health: "Monday the 5th is my birthday. Vote for me."

The meeting was marked by good humor. Refreshments were served afterwards.

Mrs. Gannett Is Up For Reelection To Women's GOP State Committee

WAYLAND—Mrs. Thomas B. Gannett of Wayland has announced that she will seek reelection for a second four-year term as the Republican State Committee Woman from the Middlesex-Norfolk Senatorial District at the Presidential primary on April 24. She says:

"It has been a rewarding experience to work with the Republican Committees and Clubs of the 19 towns and one city of this district. They have accomplished a great deal, but the need for even greater effort lies ahead, as many of these communities are among the fastest growing in the State. The population shifts call for alert workers to maintain and increase the Republican vote.

"The young people of the district have proved to be excellent workers; in the four years since 1952, increasing numbers of young Americans have reached voting age, and will cast their first vote in a presidential election this fall. President Eisenhower and the entire Republican party will welcome them as workers in their ranks as much as they will continue to rely on the support of all ages and groups."

Mrs. Gannett, a member of the Wayland Republican Town Committee, resigned as its Chairman when she was elected to the Republican State Committee in 1952. She now serves on the executive board of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Republican Clubs and is a trustee of the Medfield State Hospital. She serves on the Ladies' Committee of the Children's Medical Center, on the executive committee of the Corporation of the Winsor School, and is a director of the Elizabeth Peabody Settlement House. She and Mr. Gannett live on Old Connecticut Path, with their five children.

Mr. Ayers Will Run For Legislature Seat Again

WESTON—J. Robert Ayers of Weston will run for reelection to the Massachusetts House of Representatives this year, he says, and Harris A. Reynolds of 40 Possum Road, Weston, is a candidate for Governor's Council.

Joseph S. Trombley, now a member of the Waltham City Council, will run for the House, seeking the seat now held by Rep. William Hays. Mr. Hays seeks a Senate seat.

Weston is in a double House district. Mr. Ayers and Mr. Hays have been its two Representatives.

McEnroy And Waldron Win In Warm Wayland Election

WAYLAND—John R. McEnroy, long active in Town politics, was elected to the Board of Selectmen over Archibald Cox at the Town Election of March 5, by a plurality of 31 votes.

Of equal interest was the victory of William A. Waldron, for School Committee, over Charles W. Brennan. It was Mr. Brennan's first try for Town office. Mr. Waldron was up for reelection. The margin was more than 400.

The campaigning was warm. The results caused a good deal of speculation as to why they were what they were, and what the effect might be on the future political complexion of the Town.

In other contests, Bruce F. Kingsbury, candidate for the two-year term on the Planning Board, won by a comfortable vote over Edward A. Veno; Carlisle D. Scotland of the Welfare Board was re-elected over Joseph F. Laughlin and Dr. David R. Corey, making his first try for Town office, was elected to the Board of Health over John G. Fair, incumbent, who was running for his third term.

New Selectman
John R. McEnroy

Several lively celebrations and post-mortems were held.

4-Year Governor's Term Favored By Weston LWV

WESTON—The Weston League of Women Voters reminds people that if they are interested in a four-year term for Governor, now is the time to write to legislators and ask them to support Bills H.643 and S.78. These bills are constitutional amendments that provide for a four-year term for Governor and constitutional officers starting in 1958. One of these bills must pass this session if the elections for four-year terms are to begin in 1958, a non-presidential election year.

The League feels that a four-year term for Governor would give him more time to develop and administer his policies, and would enable him to spend less time and money compaigning.

It also believes that these elections should be held in a non-presidential election year. This, it feels, would tend to emphasize state issues rather than national issues and would help to prevent a Governor's being swept into office by straight ticket voting.

Unusual March Storms Dump Feet of Snow on Both Towns

Three furious March storms, on the 16th, 19th and 24th, dumped three feet of snow on Wayland and Weston, caused the closing of schools for two days, cost several thousands of dollars for removal, inconvenienced travelers and set off chain reactions of emotions ranging from wonder through irritation to worry and fright.

However, the Town fared better than Boston. There was no great problem of parked automobiles to impede the plows. On the contrary, once automobiles were inside their own driveways, the plows blocked the entrances and put the automobiles off the road for a day or so.

In the first storm a foot or so of snow fell in drifts. The Vokes players went on with their show, and the audience numbered 35.

In the second storm, there was another foot of snow, again driven by northeast gales. Some of the drifts measured three feet or more.

After the second storm, there were several days of sunshine. Snowplows sank of their own weight and the sun dried the roads. Then on Saturday, the 24th, there was another storm with wind, which left another foot or so. However, the depth of snow after the third storm didn't seem quite as great as that after the second.

Except for the Mansion Inn fire, there were no casulties in the two Towns. Volunteers manned the Wayland fire stations during Storm 2, and extra men were called into the Weston station. However, there were no fires in either Town during Storms 1 and 2.

Highway department men in both Towns fought the wind and snow with vast endurance. Many work-

Mrs. Case Will Be April Speaker of Community League

WESTON — Phyllis Kirk Case. wife of the president of Boston University, will be the April speaker for The Women's Community League of Weston at the Weston Town House on Monday, April 2, at 3 p. m.

Mrs. Case is fitted to bring inspiration to her subject, "Puppets and the Contemporary", not only because she is vitally interested in the problems of the individual in our mechanized world but because she also holds ministerial credentials.

Mrs. Maryel F. French is program chairman of the day. Tea chairman, Mrs. Arthur B. Barney, will serve tea in the lower half of the hall after the program. She will be assisted by a committee which includes Mrs. Harold J. Adler, Mrs. Howard S. Bush. Mrs. Edmund W. Campbell, Mrs. Daniel H. Crowley. Mrs. Frederick W. Derbyshire, Mrs. Richard A. Dobbins, Mrs. Guy Garland, Mrs. Harold P. Granger, Mrs. Richard P. Holland, Mrs. John P. Larkin, Mrs. Richard W. Larsen, Mrs. Albert E. Scott, Jr., Mrs. Raymond W. Searle and Mrs. Frank A. Stevens.

Pourers will be Mrs. George E. Bulwinkle, food chairman of the Children's Exchange; Mrs. David R. Brooke, chairman of the nominating committee of the League; Mrs. Thomas T. Craven, vice chairman of the membership committee, and Mrs. Geoffrey A. Sawyer, chairman of decorative painting.

Hostesses from the Board of Directors will be Mrs. Henry M. Merrill and Mrs. George A. Paul. Mrs. Joseph B. Hartwell and Mrs. Richard B. Fowler will usher.

Mrs. Robert E. Marsh, in charge of floral decorations for both the upper hall and the tea tables, will be assisted by Mrs. John W. Ayer and Mrs. Ransom U. Rowe.

Parks Snowshoes, Gets Traffic Ticket

WESTON—William R. Dewey, Jr., chairman of the Weston Board of Selectmen, made his way to the Town House to perform official duties on snowshoes on the morning of March 17, the day after the big snowstorm.

He stacked the shoes against one of the white pillars outside, and when he came out he found the alert Weston Police Department had hung a red traffic ticket on them.

The charge: "Blocking the entrance to Town Hall."

Richard Field Is Chosen Selectman

WESTON — The blizzard of March 19 did not deter 490 hardy voters in Weston who turned out despite snow and bad roads to vote in the Town elections. A quorum was on hand at noon to start the voting, which by law could not be postponed.

Richard H. Field, Caucus candidate for Selectman, received 438 votes as against 40 for John S. O'Brien, and 12 blanks. Joseph M. Bradley with 387 votes and Robert A. Townsend with 327 were elected to the Recreation Commission over Kimball A. McMullin, who received 196.

Program for Scouts - Brownies on April 7

WESTON — On Saturday evening, April 7, all Weston Girl Scouts and Brownies are having an evening program at the Country School at 7:30. A movie, "Camping for Girl Scouts" will be shown, followed by a skit put on by the New Mariner Scout Troop.

Each troop will present to Mrs. David Kellogg, Sr., the money that has been earned during the last year for the Juliette Low Fund. This is a memorial fund established to foster friendships among young people of many countries.

Mansion Inn Destroyed In Worst Wayland Fire

This picture, taken at the height of the fire, shows what a firm grip the flames took on Mansion Inn, despite the tons of water poured on it.

COCHITUATE—Mansion Inn, a Victorian landmark famous for more than 75 years, was destroyed on the afternoon of March 24, during the end of the third big Spring snowstorm, by one of the worst fires in Town history.

The building itself, by Town records, was assessed for $22,000, and the damage was estimated in Boston papers at $100,000. However, replacing the solid old woodwork and the fittings, it was said, would cost much more than that.

The Inn was not exactly like Wayside Inn in Sudbury, but it was nevertheless deeply fixed in the traditions of the Town. Many a gay party was held there, and those who enjoyed the hospitality of the place were sorry to see it go.

What would become of the property was not known. Town officials said the Inn was in a residential zone, with a 20,000-foot minimum lot size. The Inn operated as a restaurant and entertainment spot because it was so functioning before 1934, when the zoning laws went into effect.

Whether it could be rebuilt as a restaurant, it was suggested, might be up to the Board of Appeals.

Some citizens suggested that the site, 8.7 acres of high, dry land, overlooking Dudley Pond, would make a fine Town park.

Called Framingham

Larger Business Areas Voted At Wayland's Second Town Meeting

WAYLAND—The Town voted four amendments to the Zoning By-Laws, providing additional business space in Cochituate, and defeated or passed over four others, at the continued Town Meeting held March 15.

The votes indicated that scarcely 200 were present. It was a stormy night, and the first business was to add money to the snow removal account in the budget. The meeting was delayed a few minutes because Mr. Howard S. Russell, Moderator, had trouble getting his automobile up the slope outside his home.

The first Article called for making a business district out of about seven acres on the the southeast corner of the intersection of Routes 27 and 30 in Cochituate Center. A two-thirds vote was necessary, and this Article finally passed, 130 to 36.

The next article called for enlarging the business district across East Plain Street from the Cochituate Library. This was passed. 141 to 9.

Another change voted was one requiring approval of new buildings or additions in a roadside business district. It was explained that this was simply to correct something left out inadvertently back in 1954, and there was no opposition.

A Night Club

Another change removed the Boston & Maine Parking lot and the Lovell house in the Center from a business zone and put them a residential district. Mrs. Roger P. Stokey read a note from Miss Sarah E. Lovell, who said she was in favor of the change. The idea, it was said, was to help preserve the looks of the Center.

Beaten down was a proposal to change land around the Legion Hall in Cochituate from a business zone to a residential. Debate on this was enlivened by a speaker who asked what residents here would think when the fire apparatus came roaring around the corner "with two appointed firemen on board," and referred to The Stein, a noted

Sunrise Service By Weston Youth

WESTON — The Weston Youth Council will hold a sunrise Easter service at Cat Rock at 6 a.m. Following the service, there will be a breakfast at the Baptist Church.

The sermon will be given by Harry Crawford III, the morning prayer by Bill Rollins, the scripture reading by Craig Jameson and the call to worship by Stuart Harnish. Elizabeth Frye will be the organist.

Mrs. F. F. Peterson

WESTON — Many here were saddened to learn of the sudden death in Pocasset on March 7 of Mrs. Ferdinand F. Peterson, 77, wife of the former minister of the Baptist Church of Weston.

Funeral services were held at Pocasset and interment was in Linwood Cemetery, Weston.

Mr. Peterson, now nearly 80 and minister of the Pocasset Baptist Church, served in Weston from about 1940 to about 1953.

There are six Peterson children.

Roland is with Bird & Son in Walpole. Helen teaches school in Needham, where she lives at 22 Morton Street. John is in Providence and Robert is in the Army at Bordeaux, France. Mrs. Raymond Paige is in Phoenix, Arizona, and Mrs. Daniel Mazzarella, who used to be a substitute teacher in both Weston and Wayland, is in Towson, Maryland.

Mrs. Peterson was ill at Christmas, when she received many notes and cards from Weston.

WESTON — The Waltham Hospital Campaign for funds reported on March 15 a total of $578,931, which was well over the goal of half a million. Weston pledged $61,491, exclusive of doctors in the town who use the hospital. The doctors themselves contributed more than $100,000.

Contracts for New Town Hall Signed

WAYLAND — Town Counsel Frank Kilburn says that the contract for the new Town Hall building has been given to the N. D. C. Construction Company of Boston, of which James M. Cazanas of Cochituate Road, Wayland, is a partner. The contract for excavating and filling was given to the Canning Construction Company of Natick.

Mr. Kilburn says excavating should begin as soon as weather permits and that construction should start in the middle of April. The building should be finished early next year.

Audubon Man Will Speak to Garden Interest Group

WESTON — Mr. C. Russell Mason of the Massachusetts Audubon Society will speak on "Attracting Birds to Your Garden" at the April 9 meeting of the Garden Interest Group of the Women's Community League, to be held at 3 p.m. in the Country School auditorium.

WAYLAND — The Wayland Board of Selectmen organized on March 7 with Frank S. Tarr as new chairman, Thomas F. Linnehan as clerk and John R. McEnroy, newly elected, as third member. New secretary to the Selectmen is Norman E. Taylor, who is also Town Accountant and office manager at Town Hall.

Dr. Brackett Has Been Teacher, Navy Man and Administrator

"Schools should meet the needs of the children in the community, and help parents (who own the schools) achieve their ambitions for their children", says Dr. Anthony A. G. Brackett, who on March 1 succeeded Dr. Calvin Gross as Superintendent of the Weston Schools.

Dr. Anthony G. L. Brackett
(Melkon Studio.)

"Needs vary with the community. The professional educator must meet varying needs with equal enthusiasm, like a doctor who must diagnose impartially for his patient.

"As Superintendent. I shall encourage the staff to work toward achieving these ends within their spheres of influence. Remarks like this have been made many times"' "But I feel they are true, and like the Lord's Prayer, just because we may say it every day doesn't make it less true, or trite."

Middlebury Graduate

Dr. Brackett has been on the administrative staff of the Westbrook and Gorham, Maine, school union since 1947. In the union, while he was superintendent, he dealt with two school systems and two school boards.

"My proudest achievement, up to now, was becoming superintendent of the school from which I was graduated. In the last seven years, I have had on my staff some teachers who taught me when I was going to school. I believe this was a unique situation. It just happened to work out because there was a vacancy at the right time."

Dr. Brackett has something of Maine in his speech. He is tall and lean, and was born 46 years ago in Westbrook. After graduating from High School there he went to Middlebury College in Vermont, graduating in 1933. Having decided to go into the educational field, he prepared for teaching by majoring in English, but taking his other courses so that he was graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree. He taught English at Bordentown Military Institute and at Westford Academy.

"Most of my classroom experience was in private schools", says Dr. Brackett. For the past 14 years, with the exception of two years as a Lieutenant J G in the Navy, he has been in school administration, and has his Master of Arts and Ph.D degrees from Harvard in this field.

Worked On Papers

A slug of type with his name on it has been a paperweight on Dr. Brackett's desk since his college days, when he was editor of the "Middlebury Campus", a weekly.

"I'm probably one of very few school superintendents who has been a member of the Newspaper Guild. A pair of scissors and a pot of paste is for me like the smell of sawdust for a circus fan."

After college, while he was teaching, Dr. Brackett worked summers on the Portland, Maine newspapers.

"Being a teacher, I was sent round to interview the new superintendent of schools," he says. "The superintendent put himself on the spot. He was in favor of trade school training rather than the liberal arts kind. I had to write what he said about that, but buried it in the article, and left it out of the lead. The city editor spotted it, and made me re-write the article so that is all came out.

"I'm just learning about Weston, so I can't make any statements about the schools, but I gather there may not be such a spread in interest of children and their parents' ambitions as there were where I was in Maine."

Mrs. Brackett is a Ph.D.

Westbrook is a community of 13,000, with several industries, including one of the largest paper mills in Maine. Gorham has a population of 5,000. A State Teachers' College is there and it's a bedroom town comparable with Weston in some respects, Dr. Brackett feels. Some pupils come to Westbrook and Gorham schools from the Portland area. Around 60% went from High School to some sort of higher education.

Dr. and Mrs. Brackett have three children. The oldest, Elisabeth, 16, is in the 10th grade, and will remain in school in Maine, staying with friends and visiting Dr. Brackett's parents in Windham on weekends. Robert, 15, is in the 8th grade and will be in Weston as will Margaret, 10, in the 5th grade. Dr. and Mrs. Brackett were married after Dr. Brackett's first wife had died and Mrs. Brackett was a widow, then a member of the Language Department of Stamford University.

Mrs. Brackett, the former Mary Williams, of Westminister, Vermont, has a Ph.D in German philology, her special field being the development of the German language through its Teutonic and Latin strains. She studied German in college, and later traveled in Germany.

She and Dr. Brackett were in the same class at Middlebury. Mrs. Brackett, an attractive brunette, has been assistant to the Director of the German School at Middlebury, Director of Admissions, and for several years, Dean of Women at Middlebury, which position she resigned to accept a position in the Language Department at Stamford. Dr. Brackett says nowadays she is a full time homemaker.

Dr. and Mrs. Brackett have have bought a house at 160 Summer Street, Weston. They are now in residence, having moved in just before the Great Snow.

Letters to the EDITOR

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the Town officers, friends and relatives who were so nice to me and my brother and sister, in the time when it was needed. My dad, I am sure, must have enjoyed the flowers. It was a beautiful display and it showed that he was liked in his Town.

His death was a great shock to us.

Very truly
Doris Hobbs.

(Letter above refers to recent death of Chester H. Hobbs, who was once prominent in Wayland Town affairs.)

To the Editor:

It doesn't make much difference how far we get from home, the Town Crier finds us. My son forwards the Crier to me, which I enjoy reading, then I send it to Canada for a former Cochituate resident to read.

I am spending the Winter here in "sunny California" with my brother and wife. Last Sunday we visited the A. Hammonds and W. Mitchells from Cochituate, in Long Beach.

There is so much to see and do here and we have had fine weather until the present two-days deluge of rain.

Mrs. A. Stanley

Jan. 26, 1956.

Austin S. Hale, whose interests spread across Town lines, sent the Wayland basketball team his wishes for victory in the tournament, and rode to Boston Garden in the school bus with the team for the final game.

Artillery Museum at Fort Sill Wants Piece of Stone's Bridge

WAYLAND — Mrs. Willard B. Dik, president of the Wayland Historical Society, has received a letter from the artillery museum at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, asking for some souvenir rocks from Old Stone's Bridge, if they demolish it.

The letter came from Gillett Griswold, curator of the Artillery and Guided Missile Center Museum, who said he had read in the New York Times about plans to replace the bridge. He wrote:

"I was gratified to note that your Society, in company with other organizations and citizens, was attempting to find a way in which the span could be preserved, and I wish you all success in this endeavor.

"In the event, however, that this famous landmark is demolished, I wish to inquire regarding the possibility of the Artillery and Guided Missile Center Museum obtaining a small segment of the bridge, sufficient at least to show the dry laying of the stone, for permanent preservation here along with other Revolutionary War artifacts which are now in our custody . . . The role of Stone's Bridge in the earliest successes of the Artillery Arm is an important element of this history. Please inform us regarding the present status of Stone's Bridge . . ."

Many of the stones in the bridge must weigh hundreds of pounds, and enough of them to show, say, one span, would make a lot of rock to transport to Oklahoma.

Whimsy and Humor Mark 'Mrs. McThing'

The Vokes Players presented "Mrs. McThing" for its Winter production at seven performances during March. "Mrs. McThing" is another skillfully written fantasy by Mary ("Harvey") Chase, and the lines are full of whimsy as well as humor. "Characters" abound, and the players, expertly coached by Mercedes Bassett, threw themselves into their roles with enthusiasm and conviction.

Most fun are the scenes in the headquarters of the Schellenbach mob. Poison Eddie, (Ed White) appears to rule the roost of this would-be gang. He pushes around his colleagues (Bob Paine and Parm Hill), and deprecates the skills of his lunchroom chef (Fran Fisher), who is more interested in musical than culinary arts. But whenever he starts to make light of mothers, his own (Helen Walther) storms in and, in the play, literally levels the boys with her well-aimed verbal and physical blows.

Nine-year-olds Peter Naylor and Dana Walston (acting alternately in a man-sized part) created admirably the thoroughly charming and spoiled brat who was whisked away by the miraculous Mrs. McT. (Peggy Bruce and Jane Cannistraro) from the protecting arms of his mother (Louise Kennedy).

Mimi, the boy's girl friend, who appalls mere mortals with her familiarity with witchcraft, is beautifully played by Heidi Grey and Beverly White.

Supporting roles are ably filled by Cynthia Naylor, Nancy Tanger and Hildie Harris in the college classmates division, and Carol Stites, Bonnie Grey, Jack Hyland and Peter Salvucci in the necessary domestic and custodial departments.

ed around the clock, 24 hours or more, under about the worst conditions possible.

Around business establishments, the plows pushed up snow Alps eight feet tall. Jeeps with attached plows did a big business cleaning driveways, and shovels, chains and snow tires had a big workout.

For the season, the storms were practically unprecedented in their severity.

One man went to a party in the first storm, driving a truck loaded with sand, to be on the safe side. But when he came out, at 1 a.m., he found that other guests at the party had helped themselves to all his sand. He got home at 5 a.m., shoveling snow frequently.

The Cochituate Community Methodist Church sent its copy for this issue addressed to "Town Crier, Snowbound, Mass."

But there was probably no time when an automobile equipped with chains couldn't have negotiated the main roads.

Stores did a big business in birdseed, because so many local residents were concerned about feeding birds. Red-winged blackbirds came to local feeders, an unusual thing.

Faculty Shines at Wayland PTA Show

WAYLAND — Twenty members of the High School faculty, putting on a funny skit called "The Mickey Mouse Club Meeting", featured the "Capers", a show staged at the school gymnasium March 22 for the benefit of the PTA scholarship fund.

Six hundred attended, believed to be the best turnout ever for a Wayland PTA show.

Featured students were Dick Irwin, Bob McAndrew, Paul Fichter, James Brown, Clyde Kelton, Anne Walsh, David Hollis, Joanna Duggan, Cynthia Dunnan, Fred Nichols, Eileen Bresse, Linda Cherry, Tracy Hill, Robert Pierce and the girls' chorus.

St. Peter's Plans For New Church

WESTON — The vestry and special committees of St. Peter's Church have been working on the needs and future plans for St. Peter's Parish during the past two years. Sometime ago the Church was presented with a piece of land located in Weston between the old Post Road and the by-pass, bordered on the West by the "teachers' lodge" and on the east by the Children's Park.

This beautiful site was formerly the Italian garden of the Sears estate. The beautiful walls and wrought iron gates are still standing on the old Post Road and these will be incorporated into the plans for the new church. Some weeks ago the Parish voted to erect a Georgian Church and have been pledging to a Building Fund for well over a year.

At a recent Vestry meeting the following members of the Parish were elected to the Construction Committee: Mr. W. H. Bowden, Chairman, Mr. Arthur A. Nichols, Miss Helen Johnson, Mr. Herman Koester, Jr., Mr. Nathaniel Hamlen, Mr. Walter H. Farrell, Mr. Horace W. Cole, Mr. Geoffrey A. Sawyer, Mr. Harold G. Travis, Mrs. Mead Hartwell and Mr. James Otis Post.

The proposed building will face West and a full view of the structure will be seen by those driving on the by-pass toward Waltham. Adequate parking area and drives will be constructed on the plot with entrances from the old Post Road. No definite date for the beginning of construction has been set, but the Committee will soon be working with an architect on drawings and proposals for the new structure.

For four years St. Peter's Church children have been using class rooms at Case House for Sunday morning sessions, as well as the parish rooms at the present church. It is planned that the new building will have adequate space for Church School and Parish activities as well as an ample sized sanctuary. Mr. Harold G. Travis of Saddle Hill Road, Weston, heads the Building Fund Committee.

Stephen Hyland, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hyland of Plain Road, Wayland, was awarded a varsity letter in hockey at the annual Vermont Academy Winter Sports Award dinner held at the school, Saxtons River, Vermont, March 16.

"Glass of Fashion", Historical Exhibit, With Local Girls

CONCORD — Wayland and Weston girls and adults are active in preparing for "Glass of Fashion", an exhibition of historic dresses once actually owned and worn by prominent 19th century women, to be presented at Concord Academy gymnasium at 8:30 p.m. April 13 and 14.

Some of the dresses were owned by such persons as Empresses of Germany, prima donnas Jenny Lind and Adeline Patti, Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant and her daughter, Nellie, and Gabrielle Rejane, famous French comedienne.

Tickets at $2.50 and $1.50 may be obtained at Concord Academy or from Mrs. John Adden, Wayland, or Mrs. Wm. Pearce Coues, Weston.

Among the students assisting are Ainslee Baldwin, Cecilia Bessell, Betsey Hammond, Nancy Ela and Lyn Hall, of Wayland, and Holly Dickson, Barbara Burn, Miriam Brooks, Alice Hawkes and Ann Knowles, of Weston.

April 10, the fourth grade committee has asked Dr. Thomas C. Peebles to speak at the home of Mrs. Richard Berry, 22 Conant Road.

Teachers' Salaries Discussed at Weston

WESTON — The annual Town budget hearing, held on the evening of March 12 at the Town house, was concerned mostly with the school budget and with resurfacing of the tennis courts. The meeting was unusually well attended.

The School Committee, headed hy Dr. Theodore B. Bayles, argued the need for higher salaries for teachers.

In former years, it was said, the Town has been able to hire young married teachers for the elementary grades. As time goes on, however, these teachers' husbands finish school, or the teachers have families, and they leave.

The Committee said it wanted to attract career teachers by raising the "attainable maximum". It said it favors a minimum-maximum system, based on service and merit.

The Finance Committee, headed by Edward M. Langenbach, said it did not object to the school budget. Its philosophy, however, was to attract the career teachers by offering them good salaries within a few years, not by raising the attainable maximum.

The tennis court resurfacing, it was brought out, involved increasing the sum in the budget from $4500 to $8500. Final decision was left to the Finance Committee, Selectmen and the Recreation Commission. They said they were investigating all types of surfacing material, from the cheapest up to the kind guaranteed for six years.

There was discussion of Cat Rock, the area on which there was a public hearing in February. The Selectmen reported they had found since the hearing that the cost of acquiring the whole area would be prohibitive. It was also said that Rep. James DeNormandie's bill to acquire Cat Rock as part of a large State reservation may not pass the Legislature.

Chairman William R. Dewey, Jr., of the Selectmen said having the Town own even part of the 200 acres which are now marked for a housing development would save the Town money. He said the many new houses would require Town facilities which would not be compensated by taxes on the properties.

ST. ANN'S, WAYLAND
Rev. William J. Carty, Pastor

Holy Week — During this, the holiest week of the year, Mother Church asks her children to recall with singular devotion the greatest mysteries of our faith: Christ crucified, buried and then risen, and also Christ instituting the Most Holy Eucharist. In order to make it easier for the faithful to participate in those inspiring and grace laden ceremonies, His Holiness, Pope Pius XII, promulgated the following Order for Holy Week:

Holy Thursday — 7:45 P.M., Solemn evening Mass of the Lord's Supper. Holy Communion will be distributed to the people only during the evening Masses or immediately after. Gospel for this evening from John 13, 1-15. After the Gospel the Washing of the Feet takes place. Immediately after Mass occurs the Solemn Transferal and Reservation of the Blessed Sacrament and Stripping of the Altar. Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament until midnight.

Good Friday — 3:00 p.m., Solemn Liturgical Afternoon Service of Our Lord's Passion and Death. Solemn adoration of the Holy Cross by the faithful, Holy Communion will be distributed at the solemn Liturgical service in the afternoon and to the sick and those in danger of death.

Holy Saturday — 11 p.m., Blessing of New Fire, Blessing of Pascal Candle, Blessing of Baptismal Water, Renewal of Baptismal vows by faithful. At 12 p.m., the Easter Vigil Midnight Mass will be celebrated.

Easter Sunday — Masses will be held at the regular time, that is 7:30, 9 and 11.

The choir, under the direction of Mrs. John Butler, will sing from the Restored Holy Week Liturgy, according to Rubrics published by the Vatican Press, with alternate psalm tone setting and chants.

Fr. Carty wishes to express his deep appreciation and heartfelt thanks to the members of St. Ann's parish and their many non-Catholic neighbors and friends who braved the worst blizzard in many years to attend the annual St. Patrick's Day Dinner Dance held Friday evening at Ten Acre. A total of 308 sat down to dinner and enjoyed the entertainment, dancing and community singing of Irish songs until 1 a.m. All agreed it was a wonderful party as well as a huge success financially.

The regular meeting of St. Ann's Guild will be held Tuesday evening, April 3, 1956. The meeting will start with Benediction of the Blessed Secrament at 8 p.m. A silver tea and reception to new members will be held immediately following the business meeting. Mrs. Ernest Cherry is chairman of the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Amelia Honen, Mrs. Helen O'Connell, Mrs. Mae Palmer and Mrs. Ann Sampson. Members of the membership committee assisting are Mrs. Frank Libbey, Mrs. John Russo, Mrs. Leslie Crossley and Mrs. Thomas F. Linnehan.

On Tuesday evening, April 10, 1956, a whist and bridge party will be held under the auspices of St. Ann's Guild in Guild Hall. Many beautiful prizes will be given away. Mrs. Dorothy Thomas is the chairman for the evening.

Weston School Statistics Refute Assertion That Science Is Not Being Taught

Dorothy Thompson, a noted, syndicated columnist, recently blasted public schools and public school educators in general for the percentage of boys and girls preparing for scientific careers. She stated that "only 4 percent of American high school students are elementary physics, 7 percent chemistry, 27 percent algebra, and 13 percent geometry." She further said it appears that parents who wanted solid backgrounds for their children must send them to private schools.

Statistics loosely quoted are dangerous.

Note the lack of information. Four percent of what? The total school enrollment, including those at a grade level where the course is not yet offered? Does it include those students who are not mentally capable of taking such courses? Remember that this is, no doubt, a nation wide survey, and it is true that some schools do not even offer such courses; but it does not apply to many of the fine schools in this section of the country.

In Weston the above courses are provided. The following table has been made to show the percentage of the grade taking the course where it is scheduled. It also shows comparative data for the year 1948.

Science Studies In Upper Grades

The general science course is required at eighth grade but is an elective for ninth graders. It reviews and broadens earlier teachings in natural science and begins the physical science field, such as electricity. At the upper level more experimentation of scientific principles is used, and projects are required for honor grades as well as preparation of special fields of interest for Science Fair exhibitions.

Subject	% of Grade Taking 1948	1955
Physics	30.7	40
Chemistry	78.5	71.5
Biology	102.0	84.6
General Science	96.0	91.0
Solid & Analytic Geometry	10.3	20.0
Trig. & Math Analysis	7.7	38.0
Algebra II	26.2	65.0
Plane Geometry	65.5	83.5
Algebra I	106.0*	108.0*
Basic Math (gr. 11 & 12)		15.0

* Includes some 10th graders repeating. Includes some from grade 12.

These figures show that in Weston, at least, High School students do take a decided interest in science courses.

For this, the school feels it may take some credit.

As for the criticism that some children do not take the science course from which they could benefit, it has been pointed out that parents have a responsibility, too.

Children who plan to go to college must take these science courses. When parents don't insist that they take them at the right time, children may find that they have not fulfilled their requirments. Thus they will have blocked themselves from advancements, or at best will have put themselves into such an academic fix they'll have to spend extra years catching up.

When parents approve path-of-least-resistance courses picked by children, the school can't do much about it.

5-Year-Olds Are Full Of Science Questions

The child of five is enormously interested in the world about him. A child entering school for the first time brings with him spontaneous enthusiasm and an eagerness to relate his experiences. He is full of questions about the caterpillars, frogs, turtles and other live things he finds as he plays. Science in kindergarten is a part of everyday living, of everyday experiences. There are three sources of information for the child: the spoken words of others, stories read by adults and actual experience and observation.

In the Science Corner there are collections brought in by the children, such as birds nests, stones, shells and various kinds of plant life. As a child brings in his contribution, it is discussed, named and placed on the table with a sign telling what it is.

Specialized Science For Juniors, Seniors

Chemistry and physics are courses offered respectively to juniors and seniors. These courses fit the needs of boys and girls preparing for a scientific education. Although practical applications are covered, major emphasis is placed on fundamental laws, theories and equations.

Class work is supplemented with numerous lecture-table demonstrations and individual laboratory experiments. Students contemplating a technical post-secondary education are strongly urged to elect these courses. Satisfactory grades in algebra and geometry are a prerequisite.

Science Rates Even With Other Subjects

For the first time in his school career the seventh grader experiences science as a five-period-a-week subject rated on a par with English, mathematics and geography. Integrating with these subjects as well as with art, this course encourages the student to become alert to, and appreciative of, his own environment through a study of native plant and animal life, heavenly bodies and human physiology.

Throughout our study, we note our indebtedness to natural forces, and obligation to conserve natural wealths.

Biology Courses For Study of Plants

In tenth grade biology our aim is to provide material of definite value to all students, whether college preparatory or not. We try to give each student an understanding of the fundamental principles governing our living environment, and wherever possible a knowledge of their practical applications.

The course includes a survey of the animal kingdom, a study of human anatomy and physiology, considerable emphasis on heredity, hygiene and public health, and a survey of the world's plants. Instructional films are used wherever appropriate. Although there is no regular laboratory work, pupils are encouraged to perform experiments or dissections for term projects.

These projects are part of the course for two reasons. First, we believe that a superior student should go beyond mere mastery of text material to earn a grade of A or B. Second, because of varying abilities and interest, some students become especially intrigued by a particular phase of biology. Thus, term projects serve the double purpose of making a pupil eligible for honor grades and of encouraging investigations beyond daily class work.

If we can achieve a happy balance between the teaching of facts and the stimulation of interest, we shall make a significant contribution to the field of science.

Dr. Kenneth I. E. MacLeod of Ayer says that about 400 new active cases of tuberculosis were discovered in Middlesex County last year.

Emphasis On Nature Study in 3d Grade

The science program at the third grade level is flexible enough to include any reasonable problems brought in by the children, yet definite enough to insure coverage of certain prescribed topics necessary to a sequential development of more comprehensive ones later on.

Such topics include: Day and Night Sky, Magnets and What They Can Do, Air and Water, and Animals and How They Grow. Instruction, therefore, becomes a two-way process, an interplay between an educational value on the one hand and the experiences of the children on the other.

Much interest and curiosity has been excited among the children as a result of a course being taken by some of our teachers at the Museum of Science under the direction of Norman D. Harris, of Wayland, emcee of the TV program, Living Wonders.

Science Is Taught To All, In All Grades

Properly organized and taught, science contributes greatly in the educational development of boys and girls of all ages. In Weston science is taught in all grades and children not only read and talk about science they actually work with it. Projects and experiments are common in the classroom which in many cases motivates the children to continue their scientific investigations at home thus resulting in individual collections, models and simple controlled experiments. In a broad sense the program of science in the Weston Public Schools has for its objectives the following:

1. To develop an appreciation and understanding of science, so that each child will acquire the scientific information needed to happily live and intelligently adjust to his environment.

2. To allow and encourage boys and girls to experiment and investigate along the lines of their own scientific interests so that each will develop at his own rate in understanding the physical and biological environment.

Surveys indicate that approximately seven out of every 1000 children are endowed with the superior intelligence and possess the curiosity and interest to be successful in scientific research.

3. To give all boys and girls the opportunity to learn about and practice the methods used by the scientist.

Weather Notes Made by 5th Grade

At fifth grade level the children show by their questions, observations, contributions and displays that their interest in their environment is expanding and being intensified. They study the seasons, climates, weather, magnets, electricity and simple tools, as well as plants and animals. Other topics of special interest are brought to the attention of the group by individuals who have problems to discuss or specimens to exhibit.

The unusual weather occurring during the past few weeks made an excellent approach to the topic which is much discussed at home and school. As a result the children studied and recorded temperature, cloud formations, air pressure, wind velocity and humidity. Several types of thermometers were brought in; cloud code charts were analyzed, a weather vane and an anemometer were made and put up outside the classroom.

The radar "eyes" of the picket submarine "Salmon", launched at Portsmouth Feb. 25, are being designed and built by Raytheon.

Meadowbrook Day Camp Will Open On June 25

WESTON—The Trustees of the Meadowbrook School of Weston and Miss Esther P. Edwards, Headmistress, announce the opening of Meadowbrook Day Camp for its seventh season on June 25.

This year Mrs. Thomas C. Peebles, founder and former Director, has turned over the ownership of the camp to the school, but will continue to take an active part on the camp staff as consultant.

The new Director, Mr. Donald E. Mapel, teaches at the Shady Hill School in Cambridge, instructs in Captain Bob Johnson's Pathfinder Club of Weston, and has had a great deal of experience in Scouting and in day camp leadership with young children.

Meadowbrook Day Camp was founded in 1950 for children 10 and under from the Weston area. It has always been a small family camp emphasizing a relaxed program, strictly for fun, yet offering instruction in swimming and sports, geared to beginners, with individual attention. The school will carry on the same philosophy and program under the new sponsorship.

LET'S PAMPER 'YOU'

If there is one area in the home that should be planned to pamper you, it is your own bedroom. This is, or at least should be, the most personal room in the house . . . and it will serve you best if it is planned to pamper your own special personal brand of comfort — cater to your particular tastes in beauty and color.

Sleep is not to be taken lightly, for deep, restorative sleep is one of nature's friendly allies. Many of us are not fortunate enough to drop into deep slumber immediately upon retiring. We must court sleep. If this is the case with you, you'll want your bedroom to be simple, luxurious, restful and unobtrusive in color scheme and decor. And you'll want to provide for having everything around you that you might possibly want during the night.

The bedroom sketched was planned with these "sleep enticements" in mind. The rich tones of the natural wood walls are restful. The generously proportioned bed with its companion headboard invites luxurious relaxation. Wall-to-wall textured carpet (sea-foam green) gives a snug, warm feeling to the room. Note how the absence of distracting clutter adds elegant simplicity and restfulness to the room.

You'll find quality craftsmanship and superb design in all the furnishings we offer you. And that's not all! You'll find friendliness and understanding here . . . and a sincere desire to help you find just what you want at the price you want to pay. See us today!

Even If It's No Good, At 7 Cents It Must Be a Buy

All About the good old Rummage Sale, Where Prices are Right And the Proceeds Go to Paint The Church

One of these days, some business genius is going to muscle in on the rummage sale racket and put the good women of the church out of business.

The rummage sale is the only place where customers will pay good money for lamps that won't light, overshoes that leak and old churns with the moving parts missing.

The rummage sale is like a trip to the dump. It's the old leave-something - and - take - something home deal.

To provide the merchandise for this Mississippi Bubble bazaar, attics are ransacked for junk which has been accumulating since Aunt Hepsy died.

That stuff in the attic is considered too good to get rid of, but not good enough to use. By the time its owner gets to the point where she decides it's all right to give it away, the upholstery is sticking out of the chair seat, the seams of the old dress (1927 model) are ripped, the collected works of Harold Bell Wright are mildewed, the glass is cracked over the picture of the stag at eve and the stopper is missing from the flask Pa carried at the Yale game in 1929.

So one day lightning strikes twice. The woman of the house gets put on the rummage sale committee and simultaneously she makes up her mind to give generously.

That is, she means to be generous, until she goes upstairs and takes a good look. Then all the familiar junk takes on a new dearness. She can't bear to give up the old sofa pillow Junior spilled the ink on when he was 4, nor the dress she wore to the Junior Prom in 1932. So she collects the dregs of the rubbish, and packs that off to the sale.
